WAR! WAR!! WAR!!! WAR! WAR!! WAR!!

By present appearances we are on the ere of a civil war. The President of the United States has called on the States that are in favor of maintaining the Laws, for seventy-live thousand troops, and as a matter of course, each State will be called upon to furnish a certain number, and the States being made up of counties, the counties will furnish the required number; and as old Cumberland stands as fair as any other county in the State, she will be called on without doubt. In list event, it has been hinted to me that my services would be required to go with the Company from Bridgeton to cook for them. Delivered by Mr. Jos. D. Flanagan, on the occasion of the Flag raising by the pupils of the Bridgeton Public School.

My only excuse for attempting to make a speech is, that the boys asked me, and I could not say no! and my hesitation increases when I remember that the time for merc speaking has past; the time for action has arrived. But with the stars and stripes floating above my head, and a heart within that beats true to the Union, I can at least bear testimony to the benificence of my country's institutions, and raise my voice against the arm that would pluck one star from the azure field of my country's flag. I think it very appropriate that we, as a school, should assemble ourselves together this day for the purpose of unfurling our standard to the air; there to wave until no foe is left to dispute its supremacy. While the flag of our country can be seen floating, in waves of beauty, in every breeze, not only from our public buildings, but also from the factory, the counting house, and the private dwelling, shall not the children of the public schools show their appreciation of the blessings conferred upon them by the workings of institutions the best on the face of the globe? For the public school system is the natural offspring of our republican institutions. It can find no more congenial soil than our own. In despotic gling in the sacred cause of human rights. governments it is sufficient that the few born to rule should be the sole repositories of future; America, upon whose soil, baptized knowledge; but in our own free and happy land, where every boy looks forward to the the great experiment of a government detime when he can exercise the rights of an pending for its success upon the support of American citizen (a title prouder than that | the people, has become the theatre of civil of a Roman citizen in days of old), a certain war; the light of liberty threatened to be cessaries of life in the rebel States extremedegree of education is necessary to prepare extinguished by suicidal hands, forgetful ly dear, and deprived the enemies, who were him for a proper and intelligent discharge alike of the inspiring memories of the past, of the duties and responsibilities of that and the prospects of a bright future opening them, with a trifling loss of life. Allow me a few additional words in regard

These are times in which the souls of men are stirred to their very inmost depths; times in which the dictates of selfishness are all swallowed up in the nobler impulses of our nature, called forth by some great emergency; some terrible responsibility. From the N. Y. Tribune. A HISTORIC PARALLEL. We are placed nearly in the same coudi-

All the other Governments of Europe, far-off England only excepted, favored the cause of the rebels. Efficient officers. Paixhans and gunpowder were sent to them by Austria and France Gen. Dufour, the Commander-in-Chief of the Government forces, who had fought under Napoleon I, and instructed Louis Napopossibly could be furnished; the Government ordered but 50,000 troops out, and the faithful Cantons furnished nearly 99,000, who were duly accepted; Dufour covered, then, of the rebel States with strong garrisons, and after a careful organization of the remainder of his forces, he commenced the attack; he attacked always but one State, and this one with an overwhelming force.

In this manner, he showed the rebels before hand that they could never succeed and struck terror into their hearts. By the immense number of troops, that always paid cash for what they wanted, he made all nescantily supplied with provisions, of the means of subsistence, and at last conquered ished the war, to the amazement of all Europe, in about fifteen days. Again: with their insecurity, absconpartisans of slavery, we must first examine the grounds on which they claim national independence. The States composing the American Union are already independent on all local questions; they have their own legislatures, governors, judges, etc. But in relation to foreign countries they form but one government-that of the 'United States,' whose seat is at Washington. A strife between a minority of these States and the eminently reproductive, has the art and the government established by the majority, is not of the nature of a strife between two hostile nations. France and England might | prove all its advantages and develope all its offer their good offices to prevent an effusion of blood; but the simple fact that a minority takes a notion to erect itself into a distinct nation, gives foreign nations no right, in common justice, to recognize the independence of the nation thus formed, until the majority of the States themselves recognize of opinion prevailing in France on the general question of slavery. The government will find this opinion a very powerful one. How far the influence of the new American tariff may counterbalance the anti-slavery sentiment, both in England and France, is yet to be decided.

