THE EDUCATION MOST NEEDED. The question is often asked, why is it that so few people are successful in business, and why property finds such an unequal distribution? This man, they say, received the advantages of a good English Education, and that man was educated at one of our best colleges. Both have been industrious, honest and economical; and yet neither of them have been successful in business. Why is it? asks the New York Express; and that journal proceeds to point out the cause, and, in the course of his remarks, observes: "The idea too commonly provails that mere knowledge of books, is the beginning and end of education. The sons and daughters, especially of the rich, grew up with this notion in their heads, in idleness, bilities which await them. Their natures tered the city, and attacked men and cattle pared to manage the estates their fathers

"The education that scoffs at labor, and encourages idleness, is the worst enemy for a girl, man, or woman. Instead of ennobling, it degrades; it opens upon the road to ruin. The education which directs us to do what we are fitted to do, that respects labor, that inculcates industry, honesty, and fair dealing, and that strips us of selfish. ness, is the education we do need, and that which must become the prevailing sentiment of the country, before we can be as a people either happy or prosperous."

The Soldier and the Indian.

A soldier in the American Army, belong ing to Wes on, N. Y., about the time General Brock was killed in a severe battle, was on a scouting party one day. Being a man of courage, enterprise and sagacity, he was determined, if possible, to obtain an accurate knowledge of the position of the enemy. For this purpose he ventured to separate from his companions. lu the course of his reconnoitering alone, in the open fields, he approached a wood, the underbrush of which was very thick -His watchful eye discovered what he supbeing escorted home from church by one gratified. There was none of them brought He immediately saw his mistake. It was a note book with them, and they would not an Indian crawling on his hands and feet, dare to attempt to play a tone before Mr. F. with his rifle in his hand, and watching the soldier, evidently with the intention of advancing sufficiently near to make him a sure mark.

For the soldier to retreat was now impossible; he thought he could not escape, and he remembered too, that his father had told him never to return with a backside wound. He pretended not to see the Indian, and walked slowly towerds him with his gun "Will you not come and play a tune for cocked by his side, carefully observing all his movements. They approached nearer; at length he saw the Indian bringing the gun to his shoulder-at that instant the solbut if no other lady is willing to, I will dier fell to the ground—the ball whistled "Not going, why, what on earth is up; try to do the best I can, although I cannot in deadly music over his head. The soldier lay motionless.

The Indian uttered the dreadful yell which signifies the death of an enemy, and drawing the bloody scalping knife, (but forgoing to reload his piece,) advanced with hasty strides, thirsting for murder and anticipating the reward for the scalp. The soldier, motionless, permitted him to approach within ten paces, he then with the utmost composure sprang to his feet. The savage stood aghast The soldier with deliberate aim put two balls directly through his heart. A horse groan was the only sound that issued from the fallen savage. This son of the forest was at least six feet five inches in height. The soldier took the Indian's rifle, returned to the camp, and Yet he frequently afterward on his knee; and he, for the purpose of protecting her, of course had thrown his arm around her waist; and so they sat, in real, soft lovers' style. All this I gathered at a glance. Step-

"Why, Jones, what in the duce are you doing with this girl ?" The girl arose hastily and seated herself on the seat.

"See here, stranger," said the fellow, "you're a mite mistaken; my name ain't Jones." "Why, Jones," said I, "you certainly haven't left your wife and children, and tri-

I merely shook my head, and pass to another seat to see the rest of the fun.-The girl looked "wild" after I sat down; but Jones, alias Harper, soon convinced her that I was mistaken.

"Why Jones, you here? How did you leave your wife and babies?" "Now see here, stranger, you ain't the fust man that's called me Jones to-day, an' I reckon I must look arfully like him; but I nin't Jones, an' more'n that, you musn't of France the clive trees were killed, and call me Jones. "Ah, Jones," said Gregg, "you will regret this in the future. I pity your wife and cuildren; and this poor girl." "So, Mr. Harper, your real name is Jones, is it, an' you've been foolin' me, have you? Well, we ain't spliced yet; an' I don't think we will be soon," said the girl, and her eyes fairly flashed fire. "Jane, Jane," said Harper, "don't know I'm Bill Harper? That ain't a darn drop of Jones blood in me, an' I'll prove it.' ers, and Jim Byers entered, and of course their attention was called to Harper by his loud talking. They stepped up to him and

"Why, Jones, what is all this fuss This was more than Harper could stand.

