Choice Poetru. VOICES OF THE SEA.

BY MRS. SABAH S. SOCWELL. Ah! thou hast many a changing tone,

Thou restless, meaning sea,
'Tis the murmur of the myriad throng
Which hath sunk to rest in thee. Sometimes thy voice steals to the heart,

Like a lover's wooing tone,
As if, from the bowers in thy crystal depths. Whispered some loving one. And then, like a shattered harp string's note,

Swells out a mournful wail, As if the wee of a broken heart Were borne on the passing gale. Sometimes there comes a piereing shrick, Ringing along the air, Like the voice of one who hath looked on death. In horror and despair.

And then, at times, thou hast the tone Of a happy child at play, Borne from fairy coral groves, Where bright haired children lay. But when the wind awakes in might,

Thy voice is strong and clear As the solemn swell of an anthem high, And we pause entranced to hear I catch the deep, triumphal tone,

In thy resounding roar, Of those who rest beneath thy waves, Who will walk the earth no more.

HUMOROUS.

DECIDING A CASE.

A farmer called at the house of a lawyer to consult him professionally.
"Is the squeer at home?" he inquired of the lawyer's wife. He was answered negatively. After a moment's hesitation a thought re-

" Mebby yerself can gi me information as well as the squeer, as ye're his wife?"

The kind lady promised to do so if she found it in her power, and the other procoeded as follows:

"Spoaze you were an old white mear, an' back up, and rear up, and pitch, and

The lady smilingly told him, as she closed the door, that as he had himself decided the case, advice would be superfluous.

A GOOD ONE.

There is a rich story told of a good minister at Montague-Rev. Mr Mondy-who has been most liberally furnished by nature with that very necessary appendage to a man's face - his nose. It is said, that while at a public dinner on a certain occasion, a gentleman who sat opposite to Mr. M., thinking to get off a good joke at his expense, remarked in a loud tone:

Mr. Moody, there is a fly on the end of

This threw the company into a roar, for the tone of the voice, conveyed the impreshis nose, unless some kind friend informed him of the fact. But Mr. Moody completely turned the tables, by remarking in his cool, dry way:
"Well, Mr. _____, your are nearer the fly than I am-won't you brush it off?" The laught that went round the table at his sally of wit was perfectly uproarious

Destruction of Birds Forbidden.

The destruction of all birds, except game to cat, has been recently prohibited in many of the small German States on the Rhine and in parts of Germany. The motives

Wherever the farmers have killed the rooks, jays, and even sparrows, the crops have been less than where they have been unmolested. Very able naturalists have examined this, and have reported that the vast quantity of noxious vermin which the birds destroy greatly exceeds the small quantity of grain they destroy in searching for the insects on which they feed. Investigation in this country has developed the same fact. The destruction of the birds gives hosts of insects a chance for life, and these feed upon the crops and cause a far more general destruction of fruits, vegetables and cereals than is destroyed by the birds themselves. Now, as the spring approaches, and with it the time of the singing of birds, measures should be taken to protect these warblers

ADVERTISING FOR A WIFE.

Some months since, a wholesale hide and eather dealer advertised for a wife possessing all the necessary accomplishments and rnces-lucre he cared nothing about. Hide and leather was therefore perfectly overwhelmed with letters, and in less than a week had received one hundred answers to his advertisement. He immediately opened a correspondence with fifty accomplished fcmales residing in the New England States, them in turn. He gives the damsel due no tice of his intention, makes her an evening call, takes her out to ride the next morning imparts the gratifying information that she in earnest, and the one of the fifty that strikes his fancy, shall be Mrs. Hide and Leather.

And to whom are the frequency and the crimes of war to be principally attributed? Instruction of Young Persons.—Give them clear views of the broad discrimination between practicel religion and wordly morality; in short, between the virtues of Christians and of Pagans. Show them that no ple, who are yet destitute of true christianity, inculcate and practice resemble those virtues which have the love of God for their motive, just as counterfeit coin resembles sterling gold; they may have, it is true, certain points of resemblance with the others; they may be bright and shining; they have perhaps the image and the superscription, brought to the touch stone, they will be found full of alloy; when weighed in the balance of the sanctuary, 'they will be found wanting'; separate the precious from the vile; they will not abide the day of his coming, who is like SUPERFLUITIES AND VAIN RECREATIONS. -Faithful is that most Holy One, who hath determined, that every man and woman, shall reap what they sow. And will not trouble, anguish, and disappointment be a sad and dreadful harvest for you to reap, for all your mis-spent time and substance about superfluities and vain recreations? Retire then; quench not the Holy Spirit in yourselves; redeem your precious, abused time; frequent such conversation as may help you against your evil inclinations; so shall you follow the examples, and keep the precepts of Jesus Christ, and all his followers. For hitherto we have plainly demonstrated, that no such way of living, as is in request among you of the land, ever was, or can be truly christian. William Penn.

