WAR! WAR!! WAR!!! WAR! WAR!! WAR!!!

DY present appearances we are on the eve of a civil war. The President of the United States has called on the States that are in favor of maintaining the Laws, for seventy-five thousand troops, and as a matter of course, et ch State will be called upon to furnish a certain number, and the States being made up of counties, the counties will furnish the required number; and as old Cumberland stands as fur as any other county in the State, she will be called on without doubt. In that event, it has been hinted to me that my services would be required to go with the Company from Bridgeton to cook for them. But I respectfully declined, on the ground that my presence would be more valuable at home, to give all who may favor me with their pauronage easy and clean shaves genteel hair cuts, and refreshing shampoons, at noons, at No. 3, GROSSCUP'S BUILDING. I wish to call the attention of parents and guardiaes to the great importance of keeping their children's hair cut, for three reasons: First, it relieves the head of a great weight, second, it is very conductive to health, third, it improves the growth. As the Spring has been very backward, no donbt there is a great many that have been afraid to have it done. To that portion I will say that I do not think their is any cause for further delay.

OH, WHY SHOULD THE SPIRIT OF MORTAL BE PROUD?

following was clipped from a paper printed three years

BY ABRAHAN LINCOLN, ESQ., OF ILLINOIS A correspondent of Zion's Apvocatz (Maine) says the

Oh, why should the spirit of mortal be proud? Like a swift fleeting meteor—a fast flying cloud— A flash of the lightning—a break of the wave— He passeth from life to his rest in the grave. The leaves of the oak and the willow will fade Be scattered around, and together be laid;

Shall crumble to dust, and together shall lie. The infant a mother attended and loved-The mother, that infant's affection who proved; The father, that mother and infant who blessed-Each, all, are away to their dwelling of rest. The maid on whose brow, on whose cheek, in whose of

As the young and the old, and the low and the high,

Shone beauty and pleasure—her triumphs are by; And alike from the minds of the living erased Are the memories of mortals who loved her and praise The hand of the King, that the sceptre hath borne, The brow of the Priest, that the mitre bath worn. The eye of the sage, and the heart of the brave,

Are hidden and lost in the depths of the grave. The pearant, whose lot was to sow and to reap: The herdsman, who climbed with his goats up thester The beggar, who wandered in search of his bread, Have faded away like the grass that we tread. o the multitude goes, like the flower or weed That withers away to let others succeed. So the multitude comes, even those we behold, To repeat every tale that has often been told.

For we are the same that our fathers have been: We see the same sights our fathers have seen; We drink the same stream, we see the same sun; and run the same course our fathers have run. The thoughts we are thinking our fathers did think: From the death we are strinking our fathers did shrink To the life we are clinging our fathers did cling,

But it speeds from us all like the bird on the wing. They loved, but the story we cannot unfold; They scorned, but the heart of the haughty is cold; They grieved, but no wail from their slumbers will come They joyed, but the tongue of their gladness is dumb. They died-ah! they died;-we, things that are now, That walk on the turf that lies over their brow, And make in their dwellings a transient abode, Meet the things that they met on their pilgimage road

Yea, hope and despondency, pleasure and pain, Are mingled together in sunshine and rain, And the smile and the tear, and the song and the dirge Still follow each other like surge upon surge. 'Tis the wink of an eye, 'tis the draught of a breath, From the blossom of health to the paleness of death, From the gilded saloon to the bier and the shroud:

Oh! why should the spirit of mortal be proud? From the Atlantic Monthly for June. ARMY HYMN.

BY OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES.

"OLD HUNDRED." O Lord of Hosts! Almighty King! Behold the sacrifice we bring! To every arm Thy strength impart, Thy spirit shed through every heart! Wake in our breasts the living fires, Thy holy faith that warmed our sires; Thy hand hath made our Nation free. To die for her is serving Thee. Be Thou a pillared flame to show The midnight snare, the silent foe;

And when the battle thunders loud, Still guide us in its moving cloud. God of all Nations! Sovereign Lord! In Thy dread name we draw the sword; We lift the starry flag on high, That fills with light our stormy sky.

