NEW JERSEY LAW AND JUSTICE.

New Jersey merits the commendation of every order loving and law-abiding person, for the even-handed justice and wise firmness with which she metes out punishment to her criminals, whatever their stamp may be, or however respectful or influential may be their connections. The recent execution of the wife poisoner, Harden, was an eminent instance of their firmness and wisdom. Every possible influence was brought to bear upon those in authority, to induce them to let the murderer live. But, fortunately, the sword of justice is held in New Jersey by no feeble hand. In her courts the law is not over-ridden by sentimentality, nor is justice there brow-beaten by election bullics, or shoved aside by affluence's gilded hand. Within her borders the laws of the commonwealth are enforced; human life is protected, crime punished and justice vindicated. Whoever therefore, wants to commit a murder, a robbery, a forgery, or any other crime, should shun the soil of New Jersey. Her institutions don't agree with villians; and bust public opinion of her community as people of week lungs are by the robust cli mate of hyperborean regions. It is a great pity that the inhabitants of this city cannot import a liberal supply of New Je ey law and justice along with many other admi-ble fruits of that State on which a

SHADE TREES IN PASTURE. I have read with much surprise, the articles published in the Cultivator and Country Gentleman, advising farmers to destroy the

I know not how well Mr. Dickinson's cattle may be trained, but I do know that my cattle are just mean enough, when turned in a pasture without shade trees, to take advantage of the little shade which the fences afford, and there lie, vainly endeavoring to screen themselves from the sun's ourning rays as long as they otherwise would

It is argued that they make more flesh by cing deprived of the benefit of shade trees, which I very much doubt; but if so, what is the value of a few pounds of beef com pared with the satisfaction of seeing then comfortably enjoying themselves in the shade of a beautiful tree? Animals, as well as men, are killed by sun-stroke, if we take the newspapers for authority.

A PIGGISH ILLUSTRATION.

A country girl whose sisters had married badly, was about to take the noose herself. "How dare you get married," asked a cousin of hers, "after having before you the unfortunate example of your sisters?'
The young girl replied with spirit:

"I choose to make a trial myself. Did you ever see a parcel of pigs running to a trough of hot swill? The first one sticks in his nose, gets it scalded, and then draws back and squeals. The second burns his nose and stands squealing in the same manner. The thirds follows suit, and he squeals

But still it makes no difference with those behind. They never take warning of those before ; but all in turn thrust in their noses, just as if they hadn't got burnt or squealed at all. So it is with girls in regard to matrimony-and now, cousin, I hope you are satisfied."

The hunt was commenced in earnest. The "Chaparal" was entered, an old log was found, less than four feet over, and hollowed out to a shell, and into this something was seen to enter, and the claws were distinctly heard scratching their way along for several feet. The foremost hunter placed his gun in the log, and announced his determination to fire; then began a scene which beggars descriptisn; "don't shoot" "fire" "kill him" "no don't" "chop up the log" "no axe within a mile" "look out he's coming" "be rea dy" "stand firm" "run" "get out" "give him friend Dickinson is wild on this subject.— Jesse" "I see him". All shouting at once; a perfect pardemonium in miniature, when bang goes a fowling piece, loaded with slugs into the darkness of the old gum. This capping of the boisterous climax brought silence into the forest, and the perfect stillness withinsbrought conviction to the minds of all, that that bear's hide would be "seen in Mausicetown."

After the smoke had cleared away, great efforts were made to drag out the carcass, which after great difficulty was accomplished, when, "tell it not in Gath," it measured six feet from wing to wing, and proved to be a

Bears grease is a slippery article, and the hide I have not been able to find in Mauricetown, and I imagine it was only bargained for beforehand, like the one in the fable.-It was a pity to destroy the illusion pertaining to our annual whortleberry bear; he pays us a visit every summer, is much talked of, and recalls reminiscences of by-gone days when our grandfathers were boys, and the war whoop of the red hunter could be re membered by their old men. He is perfeetly harmless, only showing his tracks occasionally to a man, and his bearship now and then to a boy, far along a bushy path or through a swamp, and perhaps keeps many an urchin in the straight road of duty, who would otherwise wander into crooked paths. I was sorry to hear of poor Bruin being so unmercifully slaughtered by three of our most peaceable and inoffensive neighbors, and more than all, that he should have had his noble existence brought to such an ignoble end, by such a vulgar instrument as a Ho-AX.