There is but one fortress in the United States-fortress Monroe; all the other fortified places defending our harbors, are called forts. The distinction betwixt these two terms is very wide. All fortresses are forts, or fortified places; but all forts are not fortresses. All colleges are schools; but schools are not colleges. The relation of fort to fortresses, is that of minor to major. A fort may be simply an advanced work, to protect the extended lines or walls of a fortress Generally fortresses are extensive enceintes for the reception of garrisons, and built for the protection of cities. In the United states, no extensive fortified places, with large garrisons, have been constructed for the defence of cities. Fortifications in this country have had reference principally to harbor defence -Fortress Mouroe, with its capacity for a garrison (it includes 75 acres) was constructed for the defence of the important Navy Yard of Gosport and Norfolk, now in posession of Virginia or the Confederate States. The construction of the extensive walls of a fortress involves the highest science of engineering. Not so with forts. The former implies polygous, bastions, curtains, glacis, covered ways, planks, scarps and counter scarps, ravelins, redans, redoubts, and the whole vocabulary of engineering science. Add to this idea a vast enceinte, or circumvallation, to contain a large garrison of troops, and a fortress rises to its proportionate majesty. A full garrison for fortress Monroe is 8,000 men.

Relative Power of the North and South. The relative forces of this Government and of the Southern Confederacy in men and means, form just now a very interesting general result in a form brief and easy to remember. We include Delaware with the of their being attacked, would at all justify North, and omit Maryland, Kentucky and them in any way in interfering" in Ameri- Missouri altogether, as at present undecided

The cash valuation of the nineteen Free

States, with Delaware and the Territories, is about $7,500,000,000; that of the eleven ernment toward the so-called Confederate Slave States is nearly $3,500,000,000. But of this latter sum nearly one-half is reprefive hundred to five hundred million dollars, according to events. They were worth only ing at all. It is a variable property under any circumstances, and if insecure, is valuesion or insurrection, the value of the cotton, sugar and rice lands, which they are the ones to cultivate, would proportionately fall. On the other hand, a great increase of the negro population would beggar the owners by requiring most of a worn-out soil for their support. The real, productive property of those States cannot be rated at over $2,500,-000,000. The North, on the contrary, is industry to renew its lands when impoverished, possesses the skill and the will to im-> wealth, and, in all ways, swells its capital by a sort of daily compound interest. The white males between the ages of eighteen and forty-five, in twenty Free States, (Delaware included) are 3,854,000; in the eleven rebellious States, 1,116,000, and in the three doubtful States, 514,000. If these last be added to the Free States, it will make them 4,368,000; if to the rebels, they will be 1,630,000. In the first case, our men of the military age are three-and-a-half times those of the rebels; in the second, four times as many, and in the last, two-and-threeeighths times as many. Besides, our population increases rateably much faster than theirs, and, in addition to white fugitives > more exclusively than ever, the full flow of foreign immigration. Our vast superiority in ships, manfactures, That such a great preponderance of weight must in the end crush the rebels, admits only of this doubt-whether we may non weary of the cost and labor of "putting down the screws."

More Pole Raisings.

On Thursday of last week a pole, 127 feet high was raised at Port Elizapeth, and on Thursday of this week one was raised at Davis' mill (formerly Null's). The Cumberland Greys were invited and marched out to the raising, where they doubtless had a good time. We are informed that a pole will be raised near Woodruff's, Dutch Neck, on Saturday next. The Stars and Stripes are going up so rapidly in all parts of the coun ts, that we can searcely keep our readers posted.

THE CUMBERLAND GREYS.

On Tuesday afternoon last our town was thrown into quite an excitement, by the sudden appearance of this company, going through the principal streets on a full run or, in military phrase, "in double quick time." with a crowd following in the streets and on the sidewalks The scene was both ficial to each other. An effort to find eminteresting and amusing, and to some of the women folks, and more timid ones who did not understand the ause of such a display, it was some what alarming. Some supposing the sweet consciousness of having relieved the Southerners had made a descent upon from the enemy.

Captain Stickhey was drilling them a little in the active use of their "understandings," which, by the way, was performed remarkably well. If they all learn to, pick theuselves up as dexterously after stumbling on all fours, as one of them did, in front of our office, while on the march, they will do pretty well. It wouldn't do to stumble and fall often while the enemy were in close pursuit, but we doubt not the Cumberland Grees never calculate to retreat or surrender. and if they do have occasion to run, it will be after the enemy instead of from them.

In compliance with orders from Adjutant General Stockton, the company has been increased from seventy-eight to over one hundred. They are expecting to receive marching orders in a few days, when they will leave immediately for Trenton.