UNACCOUNTABLE PROPENSITY .- It is, is deed, the most unaccountable propensity of the human mind, that amidst constant admonitions of the uncertainty of life, we should go on with such perfect disregard of the concerns of that which is to come; we are not only admonished what we ought to do, but with what spirit we ough: to do it; yet how soon does the business of the world, from acting directly upon the senses, gain the ascendancy in our thoughts, and, a thousand busy meddling considerations of interest or ambition, draw us insensibly away from the good resolutions formed perhaps at times of sorrow or of sickness, a time when the world had no attractions for us, and all earthly things appeared but 'vanity and vexation of spirit;' indeed, the very consciousness of such neglect would sink the mind into utter despondency, were it not supported by the ardor of fresh resolutions, and an humble hope, that the cup of mercy was not yet exhausted.— Underhill.

WHAT IS LOST BY FASHIONS AND WORLD-LIMINDEDNESS.—They lose the invaluable hours of youth and life, so rapidly escaping from their hold to be no more reclaimed. They lose the pleasures of mental improvement, and rational and useful avocations. They lose caste, as sensible, agreeable men and women—for when the habits and purthing hot for supper, if I have to cook it suits are trifling, the mind will grow trifling myself. If there's any one thing that tries too; and the conversation will not be above the level of the mind. Above all, they lose the "Well done, good and faithful servant," which is the rich reward of all who have rightly used the talents committed to their care. - The Listener.

> EARLY EDUCATION .- Thelwall thought it ery unfair to influence a child's mind by inculcating any opinions before it should have come to years of discretion, and be able to choose for itself. I showed him my garden, and told him it was my botanical garden.
> "How so," said he, "it is covered with weeds?''

> "Oh," I replied, "that is only because it has not yet come to its age of discretion and choice. The weeds, you see, have taken the liberty to grow, and I thought it unfair in me to prejudice the soil towards roses and strawberries." — Coleridge.

THE DANGER OF SELF-COMPLACENCY. The more outwardly wicked a man is, the more easy it is to convince him of his need of a Savior, although he may at the same time be quite unwilling to abandon his wickedness. And in proportion as a character appears faultless, is the difficulty of assenting to the humbling doctrines of the cross. Gross offences against morality are too obvious to leave any doubt of guilt. But the inward corruption of the heart, as beheld by an omniscient God, and the defectability of motive accompanying actions, the mostpraiseworthy in the estimation of men, are teacher of religion .- Dymond's Inquiry on not so easily recognized. The self-complacency and pride natural to us easily persuades us that we are actually as faultless as our friends and neighbors give us credit for being: and thus, unconscious of the "plague of our own heart," we are unable to appreciate, and have no disposition to seek the aid of the great Physician of souls. - Dr. Gordon.

> THE PRINCIPLE OF THE GOSPEL.-If any nation had in the beginning adopted the principles of the gospel, the principles which are the opposite of selfishness, which bless them that persecute us, and which do good without asking for reward, its principles would have conquered the destructive tendencies of time, and, triumphing over death and decay, would not have failed to establish an immortality of beauty. Of this it is difficult for me to doubt.—Thomas C. Up-

We learn from a reliable source, that Rev. Dr. Farr has resigned his pastoral charge of the Baptist Church at Cedarville, his medical practice having become so extensive as to render it impossible to devote sufficient time to the former effice. On Sabbath evening next, his farewell sermon to the young will be preached.

We understand that Wm. Souder has discontinued running the early line of stages between this place and Philadelphia. The Bridgeton and Philadelphia Mail line is now owned by L. H. Dowdney, and the Philadelphia, Bridgeton, and Cedarville line is owned by Jeremiah Hann. This is certainly a better arrangement than having so many stages on the route, when none of them are very profitable to the owners, but great accommodation to the traveling public. We hope they may be well patronized.

