FOOTSTEPS OF ANGELS.

BY LONGFELLOW.

When the hours of day are numbered, And the voices of the night, Wake the better soul that slumbered, To a holy, calm delight,

Ere the evening lamps are lighted, And like phantoms grim and tall, Shadows from the fitful fire-light Dance upon the parlor wall: Then the forms of the departed

Enter at the open door; The beloved ones, the true-hearted, Come to visit me once more: He, the young and strong, who cherished

Noble longings for the strife,-By the roadside fell and perished, Weary with the march of life!

They, the holy ones and weakly, Who the cross of suffering bore, Folded their pale hands so meekly,-Spake with us on earth no more!

And with them the being beauteous, Who unto my youth was given, More than all things else to love me,

And is now a saint in heaven, With a slow and noiseless footstep. Comes that messenger divine, Takes the vacant chair beside me, Lays her gentle hand in mine.

And she sits and gazes at me, With those deep and tender eyes Like the stars, so still and saint-like, Looking downward from the skies.

Uttered not, yet comprehended, Is the spirit's voiceless prayer, Soft rebukes, in blessings ended, Breathing from her lips of air.

O, though oft depressed and lonely, All my fears are laid aside. If I but remember only Such as these have lived and died!

HUMOROUS.

DON'T TRUST.

Fifty years ago Grant Thornburn was standing behind his counter in his little grocery, Broad street, N. York, when a man entered, a little the worse for liquor, and called for something to drink, saying, at the same time, that he had no money, and would 'pay to-morrow.

'My rule is never to trust,' remarked Mr. 'I'll pay yer, certain,' exclaimed the strantle Scotchman. 'Well, if yer ain't willin' ter trust me, here's a Bible for s'eurity,' said the man, taking from his pocket a beautiful gilt-edged plied Mr. Thornburn. The man gazed at the diminutive form of the little trader through his bleared eyes for moment in perfect astonishment; then, turning on his heel, left the store, exclaiming: Well, yer little dried up mack'l, if yer Aunt Dorothy had a wonderful fondness for singing in Methodist meetings, the negro nicctings, especially in missionary meetings. Then her voice would be heard above all the rest, screaming out, "From Greenlands icy mountings," or some other equally moving hymn. But when the plates came around for the collection, Aunt Dorothy sang louder, and still louder, with her eyes fixed on the wall, so that she never saw the collector till be had passed her seat. One night she was thus rapt in cestacy, singing at the top of her voice, and gazing at the ceiling, "Fly abroad, thou mighty gospel," when Jack Bones came along with the plate, and, touching the old woman with his left hand, said,

So he tells the story.

HEAD WORK IN FARMING.

It's surprising how much muscular labor is wasted every year, which might be saved, or better directed. This is true in all kinds of business and not the least in farming. For instance: how many farmers toil on, year after year, with scanty or imperfect implements of husbandry. The modern improvements, which save much labor, and do the work cheaper, and better, they will have nothing to do with. Improved varieties of seed, they hold to be, almost without exception, humbugs. Draining and subsoil plowing are ranked in the same catalogue, they are labor lost; but manuring cold, wet lands, and plowing them late in summer a few inches deep, gathering scanty crops—this is not labor lost! Rotation of crops, and manuring lands with reference to the grain or roots to be grown on them, they consider something like book farming - a very dangerous

We never could see why farmers should not think for themselves, and be able to give a satisfactory reason for every process they undertake. We never could see why they should not endeavor to improve in all farming operations, to learn the very best way of doing everything and then do it so. It is told of a certain backwoods' farmer, who had not yet found time to clear the stumps from his fields, that his boys complained bitterly of their troubles in plowing and harrowing, the old fashioned "drag," especially troubled them by its frequent overturnings while plunging among the stumps, and needing to be set right side up-at every few rods. "Boys !" said the enraged farmer one day, "take that harrow over to the blacksmith, and tell him to make all the teeth twice their present length, and sharp at both ends, and we'll see what that'll do !"

The thing was done, the teeth now pointed both ways, like those of a revolving rake "Gee up, Bill; now go along; father, it has upset again, as bad as before. But. "Never mind, boy; go right ahead, it will work well either side up."

And sure enough it did work, and the field was harrowed in spite of the stumps. -See, now what comes from a little thinking. We might have selected a more dignified example of the use of head-work, but this homely story will answer our purpose.

