For the West Jersey Pioneer. MOTHER.

BY MRS. L. C. DATE Mother, when I am far away In distant climes, as oft I stray, I think of thee at home alone, Thy sweet, and smile, thy gentle tone. Mother, my love is just the same

As when in childhood's hour I sported 'mid the tall, green trees Or in the woodbine bower. Mother, thy council then was given, Showing thy child the way to heaven, And may I now repay thy care,

Remembering thee in every prayer. Mother, when cankering cares a [1],

May thy strength and faith and love ne er fail,
But bear thee on through trials here, Until thou leavest this earthly sphere.

Mother, wnene er thy time may come, May angels bear thy spirit home To that glorious land of light and love, Where angels tune their harps above.

Selected for the Pioncer. DON'T RUN IN DEBT. BY PRANCIS D. GAGE. .

Don't run in debt!-never mind, never mind If the old clothes are faded and torn; Fix them up, make them do, it is better by far, Than to have the heart weary and worn. Who'll love you more for the set of the hat, Or your ruff, or the tie of your shoe, The shape of your vest, or your boots or cravat, If they know you re in debt for the new.

Don't run in debt.—If canary's the go, Wear blue if you have not the cash, Or-no matter what-so you let the world know You won't run in dett for a dash. here's no comfort, I tell you in walking the street In fine clothes if you know you're in debt, and feel that perchance you some tradesman may m Who will sneer-"They're not paid for yet."

Good friends, let me beg you don't run in debt, If the chairs and the sofas are old— They will fit your back better than any new set Unless they are paid for in gold: f the house is small draw it closer together, Keep it warm with a hearty good will; big one unpaid for, in all kinds of weather, Will send to your warm heart a chill. Don't run in debt-now dear girls take a hint; (If the fashions have changed since last season,)

Old nature is out in the very same tint, And old nature we think has some reason, ust say to your frie nds you cannot afford To spend time to keep up with the fashion; That your purse is too light and your honor too bright. ients, don't run in debt-let your friends if they can Have fine houses, feathers and flowers, But unless they are paid for, be more of a man, Than to envy their sunshiny hours,
If you have money to spare, I have nothing to say:

Spend your dimes and dollars as you please,

But mind you the man that has his note to pay

Is the man that is never at ease. Kind husband, don't run in debt any more; 'Twill fill you're wife's cup full of sorrow, lo know that a neighbor may call at your door, With a bill you can't settle to-morrow. Oh! take my advice-it is good, it is true, (But lest you may some of you doubt it,) I'll whisper a secret now seeing 'tis you— I have tried it and know all about it. The chain of a debtor is heavy and cold, Its links all corrosion and rust, Gild it o'er as you will—it is never of gold, Then spurn it aside with disgust, he man who's in debt is too often a slave Though his heart may be honest and true; Can he hold up his head and look saucy and brave

Their manly countenances, indexing the feelings of the soul, depict the innocence of their hearts, and betoken the purity of their conduct toward their fellowmen. And why should it not be so. CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE.

Joe Brace was a farmers' son in the town of W-, and by his tricks and games, and wild pranks, caused his watchful "parient" no little trouble sometimes. It happened on one occasion, that master Joe was caught in some misdemeanor, and as a punishment for the same, had been compelled to hoe in the corn-field, until such time as said "parient" should judge proper that he should be released. Joe like a dutiful son, took his among the weeds, which obstructed the growth of the corn.

It was jaw, jaw, quarreling and wrangling all the time.

With delight the Devil heard of the success of the faithful emissary, and sent her heart, and he fears not to encounter the searching glance of his fellow-men, and, thereing from the barrel; and as he passed by his fore, is worthy to rank among the noblest on laboring hopeful, if he had not been a little hard of hearing, he might have heard:

From the Gleaner, 1811. Essays from the desk of Poor Robert, "HONESTY IS THE BEST POLICY."

Be honest, and 'tis clear as light, You'll make by far most money by't; The profits that are got by cheating, Are very few and very fleeting. Experience proves the adage true; Then never lose it from your view.

When I was a little fellow just old enough to be mischievous, I was beset by a parcel of my companions, to go and pilfer the parson's pears. Down by the side of the brook that flows out of Applebury pond, back of the parson's house, was a beautiful meadow, may be certain, if flowers are not cultivated in the midst of which stood the pear tree.—

It was large—hung full, and they were of a large—hung full, and they were of a large.—hung full, and they were of a large might have charmed our senses, most delicious flavor.