BY REV. HENRY WARD BEECHER.

When riding on a locomotive last week, and talking with the engineer, as I had the ters; one commencing thus, "Friend Joe, by privilege of doing, I could not but think now much wiser men were about iron and steel machines, that they were about fleshly and osseous machines. The stoker, or fireman, was applying or withholding food, so as to keep the engine in just that state in which it would work best, according to whether we were running on an up-grade, or downgrade, or on level ground, and according to the number and weight of the cars being drawn-for we were drawing a long and

Now how many are there who watch their furnace, to see that they get in neither too much nor to little fuel? Men shovel in food without any regard to what it is going to do! If it is the Sabbath day, when and exercise than on other days, they eat a double portion. If it is a day when they are to undergo severe taxation and work, and when they can least afford to go without food, oftentimes they become anxious, and neglect to eat because they are so anxious. As a general rule, when the body needs the basis of food less than any other time, they cat the most, and when it needs it more than at any other time, they eat the least .steam for carrying on the purpose of, life .-A man should eat as much on principle as

> There is one thing more to be said in this connection. It is not a matter of epicureanism that a man should be dainty concerning the food he eats. On the contrary, I hold that a civilized man ought to be civscenes and forms once familiar, but now covilized in his cookery. I attribute much of ered by oblivion and the grave, seem to rise the unhealth that exists among men to the abominable stuff which they take into their stomachs. They may be responsible for the poison that is palmed upon them, over the counter along with the nece saries of life alyng with things that they are obliged to have. But indifference as to the condition of things which we eat-in other words, the want of Christianity in cooking - is a very fertile cause of much sickness and suffering. I suppose of the infallible signs of the millenium will be a better regulated kitchen -a kitchen that sends out food that will not make Christian men sick! It would be wrong to say that a man

trol, the head must always ask leave of the stomach to be healthy. And no man has a head that has not a stomach- It is sometimes propounded to me as a prenologistfor I am one, in my philosophic faith-how it happens that men of large cerebral development are so often men of feeble forces in life. When I see a man with his cheeks sunken in, and thin, and flat, and with his chest narrow, and his stomach all gone, and with a very large bran, so that the whole force of his system seems to be concentrated in his mind, I say, "What is a man good for with such a brain, without the vital energy by which to run it properly?" For your head is a machine, and your stomach mon lot of us all, and may we not in change is the furnace by which to generate sceam; expect reverses? The stomach, that prepares the body's support; the vessels, that distribute the supply; the arteries, that take up the food, and send it round; the lungs, that create the all-nourishing blood; that muscle-engine which, without fireman or engineer stands night and day, pumping and driving a wholesome stream with vital irrigation through all the system; the nervous system that unites and harmonizes the whole band of organs; the brain. that dwells in the dome high above all, like wonderful functions, are not to be lightly spoken of, or irreverently held. For no man can properly discharge his duty toward God, nor receive the gift of the human body from could perform so large an amount of work the Divine hand in a grateful and thankful with apparently so little diminutions of strength. I attribute my power of endurin life, or his duties springing therefrom, who is brought to the bad habit of speaking evil of the body. It is a good body if it is know, has hitherto been a stranger to all health—and none more than the laws of rightly used; and if it is wrongly used, the eating. still pity, and should certainly show mercy of watchful attention, yet he should blame himself for deserting the great army of industry, for withdrawing from that noble host of workers by whom the great tasks of human life are carried on. No man has a right to be sick when prudence would prevent it, any more than a soldier has a right in a critical campaign, to be wounded needlessly, and so, instead of standing with his comrades to attack or defend, lay himself upon them a dead weight, or worse yet, a living weight, subtracting not only himself, but all others, also, who are required to take care of him, and minister to his recovery.-Not only is every sick man one taken away from the workers, but he takes away all those that are required to attend upon him.