In the matter of rotation of crops, there is need of forethought and management Some farmers neglect to manure largely, because of its expensiveness; they would like to underdrain more extensively, and to subsoil plow their lands, if these things did not cost more time, labor and money than they think they can spare. But it costs no more to follow a good system of rotation of crops There's no use in coaxing. I never can than it does to carry on a farm without any break my rule,' replied the imperturable lit- such plan. Yet such a system may bring the farmer three-fold greater and better crops .-Nor in devising such a plan, has he got to depend entirely on his own experience or sagacity. Books and agricultural journals are at hand, containing the result of other 'I take nothing for security but cash,' re- men's experience, and all he has to do is to adapt such information to the wants of his own case. A very little head-work of this sort would pay well. It would pay in clean cultivation. Chess, red-root, quack-grass, Canada thistles, butter cups-daisies, and what not, would hide their heads; and grubs, ain't willin' to take my word, nor the word wire-worms, and all manner of insects would rapidly diminish, if not wholly disappear. It would pay in the increased and prolonged fertility of the land, and in more bountiful

MIND YOUR OWN BUSINESS.

Yes, if you would succeed in the world mind your own business; let other people's business alone; attend to your business strictly; be prompt in business, and do your business in a business like manner. The chamber was filled with wonder ing and awe stricken friends. At length he turned to his mother, with a face beaming with rapturous delight, and stretching out his little arms to her for one last embrace, he cried:

"Good bye, mother, I am going; but don't you be afraid—the strong man has come to carry me over the mountains." These were his parting words; upon his mother's breast he breathed his last, and they laid the little fair baby down again upon the pillow, and closed the lids over the beautiful blue eyes, over which the mists of death had gathered heavily, and bowing by the bedside, prayed with submissive though bleeding hearts, and said: "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath ta-ken away; blessed be the name of the

A vigorous effort has recently been made to reform the life boats adopted by the government for the supply of the set of life sav-ing stations on the Atlantic coast. These boats certain to capsize, and lose the lives of those who trusted to them in extreme emergency. The recent loss of the Ilungarian has elicited the following testimony to the necessity of a new boat, and to the merit of Holmes' life boats, from Captain Randall.

A JUST LAW.

The Legislature of New York are consid ering a law regulating the payment of notes falling due upon holidays. The proposed law provides, that any note becoming due upon a day which the officers of the Bank are keeping as a holiday, may be paid upon the day after the holiday, instead of the customary practice of the day before. This is perfeetly right. If the doors of the Bank are closed upon the day on which payment was to be made, for the purpose of allowing the officers rest and recreation, the creditor, to whom the bank has, by voluntary contract, agreed to accept that day as a day of payment, should not be the loser. A promissory note is a simple voluntary contract be-tween two parties by which an agreement is seers of Poor, William C. Lambert, John M. Eltween two parties, by which an agreement is entered into, that the debtor shall be allowed a certain number of days to pay his indebtedness, under a penalty of protest with costs. This contract also further agrees or implies, that the note shall be paid at the counter of the bank. If the debtor does not appear by that time, he is subjected to the penalty, and we have yet to learn of the bank that would remit it because he and his family wished to observe that day as a day of recreation. He has, moreover, paid for the use of it until that time, and is therefore as much entitled to its use for the last, as any previous twentyfour hours. If the bank choose to allow their doors to be closed against him upon that day; for the purpose of affording recreation to its officers, as it was their act that prevenB. Mulford, Henry Powell; Township Committee, ted the payment, and not that of the debtor, by every principle of justice and equity, they, and not the debtor, ought to bear the loss thus occasioned by their own act, quite as justly as the debtor should when he neglects the payment at the appointed time. The right of individuals should be guarded, as well as that of corporations.

We learn that Rev. J. M. Challis, Pastor of the Roadstown Baptist Church, is expected to preach his farewell sermon on the fourth Sunday in this month. He has labored faithfully and successfully for that Church during the past eight years, and leaves with the design of retiring from the active duties of the Pastoral office. The following resolution, adopted by the Church, as expressive of their appreciation of his servi ces, has been sent us by the Clerk:

Canal Company, and a member of the Joint Board of Directors, and one of their Executive Committee, and especially because I feel assured that I am fully sequented with all the transacad with inviolable fidelity in fulfilling all their obligations to the State and others; it seems proper that such notice should come from me. Before proceeding further, however, in the consideration of this very unexpected hostile attack, it may be useful to pass in rapid review a portion of the history of the Joint Companies—the oppo-sition they have encountered, and the compromises to which, from patriotic and conservative motives, they have deemed proper to accede.— Facts misrepresented, falsehood and slander often repeated and not contradicted, in time come be received by the public as truth; and history, and principle, and common justice, are hence liable to monstrous perversions.

