Written to the Memory of Lizzie Stanford. Lizzie's gone with all her beauty-Gone, with all her noble truth; And her gentle, loving kindness

All have perished in her youth. We closed the coffin-lid above her. Placed her in her damp cold bed. And in silence let her slumber-

The young, the beautiful, the dead. She was lovely as the spring time, Smiling in its new born glee; Brimming full of life and gladness,

As a prisoned bird let free. She was gentle as the streamlet Murmuring through the grassy dell. O'er which wild flowers bending sweetly, Blushing kiss each silvery swell.

And often when the twilight blushes All the glade in beauty lave, We'll steal to where she calmly slumbers, And scatter flowers o'er her grave

O, why is earth so steeped with sorrow, Why on beauty must death feed; Why the loved so early perish. Why write on all earth's freasures - Dead? NEAR PORT ELIZABETH

AN LDITCR FUZZLED.

Our quondam friend, S. F Horrall, who publishes a "plug" of a paper in Washington, I avises county, came down to the city some days ago in search of advertising patronage. It was warm weather, consequent ly the exertion necessary to procure advertising for such a paper as his, heated the lit-tle man up and made him thust; and being thirsty-or dry, as the boys say-he concluded to try some New A bany beer. Tried the beer, but came to the conclusion that it left a bad taste in his mouth. Took some whiskey to take out the bad taste. Recollecting that whiskey of no lern make was not de med wholesonie by temperance men, he took a Little brandy to kill the strych- Brooks, Henry W. nice; then he took a little more brandy just to see how it tasted, as he had forgotten to taste the first nip. You may imagine the result. The earth became suddenly con-vulsed, heaving and sweding in a most sin-Cook David gular way. Streets took upon themselves a circuitous course, sidewalks got to wallbing and he began to repeat with great earnestness the following lines from Longfellow's "Psalm of Life;

"And things are not what they seem." In this elevated e ad tion the gentleman rolled him eff up two flight of stairs into our sanctum and made himself : greeable by e psizing our ink, and stepping into a pan of paste which had been carelessly left upon the floor by a bookbinger. He could not properly call or his ideas, neither could we finally, however, we managed to learn that he was going to Cincinnatti, so we lost no time in encouraging him off, We assisted him down stairs, steadied him on the sidewak, bade him goot evening, and away he naviga el to the river As good mee would have it a boat was lying at the wharf, so he stepped aboard and was quickly on his way. Soon after leaving the wharf, a man came around for his fare. Horrall handed out a five dollar bill, and received four dollars and ninety-five cents in change. He rammed it Davis, Theoph. P. into his pocket with great eagerness, supposing the clerk had made a mistake. That done he leaned back into his chair and fell asleep. A little while and he was placked awake by the same man, who again demanded fare. "Liscovered the mistake," thought he, holding out a handful of change. The man, as before, took on y five cents, and Horral again went into a dize. Ere he had got fairly to dreaming of home and friends far away, ar und came the fare collector again, and thus it went on for a long time. At last dorall thought it inconvenient, and concluded to vote the collector a nuisance, and give him a bit of advice besides;

"Is (hie) this a da-n-ger (hie) ous bo (hie) "By no means," said the man. "Bran

new. "I hen by gummy (hic) don't you collect all the fa (h c) hair at once - not bother a fel (hic) heller for it every mile as it comes due?"

" Really," said the man, "where do you think you are going?' "Cin-cin-hin nati," said Horrall.

"t'in inuati" said the polite conductor; why, you must be sadly out of your reckoning. This is the ferry-boat, and all this afternoon you have been riding to and fro between New Albany and Portland." That night Horrall staid in Louisville. -N. A. Tribune.

GEMS OF THOUGHT. Enjoy the present, whatever it may be, and not be solicitous for the future; for if you take your foot from the present standing, and thrust it forwards into to-morrow's events you are in a restless condition. It is like refusing to quench your present thirst by fearing you will want, drink the next day. If it be well to-day, it is madness to Fish. Nathaniel make the present miscrab'e by fearing that it may be ill to morrow. THE RIVAL VENTRILOQUISTS.

