And your dear hearts are crowded With memories gone: Then think how sweet I sleep Down in the earth so deep, No more to wake to weep; My tears are done.

Oh! come not to my tomb When Nature shrouds in gloom Her spacious drawing room This earth of ours:

But come when sunshine throws Her radiance over those Who, round my grave shall close To scatter flowers.

'Tis sweet for me to think There are some hearts which link My soul to theirs, and sink My memory deep. A few will not forget My sun so early set CANDEN, Dec. 50, 1859. H. M. BROWN. GOT MORE THAN THEY WANTED.

The following is attributed to the celebrated Rowland Hill:-"Two strangers passing the church in the nisle, and finding no seat, stood for a while and listened to the sermon. Presently they turned to walk out. Before they eached the door, the preacher said: But I will tell you a story.' This arrested the strangers, and they paused, turned again, and listened. 'Once there was a man,' said the speaker, 'who said that if he had all the axes in the world made into one great axe, and all the trees in the world were made ino one great tree, and he could wield the axe their curiosity, and resumed their walk in

I leave this remarkable case to engag encouragement; it is not the case of one suddenly wrought upon in the hour of naa little child, and sitting at the feet of Christ to learn from him what he could learn from no where else. It is the case of one whose genuine and healthy faith exhibited its reality in the clustering blossoms and the people's days, but somehow the sun sets case of one who had over estimated the valworry, and always wondering where the is the case of one who had done homage at the shrine of reason, now bowing to the cupreme authority of revelation. Is it wayward barehness of sullenness of temper that is the prominent defect in one who is dear to you? Who knows not that words of reproof, however gently administered, would often but add fucl to the fire of such a spirit? But there is another and more excellent way of admonition, which will seldom, if ever, fail. Rebuke by love, remonstrate by gentleness, preach self restraint by living it. Exhibit the softening power of Christ's grace—not by talking about it, but by acting in habitual subjection to it; by your sweet, gentle, Christ-like temper and bearing; by your return of kindness for harshness, by your culm torbearance and natured, though she has the best intentions for harshness, by your culm torbearance and in the world. Well, there is one comfort unruffled screnity amidst sore provocations and wrongs; and often-times you will find that the spirit whose false pride direct remonstrance would only serve to rouse, will own unconsciously the all subduing power of love - Caird.

Insincere Conformity.

"When I was once talking," says Whiston, "with the lord chief justice King, one brought up among the dissenters at Exeter, under a most religious, Juristian and learned education, we fell into a debate about signing articles which we did not believe, for preferment, which he openly justified, and pleaded for it that we must not lose our usefulness for scruples. I replied, that I was sorry to hear his lordship say so, and desired to know whether in their courts they allowed of such prevarieation or not? Ha answered, they did not allow of it; which produced this rejoinder from me: "Suppose God Almighty should be as just in the next world as my lord chief justice is in this, where are we then?" to which be made no answer, and to which the late Queen Caroline added, when I told her the story, Mr. Whiston, no answer was to be made to it" Well might such examples make honest Whiston think "how wisely our blessed Sevior put in that petition into the Lord's aula qui vole esset pius;" and well may we remember that our dangers are precisely the same. - London Inquirer.

Daily and Quiet Virtues.

It is the bubbling spring which flows gonely, the little rivulet which raus slong day and night by the farm bouse that is uneful, aract. Niagara excites our wonder, and we stand amazed at the power and greatness of God there, as he "pours it from the hollow of his hand." But on Niagara is enough for the continent or the world; while the same world requires thousands and tens of thousands of silver fountsins and gentle flowing rivulets, that water every farm and meadow, and every garden, and that shall flow on every day and every night, with their gentle, quiet beauty. So with tho acts of our lives. It is not so much by that good is to be done. - Albert Burnes.

Scepticism, Christianity.

What do sceptics propose to give us in exchange for this system of Christianity, with its bidden mysteries, miraeles, sigus, and wondere? Doubt, co ifusing, obsqurity, anfor the relinquishment of our souls? In very deed, this is the utmost they have to propose, and we can only account for their rancorous efforts to render others like themsolves, by reflecting that misery loves company .- Dr. Godman.