In the year 1880, a charter was granted for the construction of the Delaware and Raritan Canal, and of the Camden and Amboy Railroad. Returning to the State some time after the charters were passed, I learned that the stock of the Railroad Company had been subscribed, but that of 15,000 shares of the Canal stock, only about 1,100 had been taken. The books had been closed—the hope of digging the canal abandoned there was no difficulty about the railroadprotection against all competition provided by its | privilege of carrying passengers between New charter. My private fortune was at this time York and Philadelphia shall cease after the 1st safely invested, yielding me an ample income; I of January, 1860, but until that time it shall rewas absorbed in my profession, and desired no other business.

I was importuned for aid. I was assured that if the canal failed now, it was lost forever; and, deeming the canal of infinite importance to the State and the nation, I subscribed the balance o the stock necessary to preserve the charter, amounting to over $100,000. From that time to the meeting of the next Legislature, 1831, every effort was made to enlist capitalists in New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, and elsewhere, in the enterprise, but in vain. Aid was solicited from the General Government, and refused. These facts were laid before the Legislature and they were asked to invest the Company with the power to construct a railroad in connection with, and on the bank of the canal, as the means of inducing the subscription of the balance of the stock. This the Legislature refused. There was a protection contained in the chaater of the Railroad Company. But they passed an act, in 1831, which, while it required the proposed dinensions of the canal to be increased from 50 to 5 feet in width, at an additional expense of more han a million of dollars, held out the prospect of a railroad grant, if the company would first complete the canal. The introduction of this act alarmed the stockholders of the Railroad Company. The two companies came in conflict. The case stood thus:

The Canal Company could not go on without callroad privileges. The Railroad Company would not proceed with their work if another rallroad was to be authorized to compete with them.— Both enterprises were in jeopardy, when the 1831, consolidating the stock of the two companies, and thus securing the success of both. The stock of both companies was now subscribed .-But it was soon perceived that the increase in the size of the causi stipulated by the late act, and other unforeseen contingencies, would render a loan of more than two millions beyond the whole capital stock subscribed, necessary to complete the two works. The faith of capitalists was shaken by this announcement. It was found that something more definite in the way of protection was necessary to restore it. The companies came to the Legislature again, and to meet the exigency—to hold out a superior inducement to monexigency—to note out a supersul inducement to mon-eyed men to loan the funds necessary to complete the works; and in consideration of the transfer of 1000 shares of the joint stock to the State. and the guarantce of at least $30,000 a year transit duties and the dividends on their shares -the act of March, 1832, was passed, completing the contract as it now stands between the State and the Companies. .

The original acts of incorporation of the Joint Companies and the acts of the Legislature supplemental thereto, together constitute the subsisting contract between them and the people of demagogues, nor the cupidity of speculators have been able heretofore, or are likely to here-after, to disturb. The Legislature of the State within that period, at various times, have solemnv re-affirmed by numerous acts and resolutions, the validity of their contract with the Joint Companies. Some of these I will here cite: 1. In 1835, the Legislature passed this resolution, with only two dissenting voices in the "Resolved, by the Council and General Assem bly of the State of New Jersey, that the passage of any act by this Legislature, authorizing or recognizing any other railroad or roads, which shall be intended or used for the transportation of pus- satisfaction, has subsisted for several years, and

In doing this they relieved the State from an alternative which would have pro-wed exceedingly embarassing.