The relation of health to a man's disposition, and so to his capacity of conferring and receiving happiness, is worthy of serious study. The happiness of our life does not consist in a few great sources; it springs from innumerable minute and constantly recurring causes; and more than from all other things together, it springs from the disosiption of men among themselves, and toward each other. The morbid states of health, the irritableness of disposition arising from unstrung nerves, the impatience, the crossness, the fault-finding of men, who, full of morbid influences, are unhappy themselves, and throw the cloud of their troubles like a dark shadow upon others, teach us what eminent duty there is in health. It is not of itself alone domestic happiness, for that depends upon more positive causes, but it cerainly is true that in the present ill estate of human life, the want of good stomach, of mind is in his stomach; but the brain and firm nerve, of patience and endurance, which belong to health, fill thousands of houseolds with quarrels, and moroseness, and complaints, and unhappiness - and when the family is sour, human life cannot be sweet. Much of the power of men to produce happiness depends, not, as you say, upon grace, but upon their disposition, and their disposition depends upon their health.

REMARKABLE WORDS OF A DYING CHRIS-TIAN -James Naylor, about two hours before his death, spoke, in the presence of several witnesses, these remarkable words: "There is a spirit which I feel, that delights to do no evil, nor to revenge any wrong; but delights to endure all things, in hope to enjoy its own in the end. Its hope is to outlive all wrath and contention, and to weary out all exaltation and cruelty, or whatever is of a nature contrary to itself.-It sees to the end of all temptations; as it bears no evil in itself, so it conceives none in thought to any other. If it be betrayed. it bears it; for its ground and spring is the mercy and forgiveness of God. Its crown is meekness; its life is everlasting love unfeigned. It takes its kingdom with entreaty, and not with contention, and keeps it by lowliness of mind. In God alone it can rejoice, though none else regard it, or can own its life. It is conceived in sorrow, and brought forth without any to pity it; nor doth God made the human body, and it is by far it murmur at grief and oppression. THE STATE OF CHRISTENDOM .- Even at an early period of her religious life, she was deeply impressed with the low state of true piety among the people, notwithstanding the high profession and unsanctified zeal of many. She knew from varied experience how the soul could be deluded by what seemed to be its own religious doings; and she saw a true royalty—these, with their various and how much more easy it is to speak plausibly about religion, to give of the abundance of our stores to benevolent objects, to advocate their claims, to be all activity in their cause. than to fight the good fight of faith, to struggle against one besetting sin, or to eradicate one secret corruption. Her heart sunk within her, notwithsfanding what she read or heard from others of what seemed to be go ing on in Christendom. She said one day -o her sister, "O that the Lord would pour out of his spirit upon this land, for it is a land of darkness and deceit. Men think themselves alive, and they are still dead in trespasses and sins. All think themselves christians, but alas! few there are who wordeath obtained this resurrection, and eter-

CHRIST THE DELIVERER.—All generally that hold forth a profession of Christ, say in words that Christ is the Deliverer, but that is not the thing; is he a Deliverer to thee? Is that glorious Messiah promised, and the Deliverer with power, come into thy soul? Hath he exalted himself there? Hath he made bare his arm, and been a glorious conqueror in thee? Hath he taken to himself his great power to reign in thee? Is he king of kings and Lord of lords in thee? Whatever thou talkest of Christ and his miracles, if thou hast no witness; no evidence of the truth of them in thine own heart, what is all that ever he did, and what is all that ever he suffered to thee?-It may be thou mayest have a notion and opinion of the things of God, and thou hast them by history and by relation, or education, or example, or custom, or by tradition, or because most men have received them for truths. But if thou hast no evidence of his mighty miracles, and Godlike power in thy own soul, how canst thou be a witness that they are the things that thou hast seen and heard .- John Webster.

FATHERS AND MOTHERS .- It is much in the power of those who have the care of young childaen, to prepare their minds for the salutary restraints of the cross of Christ: and those who thus co-operate with his Holv Spirit, which early visits the tender and flexible mind, may expect (and what better can they seek?) his all-sufficient blessing upon themselves and their offspring- Therefore, ye fathers, and ye mothers, let us entreat you to consider the earliest subjection of the will as the first step in education. It will generally insure to you that desirable ascendancy over the minds of your children, which will prevent the need of future severity, it will enable you to govern them by love; and thus you will be rendering your own way more easy, at the same time that you are serving the Lord. - Epistles on Instruction.