The Governor's Message was delivered on Wednesday; it shows an improved condition of the State finances, in consequence of increased revenues from the monopolics; it also touches upon the prevailing excitements, condemning the fanaticism of the agitators who misrepresent public sentiment in both sections of the Union. The ticvernor entertains the views held by conservative men all over the State-severely denouncing Brown's murderous demonstration at Harper's Ferry, but he does not believe the Union is in any danger on account of it. This, and kindred difficulties, he attributes to the repeal of the Missouri Compromise, and other aggressions of a similar nature by the South.

Distressing Calamity.

The Pemberton Mills, at Lawrence, Mass., employing about 260 persons, fell last Tuesday afternoon, burying nearly seven hundred in the ruins. It is supposed that over two hundred persons were killed.

The building has never been considered safe. It was built seven years since, and before the machinery was put in, the walls spread to such an extent that 22 tons of stays had to be put in, to save it from falling. About 9 o'clock in the night a fire broke out in the ruins. At 12 c'clock, the whole mass was in flames. The screams and mosas of the mangled victims were terrible beyond description.

We would remind our readers at Mauricetown and vicinity, that Dr. E. Harvey will commence a course of lectures in that place on Tuesday evening next. We bespeak him a hearty welcome. Since the Dr. has been lecturing in this county he has become exceedingly popubar, with those who have had the pleasure of Churches, Newspapers, Schools or anything hearing him. We can assure our friends at Mau- of the kind in that part of the country, exricetown that his lectures will be the most interesting and profitable ever delivered in that place. ____

We learn from the Salem Sunbeam that the main audience room of the new M. E. Church of that city was dedicated to Divine worship on Tuesday morning last, by appropriate exercises, which were continued for three days, and three sermons were presched each day. Bishop Janes and Soott, and Rev. Messrs. Corbit of New York. Hughes and Jackson of Philadelphia, S. Y. Monroe, C. E. Hill, and other distinguished of about fourteen dollars was then taken ministers preached during the services. The entire cost of the edifice and lot on which it stands, is $22,000; which, with the exception of about $1,200, was liquidated before since he has been in the place. There - the close of the exercises.

Peter Cartwright's Lecture. On Friday evening of last week, this distinguished old Pioneer Preacher of the West, delivered a Lecture in the Commerce St. M. E. Church, on "Methodist Prencher's Life in the Far West."

Long before the hour had arrived for the Lecture to commence, the house was comfortably filled, in fact, almost the entire audience was present at an early hour. About half-past 7 o'clock, the old hero, (accompanied by a number of Clergymen) made his appearance in the pulpit, dressed in a good, comfortable, plain-looking suit-broad-rimmed hat, old style coat, reaching below his knowledge. At that time there were no cept schools of vice and wickedness, and he being rather a fast young man, was considered an apt scholar. A spot, in the forest had been cleared, where duncing, music, and carousing generally, were carried on for years. On this spot he preached his first sermon. After giving an account of his conversion, he related some of his experience as a preacher. The lecture was composed principally of narratives and anecdotes, of the most thrilling and interesting character.

While we see no particular wrong in the ladics fashions, though they may be somewhat inconvenient to themselves, we do believe that there is a great wrong in the almost universal practice of using tobacco. It is destructive to morals. They may plead might be used for almost every vice. That practice that has a bad tendency is of itself an evil, and ought to be abandoned. The use of tobacco is connected with everything that is low, vulgar, and contemptible. Is such a thing known as a grocery without tobacco? If so, it has never come to our

The testimony of the most noted physicians is, that it is destructive to health .-The man who smokes and chews is subject to giddiness of the head, an unpleasant sensation of the stomach, often loss of appetite, and a general weakness, with a trembling of the limbs, and a general prostration of the nervous system; then the countenance shows that they are not in the enjoyment of health. It has often led to great destruction of life and property. Aged people have set their clothes on fire accidentally from their pipes, and have by that means been burned to death. Many buildings that have been consumed by fire, and charged to an incendiary, have been through the carelessness of a tobacco smoker. And certainly it is a very indecent practice; the use of tobacco. Look into some of our churches, and see the stains, both in the seats and in the pulpits. Who would thus desecrate God's house?-Certainly no decent man would thus pollute the sanctuary. Often I have seen ladies look from seat to seat, before they would venture to stop, in safety to themselves and their dress, because of the running rivers of

In addition to these reasons why it should be abandoned, we would say, those who use pensive practice. There is no tax we pay that is equal to this; the tobacco tax. We often hear of the cost of drunkenness, very truly, too, but much of that has been occasioned by the use of tobacco. Many a young man formed his first habits of drunkenness in the use of tobacco.