I felt at that moment, happier than "I never neglected her—I was never un-Napoleon, with empires at his feet. And kind—we suffered, but I ever sought to the circumstance led me to remark, early in make her share of suffering the least." maxim.

There was at Applebury, a merchant, well esteemed for his probity:—"Where do you trade, neighbor?" said one farmer to another. "Why, at Mr. Upright's," re-plied the other. "His weights and measures always hold out. I had as lief send a child, as a grown person, to his store, for don't pretend to know the value of some sorts of goods, myself, but he has but one price, and never takes advantage of one's gnorance." I marken the consequence.-Upright grew rich and respected; and fully experienced the truth of the maxim that, Ionesty is the best policy.

There too, was lawyer Aimwell:—He never would flatter you about your cause, or the sake of your money, but would tell you plainly his opinion, even though he lost a fee by it. Nor would he ever advocate a suit that he knew to be unjust. His established character drew business from every quarter, and he realized, in a fortune of five thousand pounds, and the esteem of his fellow men, the correctness of the maxim, that Honesty is the best policy.

But there was rich George Ardenburg, who had a large farm given him by his father. One of the merchants had advertised for tallow, to send to New York. Rich George had killed a number of fat cattle, and as the tallow was to be sent away immediately, he thought it a good time to dispose of it. It was weighed. Everybody thought it was astonsshingly heavy. Dick Artley, who attended the store, being some what suspicious, and a little roguish with d, in removing one of the cakes, as though by accident, letit fall plump on the floor; it split open, and lo I in the middle was a large stone! Poor george looked like a sheepstealer. He was hooted out of town. His match with the amiable Miss · Arabella Bromley, was broken off; he was turned out of the military office he held; and, finally, was compelled to sell his farm and move ff to Canada.

It is certain that the difference beleft orphans, but the devil in consideration tween what zeal and energy will accomplish wit' small means, compared with what power, al applied or feebly applied, will leave unachieved, is most astounding. Few are those who have not to reproach themselves with supineness or a prodigal waste of time and resources; few, when they look back upon the field of past experience, but feel how barren they have left the track, which might have been richly cultivated. Let us constantly reform. The present will become the past; let us resolve that it shall be rich in fruit, delicious to the reverting spirit of review, and yielding good seed for the path before us. # PIKE'S PEAK.

Since it was announced that Mr. Graeley was to visit Pike's Peak, public curiosity has been on tip-toe to know what he would say of it. The accounts from there were so contradictory that one know not what to believe, and as it was supposed Mr. Greeley had no private interests in that direction, to cater for, it was presumed his accounts would be reliable.

Customs and Opinions.

Customs generally approved, and opinions' received by youth from their superiors, esecially when they are suited to favorite inclimations, become like the ratural produce of a soil; but as the judgments of God, by which the state of the soul must be tried, are without partiality, it would be the highopinions, and to try the soul by the infallible standard, truth. - Woolman.

It was the discovery of Jesus Christ which admitted the greatest of modern historians, (John Von Muller) to the just comprehension of his subject. PRAYER.—The prayer that is external and of the body is that mumbling of the lips, outward babble, gone through without at-tention, and heard and seen of men; but prayer in spirit and in truth is the inward er of God's children who walk in his fear. Martin Luther.

Speak Gently.

Be very careful that you give no reproachful, menacing, or spiteful words to any person. Good words make friends; bad ones make enemies. It is greater prudence to gain as many friends as we honestly can, especially when it may be done at so easy a rate as a good word; and it is great folly to make an enemy by ill words, which are of no advantage to the party who uses them.-When faults are committed, they may, and by a superior they must be reproved; but let it be done without reproach or butterness; otherwise it will lose its due end and use, and instead of reforming the offence, it will exasperate the offender, and lay the reprover justly open to reproach .- Matthew

TRUE REPENTANCE.—On the contrary, true repentance springs from love to God, and a corresponding hatred of all that is unlike his holy character. To such a man it is not a subject of sorrow that the law is so holy, and its penalty so severe. He laments that his nature has been in opposition to the sacred requirements, and that his inherent car nality is so much at variance with his spiritual desires. - Letters to an Anxiious Inquirer.