THE LIGHT OF CHRIST.—Placing the power of redemption from evil, in the light, s as sound in spiritual doctrine, as it is wise in moral experience. Look unto me, and be ye saved," says he, who proclaims himself the light of the world; and who shines not partially on this or that individual, but who is "true light that enlighteneth every man that cometh into the word." And who is there that, under the heaviest pressure of conscious guilt, has yet fixed a calm, humble, silent, but inwardly supplicating eye upon this day-star in the heart-this mighty one, who wounds but to heal-who kills but to make alive-who is there, we may confidently ask, that has steadily and perseveringly done this, and has not experimentally known, that the Most High "is a God at hand, and a present help in the time of trouble." - Mary Ann Kelly.

THE NEW VIEW OF THINGS .- It is an (call it by what name you will—deride it how you may)—that which has power to support, to comfort, and to direct, in times THE PIONEER HAS A LARGER CIR-CULATION THAN ANY COUNTY PAPER IN THIS STATE.

Extensive preparations have been made for the accommodation of several thousand persons, and should the weather prove favorable, we doubt not a larger number will be present than was last year. A first-class brass band has been engaged, and several eminent speakers of different denominations will address the assembled host. About 2,500 children were as sembled there last year, and the occasion passed off in the most satisfactory manner. The addresses and other exercises of that oceasion will long be remembered by those

THE "LADIES STORE."

Change is characteristic, both of our people and of our age. A few weeks ago we gave place to a notice of dissolution of the partnership existing under the firm of C. S. Miller & Co, of this place; this week we insert a similar notice for the firm of Taylor & Newkirk, who, by mutual consent, have sundered the partnership relation existing between them, and transferred their entire interest in their Dry Goods Store to Mr. B. F. Dare of Philadelphia, formerly of this place. We have the pleasure of an acquaintance with their successor, Mr. Dare, and most cheerfully join the members of the late firm in recommending him to the patronage of a liberal public. Having had several years experience in the business, and possessing every quality of mind and heart requisite to ensure its possessor a high standing in the community, we have not the least hesitancy in expressing our opinion that he will meet with merited success. The "ladies store" is known far and wide as being the place where goods of the best quality are kept, and with the excellent judgment of our friend Dare, we have no fears that there will be any retrogression in this respect. We direct attention to his advertisement in another column and recommend our lady readers to give him a call.