"Now," said he, "my name ain't Jones, an' I can lick the feller that says it is." By this time we had got to Hand our friend Fred came into the car and made Harper keep quiet. The girl that wouldn't be "spliced" requested Fred to belp her on the train that was going back to N——, which he did, and the notorious Jones, alias Harper, followed her. We learned afterward, that he proved himself to be Bill Harper, instead of Bill Jones, and he and his gal Jane "got spliced."

Conversion of Thorpe. One of the most singular cases of conversion through the power of the Holy Spirit, was that of John Thorpe, who afterward became an effective minister of that Gospel which is first he ridiculed. He was one of the celebrated White-field's most insulting appropriate and processes. field's most insulting opposers, and possessing an unusual talent for mimicry, he not only interrupted his sermons in public, but ridiculed them in private in theatrical circles. On one occasion, at such a gathering for pleasure, revel-ry, and wit, he and three of his companions laid a wager for the most effective in itation and ridicule of Whitefield's preaching. Each was to open the Bible at random, and preach an extempore harangue from the first verse that presented itself, and the audience were to adjudge the price of the presentation. prize after hearing all. Thorpe's three competi-tors each went through the game with implous buffoonery, and then it came his turn. They had the table for their aostrum, and as he stepped upon it, confident of his superior ability. ped upon it, confident of his superior ability. Thorpe exclaimed: "I shall beat you all" They handed him the Bible, and when he opened it, the invisible providence of God directed his eye at the first glance, to the verse in the thirteenth chapter of Luke's gospel. "Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish." He read the words, but the moment he had read them he becan to but the moment he had read them, he began to see and feel their full impart. The sword of the see and feel their full impart. The sword of the Spirit in that passage went through his soul as a flash of lightning, revealing and consuming. An instantaneous conviction of his own guilt as a sinner against God seized hold upon him, and conscience was aroused, as it sometimes is, suddenly and unexpectedly, and always will be when God sets our sins before us in the light of His countenance. The retribution in that russage he felt was for himself, and its terrors glared upon him in array against his own soul, and out of that rapid and everwhelming conviction he grace with them. Yet he frequently afterward declared, that if ever in his life he preached by the assistance of the Spirit of God, it was at that time. The whole subject was revealed before him; the necessity of repentance, the threatened perdition of the soul, the terrors of the second death; and he preached to his companions, guilty, reproduce and dving as himself rappoguilty, reprobate, and dying, as himself repro-bate and dying. His fervor and fire increased as he went on, and the sympathetic gloom of his as he went on, and the sympathetic ground of his audience deepened the convictions on his own soul, and the sentences fell from his lips with such intense and burning imagery, and such such intense and ourning innugery, and such point, pungency, and power of language, that, as he afterward related, it seemed to him as if his own hair would stand erect with terror at their awfulness. It was a blast from the lake burning with fire and brimstone. Yet no man interrupted him, for all felt and saw, from the solemnity of his manner, what an overwhelming impression there was upon him and though their second sion there was upon him, and though their assion there was upon him, and though their as-tonishment deeyened into angry and awful gloom beceath the lurid glare of his address, yet they sat spell-bound, listening and gazing at him, and when he descended from the table, a profound silence reigned in the whole circle, and not one word concerning the wager was uttered. Thorpe instantly withdrew from the company without uttering a word, and, it is needless to say, never returned to that society; but, after a season of the deepest distress and conflict, passed into the full light of the Gospel, and at length became a most successful preacher of its grand.—Chesver's

Warm and Animated Gratitude.

Our existence, with every blessing attending on it; our redemption, with the hopes of pardon secured by it; and an eternity of happiness prepared for us heroafter, are surely benefits sufficient to awaken gratitude in the most unfeeling heart; and can it then be possible that those on whom a kind word or look from their fellow men ean make an impression never to be effaced. should be insensible to obligations like these from their Heavenly Parent, or return them merely by a cold obedience, often paid unwillingly, instead of that warm and animated gratitude which thinks it never can do enough. - Anon:

Such sudden changes are very prejudicial to the health, and can only be guarded against by a corresponding change in the dress. The best rule for health is to keep the body and feet dry and warm. It is but poor economy to go thinly clad to save the expense of warm and proper clothing.