TOO LATE.

An amusing circumstance, illustrative of the above caption, came under our notice last week at the railroad station in Trenton. Being informed by several that the cars, from New York to Philadelphia, passed through Trenton at half-past nine A. M., and not being very partial to waiting a long time for oars, stages or steamboats, we arrived at the depot at twenty five minutes after nine, just in time to see the cars fairly underway .-At the same time, a son of the Emerald Isle came puffing and blowing, almost out of breath, making inquiry for his trunk, which had been put on the care, while he dropped in the hotel a mo nent to take a driak. The poor fellow, alarmed and excited beyond measure, jumped from the platform and "took after the train," which was moving at a rapid rate. The day being extremely warm, he was advised, by a wag, to take off his coat if be expected to overtake the train. Paddy confident of his own powers of locomotion, kept on his coat and run like a good fellow. his coat tail flying in the breeze, and no small quantity of dust being kicked up at hardly probable that their presence changes his beels, to the amusement of those who the taste of the pean any perceptible degree. witnessed his performance. We concluded not to try such an experiment, but rather "take it coolly" until the half-past eleven train came along. In less than an half hour the Irishman came back exhausted and in disgust; blowing up all the cars in the chuntry, and the agents who had, as he said, so unmercifuily treated bim.

While resting at the station, and waiting for the other train to come along, we improved the time by moralizing a little on the above subject, so forcibly brought home to ue. "Too late!" How it grated on our ears as the rumbling cohe came back over the track, and the snorts of the iron horse raechoed the solemn sound-"Too late!"-How many, alas, are compelled to take up with the doleful lamentation-"Too late." The school boy who has "no excuse for being late." feels the keen pang as the red is applied to his back, and longs for the time that then he can do as he chooses; but when he arrives at manhood, he learns that the same law of compensation exists, and to a great extent, the penalty of violated law is enforced. Throughout all classes of society, rich or poor, high or low, noble or ignoble, the words have their same solemn meaning. and at times come home to the heart with all their force. To young lady whose parents, by some freak of fortune, or by honest industry, have accumulated wealth and placed her in a high position, looks down when he takes a stand in society far above that to which she vainly aspired, and realizes to her sorrow, while lingering out a miserable and unhappy existence, that it is not wealth and position alone, that give contentfrom no condition rise." Such ladies with their smiles, when hes towed upon those whom they scorned while occupying a humbler uphere, are very apt to realize in its full force, the meaning of the words "too late."

The young man who, because fortune has emiled upon bim, looks with scorn upon those in less fortunate circumstances, fre quently lives to see the day when the wheel of fortune turns, and those who were once helow, are above. He too experiences the reality of the words "too late."

How frequently is it the case with the profligate that they are discouraged in their efforts to reform, when they are deluded with the idea that it is "too late." "It is

It is said that "too late," or "Remorse, "was the last word uttered, and written on a card by him, was held up to his friends as they gathered around his dying bed, while the spirit took its everlasting flight. Let every one then "act in the living present," remember that "delays are dangerous," and that to be happy in time and eternity, we must avoid the solome and awful consequences of "too late."

The want of proper exercise is another prolific source of incapacity and disease. If the ladies who take a carriage to do their shopping and make their calls, would only lay aside their pride and ostentatious love of display, and take their exercise on foot, how much more good it would do them. If the weather is at all unpleasant, they deem it were guarded, and the law of kindness a sufficient reason for remaining within doors all day, and even for days together, when in reality, if they would but believe and try it, a walk even in the rain or snow, if they were properly clothed, would be far more conducive to health and activity, both of body and mind, than so much time spent in close, heated rooms. Out door exercise is what every woman needs. Even those thrifty and economical house keepers who do their own work, need this part of their exercise, and should be in the open air.

Running up and down stairs, sweeping, cooking, &c., do not altogether meet the requirements of the system, because women, like plants, need sun and air to develop them. aright. Their exercise should be such as will bring all the muscles into play, expand the lungs, quicken the circulation, arouse the brain, and revive and re-animate all the powers of body and mind.

The Salemander Sales of Philadelphia against the World. Evans & Watson

Have had the surest demonstration in the following cer tificate, that their manufacture of Salamander Safes has at length fully warranted the representations which have been made of them as rendering an undoubted security against the terrific element.