The Late Drouth and the Crops. We have passed over a great part of the gricultural portion of the county, and, from to be much less than we had any reason to expect. The pasture fields, where wholly upland, has been dried up, and the stock feeding upon them placed upon very short $3. allowance. In some instances, the farmers have been compelled to fodder them. But hese instances, we believe, are comparitively very few. The crop of clover seed will be very light; the yield being small, and the usual, so many pieces kept for mowing being terson 306 Chestnut street, Philadelphia. used for pasture. Buckwheat sowed during the drouth has come up but poorly, and does be late in getting it in, will be likely to stand the best chance for a good crop. The cornfields present as striking a contrast as can well be imagined; from small stalks of forty-five to fifty bushels to the acre.-Fortunately, the former kind are not numerous, though there are but few fields where the crop has not been materially injured by the dry weather. This is particularly the case with early planted corn. Nearly all that looked well early in the season has been of the business community. ted, severely, the different methods of managing a corn crop, and so far, may be of advantage to the observing, intelligent agriculturist. As a general thing, it is undoubtedly true that those fields best tended, where ized, are the most certain for a full crop of corn. This season, we are quite certain, forms no exception to this rule. In a wet tained even when the field has been somewhat neglected; but in a dry season, like the Atlantic City, on Wednesday of last week, Mr. present, such a result would not be likely to follow. It appears to us that the main question yet to be determined in the culture of a erop of corn, is with respect to its putting in; whether the ground should be plowed more than once before planting; whether to the assistance of some ladies who had be- deep, medium, or shallow ploughing is best for all seasons. Whether deep ploughing would be best for dry seasons, and not the best for wet seasons. What distance the rows should be apart, and how many stalks in the hill, are questions upon which we are well aware each one has his own theory. But is that theory right? Should the same Trenton, with quite a large family. He was distance apart, and the same number of stalks for making hr selection to which of the two be used indiscriminetely on all soils? Blackberries, a year ago so very abundant, are now very scarce and high, as well as inferior in quality. They have been much dried up on the vines. ITS CLOSE CONNECTION WITH THE BUSINESS INTERESTS OF PHILADELPHIA. For two or three years past the southern sec-tion of the State of New Jersey has been agitated by questions arising out of the proposed con-struction of certain railroads. The smoke of scattered sparsely over the fields, to a yield tive Hall, has now cleared away, the roads conballot box, on the hustings, and in the Legislastituting the new system are constructed or under contract, and they will all, probably, be in working order in less than a twelvemonth. This movement, new going on so near to us, se soon to be consumated, and, as we believe, so closely connected with the permanent business interests of our city, is one which it behoves us thoroughly to consider, and we feel it our duty to invite the consider. owards it the earnest and immediate attention much injured. The dry season has also tesgraphical position and surroundings, without eing convinced that it is one of the most highly favored States in the Union. We cannot dwell on this, and we allude to it in passing only, because it indirectly concerns the object we have in immediate view, although we cannot refrain from one or two observations. As respects the the ground is kept stirred and well pulver- surface of the country, it presents three varieties. We have a marine or sandy section lying on the south, and occupying about one-half of the entire area of the State. This alluvial portion may be said, in general terms, to extend south of Trenton, including the counties of season, a good crop may sometimes be ob- Ocean, Burlington, Camden, Atlantic, Salem, Cumberland and Cape May. Then we have the mountaincus region of Warren and Sussex, along which, on the northwest, the Blue Ridge Intermediate between these two sections is a hilly district, abounding in productive and well watered valleys of rich loam .-Thus we find at one extremity a soil and tem-perature approximating those of the portions of Maryland and Virginia occupying an analogous position east of Chesapeake Bay, while at the other extreme the seasons and face of the country remind us of the northern sections of our own State, or even of Vermont and New Hamp-

Each of these districts is broadly marked by its own distinct peculiarities, and they of course present a diversified field for manifold branches of industry, and for numerous varieties of agricultural products; and as the State lies mid way between the two largest cities of the country, she possesses by her communications, and by her transit travel, every facility for bringing he produce of her agriculture, manufactures, markets she will resort. That these natural advantages of climate, soil and productive capa tent which has placed New Jersey no whit be hind her sister States, is a matter of demonstra from the comparason. In Connecticut, where the industry of the people is the subject of so much braggart encomium, there was about the same number of acres of improved land under cultivation as in New Jersey, and the average value of the farms was returned as $1891 les than in the latter State. These facts may give us some notion of the general productive character of our neighbor -But our immediate purpose is to refer to the projected extension of the railroad system into the southern portion of the territory. Below Camden there is at present no road, except that to Woodbury. This track is to be continued about ten miles to Glassboro' a thriving village, noted for its establishments for the manufacture of glass. At that point there will be a two-fole vergence, and one road will extend to Millville, and another to Bridgeton, both in Cumberland County. A branch will also be constructed from and another road is in contemplation from Mill-ville to Cape May. Thus the whole section of New Jersey south of Philadelphia will be brought into immediate connection with us. The road from Millville to Glassboro' is, we believe, altion of it. The road from Bridgeton is under contract, and the grading is progressing rapidly.

Next summer it is probable that the Salem,

Bridgeton and Millville roads will all be in successful operation. We shall then be placed in close contact with a populous, productive, thriving, and, in many respects, wealthy section of country. If the interest of the northern portion of the State of New Jersey is to be regarded—from its geographical position—as attracted toward the city of New York, the interest of the southern portion should, for a like reason, gravitate toward the city of Philadelphia, and it will be only our own supineness which will convert this natural and social attraction into a repulsion. The six counties of Camden, Gloucester, Salem, Atlantic, Cumberland, and Cape May, which will be reached by these new roads, contained in 1850, a population of 92,127. During the decade prior to that year, the increase per cent. in the population of the entire State was 31-14, and we may, therefore, safely infer that, since that period, the ratio of increase in the counties named has been at least 25 per cent.