Dr. Eilwood Harvey commenced his course of Lectures in this place on Wedresday evening last; notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, large and respectable audiences have been in attendance, and will undoubtedly increase in number as the Lectures advance.

Dr. H. is a gentleman of high reputation as a Professor of Medicine, having graduated from one of the most noted Medical Institutions in this country, and occupied preminent positions for a number of years past. As a Lecturer, he has but few superiors. His Lectures are characterized by originality of thought, and clearness of expression; abounding in valuable information, imparted in the most attractive and

The "Old Folks" in Bridgeton. Gladly do we call attention to the advertisement, in another column, of the grand concert to be given by the "Old Folks", in this place, on Thursday evening the 22d with pleasure by all lovers of good music.-The members of the Handel & Haydn Society, by whom this entertainment will be comprises the finest musical talent in Philadelphia, and we might say in the whole country, judging from the crowded audiences they have drawn at their concerts in received from the press.

The "ald falks" will imitate in their singing, acting and dress, the quaint customs ard styles of our ferefathers. All who attend nust be prepared to laugh, for there is "a time to be merry," and this will afford a good opportunity for that purpose. Those of us who had the pleasure of hearing the inimitable Mr. R. T. White, at the entertoil ment given by the Harmonia Society in Therrard's Hall a few months ago, will be pleased to learn that he, as one of the memters of the Handel & Haydn Society, will take part in the concert. As this is but the second concert of the season, we bespeak for the "Old Folks" a large and respectable audience. It will be held in Grosscup's Hall, s reem sumirably adapted to the purpose, and capable of seating a large audience comfortally. Tickets may be procured either at C. S. Miller and Co's., or of N. Interview between Brown and his Wife. On Thursday last Mrs. Brown arrived at Harper's Ferry, having a special pass from Govern-or Wise, and, in the afternoon, was taken to the rison, at Charleston, escorted by a large body or troops. The interview between Brown and his wife lasted from 4 o'clock in the afternoon until 8 o'clock in the evening, when Gen. Taliaferro informed them that the period allowed had lapsed, and that she must prepare for departure to the Ferry. A carriage was again brought to the door, the military took possession of the quare, and with an escort of twenty men the ortege moved off, Capt. Moore, of the Montgomery Guard, accompanying her. The interview was not a very affecting one, but was rather of a practical character, with regard to the future of herself and children, and the arrangement and settlement of business affairs. They seemed considerably affected when they first met, and ly overcome, but Brown was as firm as a rock, ed by the wife of the jailor, and a strict watch kept over them during the time they were togethcr. At the time of separation, they both seemed to be fully self-possessed, and the parting, especially on his part, exhibited a composure either feigned or real, that was truly surprising.—She rather repelled all attempts on his part to MRS. BROWN JUSTIFIES HER HUSBAND. She resented the idea that Capt. Brown had done anything to deserve death, or to attaint his name with dishonor, and declared that the ignominious character of the punishment that was about to be inflicted upon him, was as cruel as it was unjust. She regarded him as a martyr in a righteous cause, and was proud to be the of such a man. The gallows, she said, had no terrors for her or for him. She stated that she and not seen him since last June, about six months ago, and that they had been separated, with the exception of a few days, for nearly two years. The subject of the death of his two sons was spoken of, and Mrs. Brown remarked that she had made some effort while at Harper's Ferry, for the recovery of their bodies, to which object she said Col. Barbour had kindly consented t give his assistance. Capt. Brown also remarked that he would also like the remains of the twe Thompsons removed, if they could be found, but suggested that it would be best to take his body with the bodies of his four sons, and get a pile of pine logs, and burn them all together; that it would be much better, and less expensive, thus gather up all their ashes together, and take them te their final resting-place. > THE FUNERAL CAR. In the yard of the deput, on the southern side of the building, was an old ricketty wagon, with a canvas cover. An old bay horse, in harness more ancient than himself, was attached to the wagon. This was the funeral car which was to carry a box suppored to contain the mortal remains of John Brown through the city of Philadelphia.

In order to avoid the crowd, toe box remained in the baggage car until a quarter past one o'clock, when it was taken out, the depot having been previously cleared of all persons connected with the Railroad Com pany. The box was covered with a blanket was that the rescue excitement was an egregious of coarse cloth. A fur robe was lashed upon the top.

