"UP WITH THE FLAG."
A song for the times, respectfully dedicated to the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, of the morning prayer on Sunday, April 23, offered thanks that so many had raised up in his church to do battle for justice and liberty, and he asked that more and more might be found to stand up with them united for the cause of God and man; that, through whatever scenes we might be called to pass, there might be no grief or woe so desolating as that which would come from cowardice, or the turning back from an unaccomplished purpose.

PLYMOUTH CHURCH.
Services by Rev. H. W. Beecher.

The Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, in the morning prayer on Sunday, April 23, offered
his church to do battle for justice and lib-
be found to stand up with them united for
the cause of God and man; that, through
whatever scenes we might be called to pass,
as that which would come from cowardice,
purpose.

Mr. Beecher announced that, from 9 till 1 o'clock, every day, meetings were held in the church parlors, for the purpose of making up articles necessary for soldiers, preparing lint, and otherwise helping the good cause. The design was to make it a protracted meeting. Various articles were to be acceptable, and also help to make them up.

In reading the names of new members proposed for the church, those of the ladies were sometimes given without the initials, which occasioned characteristic remarks from Mr. Beecher: "I would thank the clerk to write out the whole name hereafter. A woman is a woman in this church, and not a mere appendage to a man."

In his discourse Mr. Beecher spoke of his abhorrence of mobs. He would put down over acts of treason, but was for retaining the liberty of speech. And no man ought to touch it in the name of liberty. A man was a good soldier just in proportion as he was a good man. Bad men were just as dangerous at the breach as at the muzzle.

As Christianity was better for manufacturers and commerce, so it was better than any other thing in a soldier. Those who go forth should remember not to leave their religion with their hymn-books. He hoped they would take the singing books with them, as he wanted "The Collection" to be sung in old Virginia for once. Mr. Beecher closed with an exordium to the women.
They could do a great deal in these times.
Some of them would go out as nurses; but most of the nursing would be done here in New York, for the sick and disabled would be returned. They could do a great deal by words of cheer. When a woman felt inspired by love and duty, there was nothing that she could not accomplish.

Every square inch of Plymouth Church appeared to be taken up last evening, and hundreds, perhaps thousands, were obliged to go away unable to obtain even standing room within hearing distance. A company of 150 Zouaves, members of Mr. Beecher's Church, were present in uniform. Most of them took part in the singing exercises.— Nobler looking men it would be hard to select.

Mr. Beecher first read the 60th Psalm:
"Oh God, thou hast cast us off," &c. "Thou hast given a banner to them that fear thee, that it may be displayed because of the truth." "Who will bring me into the strong City? Who will lead me into Babel?"
"Through God we shall do valiantly; for he it is that shall tread down our enemies." Then the choir and the vast congregation almost drowned the thunders of the organ as they sang.

"We are dwelling in a grand and awful time." In the prayer that followed allusion was made to the mysteries of Providence in making the wicked man himself chiefly instrumental in his own destruction. He prayed that we might find the worth of the downtrodden in their immortality, and in their destinies find dignities denied them in this life. A fervent blessing was asked upon those going forward for liberty and justice.
The hymn was then sung:

"My country, 'tis of thee, Sweet land of liberty,
Land where our fathers died,
Land of the Pilgrim's pride,
From every mountain side Let freedom ring!"

Mr. Beecher took his text from the 60th psalm, 4th verse: "Thou hast given a banner to them that fear thee, that it may be displayed because of the truth."

From the earliest times nations had gone forth to war under some rallying signal to direct men in the confusion of conflict, that the leader might gather about him his followers when he was lost to their sight. It acquired peculiar significance from the purposes of house or governments that adopted it. At length, as consolidated governments drank up lesser independent authorities, banners became significant chiefly as representing nations. No civilized nation but had its banner. A thoughtful man when he saw a national flag saw symbolized the tricolor rolled out to the wind, he saw France; when the new-found flag of Italy was unfurled, he saw resurrected Italy, and so of others. This Union has a banner, too.— Until recently, when it streamed abroad, it was but a light burning on their eyes.— Even until lately the American flag was used merely as a symbol of liberty, not as a flag upon the globe had such an error.

The stars upon it were to the pinning nations like the bright morning stars, and the stripes upon it were beams of morning light.— Wherever it goes men behold in its sacred emblem a signal of imperial authority, but they see the signals of light; it is the banner of dawn, and the poor oppressed corrupt, the low-down creature of foreign despotism sees in the American flag that very promise of God.—"The people that sat in darkness saw great light, and to them which sat in the valley of death light is sprung up." During the colonial period State flags had separate significations.
The stars upon them were the stars of imperial authority, and the stripes were the stripes of imperial authority.