These improvements will, therefore, at the most moderate estimate, bring forthwith a population of over one hundred thousand people into daily communication with us by railroad. either of the roads reaches, and we shall consequently have several trips daily, thus making ne inter-communication close and frequent. We are so constantly in the habit of joking a bout our Jersey neighbors, that we are not dis-posed to look upon facts in a very serious mood. For instance, most Philadelphians are quite certain that there is such a town as Salem in West Jersey but our knowledge of localities stops there. What lies beyond is a sort of terra incognita, which, whenever we explore in fancy, represents itself to our mind as constituted of watermelon patch-But if, like Belzoni, Livingstone, or Barth, we would explore in fact the unknown interior, how complete would be our astonishment. We might suffer ourselves to be dragged through the bushes and sand eighteen or twenty miles beyond Salem, and we would alight upon a town known to its inhabitants as Bridgeton, which, according washed garden iences and painted nouses, throng-ed with industrious people, steadily cultivating godliness and pursuing great gain, in the true puritan style of their ancestors, and, therefore, constituting a population thrifty, upright, and intelligent. Around this town lies a rich, welltilled agricultural country, the farms in most cases being owned by their occupants. As an instance of one branch of business carried on here now, Parents, how do you sew knowledge the foundation of England's power was laid. may mention the large manufacture of nails, gas pipe, and castings, at the Cumberland Iron Works. Some idea of the populousness and imrangement will go into effect on the completion of this section of country may be formed when we mention that in 1850, fifteen out of the sixty-three counties of Pennsylvania, sider an education of some importance; by dencies rush on in the path of empire, and population less than either Salem or Cumberland cr and his method of insaruction and gov- energy, I felt proud that their ancestors were we are wont to regard merely as a sort of sandy fringe of the Atlantic, with sub-soil enough to form only an oyster bed, or sustain a pine tree, we will reach the town of Millville, at the head have been established, whose abundant products as fully as we would wish, lay before our rea-ders the details connected with the extension of he railroad system into the southern section of movement which demands our attention. We refer to it as the opening of what may be practically regarded as a new market for our manufacturers and merchants. It is no small matter to bring a hundred thousand new customers to our shops and stores. By a little liberally and encouragement on our part, this new accession of buyers may stick to us; but if we remain indifferent, New York will extend its inducements, its merchants will send their agents, its press de tail its reporters, all the appliances of solicitathis conflict, as it was fought by turns, at the tion will be brought to bear; and unless we are vigilant we may soon find the southern portion of New Jersey, like the northern, gravitating toward our rival. There is no reason why profitable business relations should not, by means of the new railroad facilities, he cultivated with this large population. The advantage would be Moderate investments made now by our capitalists would reap the gain resulting from the appreciation of real estate and the increased lemand for the productions of the soil, and for manufactured articles, which is certain to result from these improved and extended connections. Philadelphia can and should supply the hardware, the groceries, the agricultural implements, and the domestic, cotton, yarn and wool en fabrics, as well as the imported goods, required in this new market. Stages, steamboats and packets are inadequate to the rapid purposes of odern traffic. They will now be superseded by the railroad, and the se people, by a reduction of time and space, will be brought directly to our stores, workshops and factories. Our merchants and manufacturers should at once bestir them selves in this movement. We can easily imagine how by the construction of a few additional links with roads in the northern part of that State, or even by the adjustment of a time table, the business of this entire section of country may be carried past Philadelphia, and centralized immediately in New York. Such a result, if other interests prevail, is by no means improbable.-We have called attention to the matter, because we have a deep conviction that it deserves the earnest and prompt consideration of our business The capital and interests of our sity should at once procure a representation in the direction of this new system of railroad connections. It would require but a comparitively trifling outlay. The opportunity is now, and if we let it slip, we shall be greener than any Cockney ever supposed the greenest Jerseyman to be."

