CHOICE POETRY.

BETTER GO SLOW. In all 'he varied scenes of life-Its noise, confusion, turmoil, strife-These little words, if borne in mind, Would suit right well all human kind-

The fast young man who cuts a dash Upon his "Gov'nors" hard earned cash. Will think when all his money's fled, This motto should have filled his head-

"Go slow!

The flirt with lovers at her feet. Her cheeks so fair, her heart deceit, When years shall steal her charms away, Will weep she did not in youth's May-

The man of money, he who spends, His thousands on his horses—friends— May sit him down in after years. To con this lesson through his tears-

The husband who, to see more of life, Deserts his children, home and wife. When sunk beneath the hands of fate-Will mourn he did not-ere too late-"Go slow!"

Leaving her children out at toes, Should keep this matter in her heart, And learn to act a mother's part-

The wife who always shopping goes,

The banker counting cent per cent-The landlord eager for his rent-The clerk behind his master's till-'Twill suif you all-this lesson will-

The widow, wife, the maiden, miss, The husband, father-think of this-In whatever path you go, 'Tis always best to travel slow-

YANKEE PEDLER.

Old Squire --- who some years lived in - in New Jerse, ediers. and would not one to come in gun shot of him if he could help it. It so happened that one Nat Tuck- | ward. er, a Yankee pedler of the most incorrigible kind, in dry goods, clocks and other "notious," chanced that way, and having heard of the aversion of the Squire to itinerants of his class, he looked upon him as fair game, and determined to sell some of his wares. and the old man at the same time. Accordingly, the first house he drew up at on entering the town was the house of the Squire. It was at the close of a warm day in July, and the old man sat complacently smoking his pipe under the porch of his house. As Nat approached him with a clock under his arm and a dozen silver spoons in his hand, the old man waved him off, and at the same time exclaiming:

"Clear out! Don't you come in here .-[ don't want any o' your tribe round me!know you.

"Wal, I mus 'low, Squire," said Nat, good naturedly, "that you've got the advantage of me, for I don't you, and I guess your neighbors dou't nuther, for they tell'd me you was a good Christian, and never turned hungry man away from your door."

The coolness of Nat caused the Squire to pause, for he was a whole-souled, hospitable man; he began to think he might be mista- way whistling. Words would fail to give a ken in Nat's true character. At length he inquired, looking the visiter steadily in the face, "Answer me one question-ain't you

"l'edler be darned -no," said Nat. "Then what are you bringing them things in the house for?" queried the old man, pointing to the articles which Nat was car-

"Wal, the fact is," replied Nat. I don't much like to leave these silver sprous in my wagon, for somebody might make love to 'em, and as for this ere clock, I couldn't afford to lose it no how, for it's jist one of the greatest clocks out. I want a bowl of bread and milk nation bad, and if you, ll not accommodate me I'll hev to go turther, and if anybody axes my opinion of yew, in course I'll tell 'em how good you are to strangers." This settled the matter, and Nat was invited in. The Squire's wife was out, but the old man soon placed a bowl of pure milk and some white bread before Nat, who, laying aside the old-fashioned spoon which the old man brought bim, supplied its place with one of his own, and proceeded to "go in" as though he had fasted for a month. When be had about half finished his meal. Nat remarked, as he paused to turn his spoon over and eye it admiringly-"bow much better milk tastes out'n new silver spune than it does out'n old one?" "Yes, I spose it does," replied the Squire, who had all along been eyeing the remainder of the sett, and wishing he was the possessor of them, that he might astonish the old lady (who by the way was given to strong mindedness, that is, westing the breeches) on her return.

I got them ere spoons very cheep, to-marked Nat again, as he swallowed a large mouthful of the flacteal, and I've no doubt my Names 'll be delighted with 'em." "I s'pose you wouldn't care about partin' with 'em, would you?" asked the Squire hesi-

I WONDER.

When a young man is clerk in a store, and dresses like a prince, smokes "foreign segars," drinks "choice brandy," attends theatres, ball, and the like, I wonder if he does it upon the avails of his clerkship? When a young lady sits in the parlor all day, with her lily white fingers covered with rings, I wonder if her mother don't wash the dishes, and do other work? When a deacon of the church sells strong butter recommending it as excellent and sweet, I wonder? When a man goes about three times a day to get a dram, I wonder if he will not go by and by four times? When a young lady laces her waist a third smaller than nature made it, I wonder if her pretty figure will not shorten her life some dozen years or more, besides mak-ing her miserable while she does live?

When a verne man is dependent upon his daily toil for his income, and marries lady who does not know how to make a losf of bread, or mend a garment, I wonder if s not lacking somewhere, say towards the COLD FEET.

Cold feet are the avenues to death of multitudes every year; it is a sign of imperfeet circulation, or want of vigor of constitution. No one can be well, whose feet are must be more than is patural at some other part of the system, and there is fever, that is collects at some other part of the body which able to throw up a barricade against the inrushing enemy. Hence, when the lungs are weakest, the extra blood gathers there in the shape of a common cold, or spitting blood. Clergymen, and other public speak-the throat the weakest part; to such, cold feet give boarseness or a raw burning feeling, most felt at the little hollow at the bottom of the neck. To others, again, whose "Ay," said Sammy, " you may say that, bowels are weak through over-eating, or rious degrees of derangement, from comry; and so we might go through the whole body, but for the present this is sufficient for illustration.