Why is a mouse like a load of hay? Because the owl let it up.

The Confederate Loan.

The recent rumors that the Confederate loan would be taken up by their own capitalists with great alacrity, appear to have been unfounded. The books have been opened at Charleston, New Orleans, and other points, and there is no good ground to believe that even the first instalment of $5,000,000 has been all taken up, though the probability is that it has been. Their Secretary of the Treasury has now invited proposals for the whole amount of $15,000,- 000, but it seems from the manner in which the New Orleans papers are exporting their people to come forward in support of their Government, that there is some difficulty in bringing them up to a point sufficient for their necessities. The Picayune of the 19th tries to wet their appetites by the following item:

FROM PERCENT.—This is the inviting rate of interest which the bonds of the Confederate Government bear, secured, moreover, by a sinking fund, which renders the punctual payment of interest and principal a matter of absolute certainty. Capitalists, invest your means in a security which no contingency can undermine.

In another paragraph in the same paper, it appeals to their patriotism thus:
In this emergency the Confederacy needs the aid of every patriot. The country must be sustained at every hazard. Every good citizen should therefore come forward and contribute to the cause upon which our existence as a nation depends.

What a contrast to the Federal Government, which already has more money offered to it than it can use at present, at six per cent. without a sinking fund.

FAMINE IN INDIA.

The accounts of the famine are as bad as ever. The Bombay Gazette says: An eye-witness declares that the statements which have been published of the extent and severity of the sufferings are in nowise exaggerated. Extensive districts throughout the north-west, which in times of prosperity are like the "garden of the Lord," are now uncultivated and desert. The cereals have not been sown, in most cases for want of rain; in other cases for want of seed, the seed having been consumed for food, and the Bunnies refusing to advance, as there is no prospect of a regenerative return. The prospects for the future are as dark and gloomy, therefore, as the present distress is grievous. The people throughout the country have contributed liberally for the relief of the sufferers.— Bombay has given one lac and thirty thousand rupees. Calcutta has given an equal sum, and from Madras is yet to be raised.— What would such an amount of money do, even under the most favorable circumstances, to save three millions of people from perishing for lack of bread? A more gigantic effort must yet be made throughout India.— It is most vexing to find that, owing to the want of facilities for inter-communication throughout the country generally, the money contributed is consumed in carrying more than in grain.

Powder Mills.

Great fears are expressed for the safety of Dupont's powder mills, in Delaware. We learn from a well informed source that they have not yet been in danger, but it is quite evident that nothing ought now to be trusted to chance. It is therefore worthy of consideration whether a military guard should not be promptly placed about them. There is but one powder mill in Virginia, and in Maryland, and none in the rest of the South, while Delaware has nine, and Pen-sylvania sixteen-seven. From these figures it will be seen that if we could keep possession of Maryland and Delaware with their powder mills, the solitary powder mill in Virginia would be the only one to supply the South. In Pennsylvania the vast extent of the mining interests necessitates the large number of powder mills, and those in Maryland are doubtless owing to the same sort of interest in the Cumberland coal region, which is still true to the Union. Such things are of high importance now, when we must contemplate the necessities of war in every point of view. The war will give an immense impetus to the manufacture of powder, and Government would be obliged to purchase it in large quantities. The cost of powder rises rapidly, in consequence of its scarcity. Applications by the conspirators have been made to Dupont's powder mills for a large quantity of powder, and when it was refused, a threat was made to take it by force. But the place is well guarded.—Phila. North American.

Ancient Opinions about Happiness.

In what does the summum bonum, the supreme good, consist? Four different opinions on this question obtained among the ancients.

Plato answers: "We must find happiness by taking an interest in the things of this life; we must love life, but remember that after death we shall live again."

Epicurus said: "Live; accept life without thinking of ever living again after death." Zeno answers: "We must take no interest in this life; in a measure, we must make ourselves independent of life, and not live as if we must become, and must be, what is not in our power, a god; we must triumph over fate, emancipate our natures, free them from all restraints—sure, as we are, that after this life our connection with this world is forever broken off."

St. Paul, developed by St. Augustine:— "Be not over-interested in this life; think with Plato, that it is only a state contrary to the original nature of man, and like Zeno, that this chain will not last very long, nor reproduce itself; but, instead of seeking, like Zeno, a Saviour in yourselves, seek him in God alone, the wisdom which has become incarnate in Jesus Christ our Lord."