"Once upon a time." as the "story tellers" have it we were sailing down the great passengers attempted to catch the refractory "father of waters," the Mississippi, in the wasp, but each attempt proved futile, and beautiful steamer "Goddess of Liberty," the attacks of the insect upon the head of bound from St. Louis to New Orleans. We the Signor soon became a portion of the had on board the usual variety of passengers; but for some unexplained cause, an buzzing of the wasp producing as much unusual degree of monotony prevailed -'Tis true, the card players were at work, with their accustomed energy, and little groups of passengers were earnestly engaged over the unict game of checkers, or draughts, one little circle only were absorbed in that old, but now popular game - | the stranger, resolved to try again, apparentchess. A large number of passeng us were sitting in the forward saloon, gizing listless- | bout, but to bring down the stranger also. ly, at each other, apparently, in a state of stupefaction. Being of an active timperament, and fond of excitement, we could not suffer ennui upon such an occasion to get the upper and laid the whole matter before the distinguished commander.

"We have no music on board," the captain replied, " or we might wake the passenger- up with a little hop on the light fan

"Well," we replied, (looking carelessly over the list on the passenger roll.) "we must have some excitement, for the passage is really wearisome" Just at that moment, our eyes fell up in a name distinguished in the annals of diable-rie-no less a person than the celebrated wizard and ventriloquist, Signor Blitz. -Here was indeed reason for crying 'Eureka.' and forthwith proceeded in search of the my-terious wizard. In a few moments the Signor was found, quietly reposing in his state-room, and the whole difficuty (the occasion for eloquence) eloquently laid before him. Blitz consented to create a little harmless fun, as he termed it; but the sequel proved it more funny than harmless .-But without anticipting, the wizard entered the steward s apartment, and providing himself with a few huge slices of bread, and obtaining some of his little animate assistants, he announced h mself prepared, but remarked that we must select a good subject, for on that selection depended the fun. We entered the forward saloon noiselessly, arm in arm, and advanced toward the quiet, sleepy looking passengers, who were collected together without aim or object. While running our eyes rapidly around the saloon in search of a victim, our attention was at tracted towards a young man dressed in a suit of deep black, who was seemingly absorbed in a book which he was attentively perusing. We nudged the Signor, pointed significantly at the young man, and received from the former an affirmative answer, by a quet movement of the head. The Signor picked up a stool, seated himself unceremoniously between the young stranger and the end of the table near by- This movement arrestee the attention of the stranger, who looked up inquiringly.

"You seem to be much interested in your book, sir," the Signor remarked. "Yes, sir," he replied. "a good book is to me preferable to a good dinner:"

Signor - "That depends upon the length of time you have fasted. By the way, I did not see you at the dinner table " Stranger-' No, sir, I preferred my book. Signor-"Une dollar is too high for a single meal; I commend your economy." Stranger-(Indignantly)-"I eat when hungry, whatever the price!"

Signor-"I spoke of economy because observed some pr visions in your hat!" Stranger-(in an offended tone,)-"Proisions, sir? I carry no provisions with me. I always eat at the public table, and pay for it, too!" The whole attention of the passengers was now centered upon the speakers, and considerable interest manifested by the company in the peculiar subject under discus-Signor-(lifting up the gents hat from his side, and passing it under the entire group)—"I do not wish to offend you, sir, but I see here quite a supply of provi-

expense of the stranger, which s on increased to a laugh, as the wizard drew forth slice after sice of stale bread from the young man's hat. The stranger cit his I ps in confusion, and fixed his gaze up n the signor, then, with a smile, got up from his seat and moved towards his state-room.
"Frightened I" says one of the lookers

on, smiling at the sudden disapearance of the stranger.

Stranger (emerging from the state-room) put away my book, because I find there is geing to be some fun aboard, and when there is fun about. I want to be counted in, for that is my forte!"

Lookers on, enthusiastical'y -" Good! bravo! bravo! Go it, little 'un you're a match for him !" The stranger had barely finished his remarks when a loud yelping and snapping was heard at his heels, and the passengers began to scatter, thinking that a rabid dog was in their midst; but a few minutes served to prove the barking and yelping anoth er trick of the ventriloquist.