If you are well, let yourself alone. This is our favorite motto. But to those whose feet are inclined to be cold, we suggest :-As soon as you get up in the morning, venient, in cold weather; until every part of the foot feels as dry as your hand, then put on your socks or stockings. On going to bed at night, draw off your stockings, and hold the foot to the fire for ten or fifteen minutes, until perfectly dry, and get right into bed. This is a most pleasant operation, and fully repays for the trouble of it. No one can sleep well or refreshingly, with cold feet. All Indian hunters sleep with their feet to the fire.

HAPPINESS. Now let me tell you a secret, a secret worth knowing. This looking forward for cujoyment don't pay. From what I know of it, I would as soon chase butterflies for a living, or bottle up moonshine for cloudy nights. The only true way to be hapry, is to take the drops of happiness, as God gives them to us every day of our lives. The boy must learn to be happy while he is plodding over his lessons; the apprentice, while he learning his trade; the merchant, while he is making his fortune. If he fails to learn this art, he will be sure to miss his enjoyment when he gains what he sighs for.

To Grow in the Heavenly Image. I have long been persuaded that trouble doth not leave us as it finds us; we are either more intimately united to that Purity which is uncreated, or we are more widely separated therefrom; now, in proportion to the tenderness of spirit which becomes ours under suffering, so are we grown and growing in the heavenly image and holy like-ness; so that I know of nothing so desirable as a broken heart and a contrite spirit; and, if we wait in passiveness on the Lord, I believe He will-give it. SUPREMACY OF RELIGION. - If Religion ruled in our hearts, it would mantain for us perpetual communion with God, it would be to us a spirit of holiness and peace, teach ing the songs of heaven even amidst the labors of earth; drying our tears, stilling our sighs, and so hallowing our whole lives, that "God with us" would be in very truth our motto; and "always rejoicing" indeed the record of our pilgrimage. ### THE REASON WHY.

A London paper gives the following rul of ball-room etiquette. "It is a breach of etiquette for a gentleman to accompany his wife to a ball; when there, he should avoid dancing with her; it has an air of exclusiveness to do so, which is the very opposite of all politeness." It is the promulgation of just such psuedo rules of politeness in fashionable circles that creates so much difficulty, unhappiness and domestic misery in married life.

It is one of the most fruitful sources the tragedies, divorces and recriminations that fill so large a share of the public papers and by its startling disclosures engrosses so much of public attention. But for just such silly rules as this, and the Sickles tragedy would propably never have happened, and Barton Key would to-day have been moving in our midst. In the old countries, where the laws that bind fashionable life with a band more despotic than the edicts of any tyrant, are established and regulated, the licentiousness and corruption in high life, are notorious. Indeed, in some of the countries, the marriage tie is openly disregarded, and each one lives with whom he pleases, and as long as they can agree. As we import fashious from Europe, and in fashionable life spe European manners and customs with a servility degrading, even to a Hottentot, there is reason to apprehend that the marriage and domestic relations of this country are undergoing a change that will prove fatal to the peace and happiness of social life. Balls are notorious as the resort of wealthy libertines. Amid the "giddy mazes of the dance," many a fair being has caught the first irresistible impulse that lured her on to dishonor and ruin. It is already an unfortunate feature of American life, that the licentious debauchee if possessed of wealth, can still maintain his social position, and even lovely woman will bestow tims to his seductive arts. And why must our wives be resigned to these professed libertines, not only in the voluntusus dance. where

GENERAL SCOTT.

General Scott has been ordered to the Pacific coast, to settle the boundary dispute on the line of British Columbia, and he took his departure from New York in the Star of the West for California, en route.

A large number of citizens turned out to see him off. The New York Herald thus describes the concourse and departure :-

"As the carriage in which the voteran was seated halted in front of the gang plank the vast assemblage sent up cheer upon cheer, and the rush to get a view of him, seemed likely to endanger the lives of those nearest the edge of the pier. Hydraulic pressure couldn't compare with the squeezing, jamming, pushing, crowding, edging, elbowing, shoving and hard working gener ally, to get but just one glimpse of the hero of Mexico, and the veteran absolutely had to run a gauntlet of hands stretched forth to shake him a hearty greeting and farewell. The sight was one truly republican in the extreme. There was the noble form of the veteran of a hundred battles, whose military fame is world wide, and whose services congratulations, returning their greetings, responding to their adieus, and mingling with them as one of themselves, as he was. The General never puts on any airs, but bohaves like a sensible man, as he is; and thus it is that the masses of the people who know him, like him.