I will here give an extract from a lecture delivered in England by the Dean of Carlisle. He says that the entire world of snuffers, smokers and chewers consume 2,000.000 tons of tobacco annually, or 4,480,000,000 pounds; as much tonnage as the corn consumed by 10,000,000 Englishmen, and actually at a cost sufficient to pay for all the bread corn eaten in Great Britian. 5.500.000 acres of land is employed in its growth, chiefly cultivated by slave labor; the product of which, at two pence, per pound, would yield thirty-seven millions of pounds sterling .-The time would fail to tell of the vast amount of smoking in Turkey and Persia. In India, all classes, and both sexas, indulge in this practice. The Siamese both chew and smoke In Burmah, all ages practice it; children of three years old and both sexes. About a week ago I was agreeably surprised on receiving an invitation from one of our young mechanics-also a member of the mysterious order-to attend a public installation. Some difficulty was encountered in procuring scats that it is an innocent luxury; the same plea for the invited guests, but all was soon satisfactorily arranged. As I looked around the room I saw a huge axe, but for what purpose it is used, no one but Old Fellows know; but in the middle of the room was an oil cloth about 3 feet square, which I thought must conceal some great mystery. I. also saw a door at the far end of the room, which was not opened during the evening, but kept ful companion of rum. Dr. E. E. Bateman, of Cedarville, took the chair, and called the meeting to order. He was clothed in a beautiful regalia of scarlet velvet, (apron and collar) and made quite an imposing appearance. Soon there was heard at the door a loud knock, when Mr. Wm. Dare, of Bridgeton, was admitted. He informed the D. D. Grand Master that the Grand Officers were in waiting. They were admitted and took their stations. Soon another knock was heard at the door, when by order of the D. D. G. M. the candidates for installation were admitted. First came Jacob Dailey, then Cant. D. P. Mulford, D. B. W. Johnson, of Millville Lodge, arose and entertained the guests with a few well placed remarks. Some one resent requireted the ladius to sing a "popplar air." but as none volunteered, the entertainment was brought to a close by the N. For the West Jersey Pioneer.

MR. EDITOR-There has been a grant deal of excitement occasioned by the Hurper's Ferry outbreak, and Virginia is ever ready to tell us of our faults. In my humble opinion, it is time that Virginian outrages and piracies were exposed to the gaze of an indiscriminating public.

A law was passed March 17, 1856, for the better protection of the slave holding in terests in the Commonwealth; the sum and substance of which is, that there be inspectors appointed for the principal posts of Virginia, to inspect all Northern bound vessels that come within the boundaries of the State. All vessels so inspected, must pay to the inspector $2 if loaded with coal, $5 with cargo of grain, 88 with wood or shingles, and $10 with cargo of tobacco; and in default of paying this fee, the penalty is seizure of vessel, $500 fine, and imprisonment. When we get our papers out of the Custom House, we are licensed to sail the waters of the United States free, so long as we do nothing to defraud the revenue. It is not sailing the waters of the United States free, as long as we have to pay them for scarching our vessels. The manner in which they search vessels, is ample proof that they care nothing about us running away with their slaves, and that the almighty dollar is what they are after. When the Inspector boards a vessel, the first thing is to hand his bill to the Captain, and then he will pocket the money and go ashore; and I am prepared to prove that 19 times out of 20, this is all the searching that

The next item is what is done with the noney so collected. The Chief Inspector of the State gets 10 per cent, and the Inspector who collects it, gets the balance. A large majority of our coasting vessels are en gaged in the Virginia trade. There is the pine wood, coal, oyster, shingle, flour, grain, tobacco, &c , that forms the Virginia trade. At a low estimation, there are 300 ve ssels averaging from 50 to 500 tons burthen, engaged in the Virginia trade. These vessels will average 12 trips per peer, and the average amount paid by each vessel is about $7 per trip, making $31 per year; the sum of which, $25,200, to be divided between six men. $1000 is doing a profitable business when it is carned by dint of hard labor, much less when it it is got for doing noth-