From treason's rent, from murder's stain. Till fort and field, till shore and sea Join our loud anthem. PRAISE TO THEE! Worrying.

DIOGENES REDIVIVUS Visits a Contented Farmer's Wife.

I am getting to admire the moderns very much, especially the women 1 find in my journeyings, that there is almost as much diversity of character among them, as with the men. This was impossible in my day, even among the Greeks with whom literature and the fine arts were carried to the highest degree of perfection. But letters and philosophy were not for the Greek woman.-She was a drudge in the field and in the kitchen, and the same unvarying round of duties made, every where, a similar type of but it was only the fame of her husband that made her conspicuous. The women were all scolds and croakers in my day, and if the husbands were not universally the objects of their petty malignity, it was because all husbands had not the meckness and good temper of Socrates. The sex had then, as now, an eye to personal safety. But Mrs. Grimes, (mentioned in the April Agriculturist,) is by no means the type of the modern woman. She is only one of a class, numerous perhaps, but not in the majority. The blinks of my lantern have fallen upon scenes of quiet contentment, happily wedded people; cheerful domestic circles.

which, had they been more common when I dwelt in the flesh, would materially improved my temper and my destiny. Mrs. Content Rogers was a sunny sort of a body as any one could see, by a glance at her front yard and windows. There was a honeysuckle trained upon each side of the door, a flower border running the whole ength of the house, where the crocuses and snow-drops hailed the first genial days of spring, and jonquils, pinks, violets, lilies, ro-ses, and asters lavished their blossoms all sum mer long. The fence was picketed and painted white, indicative of the tidy housewife and the clean consciences within. The windows had green blinds, but they were kept joyously opened, as if the sun and friends were both heartily welcome to the best room. where Content Rogers was the presiding genius. I have sometimes thought that these strongly marked traits of character run in the blood, and that a croaker or a jolly woman was quite as much indebted to her constitution, as to her training, for her peculiar development. Certain it is, that this woman came rightfully by her characteristic hopefulness and contentment. Her muiden name was Goodenough, her father was called Waitstill, and her mother Hope. The last child, ling character of our volunteer soldiers, and (the twelfth by the way) was named Content, the readiness with which the people of the commissioned officers, musicians and privates, as filling the measure of their happiness .- | North fly to the rescue of the government | mustered into the service of this State or the Patience, Faith, Hope, Charity, and Temperance were cherished female names in the family, that had been handed down for many generations. By a sort of manifest destiny, which seems to be as strongly believed in by the moderns as by the ancients, she had married Constant Rogers, and settled in this neat white farm house. Content took me for a belated beggar, as I called quite early at the door "Poor old man, you look tired and hungry," said she, "come in and breakfast, we are just at the

I have always found so many things or woman who goes through the world, to be thankful for, that I never have found grumbling and fretting, is violating the laws time to fret at the little worries of life. We time to fret at the little worries of life. We named our first child Thankful, and somehow a blessing has seemed to follow us ever since. We have not had to wait till Fall for a thanksgiving, for we have had one about every month in the year. Before I got over feeling glad for one thing, I always noticed that another came. When the children were to make a long story short, one bitter cold sick I always felt bad, but they were never sick long, and when they got to running Liddy lived. It was agreed that I should round again, I forgot the past. They made following circumstance. "If our business makes us happy, we think it pays us quite as well as any business that does not make those happy who follow it, even though it gives them more money.-But farming pays well enough in money, i. e., in worldly comfort. Our means grow character. Xantippe scolded her husband, with our wants, and what can any reasonable being ask more? The farm has grown larger, the soil deeper and richer, the cattle have increased, and grown sleek and handsome; the pile of milk pans is higher and brighter, father says, since Thankful was old enough to scour them. The garden is full of fruits and vegetables, and the grain bins re never empty. I left, fully persuaded that Content Rogers had found the philosopher's stone, if I had not found a farmer's wife.