During the excitement about the dog, the Signor seemed constantly brushing something from behind his ear, and becoming much annoyed by the continual buzzing at his head, requested one of the passengers to examine his neck, for he was fearful a wasp had taken passage on the boat, and was engaged in the exclusive business of answering him An examination proved the Signor's fears groundless, and the fun Spirit of Gol. with the stranger continued. Now came the squealing of a pig. and, in a few moments, the simulation the stranger's bosom a small guinea pig, which jumped and can around the saloon as if pleased at being released from such an uncomfortable berth. Again the Signor was seized with that periodicol attack of the wasp, and brushed in vain with his nands to rid himself of the little tormentor. Several of the general amusement of the passengers, the fun as any of the wizard's wonderful feats. During all this time the features of the stranger remained placid, though his brilliant black eyes flashed and gave evidence of nall amount of mischief lurking within. The ventriloquist having failed to affect ly determined not only to bring down the

During the singing, the Signor was again pestered with the buzzing in his ear of the indefatigable wasp, and seemed wholly unable to tree himself of the pertinacious insect. "Now," remarked the stranger, "as you insist I have been singing a song, though entirely unconscious of the act myself, I think it but fair that Blitz should favor us with a song in return. At the sound of Blitz's name, all were on the qui vive; and now, as the character of the inveterate joker was understood, the party insisted upon a song. Blitz (earnestly)-"I tell you gentlemen.

I am no singer-never sang a song in my life, except ventriloquially." A Voice—"That's a whopper." Blits (looking around)-Who spokewho says I can sing?"

GEORGE E. TOMLINSON, Editors.

The Man that Doesn't Take a Paper. A short time since, riding in the cars of the N. J. Central Railroad, a couple of gentlemen were talking politics. Their conversation was so loud that we could not help overhearing it. One gentleman was discoursing eloquently upon the issues of the day, and had considerable to say about the go, assured that they will never regret it. Republican party. The other, for a long time, listened in silence as if he understood it all, and then suddenly spoiled his eloquence by asking whom the Republicans had nominated. His expression of countenance was rater amusing as he explained that they had put up Abraham Lincoln. Recovering, however, his shock of surprise at the man's stupidity, he soon became more eloquent than ever as he spoke of the merits of Douglas, and finally emphatically announced himself a Douglas man. "Douglas," exclaimed his companion, "what Douglas; what do you mean; Douglas." And again it was a little amusing to see the expression of countenance as he made known the fact that there was such a man as Douglas. We concluded we had seen the man who didn't take a paper, and we expected every minute to hear him say that he was going to vote for General Jackson. We thought, too, that if the editor of one of our New York papers had overheard this conversation, he would have had a text that would have lasted him a year, about the political and social condition of things after leaving the United States and going into Jersey.

RAISING FROGS.

One of our exchanges tells a story, rather tough we guess, of a down easter who most attractive feature in the tent, not more has for years been engaged in raising frogs than one half of which was occupied. for Boston Market, and has succeeded in raising one to weigh forty pounds. That they sometimes grow to a large size is undeniably true, but that they should under the that weight must admit of a doubt. The old fable represents one as trying to puff himself up as large as an ox. At this rate of cultivation the ox must look out for his laurels. Frogs are regarded as a great delicacy and are becoming more and more an article of food. Men and boys are often seen along the ditches gunning them at certain seasons of the year. Although not prejudice that has prevented frogs from coming into general use as an article of food.-As they are coming in demand, with the prospect of a ready market, which it would be impossible to overstock, it may be worthy of attention to try raising them. We frequently meet with places well suited for in the ring exercises. The horses were driven that and but little else. But little time need be required. A small pond well stocked and supplied with food for them, with a good gravelly bottom, and a small amount of drift stuff for them to conceal themselves among, would be all that would be required for an outfit; to embark in the business.-When they get up to forty pounds each, it would be a good time to sell. Our readers will be pleased to learn that this selebrated Ventriloquist will visit Bridgeton again, next week. Several years have elapsed since he performed in this town, and the large and respectable audiences which he then attract ed were highly delighted with his performance The learned Canary Birds, and their wonderfu performances, such as firing a cannon, driving carriage drawn by birds, with birds sitting in the carriage, swinging and rocking in a cradle, are alone worth the price of admission.