He walked the gang plank with as firm a step as many a younger man, mounted the narrow ladder, amidst the crowd of baggago, passengers and spectators, as if he wasn't of any more consequence than anybody else, turning, as he was obliged to do occasionally, to acknowledge the hearty cheers which followed him at every step.— "Isn't he a great man in all senses of the fort. word?" "Well, he is, old hoss." "Didn't he give the Mexicans fits?" "He's the greatest man of the country." "Yes, and any other country, too." "He'll give the ritishers fits." "I believe you, boy." Well he will." "He ought to be President ; he's not too old yet." "As good as Old Buck any day." "A wonderful man, "A great General, sir." "May his shadow never be less.' These, and thou-sands of other complimentary allusions greeted the veteran as he made his way with difficulty through the crowd to the stern of the versel on the main deck. The builders of the Star of the West evidently never thought of such tall men as he, and other disaffected persons, would make for he was obliged to doff his beaver in or- an attempt to seize the arsonal and hold the der to steer clear of the beams. Insurrection at Harper's Ferry. All the Public Offices Seized BY A MOB.

TROOPS ORDERED OUT. Frederick, Md., Oct. 17 .- An insurrec tion is reported to have taken place at Harper's Ferry. Anarmed band of insurrectionists have full possession of the United States Arsenal.

The express train running east was fired into twice, and one of the railroad hands, a negro, was killed while trying to get the train through the town.

"The mob arrested two men who came in with a load of wheat, took the wagon, loaded it with rifles, and sent it into Maryland .-They are led by about two hundred and fifty whites, with a gang of negroes fighting." The Report Confirmed.

Baltimore, Oct. 17 .- 3 o'clock P. M The western train on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad has just arrived. The officers confirm the statement at first received. They say the bridge keeper discovered that the light had been extinguished, and went to as fired upon by a gang of blacks and whites, A colored assistant of the baggage master was shot and mortally wounded. Conductor Phelps was threatened, and told that the train should not proceed. Uncertain as to the condition of the bridge, he waited till after daylight, and was thus detained six hours. He says the insurrectionists number 200 whites and blacks, and have full possession of the armory. They are commanded or led by a man named Anderson, who lately arrived at Harper's Ferry.

Bullimore, Oct. 17 .- 1 o'clock P. M .-Another account, brought by the train which has just arrived, says the bridge across the Potomac was filled with insurgents, all of whom were armed.

Every light in the town had been extinguished-the hotels were closed, all the streets were in possession of the mob, and every lane leading thereto is barricade I and Meu were seen in every quarter with mus-

EVERY One his own Salesmani—Joyes & Co., of the Greecent one-price Clothing Store, out Market Street, above, sixth, Penanstrata. In addition to having the largest most varied and Fashionable Stock of Clothing in Philadelphia, made expressly for retail sales, we have constituted every one his own salesman, by having marked in figures, on each article, the very lowest price it can be sold for, so they cannot possibly vary—all must buy alike. The goods are well spanged and prepared, and great pains taken with the making, so that all can buy with the full assurance of getting a good article at the very lowest price. Also, alarge stack of price comes on hand, of the latest styles and qualities, which will be made to order in the most fashionable and best manner.

On a Musician's Offer of Marriage. BY THE BARD OF TOWRE HALL.

There is a fine musician—one Who would my husband be; He wrote upon a "Music Sheet;" "Oh! will you marry me?" I have his "Signature," and love
My heart to him inclines.

My name, with his, would noted be,
If seen in "Ledger lines." I'd really like, within his heart To hold a sacre i place.
If in that heart there is a void,
My love should fill the "Space But will the music of his Tones
Be in my neart the same,
And not be turned to discords, if
I take his profered name? It I'm a "mar," the fact may mar
The singing of the wife—
The baby, as a "Grace Note," may Untune the "Psalm of Life." With "mother's darling" there be three,
And it may be inserred,
That in the matrimonial "Scalo"
I'll be a "Minor Third," Till "Bar" the thought, for I should wish.
To be his "better list!?
And in Affection's hynri depond
On him to be my "Staff."

If, in the "Tenor" of his ways,

He's fickle, cold and "Bloc"

Then, troubled by these "Treble"

I could not hun one "Brace." If I don't please him to a "Dot,"

He then may cast a "Sur,"

And say: "The jade I'll break at onco

The 'Fie or Bind' with her."

With such a "Crotchet" in his head, My heart would have no "Rest.". I will not "Quaver," but will "Turn" This matter in my breast, Fil take an "Interval" of time To think of this and that; I shall not be a "Natural," Nor shall I be a "Flat,"

Rut I'll be "Sharp," and will not wed, Unless with one it bo. Who will, in love's sweet melodies, A "Key Note" make of me. If that I really thought he'd do, I could not h in discard; I'd send to him "America." The song by Bennett's Bard: And on that sheet, I highly prize,
Pit write him this reply:
"E'm yours, if at the Tower Half
You will your Clothing buy,"

"If raiment there at prices fair Cannot your mind control. Send back my song—for you can have No music in your soul." No music in your soul."

A full and complete assortment of Fall and Winter Clohing suited to every market, now on hand, to which the titention of Wholesale buyers in invited. We would paricularly call attention to the style and make of our garments at Towas Harr Coormes Bangue, No. 518 Market Syanza, Philadelphia.
