THE CITY OF THE DEAD. BY ANNIE R. BLOUNT.

There is a beautiful city, Laid out in walk and square ; Where flowers in rich profusion Perfume the Summer air. 'Tis there the willow waveth. And the violet lifts its head:

And they call this lovely city, The city of the dead! The breeze, in gentle dalliance, From flower to flower roves: And the very air seems purer

In those quiet, shaded groves. No sound disturbs the stillness-No laughter, rude and loud, For there's something in that city, Awes even the gayest crowd.

And, side by side, there slumber, The rich man and the poor; There foes lie down together, Nor wrong each other more.

There sleep the great, the lowly. The same trees o'er them wave; For earth's proud and vain distinctions Are leveled by the grave. Here, some weary, aged warrior,

Quietly takes his rest; And near him some young mother, With her baby on her breast. There, the wealthy merchant slumbers, And dreams no more of gain; There, the widowed one forgetteth

. Life's weariness and pain. There, sleep in peace together. Betrayer and betrayed, The wronged lies down by the wronger, And feels no more afraid: And, afar in some lone corner, Slumbers the suicide-No marble tablet telling

How he lived, and how he died. The bride, in her fair young beauty, With orange buds in her hair, And the wedding-robe around her, Sleeps calm and peaceful there. There, the erator proud reposes;

A stone at head and feet:

It brings the members of the family closer together, and unites them sublety. by a stronger tie. Music never sounds more sweetly than when, between each dying chord, the low patter of the rain upon the roof comes in for accompaniment. What is more musical than the rain itself? PAPER IN THIS STATE.

THE PIONEER.

Our readers will perceive that the Pio-NEER appears this week in a new dress from head to foot, and we think much improved in appearance. It contains two columns more reading matter than heretofore, as we have thrown out that amount of old advertisements; it will also be observed that a considerable of the reading matter on the second page is in smaller type than usual, which gives our subscribers the benefit of a much larger amount of reading matter.

We have also made arrangements by which every department of the paper will be improved, and we flatter ourselves that we have the facilities for getting up an Independent Family Newspaper, unsurpassed by any in the State. The price will remain at one dollar per year, notwithstanding we shall be at much greater expense in its publication this year than any previous one. If there is any virtue in industry, perseverance, and the judicious application of many years experience in the business, combined with a free expenditure of the "needful," we shall endeavor to merit a continuance of that success which has heretofore so abundantly crowned our efforts. The Pioneer has already attained a circulation unequalled by any county paper in this State.

EPHRAIM BATEMAN. Town Superintendent.

GREENWICH.

Occupying the position I do in regard to pubic schools of our township, I suppose it becomes me to make a few remarks in regard to their condition. In the first place parents and trusees do not take interest enough in the education of their children. They will walk right by the school house where their children are, to look at a very fine colt they have pasturing just beout never have time to stop and see how the child is progressing. I think, too, that if we could have more money raised in our township it would do a great deal. We now raise five hundred dollars I hink eight hundred would be nearer the sum

Most of our school houses are too small; our children are too much crowded, and thus labor under great disadvantage in that way. We have had three teachers from the Norma School, two of which have not had energy enough to keep a school alive, or discipline enough to keep them in order. Their system I think a good one where it can be kept up year after vear: but where it is introduced just for one erm I think it a disadvantage. Three of our districts are paid by the term a certain salary, and no school in the district exsept the district school. The other has three schools a part of the time, and in the winter season only one or two, where they pay their teacher by the scholar, and each scholar draws an equal share of public money.

I filled up the blank report which was sent me as nearly correct as I could. Teachers are very neglectful about sending me in any list from their schools. their schools, and I am compelled to form my own ideas in a great measure.

Sickness in my family prevented me from attending to my duties as faithfully as I otherwise should have done. In our first district, which comprises the village of Greenwich, we need a large new school house very badly, and I believe the project is talked of for another year.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

Take only the Genuine!

Everything which is really valuable and which costs the inventor time, money and research, is subject to be basely counterfoited. This is emphatically the case with Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, the invaluable quantities and well earned reputation of which as a certain, safe, speedy and never failing remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Croup, Quinsy, Asthma, Influenza, Inflamation of the Throat, Lungs and Chest, as well as that dire disease, CONSUMPTION, have induced unprincipled speculators in the lives and health of the community to palm upon the unwary and miserable, worthless and deleterious imitation of the true and only Genuine Balsam: thus not only inflicting a lasting injury upon the sick, but rendering themselves, according to the late decisions of the Courts, liable to a criminal prosecution, which, in proper time, wiff be commenced against them.