Messrs. Evans & Warson,—Gentlemen.—It atterds us the highest satisfaction to state to you, that owing to the very protective qualities of two of the Salamander Safes which we purchased of you some few months since, we saved a large portion of our jewelry, and all our books, papers, &c., exposed to the calamitous fro in Ranstead Place, on the morning of the 11th instant.

When we reflect that these Safes were located in the fourth story of the building we occupied, and that they fell subsequently into a heap of burning ruins where the vast concentration of heat caused the brass plates to molt, we cannot but regard the preservation of their valuale contents as most convincing proof of the great security afforded by your Safes.

We shall take intuch pleasure in recommending them to men of business as a sure reliance against fire.

ARUMATIU BALDAM.

Is a remedy not to oc excelled for the relief and cure of those maladies incident to the Summer Season: viz:

Diarrhoca, Dysentery, Cholera or Cholera Morbus, Vomiting, Acidity of the Stomach etc.

Its excellent Carminative nowers, pleasant taste and scothing influence, renders it a valuable remedy in Infantion diseases, peculiar to the Second Summer, viz:—Cholera Infantum, etc. It has a reinvigorating and tonic influence on the system, allaying inflamation where it exists in the stomach and bowels, and on trial will be found indispensable to the well being of every family. It will be found as well adapted to adults; as children. Try it.

Jas. D. Moore,

frm a "slight coid." That eminent authority, Dr. Bell, says:

"I will not say that Colds are to our inhabitants what the Plague and Yellow Fever are to those of other countries; but I can aver confidentially that they ushor in disease of greater complicity and mortality than these latter. A further proof of the terrable fatality of diseases resulting from a "common cold" may be seen by a glance to the following statistics, taken from the records of the Board of Health of Philadelphia, confessedly one of the most healthy localities in the Union:

1852. Total deaths in Philadelphia,

Died of Consumption,

" all other diseases (250 in number) of Consumption,

sall other diseases (250 in number), 8,349

1853, Total deaths, Died of Consu f Consumption, ail other diseases! 1854. Total deaths, Jied of Consumption,

" all other diseases, _11.814

From these figures, it will be seen that nearly one fourth the total deaths in the country are caused by consum-n, to say nothing of the numerous other diseases spring-g from a "slight cold." ing from a "slight cold."

Do not trifle with your health; but if suffering from a cough, or cold on the lungs, buy a bottle of HOOFLAND'S BALSAMIC CORDIAL, And you may count on a cure. Thousands have done so, and have cortified to its wonderful offects.

Coughs sometimes proceed from a disordered or dyspeptic state of the stomach, in which case the German Bitters should be used. In cases of weakness, or general debility of the system, resulting from a protracted decility of the system, resulting from a protracted the found of great benefit to those who use it.

Pratt's Self-Ventilating Milk Pan.

Pratt's Self-Ventilating Milk Pan.

We would call the attention of farmers, dairymen and housekeepers, to a new article. for which a patent has just been issued, in which they have a special interest—this an enclosed milk-jun, so arranged as to secure the supply and circulation of air required for the separation and rising of the cream. By reference to the engraving, it will be seen that the pan has a cover; around the lower rim of this cover are several minute perforations for the air to enter, and at the top of the chimney, (as it may be called,) which rises from the centre of the cover, is another series of perforations for the air to escape. When hew milk is placed in this pan, the colder external air presses, in through the lower range of perforations in the cover, and forces the warm air out through the perforations in the cover, and forces the warm air out through the perforations in the cover, and forces the warm air out through the perforation of air will diminish as the cooling process goeston, but not cease; for, gasee being involved in the production of cream, their lightness will still cause the air to draw in through the lower perforations, and a continuous the process of ventilation.

The value of this new milk-pan will be at once apparent: Dairymen often have great difficulty in protecting their open pans from gnats, flies, snails, rats, mice, lizards, etc. and they cannot cover them, because, if the air is shait out, the cream will not separate from the milk.

But not acone to dairymen is the invention of value. In every family milk is used; and with one or more of these self-ventilating pans, the best condition for raising cream is secured. Covered, and set upon a shelf, or the cellurities and the patent was pending several families in this city had them in use, and after five or six month's trial. the report is, without qualification, in their favor. Cream was raised freely in all cases where new milk was used. During the time that the patent was pending state Fair, held at Diver. In each cas