HEARING from various sources numerous reports in regard to my future continuance in the Dry Goods business. I deem it a duty I owe to my friends and the public generally, to correct the wrong impression that seems to be resting upon the minds of many, and in so doing I will say that it has never been my intention to renounce the business, as some of my would be friends have endeavored to leave the impression. I will say further that I shall carry on the Dry Goods business in all its branches, as heretofore, at the old stand of C. S. RAW BONE SUPER-PHOSPHATE OF LIME, BAUGH & SONS. Wholesale Office and Store No. 20 South Wharves, PHILADEL PHIA. Cash Price $45 per 2,000 lbs. (21/2 cts. per lb.) A liberal discount made to dealers.

In the preparation of this Valuable Manure, BONES ARE USED IN THEIR RAW STATE ONLY. They have never-been BOLES OR CALCINED. They are taken as nature has made them, cru-hed with powerful machinery, and subjected to a process, by which, while all the virtue of the Bone is retained, a Fertilizer is procured, furnishing in a concentrated and soluble form the two indispensable ingredients for the growth of Plants and enriching the soil, viz. Prospious acts and analysis. These two ingredients soil, viz. PHOSPHORIC ACTI AND ANNOSIA. These two ingredients, by the use of "BAUGHS RAW BONE SUPER-PHOSPHATE," are given to the soil in all their original strength and purity. They assimilate at once with the soil, furnish all the needful Ammonia for the growing crop. giving it ample luxuriance, and leave the land permanently benefitted so that its presence can be traced for years afterwards.

Card. The steadily increasing demand which has followed the Raw Bone Super-Phosphate of Lime ? is a marked proof that the Farmer and Planter are beginning to appreciate the value of such Fertilizers, as not only-produce the first crop but also permanently improve the soil; and on this point we have abundant eridence from these who prefer its use to that of Peruvian Guano. Since the introduction of our article we have centinually desired to furnish a Manure combining ALL the impertant constituents of Raw Bones, and we have accomplished this by a process originating with, and used only by, ourselves.

No. 20 South Wharves, Philadelphia.

I have analyzed a sample of Chemut Grove Whiskey, received from Mr. Charles Wharton, Jr., of Philadelphin, and having carefully tested it, I am pleased to state that it is entirely free from poisonous or deleterious substances.
It is an unusually pure and fine flavored quality of whiskey.

JAMES R. CHILTON,
Analytical Chemist.
Postox, March 7th, 1859.

I have made a chemical analysis of commercial samples of Chesnut Grove Whiskey, which proves to be free from the heavy Fusil Oils, and reflectly pure and unadulterated. The fine flavor of this Whiskey is derived from the Grain used in manufacturing it. Respectfully,

INPECTINE, THE PERSIAN FEVER CHARM. For the prevention and cure of Fever and Ague and Billious Fevers. This wonderful remedy was brought to the knowledge of the present proprietors by a friend who has been a great traveler in Persia and the Holy to the knowledge of the present proprietors by a friend who has been a great traveler in Persia and the Holy Land.

While going down the river Euphrates, he experienced a severe attack of Fever and Ague. On discovering his condition, one of the Boatmen took from his person an Amulet, saying, "Wear this and no Fever will touch year." Although incredulous as to its virtues, he complied, and experienced immediate relief, and has since always found it an effectual protection from all malarious complaints.

On further investigation he found that the boatman attributed to it miraculous powers, and said that it could only be obtained from the Priests of the Sun. Sometime afterward, the gentlemen in conversing with a Priest, obtained from him the secret of its preparation, and ascertained where the medicinal-herbs were found, of which it was compounded. The wonderful virtues of this article have induced a full belief in the minds of the natives in the miraculous healing powers of their Priests.

Bince his return to America, it has been tried with the happnest effect by several Ladies and Gentlemen of high character, who have given it the most unqualified praise. This remedy having been a specific in Persia for hundreds of years, for the prevention and cure of Fever and Ague and Billious Fevers—is now offered to the American people.

It will be sent by mail, prepaid, with full directions for use, on receipt of one dollar.