The recipe for the preparation of the Genuine Balsam has been in possession of the present proprietors for nearly twenty years, and with those who have used it

Another Call on an Astrologist.

BY THE BARD OF TOWER HALL.

A woman, in her husband's clothes Which came from Tower Hall, On "Madam," the astrologist, Resolved to make a call. A big moustache, to hide her lips, She placed beneath her nose, And with some whiskers false con Upon her cheeks the rose. A lordly gaitshe then assumed, Consistent with her plan. That those she met should think that she Was "ev'ry inch a man."

She sought the house of her who reads The stars which gem the skies, And "Madam;" with her powers to see, Saw not through her disguise. She blan aly said, "Good evening, sir, You would your fortune know; And what the curtained future hides, My skill to you shall show.

Some things, perhaps, may cause your heart To tremble in your breast; Your hant to stand on end and put Your manhood to the test." Our heroine with blushes glowed, Which whiskers kept from view; She felt that she should be exposed, If "Madam's" words were true;

For if her hair stood up on end,
"Twould stand so very high,
That it at once would show her sex
To "Madam's" watchful eye. To "Madam's watchful eye.

She quelled her fears, and "Madam" saids
"No griefs did you annoy,
While in the stage of infancy,
And while a beardless boy;

But many clouds with sorrow black, Have darkened manhood's sky— So say the stars, which beam with truths No man can e'er deny."

A woman may, our friend replied,
As I will show to you—
Her wig, moustache and whiskers, all,
Upon the floor she throw; And with a hearty laugh, she said:
"Now, 'Madam,' fix your eye
On me, and ask these stars, again,
About my manhood's sky;

And ask again about those griefs
Which did not me annoy,
While I was in the infant stage,
And while a beardless boy." The "Madam" stared, and fainting, fell Full length upon the floor; She bumped her head, and stars she saw She'd never seen before.

Ohl that such stars may greet their sight, May base pretenders all, Be floored by men, or women smart, In clothes from Tower Hall.

NOTE—A complete and well assorted stock of Spring and Summer Clothing now on hand, unsurpassed in style and workmanship, to which the attention of wholesale and retail buyers is invited, at Tower Hall, 518 Market Street, Philadelphia.

BAUGH & SONS, Wholesale Office and Store, 20 South Wharves, between Market & Chestnut sts.,

PHILADELPHIA. Cash price $45 per 2,000 lbs. (2½ ets. per lb.)
In the preparation of this Valuable Manure, BONES ARE USED IN THEIR RAW STATE ONLY. They have never been noted on calling. They are taken as nature has made them, crushed with powerful Machinery; and subjected to a process, by which all the virtue of the bone is retained, a fortilizer is procured, furnishing in a concentrated and soluble form the two indispensable ingredients for the growth of Plants and enriching the soil, viz: phosphoric acid and animonia. These two ingredients, by the use of "BAUGH'S RAW BONE SUPERPHOSPHATE," are given to the soil in all their original strength and purity. They assimilate at once with the soil, furnish all the needful Ammonia for the growing crop, giving it ample luxuriance, and leave the hand permanently benefitted so that its presence can be traced for years afterwards.

The Salamander Sales of Philadelphia against the World.

Have had the surest demonstration in the following cer tificate, that their manufacture of Salamander Safes has at leach fully warranted the representations which have been made of them as rendering an undoubted security against the terrific element.

Messrs. Evans & Warson,—Gentlemen.—It affords us the highest satisfaction to state to you, that owing to the very protective qualities of two of the Salamander Safes which we purchased of you some few months since, we saved a large portion of our jewelry, and all our books, papers, &c., exposed to the calamitous fire in Ranstead Place, on the merning of the 11th instant.

When we reflect that these Safes were located in the fourth story of the bailding we occupied, and that they fall subsequently into a heap of burning ruins where the vast concentration of neat caused the brass, plates to melt; we cannot but regard the preservation of their valuable contents as most convincing proof of the great security afforded by your Safes.

We shall take much pleasure in recommending them to men of business as a sure reliance against fire.