Signor Blitz is not only one of the best and most renowned ventriloquists in the world, but is a very worthy citizen, a whole souled, high minded man, worthy of the praise so liberally lavished upon him in all parts of the country.

Those who wish to witness interesting perform ances should be present next week, and our word for it, you will be highly entertained. Nothing of an immoral tendency is ever introduced in his performances, and parents may let their children

The Salem County Exhibition.

According to announcement the Salem Co. Exhibition was held on Wednesday and Thursday last. As an agricultural display it was far below any previous exhibition in that county. The first day, about one thousand people attended. In the ladies department of needle, fancy work and embroidery were good; probably equal to any heretofore exhibted, though not more than half either in variety or quantity. In the domestic department but very little was exhibited. Some half dozen lots of butter, about as many loaves of bread, one or two hams, a small but very fine lot of jellies and preserves, none of equal in appearance to former displays, made about the sum total.

Of fruits and vegetables but very little was on exhibition, and with but little exception inferior in quality to what we have been accustomed to see in that county. In fact, this department was nearly an entire failure.

So with the grain, three or four baskets of fine looking corn, three or four samples of wheat, and one or two of oats constituted all we observed in this line. A number of sewing machines in operation, formed by far the

The display of stock in which Salem Couny has heretofore so justly taken pride, was very small and much smaller than we had expected to see. We observed particularly, about half a dozen fat hogs, varying from twelve to fifteen months. The heaviest one to appearance, but a little over a year old, weighed alive, six hundred and twenty pounds. Some twenty or thirty good cows, f common and graded stock, a few bulls, partly versed in the luxury of frog steaks, we know Durham, one splendid calf three months old, of no handsomer or cleaner looking meat nine or ten yearlings, two or three pair of steers, than the hind quarters of a frog. Why one pair very large and fat, a pair of mules, shouldn't it rank among the best. The frog eight or ten handsome colts. and a small lot of is entirely clean and temperate in all his sheep was the amount of stock on exhibition, horses excelled. We have been thus particular habits—for all we know, no animal is more in exumeration because we thought to those of so. If there is virtue in cold water he our readers accustomed to visit the exhibitions ought to receive that virtue, since he is a of that county, it would convey the most accuthorough teetotaller. Almost all kinds of rate idea of it. The fat hogs, colts, calf and fish and crabs are eaten, and pronounced fat steers were perhaps fully equal in quality to good food. It is probably nothing but a that heretofore exhibited. The rest were decidedly inferior in quality to former years as far as we were able to judge. The horses made a very fine display, though fewer in number than we have seen before, although this day was not devoted to trials of speed, driving horses seemed to predominate in number, and the main interest seemed to centre moderately for the most part. A special contest for speed between the stallion "American Star," and Mr. Bradway's horse, was the most exciting, terminating in favor of the former. The interest on the second day was centered on the ring. In the forenoon the contest for speed, principally between single horses, was exciting; the contest being between Salem County horses. A wagon and two sulkies were broken, and the occupants thrown out, but no serious injury to any one. The great attraction was, in the afternoon, between a number of horses from different places, "Snap" competing with two horquite as remunerative a price. Most of the material on exhibition was re moved at the close of Wednesday, and we heard about four o'clock, which terminated the exhibition unexpectedly. So far as it was an agricultural exhibition, we consider it a failure.

The conclusion we have arrived at on witness ing it, and we say it without wishing offence to our sensitive neighbors, or any one else, is, that feet of making the trial track the attraction to work. THE MOTHER IN LAW, a tale of Domestic Life, by Mrs. Emma D. E. N. Southworth. Publish ed by T. B. Peterson & Brethers, Philadelphia Mrs. Southworth has won a high reputation as an authoress. Her books are, and will continue to be, read by thousands. The one now before us is one of her best, and fully maintains her vivid scenes, startling positions, and the perrading interest which attaches itself to all her books, continually remind us of the famed authoress of "Jane Eyre." The scenes of the present work are laid in the old Dominion, and in its palmy days; and the interest first awakened continues to the last.