A letter from Washington says of the Rhode Island regiments:

"Visiting the building yesterday, I saw one of the 'high privates' - a young gentleman worth at least half a million, and accustomed to all the luxuries tf high life-busily engaged in washing the floor. He handled his pail and his mop with as much dexterity and good humor as if he had been accustomed to such work. In the same mess is a son of Ex-Governor Hoppin, one of the wealthiest and distinguished citizens of the martial little State. Mr. Hoppin, Jr., was one of the secretaries of the Peace Congress, and then as anxious to prevent a civil war as he is now to show that obedienc to law and the punishment of traitors are essential to good government. Quite a number of others no less distinguished for their high social positions than for their patriotism, adorn the ranks of this noble regiment. "So great was the eagerness to enlist in the glorious cause, that large sums were freely offered for places in the ranks when the regiment was preparing to depart for the scene of action. One gentleman had paid for his passage to Europe when the call for his ticket and enlisted. Such instances of unselfish patriotism could be multiplied to any extent. They serve to exhibit the sterwhen it is menaced by a venal and treasonable oligarchy."

WHISKEY VS BULLETS .- An old soldier offers the following excellent advice to vol-

"My boys! If any among yon have been in the habit of drinking much whiskey, quit such portion of the militia of this State, musit! If you continue to drink hard, your more soler comrades will bury you. In the service you have to undergo, whiskey will kill private as shall make the said increased puy you with more certainty than the ball or equal to four dollars per month; and provided shell. If you are exhausted after a long further, that said increased amount per month march, a jorum of strong tea and a chunk of shall not be paid by the State of New Jersey to march, a jorum of strong tea and a chunk of such portion of said militia as have been provistale bread will do you more good than all ded for in payment to their families by the prothe soldier, not blood. A light diet may go such company was organized. hard on men of strong appetites; but he that lives soberly and lightly will recover of his der of the Adjutant General, and have reported wounds quicker and trouble the hospital less themselves ready for service, and have been acthan the man that drinks hard and gorges himself incessantly."

You know my opinion of female society. Without it, we should degenerate into brutes. This observation applies with tenfold force to young men, and those who are in the prime of manhood. For after a certain prime of life, the literary man may make a shift (a poor one I grant) to do without the society mation required by the sixth section of this Act.

9. And be it enacted, That this act shall be of ladies. To a young man nothing is so important as a spirit of devotion (next to his Creator) to some amiable woman, whose image may occupy his heart; guard it from po-lution, which beset it on all sides. A man ought to choose his wife, as Mrs. Primrose did her wedding-gown for qualities that 'wear well." One thing at least is true, that, if matrimony has its cares, celibacy has no pleasure. A Newton, or a mere scholar, hibit, and which Paul seems to have specially recognised as among "the things that were looking sidy?" I asked.

| many find employment in study; a man of literary taste can receive in books a powerlooking sidy?" I asked. ful auxiliary; but a man must have a bosom Content, smiling, "but I never thought it hard. I do not know what we are to live for, John Randolph.

Jersey Blues.

While so much has already been said, and no doubt will be hereafter, to the praise of the "Jersey Blues," one cannot help wondering how that peculiar appellation was given to the troops of this State, in the days of the Revolution. The following is from the Historical Collections of New Jersey, in explanation of the terms

The origin of this name is somewhat curious. It is said to have grown out of the need their services. It is a great comfort, blue. They must have presented a singular sir, to have good children, and ours are the appearance, but they were singularly efficient in the day of trial."

Much praise was bestowed upon the company as they marched through Philadelphia, headed by the Bridgeton Brass Band, which also attracted considerable attention, their performance, considering the youthful appearance of most of them, was deemed highly creditable.

The scene of parting with the Band and many friends, as the company crossed the river, was mingled with joy and sadness. They arrived in Trenton about 10 o'clock, being heartily greeted along the line. The Camden Press says "they were a fine looking corps," and in Trenton they were pronounced the finest looking company that had yet arrived there.

The following remarks, by the editor of the the Gloucester County Times, are se appropriate, that we give them for application. The Pronege has the promise of a letter frequently from some of the "Cumberland Grays."