This law is such, that vessels from all parts of the Chesapeake Bay, and from Southern parts on the coast, if compelled by distress, storms, adverse winds, &c., to make a harbor within the waters of Virginia, are compelled to pay this fee also. In Hampton Roads Va., the manner of enforcing the fee is piracy according to the laws of nations. They have a Pilot Boat, armed with cannon, and there has been several instances of their firing into coasting schooners, for refusing to pay this fee. There is an instance of vessels under the authority of a piratical law. The schooper Wm. C. Eliason, from Charlestown, S. C., bound to New York, was forced. by two long easterly storms, to run in Hampboarded her, and demanded $10 negro fee. The captain not considering it just that he should pay it, undertook to remonstrate with the Inspector upon the injustice of the demand; whereupon the Inspector left the vessel, but soon after returned with the armed Pilot Boat, and a force of twenty men, armed to the teeth. The Pilot Boat, with guns a few rods of the schooner. Leaving a few men to work the heavy guns, in case of need, the Inspector boarded the schooner with ten armed men, and demanded $20 of the captain; $10 for the Negro fee, and $10 to pay the pirates he had with bin; in default of could the man do in such a case, with not even a pocket pistol to defend himself and vessel with. He agreed to pay them $10 to got out of the scrape. Such work as this under the very guns of old Point Comfort. There was much excitement occasioned by British armed cruisers boarding American vessels, on suspicion of being engaged n the slave trade, and Virginia denounced. the outrage as strong as any State in the Union, and yet will pass laws authorizing her citizens to board and search all vessels sailing under the Stars and Stripes, but they Pa do not, nor date not search a British vessel, because the British government can and will protect her subjects, and which I am sorry to sav. through the corruption of the Judiciary, the United States is powerless to do. even within her own limits. We would not complain of their searching our vessels if they'd pay for it themselves, but we must pay them for hunting up their own property. As near as I can determine, the object of this law is to raise the means for the support of a perveless, brainless, and contemptible pack of political loafers, who ought to be kicked out of existence. And we must submit to all of these outrages, impositions, and insults, because we are guilty of the unpardonable sin of having been born in a free State.

Georgetown is in the district of Columbia. and vessels loading there are subject to district laws as regards harbor, fees, &c. The Potomac River is the boundary line between Maryland and the District on one side, and Virginia on the other, and that line, if I understand it rights is the centre of the main channel of the rivers; therefore vessels can go from Gagratown too the mouth of the Potomac River, without ever toucking Virginia waters. And still we are compelled by this law to stop at Alexandria to be searched; and if we don't step, they will give chase with a Steamer, and bring us ack.

They board our vessels on the authority of a law that is unjust, unconstitutional, piratical, and in open violation of the laws of the United States, according to whose laws no man has any right-or authority to board and seise an American vessel, but an officer of the Customs, or United States Marshall .-Well may Dr. Cheever say that Virginia is a corporate pirate, and that her laws are outlawed. It is not sufficient that the sailor must face the terrible storms that sweep our coast during the Fall and Winter months. at the risk of life and property, to earn a few dollars to support a family, and purchase home comforts for his wife and little ones. No! were the dangers and hardships increased ten-fold, it would be the same,-Virginian Pirates standing to clutch the dollar before it reaches the bottom of Jack's LEMOS, Jr. pocket.

Evans & Watson

Have hed the surest demonstration in the following cer tificate, that their manufacture of Salamander. Safes has at length fully warranted the representations which have been made of them is a rendering an undoubted security against the terrific element.

Philadelphia, April 12th, 1866.

Messrs. Evans & Watsox,—Genulemen.—It affords us the highest satisfaction to state to you, that owing to the very protective qualifies of two of the Salamander Safes which we purchased of you some-few months since, we saved a large perion of our jewery, and all our books, papers, &c. exposed to the calamitous fire in Ranstead Place, on the morning of the 11th instant.

When we reflect that these Safes were located in the fourth story of the building we occupied, and that they full subsequently into a heap of barning ruins where the vast concentration of heat caused the brass plates to melt we cannot but regard the preservation of their valuable squarests as most contincing proof of the great security afforded by your Safes.

We shall take much pleasure in recommending them to make against fire. to men of tusiness as a sure reliance against fire.