A double line was formed by the policemen, and the box was carried by other officers to the old wagon already d so i el.-Into this wagon several policemen got, and tended, for the boys who clambered upon were upon the outside, and by the time the wagon was driven out there was un immenso crowd, which was composed principally of colored persons. The appearance of the vehicle with the box, was greeted by loud cries, and the crowd made chase after the wagon. There were three or four carriag s, filled by colored persons, in the rear of the wagon, which was driven as rapidly as the SALEM. March 5th, 1847.

This is to certify that I was seized with a cold in Octobor, which developed itself in severe cough, hourseness, pain in the breast, and all the concommants of a Palmonic affection. I purchased, while I was very ill, a bottle of Robertson's Pulmonic Elixir, which entirely cured me in the short space of a days, and I now feel bound to make it known, for the benefit of fellow sufferers, and in justice to the Proprietors.

Wm. B. Robertson, Respected Friend:—During the past winter my wife was attacked with a very severe Influenza, accompanied with a dry, distressing cough. After trying several popular remodies without receiving any benefit, the use of half a bottle she was completely relieved.
Respectfully, thy friend, JOSEPH A. MILLER.

PENNSYILE, April 21, 1859.

Mr. Robertson—Dear Sir: During the last winter, while affilicted with a distressing cough, I was led to try the virtue of your Pulmonic Elixir, and with most happy effect. It afforded almost immediate relief. I can most conscientiously recommend it to all suffering in like manner. We have administered it to our children, in cases of colds, with happy effect, and have recommended it to others, who have used it and now testify to its ralue.

CHARLES S. DOWNS,

Pastor M. E. Church, Penn's Neck.

Messrs. Robertson & Lippincorr—Gents.: During the sitting of the Musical Convention in this place, (from over work, I presume,) my throat and breast got very sore. I obtained from you one bottle of your "Robertson's Pulmonic Elixir," which in two or three days entirely restored me. It has had a very beneficial effect on my mother who has a cough of several years' standing. I gave some to Prof. Root. who had taken a severe cold; and in every case it acted like a charm. Believing it to be an excellent medicine for the class of diseases for which it is recommended, I cheerfully comply with your request in giving you the above certificate. ne above certificate. m, April 10, 1856. This celebrated Washing Soap, is now in market for more than a year, and that it has given universal satisfaction, is evident from the fact, that the Manuficturors of it, in order to supply the demand, have been obliged to increase their capacity to make equal to One Handred Thousand Pounds per Week. It is decidedly the best and cheapest Soap ever made in this country. One pound of it will go as fat, for any use, as three of the common soap in general use. It is made upon a new principle, of the best malerials, and known only to Van Hasgen & McFeone. It does away entirely with the wash board—saves to necessity of belling the dethes; it does not shrink Fl unels, removes Grease, link or Paint spots perfectly, and from the most delicale fabrics; saves fully one-half the time and labor usuality apent to do the washing. It is warranted free from SAL SODA, or other injurious alkalies, and guaranteed not to ret or injure the clothes.

For sale by all respectable Grocers, and wholesale by THAIN & BEKEONE, CAUTION There being several imitation beneats of Deterrive Scap in market, the public are notified that none is guniane, except Van Hasgan & McKeone is stamped upon each but of the scap, as well as the boxes.

ESENWEIN'S TAR & WOOD NAPTHA PECTORAL IS THE BEST MEDICINE IN THE WORLD.

Is the best MEDICINE in the World, for the cure of Coughs and Colds, Group, Bronchitis, Asthma, Difficulty in Breathing, Palpitation of the Heart, and for the relief of patients in the advanced stages of Consumption, together.

with all Diseases of the Thront & Chest, and which precisposed to Consumption. It attacks the root of disease, and makes the fell destroyer succumb to its influence. It also produces free expectoration, and induces healthy action in the diseased Mucous Membranes and Tissues. It is peculiarly adapted to the radical cure of Asthma. One dose of this invaluable Byrnp often gives ease, and cousequently sleep, which the peculiar nature of this disease denies him. It is very pleasant to the taste, and prompt in its effects. Try it, and be convinced, that it is invaluable in the cure of Bronchial affections.