I have used the Oxygenated Bitters in my practice with decided success in debility and general prostration. &c., and confidently recommend it in general debility, and diseases of the digestive organs.

Audurn, N. Y., Sept. 6, 1858.

Gentlemen:—I have been in the drug business the last fifteen years, and have neversold a medicine which has given such groat satisfaction in cases of Dyspepsia as the Oxygenated Bitters, and in this disease Isalways recommend it.

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 12, 1854.

Gentlemen:—I am pleased to state that I have tried the Oxygenated Bitters for Indigestion and Debility, and found immediate relief from using only a part of a bottle. I have the greatest confidence in it as a cure for Dyspepsia and General Debility, and recommend it, with much pleasure. Yours, &c., JAMES LEWIS, M. D.

Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1860, by Masperson & Co., in the Clerk's Office of the District Court of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania,] CONSUMPTION.

WE cannot speak too highly of this TAR CORDIAL as a cure for consumption. Many persons, once poor and engaciated can testify that when everything elsefailed, and they were just ready to stop into the grave, a new light sprang up—they heard of the FOREST PINE TAR CORDIAL, and its wonderful cures; and as the strong man, grapp ing with the mighty waves, lays hold of every object that offers a shadow of assistance, they took the Tar Cordial and were restored to perfect health. To the Consumptive, then, we say, take courage; the Forest Pine Tar Cordial has cured as hopeless cases as yours—if may cure you, at least do not despair ases as yours—it may cure you, at least do not despai intil you have given it a fair trial.

CAUTION.

The success attending the sale of the Forest Pine Tar Cordial, and the wonderful cures performed by it, have induced others to imitate and make an inflerior article, so as to impose upon the public, and induce the unwary to believe that in purchasing said Medicines, they were getting our celebrated and wonderful Forest Fine Tar Cordial. Therefore, to protect the public against all such sourcions articles, they have had the words "FOREST FINE TAR CORDIAL, the Great Cure for Consumption, Bronchitis, &c.," and their mane, "MANDERSON & CO.," blown on each of the bottles, which are of dark green glass—none genuine without those words on.—Remember, we have no connection with any Ppreparation of Tar but this demember, we have a second of Tar but this Paice. THE subscribers would direct the attention of farmers and others to their increased facilities for manufacturing superior WOOLEN GOODS, such as Satinetts, Cloths, Blankets, Horse Blankets, Flannels, Stocking and Carpet Yarn. We manufacture a durable article, of the best quality; and at low prices, We guarantee our goods not only to be equal to the imported in texture, but to stand hard wear much better. Mechanics and laboring men generally would find it to their advantage to purchase of us, instead of wearing foreign goods which will do them no adequate service.

We will pay the highest market prices for WOOL, which can be sent to our Factory at Bridgeton, or Allowaystown, and there manufactured to order, or cash paid. Also, all wool left with Daniel Sheppard, agent at Greenwich, will be promptly attended to.

We do not buy up this staple on speculation, and therefore, whilst paying. Cash for Wool, at the highest rates, we insist that a preference should be freely extended to home manufacturers, and claim that, since no loss is incurred, we should have a priority among wool growers, or those who have wool to sellmay 26 FARMERS LOOK TO YOUR INTEREST: C. ALBERTSON'S NEW STORE, it is entirely free from poisonous or deleterious substances.

and naving the from poisonous or deleterious substances. It is an unusually pure and fine flavored quality of whiskey.

I have made a chemical analysis of commercial samples of Chemit Grove Whiskey, which proves to be free from the heavy Fusil Oils, and reflectly pure and unadulterated. The fine flavor of this Whiskey is derived from the Grain used in manufacturing it. Respectfully, A. A. HAYES, M. D., State Assayer, No. 18 Boylston Street.