By the charter of the Camden and Amboy Railroad Company, the State was under obligation to decide whether she would take the railroad at its appraised value. Failing to take it the charter would become perpetual. But it was indubitable that the State was altogether averse to exercise this reserved authority to become the absolute and sole proprietor of the rallroad. Under these circumstances it was thought that the surrender of the exclusive privilege might be advantageously exchanged for a postponem of the exercise of a right to take the railroad at its appraised value. Accordingly the act entitled "Further supplement to the act entitled An act relative to the Delaware and Raritan Canal and the Camden and Amboy Railroad and Transportation Companies," was passed March 16. 1854. This act provides that the exclusive main in full force and effect. It likewise postpenes the time for the State's purchasing the railroad to the period now fixed by law for the purchasing the canal and feeder. This act likewise restrains the companies from charging more than 21 cents per mile for passengers except in the mail and express lines, which are restricted to half the number of lines, which may be run daily between New York and Philadelphia. This surrender of the exclusive privilege and eduction of fares was a voluntary sacrifice, reduction of tares was a voluntary sacrifice, without any adequate compensation whatever.—

The postponement of the right of the State to purchase the road was no equivalent therefor, because, as we have stated, there was no one who for a moment believed that the State was prepared to exercise that right. She had more than once refused the offer of the Compensation than once refused the offer of the Companies, when they formally proposed that the State should take their works.

This succinct review of the history of State legislation respecting the public works constructed by the joint Companies, justifies two inferenshows the firm and unswerving obedience on th part of the State of her plighted faith, and it also shows the fidelity of the joint Companies to the interest and welfare of the State, and the diberal and magnanimous manuer in which they have responded to the wishes of the pub

And in looking over the vast field throughout the United State now travelled by railroads and canals, we may proudly ask where in any State will you find any achievements in the way of inompromise was finally effected by the act of ternal improvements which have conferred equal benefits on the people of States in which they are found, at less cost? Where will you find a State the public works of which they have made a source of revenue sufficient to defray the whole annual expenses of the State Government? Where is there a State in which, besides defraying the expenses of the State government, th evenue of her public works have contributed to construct its capitol, its asylums, and its prisons? Could human wisdom devise a schem more beneficial?

Yet this system, thus boneficient, which, for more than a quarter of a century has been a source of wealth, prosperity, and honor to New Jersey; which has more than doubled her popu-lation in that period of time, made cities of her villages, and multiplied her villages, from the sands of the ocean beach, to the mountain tops; which no one has threatened in a hostile manne since 1854—this system, thus sanctioned by time, and approved by the blessings it has conpassion of one man, who should be the last to

It is true that Mr. Stevens is a large stockholder n the Joint Companies, and is the President of 4. By an act of the same date, allowing the the Camden and Amboy railroad company, but he has not availed himself of his position to endeavor to make them parties to the disputes of present controversy with the New Jorsey Railroad Company, may be true, but this is entirely ments to which they are now entitled, under an a matter of personal attachment. If there was act entitled an Act to incorporate the Delaware no Joint Companies, those friends of Mr. Stevens such a case. Of all these facts Mr. Jackson Mr. Stevens for an alleged grievance [for which knew the Joint Companies were not responsilo] assails them involving all their innocent tockholders in his cruel malevolent designs.-But it is only a shallow pretence for that ag-gression which he has long meditated, that he now falsely accuses the Joint Companies of having been marties to the application of the Hobo-ken Land Improvement Co.

We have learned through various sources, that M. Jackson, on behalf of the N. J. R. R., has Jackson, on behalf of the N. J. R. R., has been planning schemes for the evasion or violation of the exclusive privileges of the Joint Companies. We now look to his actions and not his rofessions, as the key to his designs. rofessions, as the key to his designs.

Before the recent election, we were apprize that Mr. Jackson contemplated a bold me fore the present Legislature, in hostility to the Joint Companies. His slanders and denunciations were traced. Hence his indefatigable poitical efforts previous to the election. He confidently expected, in the full tide of political ex-ient, to secure a Legislature favorable to his designs. With this expectation, he had enlisted the language of the Press subject to their control, threatening the most hostile intentions respecting the rights and immunities of the Joint Companies,—seem to require some notice; and having been perhaps as instrumental as any individual in the establishment of the policy of New Jersey in regard to her internal improvements, and being President of the Delaware and Raritan.

State could pay for them, and realize in fifteen district railroad projects, connecting the N. J.