On Saturday morning last, we noticed some very handsome Durham cattle just brought to this place. They were purchased at the sale of James Gowen, Esq., at his farm at Mount Airy, Philadelphia Co. on Wednesday of last week. A young bull and two heifers were purchased by Mr. B. F. Elmer. Mr. Jonathan Elmer purchased a magnificent cow, and Mr. Harris Ogden, of Fairfield purchased a cow and a heifer. all of which were full blood, short-horn Durham, and will, in time, add very materially to the wealth of the county. Several of the members of the Bowentown Farmers' Club and others have lately imported superior breed of cattle in this county, for which they deserve much credit.

A few days since we were very agreeably surprised, on opening a neat little box. which came by mail, to find in it a large and magnificent Silver Medal, a fac-simile of the ones presented to the Japanese, by the firm of Baily & Co of Philadelphia. Could it be possible that a "poor printer," who nevcr did anything to merit such a handsome gift from that source, but simply said in the Pioneer of last week "that through the politeness of one of the members of the firm of Baily & Co., we were permitted to witness the presentation of medals from that firm to the Japanese," should be so highly honored? Our name being distinctly written on the package, the compliments of Messrs. B. Co accompanying it, we could no longer doubt The extensive firm from whom this handsome token came, have our heart-felt thanks for this token of friendship and generosity on their part, and the greatest harm we wish them is, that all our friends and readers who visit Philadelphia, may give them a call and purchase extensively at their magnificent establishment, 819 Chestnut St.

The Fountain Hotel.

We have lately had the pleasure of visiting this well conducted public house, and hesitate not in pronouncing it one of the very best in the city. It is conveniently located, charges quite reasonable, and everything connected with it done up in the most approved manner. The proprietor, Mr Wm. C. Fountain, is highly qualified for his position; his gentlemanly assistant and others in his employ, are very obliging and attentive to their guests, and we can assure all who visit there, that they will find it a pleasant and desirable place to put up at during their Accustomed to exclusiveness from ship, as he calls it, of Seward, Weed & Greeley. It is needless at this day, to for one moment entertain a doubt as to the great abilities of Horrace Greeley; and no class of persons, in our own experience, have been more ready to admit his superior mind, than his most bitter political opponents. It requires more than ordinary ability to increase the circulation of a purely news and political paper from a few thousands to a circulation in the aggregate of near 800,erfully impressed with the evidences of 000; the largest by far of any newspaper published in the world. But to the reflections in regard to the letter. We all have seen, and some have felt the influence of the press, either and roughness so generally manifested .- enthusiastic endeavors, cleansed of his imperfections, and by its mighty power washed nureand thus, a character, really black with the foulest stains of ignominy and vice, made to appear as temperate and noble as the most moral could desire, now so long as the press lends its aid to advance the fortunes of such men, we consider it but a just retribution, that its editors should be spurned by the demagogues, whom they have raised to power.

But when on editor adopts as his patron such man as Gov. Seward,—a man having few peers, if any, in the United States' Senate; and after devoting years to his cause of the most incessant, unremitting labor, is in the hour of need, dependent upon the smile of the hero of the husband and father-entirely overlooked, and are constrained to consider it as most ungrateful and unkind.

The editor is the real author of the mighty politicians and statesmen, who are dazzling the world with their brilliant reputations. He toils; tics; he collects facts; he draws inferences; he establishes doctrines; advances theories, and he it is who, more than any other man, makes public opinion, and thereby shapes the destinies of na tions. The arguments by which he upholds his doctrines are eagerly sought by the statesman, and form the basis of many an everpowering oratorical and logical demonstration. He is the ladder by which they mount to the high places, and too frequently he is the first to be discarded, when once he has served their purpose. Horace Greely has been, and is, a great living erally are. Facts Speak Louder than Words.-To suc-Facts Speak Leguler than Words.—To succeed in life, attend well to your own business. The new system adopted by Granvills Stokes, of giving to every purchaser of a garment, the full value of his money in elegantly fase inable Ciothing, and a handsome, valuable and useful present besides, is having its effect on the public mind. "One price and no abatemen" is printed and marked on each article soid, and strictly adhered to; the price being put down to the lowest figure.—The accompanying present, which is always of use, and requently of great value, is never added to the price of the garment sold; on the contrary, each garment is marked as low as the lowest, and warranted equal to the best in all respects—the gift being merely an additional inducement to cash customers to buy, after having satisfied themselves that they can invest their money no better elsewhere. CONSUMPTION. WE cannot speak too highly of this TAR CORDIAL as a cure for Consumption. Many persons, once poor and emaciated can testify that when everything else failed, and they were just ready to step into the grave, a medicated the spring up—they heard of the FOREST PINE TAR CORDIAL, and its wonderful cures; and as the strong man, grappling with the mighty waves, lays hold of every object that offers a shadow of assistance, they took the Tar Cordial, and were restored to perfect health. To the Consumptive, then, we say, take courage; the Forest Pine Tar Cordial has cured as hopeless causes as vours—it may cure you, at least de not despair. nses as yours—it may cure you, at least, de not despai intil you have given it a fair trial.