Two raftsmen were on the Mississippi river in a gale, when one of them dropped on his knees and commenced praying with a vim equal to the emergency. He appeared to open his eyes for an instant, he observed his companion, not engaged in prayer, but pushing a pole in the water at the side of the raft.— "What's that yer doin', Mike?" said he; "get down on yer knees, for there isn't a mit between us and purgatory." "Be aisy, Pat," said the other, "he's coolly intendin' to punch the water with his pole; 'he aisy now' what's the use a prayin' when a feller can touch bottom with a pole?"

JOHN BUNYAN'S FLUTE.—The flute with which John Bunyan beguiled the tedious-ness of his captive hours, is now in the possession of Mr. Howes, tailor, Gainborough.
An appearance, it does not look unlike the lost of a stool, out of which, it is said, Bunyan, while confined in prison, manufactured it. When the tinker, attracted by the sound of music, entered his cell to ascertain if possible, the cause of the melody, the flute was

The May Term of the Cumberland Co. Courts commence on Tuesday next.

The German Military Company, of this town, drill every evening in one of Mr. Kiessle's Buildings, on the 27th ult., Lewis G. Kurtz was elected Captain; Anthony Crisp, 1st Lieutenant; Wm. Miller, 2d Lieutenant. We have heard of no transfers among the Germans.

Rev. Mr. Brown, of the Baptist Church, will preach to the "Cumberland Greys" on Sunday evening next, at 7 1/2 o'clock.

On Wednesday evening last our citizens were aroused by the repeated firing of a cannon from a vessel coming up the creek. All anxiety was allayed when she made her appearance with the stars and stripes unfurled to the breeze. She was a good sized sailing craft, mounted with a brass swivel. The crew was a pleasing party from Camden.

The Board of Freeholders met at the Court House on Wednesday last, and transacted the usual business. It was resolved that the sum of four thousand dollars be raised for the purpose of equipping the Cumberland Greys and all volunteers that are accepted from this County for service, by the Governor of this State, and for the assistance of the families of such volunteers during their term of enlistment.

On Wednesday last, at sunset, a splendid National Flag was thrown to the breeze in Unionville, Upper Hopewell, near West Branch school house. The flag was raised by the ladies of that vicinity, amid prolonged cheers for the Union. About five hundred people were in attendance, and were addressed by Hon. Robert Moore and Abijah S. Hand, Esq. A few of the Cumberland Greys were also present, warmly greeted by all. Excellent music by the Shiloh Brass Band, and Deerfield musicians, added to the enthusiasm. Thirty-four guns were fired for Uncle Sam, when the company dispersed, to the stirring notes of Hail Columbia.

We have received from Hon. John Cochran, M. C., a circular addressed to the citizens of the city of New York, which states that they have initiated a movement, the object of which is to create a force of twenty thousand men, divided into regiments and companies, to be efficiently disciplined, armed and equipped, and ready at all times to defend the city against foes from any quarter, and, if necessary, serve at a distance. Over ten thousand of the citizens of New York have already enrolled their names in the ranks of "The Metropolitan Home Guard."

The attention of our lady readers, and others who purchase Cloaks and Mantillas in Philadelphia, is directed to the advertisements of Mr. Ivens. His establishments are very popular, and the goods sold there are such as cannot fail to give satisfaction. His prices are very reasonable.

The attention of country merchants is called to the advertisement of Arthur Colburn's Washington Splice Mills. Mr. C. is prepared to fill all orders of storekeepers, and others dealing in his line. The trade of South Jersey would do well to give him a call, or when his agent comes around patronize him liberally.

A few days since Mr. John B. Hoffman, of Shiloh, was accidentally shot by a friend, with a revolver, which fortunately did not prove very dangerous. The ball penetrated the cheek near the mouth, came in front of the ear, and lodged in the calvaria. He was looking at his friend working with the pistol when it discharged.

Some weeks since we received from Peterson's publication establishment two books: one entitled, "The Philadelphia Blue Book, containing under the Federal Government, with salaries attached." This is a valuable little work, and should be in possession of all who wish to be posted on the appointments and salaries. The other work must be interesting to some one, as it disappeared from our table as soon as it arrived, and has not been returned since. We hope the person who borrowed it will return it with complimentary notice for publication. Our thanks are also due the above firm for a supply of Woodland Cream and Balm of a Thousand Flowers, which they keep for the accommodation of their customers. It is an excellent article. Peterson's Counterfeit Detector is published monthly at their establishment, and is decidedly the best Detector issued.