Railroad with the Delaware, both in palpable conflict with the exclusive rights of the Joint Companies, and destructive to the revenue of the States. This quarrel with Mr. Stevens, and have invariably found that State works could not be as economically managed by the seems to have been got up for the sole and only purpose of excusing or furnishing some sort of friends of certain local routes to present their retence for his bold and audacious attempt to riolais the rights of the Joint Companies extort better terms from them by obtaining charter for a railroad designed to compete i business with them, and carrying passengers be-tween New York and Philadelphia, thereby destroying the revenue of the State, under the pretence that the joint Companies were the ag-gressors. He supposed that the morality of his contemplated crusade against them might have some shadow of S ground for its defence. In relation to the agreement originally made by the owners of the Hoboken Ferry and the New Jersey Bailroad company, Mr. Jackson says it was made by the New Jersey company for the purpose of obtaining better terms in their contract with the joint Companies; that it was a "nefarious contract." "Nefarious," or not, I apprehend that Mr. Jackson and the stock-holders of the New Jersey Railroad company will regret that they recklessly disturbed it.— Nefarious indeed! By who was that "REFARIous" contract made and approved and adhered to for so many years, when it could have been terminated by either party on three months no-tice? By the whole Board of Directors of the New Jersey Railroad and Transportation Com-pany on the one part, and the Messrs Stevens on the other part, both parties being gentlemen whose probity and intelligence had never been attacked until Mr. Jackson became their calumniator, who seems determined to trample on friend and foe, the living and the dead, in his ambitious and destructive warfare. One word more in relation to this agreement. The case stands thus: In 1831, when the New Jersey Railroad was chartered, the Hoboken fer ries had, as I believe, the majority of the business between Newark and New York. The Mesers. Stevens, who were its proprietors, foresaw that the construction of the New Jersey Railroad to Jersey City would seriously injure the Hoboken ferry. They therefore insisted that the right should be reserved to them, in the New Jersey Railroad charter, of building a branch road from Hoboken to connect with the main road, in case the New Jersey company should not build it themselves.

The Railroad Company, in 1843, having be-come interested in the Jersey City Forry, desired to avoid the building of this branch; and agreed to compensate the owners of the Hoboken ferry jor the loss of business which the want of the branch would cause them, by paying an annual amount. The Messrs. Stevens agreed to a temporary arrangement of this kind, with a right reserved to each party, as I understand, to discontinue it on three months' notice. This is the contract which Mr. Jackson calls "nerancous" Now, why nefarious? Was it not a perfectly fair contract? and was it not made on a perfect ly valid and equitable consideration? The Jersey City ferry got all the business and the Hoboken ferry lost it. And the whole contract consists in the owners of the Hoboken ferry agreeing, temporarily, to waive their right to a portion of this business for a consideration that he New Jersey Company were willing to pay. How can the men who have sustained this con tract for sixteen years, say now that this was a

The Joint Companies, however, had nothing to do with it in any shape or form. I knew that such a contract was being made between the Messrs. Stevens, as proprietors of the Hoboken Co. and N. J. R. R. Co.; but I deny that the Messrs. Stevens, as Directors in the Joint Companies, used or attempted to use any influence to induce the Joint Companies to make the contract with the N. J. R. R. Co. The directors of the Joint Companies fully understood the interests of their stockholers, and it is generally believed that they have faithfully observed their duties to their stockholders in all contracts made. Suffice it to say-we were satisfied with the contract as then made. Nevertheless. I always considered it a good contract for the N. J. R. R. Co., and advised Gen. Darcy and Mr.

lackson to adhere to it. With regard to the agreement between the Joint Companies and the New Jersey Railroad Company, to which Mr. Jackson has called attention, by his remark that the Joint Companies had the "lion's share" of the profits, I have to ferred, is now, by the reckless and vindictive say that if we had the lion's share of receipts we also had the lion's share of expenses. The assail it, menaced with an unprovoked and mali- principle upon which that agreement was based cious infraction of its immunities and rights.

Immediately after the commencement of the difficulties between Mr. E A. Stevens and the New Jersey Railwood Commencement of the longht to be remembered that in dividing the reing the enlarged canal, and the little profit to road Co. sought to participate in the advantages of the exclusive privileges, it was but fair that their cost should be considered in the division of the proceeds of their business done in common .the new Jersey Railroad Company, by which the must be ascribed to their participation in the business of both is accommodated, to their mu advantages of the exclusive privileges.

In short, the two agreements referred to were conceived in honor and good sense, looking to the public welfare and best interests of all th parties concerned, the conclusive proof of which is to be seen in the unwonted success of both companies up to the time when the New Jersey Railroad company thought proper to hazard the prosperity of their company by a course tending

NEW DRESS! APPROACH OF SPRING!! NEW DRESS! APPROACH OF SPRING!!