Read the following:
Te John D. Bailer, Esq.—Dear Sir:—Being a great sufferer for fourteen years, from a confirmed asthma, the bettle you brought me of the Forest Pine Tar Cordial prepared by Manderson's Co. restored me to per esthealth, after being pronounced incurable by four of the leading Doctors of the city. My sincere prayer is to let the world know it.

CAUTION.

The success attending the sale of the Forest Pine Tar Cordial, and the wonderful cures performed by it, have induced others to imitate and make an inflerior article, so as to impose upon the public, and induce the unwary to believe that in purchasing said Medicines, they were getting our celebrated and wonderful Forest Pine Tar Cordial. Therefore, to protect the public against all such sputrious articles, they have had the words "FOR-EST PINE TAR CORDIAL. the Great Cure for Consumption, Bronchitis, &c," and their name, "MANDERS: N & CO.," blown on each of the bottles, which are of darkgreen glass—none genuine without those words on.—Remember, we have no connection with any Ppreparation of Tar butthis. ion of Tar butthis.

BROWNING & BROS.

The enterprising proprietor of CHESNUT GROVE WHISKEY (The Purest Medicinal Agent ever known,) has furnish ed the community a Stimulant, Pure, Healthful and In vigorating, at the same, time a mild delicious beverage it is calculated to do away with the vile drugged stuff that is palmed off on the community, and which is injurious to body and mind. In addition to the certificates beneath, he has received a Diploma from the State Agricultural Society, and additional testimony from DR. JACK-SON, of Boston, who testifies under oath to its absolute purity.

We have carefully tested the sample of Chesnut Grove Whiskey which you sent us, and find, that it contains none of the Poisonous Substance known as Fusil Oil, which is the characteristic and injurious ingredient of the whiskeys in general use.

BOOTH, GARRET & CAMAC, Analytical Chembsts.

New York, Sept. 3d, 1858.

I have analyzed a sample of Chesnut Grove Whiskey. received from Mr. Charles Wharton, Jr.; of Philladelphia, and having carefully tested it, I am pleased to state that it is entirely freefrom poisonous or deleterious substances. It is an unusually pure and fine flavored quality of whiskey.

Analytical Chemist.

JAMES R. CHILTON,
Analytical Chemist.

I have made a chemical analysis of commercial samples of Chesnut Grove Whiskey, which proves to be free from the heavy Fuill Oils, and perfeasily pure and unadditerated. The fine flavor of this Walskey is derived from the Grain used in manufacturing it. Respectfully, CONSUMPTION has destroyed more of the human family than any other disease, and the best physicians for many years have despaired of furnishing a cure, or remedy that would heal the lungs; yet for more than two hundred years the whole medical world has been convinced that there is a mysterious power and efficacy in the Pine Tree Tar to heal the Lungs; therefore, they have recommended the use of tar water, which in many casses had a good effect, but how to combine its medical properties so as to heal the Lungs, has ever been a mystery, until it was discovered by L. Q. C. Wishart, the proprietor of Wishart's Pine Tree Tar Cordial, and has been put in bottles patented by the U. S. Government. We say to the sick it cleanses the blood of its gross impurities, touches every nerve, and restores the whole system to health and vigor. Many have been cured in a short time, that have lingered for years without relief, and could you but stand at the counter of the store, No. £6 South Third Street, for one week, and hear the afflicted tell of the wondrous and healing power of the Pine Tree Tar Cordial, you would be satisfied that it does all that is claimed for it. This Cordial will cure Consumption, Inflammation of the Lungs, Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat and Breast, Brone chitis, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Weak Stomach, Asthman, Gravel, Diseases of the Kidney, Blind and Bleeding Piles, Nervous Dubility, Propsy, Palpitation of the Heart, &c. Sold by the Proprietor.