AN AGGRESSIVE EXPEDITION. Two Virginia Batteries Destroyed!

Summary Check to the Rebels-They are Scattered in all Directions! Special Dispatch to the N. Y. Tribune

WASHINGTON, May 20, 1861. On Saturday afternoon, the steamboat Star, formerly the Monticello, discovered a partially-formed battery at Sewall's Point. Two guns from the Norfolk Navy-Yard had been mounted, and embrasures had been prepared for about a dozen others. The Star poened fire, and dismounted one gun, when the Thomas Freeborn, Capt. Cash, attracted by the firing, ran down from Fort Washington, and getting nearer shore than the Star's draught permitted, speedily overset the secoff as at present. The thousands of bushels ond. The Freeborn then sent a shot toward a body of 20 or 30 Secessionists, who stood near the ruined battery, which cut clean through them, and scattered them in all directions, and then steamed away.

Last night the Freeborn, while cruising in the Potomac below Fort Washington, overhauled and captured a couple of suspicious schooners. The first was the Virginia from Alexandria The second was the Isabel, which, on being hailed, declared herself to be laden with fish for Alexandria. Until threatened a shot, she refused to stop, but on being boarded, was found to contain thirty of the oddest kind of Secession fish, all well armed. There was no cargo as had been declared. The Isabel was towed up to the spirit of Rebellion, and there too banish the Navy-Yard, where she now lies under

Letter from James Buchanan. To the Editors of the National Intelligencr:-Several items in the Intelligencer have awakened my attention to the facility with which military gentlmen relieve themselves from their oaths and change their allegiance. A military oath has ever been held sacred in all ages and and in all countries. Each military officer swears that he will bear true allegiance to the United States, and serve them hones ly and faithfully against all their enemics and opposers whating all the necessary stores and subsistence soever. The War Movements.

The despatches from Washington foreshadow an active movement on the part of the Government, in which the occupation of a portion of Virginia appears to be contemplated. A new Military Department, comprising Virginia, N. Carolina and Tennessee, has been created, of which General Butler is to be the commander, and he is to repair immediately to Fortress Monroe, which will be his head quarters. The entire Massachusetts quota, with several regiments from New York, are ordered there and will form a body of at least 15,000 troops. It is surmised that a movement will be commenced Richmond, backed by a very powerful force, but nothing is definitely known. but nothing is definitely known.

The Buckeye as a Reaper. The important advantages of the Buckeye as a Mow er are retained in the Reaper. The two driving wheel and dexible bar make it the outr Reaper perfectly adap ed to uneven ground.

The Flutterm is very readily adjusted to any required height of cut.

The RELL is attached with a TEXIBLE JOINT, which adlows it to follow all the movements of the platform on uneven ground, and can be raised or lowered according to the height of the grain.

By removing the RELL, which can be done in a few moments, the platform can be folded against the side of the Machine, to allow it to pass through bars or narrow nassages.

the Machine, to allow it to pass through bars of narrow passages.

The grain is delivered at the bock of the Machine, entirely out of the way of the team on the next round.

The outside wheel, which sustains the platform, isin a direct line with the driving wheels. This is a great advantage in turning corners, as the wheels all work together, obvisting all straining and eramping.

WEST JERSEY WOOLEN FACTORIES.

THE subscribers would direct the attention of farmers and others to their increased facilities for manufacturing superior WOOLEN GOODS, such as Satinetts, Cloths, Blankets, Flannels, Stocking and Carpet Yarn. We manufacture a durable article, of the best quality, and at low prices. We guarantee our goods not only to be equal to the imported in texture, but to stand hard wear much better. Mechanics and laboring men generally would find it to their advantage to purchase of us, instead of wearing foreign goods which will do them no adequate service.

We will pay the highest market prices for WOOL, which can be sent to our Factory at Bridgeton, or Allowaystown, and there manufactured to order, or cash paid. Also, all wool left with Daniel Sheppard, agent at Greenwich, will be promptly attended to.

We do not viu up this staple on speculation, and therefore, whilst paying at the highest rates, we insist that a preference should be freely extended to home manufacturers, and claim that, since up loss is incurred, we should have a priority among wool growers, or those who have wool to sell.

From Hon, Liwie D. Campari, M. C., of Ohio.
My faminy and friends all concur in the opinion that the (Newell) Picture is more life like than any thing they ever saw. My likeness has been repeatedly taken by different Artisis in various ways, but I have never yet had one which presents so true to nature, all the features and expressions of countenance as this.