The approach of Spring is hailed with joy by everybody.

Even nature is anxious to change her dormant state as quick as possible, and already the fields begin to wear, their green aspects, in order to remind us to chanfie our labits. To save time, is to save money; we therefore will say in a few well-meant words, for a decent suit of SPRING.
CLOTHING, go to Jacob Tuck's Union Ctothing Store.—

He receives new goods every week: his prices are as iow as any in the city, and no one need go in a shabby suit while there is an opportunity offered to buy a whole suit, made of fashionable materials, at a very low figure. Call at the store opposite the Post Office for coats, pants, vests, and Hats; there you are to get suited in quality, style and price.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS. Take only the Genuine!

Everything which is really valuable and which costs the inventor time, money and research, is subject to be basely counterfeited. This is emphatically the case with wilstar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, the invaluable quantities and well carned reputation of which as a certain, safe, speedy and never failing remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Bronchitis, Whooping Congh, Croup, Quinesy, Asthma, Influenza, Inflamation of the Throat, Lungs and Cheer as well as that directions are Consultative. r, Ashma, influenza, inflamation of the Throat, Lungs ald Chest, as well as that dire disease, CONSUMPTION, ave induced unprincipled speculators in the lives and ealth of the community to palm upon the unwary and iserable, worthless and deleterious imitation of the true and only Genuine Balsam: thus not only inflicting a lasting injury upon the sick; but rendering themselves according to the late decisions of the Courts, liable to riminal prosecution, which, in pro-nenced against them.

The recipe for the preparation of the Genuine Balsam has been in possession of the present proprietors for nearly twenty years, and with those who have used it needs no encomiums.
Such letters as the following, from a merchant, are "Milrord, Delaware, Oct. 26, 1859.

S. W. Fowle & Co., Boston—Please send me a supply of Wistar's Balsam, as I am nearly out and there is a great demand for it; it is doing wonders: it cures Asthmatography, Whooping Cough and Consumption, without fail. There has never been any of the gonuine here until you sent me that last lot sometime since, but plenive of the counterfait. y of the counterfeit. Yours, truly, JACOB Y. FOULK."

Remember, therefore, all who scok health, that the only genuine has the written signature of "I. BUT'IS." as well as the printed name of the Proprietors, SETH W. FOWLE & CO., Boston, on the citisde wrapper.—Take no other; it were money wasted and health jeopardised.

THE BACHELOR'S DREAM.

BY THE BARD OF TOWER HALL, In his chamber a bachelor sat, and he read to his Bible, with pleasure and pride, How the Lord in his goodness, made Adam a wife Of a rib which he took from his side. And he said to himself, "I am sad and forlorn,
From the world I am living apart:
Would that one of my ribs could be changed to a wife,
And the one that is nearost my heart." With this thought in his mind, to his pillow he went, And while calmly he lay on his bed. He beheld a fair angel, whose hands in their clasp Held a knife and a saw o'er his head; And the angel remarked, in no angelic tones, While she brandished the saw and the knife, "I shall cut a rib from your side, sir, to-night, And of it I shall make you a wife." So without saying more, on her purpose intent, She proceeded, at once, with her work; And, when cutting and sawing were skilfally done, Then she snawhed out the rib with a jerk.

Then she shatched out the rib with a jerk. On the angel the bachelor gazed with delight, For the rib which she held in her hand Had been suddenly changed to a lady in white, Who.remarked, "I am yours to command." "I am one of your ribs! of yourself I'm a part! I shall love you and bless you for life! You will ever remember with pleasure the night When you bartered a rib for a wife."

With his wife in his game, with his life the band When you bartered a rit for a wite."
With his wife in his arms: with his lips to her cheek,
He awoke, and his dreaming was o'er—
He'd been hugging and kissing the bedpost, alas!
And had slipped from its waist to the floor.
When he rose to his feet he looked wildly around,
At the bed and the cerners did stare:
Then he felt of his side, and he counted his ribs,
And the whole proper number was there. And the whole proper number was ther

But a deep scated pain had got hold of his heart, Which he felt he could never endure, And he thought that the widow right over the way, He could bind to his heart as a circ. For the dawn he but waited, then over he went To the widow, who jokragly said: What on Earth made you think to get up with the Sur What could put such a thing in your head?" "It is not," he replied, "anything in my head, But 'tis something I bave in my heatt: And he questioned the widow. "Oh! wilt thou be mine! And her lips with a "yes" came apart.