The Chesney Tannery has lately been very much improved by its enterprising proprietor, Mr. Jacob Kiessle, who has had new and spacious buildings erected, and introduced steam power, which greatly facilitates business. A six horse engine works four pumps, some of which are applied to drawing water from one vat to another. One of the new buildings is capable of holding one hundred and fifty cords of Bark. The other buildings are arranged in the most convenient manner. Mr. Kiessle is now prepared to accommodate all his old customers and many new ones as may favor him with their patronage. He has not only made these improvements, but intends that the public shall know that he is prepared to accommodate them. His advertisement will be found in another column.

Major Anderson. WASHINGTON, May 7. Major Anderson will soon be ordered to honorable duty. The President contemplates promoting him to a colonelcy, Washington, May 7. Major Anderson has, this evening, with the consent of the President, accepted the command of the Kentucky brigade.

Position of Maryland. The Convention of Maryland. FARMERS, Md., May 8. The Court House was nearly destroyed by fire shortly after 12 o'clock last night. It is supposed to have been a piece of mischief.

The probabilities now are that the Legislature will adjourn on Friday about the 10th of July. As a consequence of the House members' last night, it was decided to adjourn on Friday, and the proposition of the convention.

THE UNION TO BE MAINTAINED.

If any patriot has doubted the unity of determination of those who govern the country, he has but to read the able letter of Mr. Seward, giving instructions to Mr. Dayton, the newly appointed minister to France. But, while the Government in respect to the policy to be pursued by the Administration, have been industriously circulated by the enemies of the government, but these are completely refuted by the clear and explicit declaration of the Secretary, that "there is not now, nor has there been, nor will there be, any least idea existing in this Government of suffering a dissolution of this Union to take place in any way whatever. There will be here only one Nation and one Government, and there will be the same Republic, and the same Constitution that have already survived a dozen national changes and changes of government in almost every other country." The instructions, as clear as words can make them, show the firm and united determination of the government to maintain its integrity, and enforce obedience to its decrees throughout the length and breadth of the land. The policy indicated in this great State paper is the one and the only one which the American people will tolerate. They will cling to this Union and this Government, though they are forced to seal their devotion with their lives; and whatever action the President and Cabinet may take towards supporting the Constitution and enforcing the laws, will be enthusiastically upheld by the people. The views expressed by Mr. Faulkner, our late Minister to France, are answered in a masterly manner. The idea advanced by him that the Government would not attempt to "conquer" the rebel States, is completely annihilated, and the determination of the Government to meet the insurgents who have waged deadly war upon us, and by the strong arm of loyal citizens to restore the property and dominion of the Federal authorities, are explicitly declared. The United States have accepted the civil war as an inevitable necessity. They have been forced to defend themselves, and the European powers are informed that the thought of a secession has not been entertained by any candid statesman here, and that it is high time that it be dismissed by statesmen in Europe. This decided expression of the Administration's determination, certainly should send a thrill of pleasure to every American heart. Like nourishment to the body, it will strengthen the zeal of the people, and rally around the Administration a power irresistible, and which in a few months must exterminate everything like resistance. Every citizen of the Republic must feel proud of the attitude which our Government has assumed.

Military Movements in Bridgeton. For some time past our town has been enlivened by the stirring sound of the rifle and drum, and the appearance of the "Cumberland Greys" frequently on parade. On Wednesday morning last they came out in their new uniform, presenting a most imposing appearance. The suits were manufactured by Messrs. Grosscup, Thompson and Burt, of this place, and reflect much credit on the manufacturers, who have not only executed the work well, but given the company what they will give the Southern rebels if they get an opportunity—fits. They have made rapid progress during the time spent in drilling. The officers have been well chosen, and all the privates appear to be able bodied, rugged men in the prime of life.

On Wednesday afternoon the company met in Grosscup's Hall, which was crowded with spectators, who had assembled for the purpose of witnessing the presentation of a beautiful silk flag to the "Cumberland Greys." Hon. J. T. Nixon was called to the Chair. He made some appropriate remarks, and introduced Paul T. Jones, of Philadelphia, who presented the flag on behalf of the ladies of Bridgeton. His remarks were very forcible and patriotic, eliciting much applause from the company and the entire audience. Mr. Jones has rendered valuable aid to the companies forming in this region. His speeches are calculated to do a vast amount of good.

The flag was received on behalf of the company by Wm. Potter of this town, whose well-timed remarks stirred the hearts of all true patriots, and called forth considerable applause.

Mr. Nixon then briefly addressed the multitude in his usual interesting and able manner, at the close of which cheers were given for Messrs. Nixon, Jones and Potter, the Ladies, the Cumberland Greys, and the flag. The Bridgeton Brass Band added materially to the interest of the occasion, by the performance of several national airs. The company marched through town to their armory, headed by the Band and their new flag, which was a most beautiful specimen of the Stars and Stripes, for which the ladies deserve much credit.