Then he told her his dream, and the widow remarked I am sorry you met with a fall. But no matter, my love, you are now wide awake, And must go to the famed Tower Hall. And there purchase a suit to be married in, dear; It is very important. I deem.

That the knot should be tied ere the set of the sun,
Or your love may all end in a dream." So he purchased the stilt, and, genteelly arrayed, To the altar the widow he led: And a dear blessed bath, now sheeps in a crib Every night by the side of his bed:

And that sweet little cherub, the charming effect Of a bachelor's dream, as a cause.
Keeps the spirits away who for bachelors hunt,
With their surgical knives and their saws.

FARMERS, ATTENTION.

Pure Ground Bones, $30 per Ton. In recommending our PULVERIZED BONES to Farmers and others, we do so confidently; having the most undoubted evidence of its success as a quick and permanent Fertilizer. It is considered, by all, who have used it, the "cheapest and most reliable" article in the market.

ANIMAL MANURE $15 PER TON. We consider it unnecessary to say much in relation to this article, the price and quality having established for it a reputation to which we cannot add. Nothing, per-haps, has were created such an excitement among the Practical Farmers, than the introduction of our ANIMAL MANUIE.

SUPER-PHOSPHATE OF LIME, $40 per Ton.

As a ready and efficient Manure, it cannot be surpassed.

TO FARMERS AND GARDENERS. The subscribers offer for sale 60,000 Barrels of POU-DRETTE, made by the Lodi Manufacturing Company, in Lots to suit Purchasers. This article is in the twen-tieth year of its introduction into this country, and has outlived fertilizers of every other description, for the following reasons:

1st. It is made from the night soil of the City of New York, by the L. M. Co, who have a capital of $100,000 invested in the business, which is at risk should they make York, by the L. M. Co., who have a capture vested in the business, which is at risk should they make a bad article.

2d. For Corn and Vegetables it is the cheapest, neatest and handlest manure in the world; it can be placed in direct contact with the seed, forces and ripens vegetation two weeks earlier, prevents the cut worin, doubles the crop, and is without disagreeable odor. Three dollars worth or two barrels is all sufficient to manure an acre of corn in the hill.

Price—1 bbl. $2,—2bbls. $3.50,—5 bbls. $3, and over 6 bbls. $1 50 per barrel, delivered free of cartage, to vessels or railcoad in New York City.

A pamphlet containing every information, and certificates from farmers all over the United States, who have used it from two to seventeen years, will be sent free to any one applying for the same.

PHILADELPHIA. Cash price $45 per 2,000 lbs. (2½ cts. per lb.)
In the preparation of this Valuable Manure. BONES ARE USED IN THEIR RAW STATE ONLY. They have never been some of catanes. They are taken as nature has made them, crushed with powerful Machinery, and subjected to a process, by which all the virtue of the bone is retained, a fertilizer is precured, furnishing in a concentrated and soluble form the two indispensable ingredients for the growth of Plants and enriching the soil, viz: phosphoric acid and ammonia. These two ingredients, by the use of "BAUGHTS RAW BONE SUPER-PHOSPHATE," are given to the soil in all their original strength and purity. They assimilate at once with the soil, turnish all the needful Ammonia for the growing crop, giving it ample luxuriance; and leave the land permanently benefitted so that its presence can be traced for years interwards.

The Salamander Safes of Philadelphia against the World.

Evans & Watson

Have had the surest demonstration in the following cortificate. that their manufacture of Salamander Safes has at length fully warranted the representations which have been made of them as rendering an undoubted security against the terrific element.

Messrs. Evans & Warson,—Gentlemen.—It affords us the highest satisfaction to state to you, that owing to the very protective qualities of two of the Salamander Safes which we purchased of you some few months since, we saved a large perion of our jewelry, and all our books, papers, &c., exposed to the calamitions fire in Ranstead Place, on the morning of the 11th instant.

When we reflect that these Safes were located in the fourth story of the building we occupied, and that they fell subsequently into a heap of burning ruins where the vast concentration of heat caused the brass plates to melt, we cannot but regard the preservation of their valuable contents as most convincing proof of the great security afforded by your Safes.

We shall take much pleasure in recommending them to men of business as a sure reliance against fire.