We accompanied the boys, in order to witness the style of the entertainment. The tables were spread in long, low buildings, and were as primitive as the tables were when saw-mills were first established, and when boards first came into fashion. The dishes were of tin, but bright and cleanly. Cooked, but cold pork, and beef, together with hot stewed beans, first-rate army bis-cuits, hot coffes, sugar, mustard, &c., completed the homely but good and substantial bill of fare. The volunteers, most of them enjoyed the dinner with a gusto and keener appetites than was ever Some few, of course, turned up their nasal organs at the rations. But upon inquiry, as we have generally found, said persons never had as good at their own homes. Grays. At a meeting of the Cumberland Grays, held at their armory on Monday morning, May 27th, 1861, the following Preamble and Resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, We, the members of the Cumberland Grays, expecting in a few hours to leave our present quarters, to be mustered into the service of the United States, and having been the recipients of numberless favors from the citizens of Bridgeton and vicinity, and being unwilling to leave without showing our gratitude, in some manner, be it Resolved, That we do return our sincere and heartfelt thanks to all those who have manifested so much interest in our welfare, and have contributed in various ways to promote our comfort and happiness, assuring them that their many kindnesses in our behalf, will be held in grateful remembrance by every member of the company, and that we will at all times deport ourselves in such a manner, as to prove that they have not been unworthily bestowed.

Resolved, That to the Relief Committee ers of this County, our special thanks are due, for the liberal provisions made by them for the Support of ourselves, while drilling, and for our tamilies, while we are away engaged the defenc of our country, promising them that we shall never attach dishonor, by any act of ours, upon the noble old County which has sent us forth. Resolved, That we return our thanks to the pastors of the different Churches, who so kindly extended invitations to us to attend service at their respective places of worship, and shall ever feel grateful for the interest evinced by them for us, and for their salutary advice and counsel. Resolved, That to the Ladies of Bridgeton, fo their labors in our behalf, we do feel truly grateful, and take this method of returning our thanks to them, for the many expressions of their favor and approbation which we have received.

Resolved, That the beautiful Flag, which was presented us by the young ladies of this place, tarough Paul T. Jones, Esq., and received by Wm. E. Potter, Esq., in behalf of the Company. shall never be dishonored, but will be defended from disgrace and ignominy so long as there is one man of the Company left, and we will never, in our absence, while mustered beneath its bright and glistening folds, forget the fair donors from whom we received it. Resolved, That to the gentlemen who assisted at the presentation and reception of the flag, and for their able, eloquent, and patriotic addresses on that occasion, we do return our thanks, and humbly acknowledge the favors conferred upon

Resolved, That to the Press of Bridgeton, for their favorable notices given of this Company, we feel extremely grateful, and trust that their flattering predictions may all be realized.

Resolved, That we will at all times place implicit trust in our commissioned officers, whom we have selected to take the command of us, hereby dence in their military qualifications and abiliknown to any epicure who ever sat down to the ties, and we promise them that we will never hea-sumptuous tables of the Continental Hotel.— itate to follow where they will lead the itate to follow where they will lead the way. Proclamation of the Queen of England. New York, May 27.—The steam ship Etna has arrived. The following is the proclamation of Queen Victoria in relation to the American war: Whereas, we are happily at peace with all the sovereign Powers and States, and whereas hostilities have unhapply commenced between the government of the United States and certain States styling themselves the confederate States of America; and whereas we being at peace with the government of the United States, have declared our royal determination to maintain a strict and impartial heutrality between the said contending parties, we therefore have thought fit, by and parties, we therefore have thought in, by and with the advice of our Privy Council, to issue our royal proclamation, and we hereby warn all our loving subjects, and all persons whatever entitled to our protection, that if any of them shall presume, in contempt of this proclamation and of our high displeasure, to do any acts in derogation of this duty, as subjects of a neutral sevential seventi reign in said contest, or in violation or contravention of the law of nations, and more especially by entering the military service of either of the contending parties as commissioned or non-commissioned officers or soldiers, or by serving as officers, sailors or marines on board of any ship or vessel of war or trantsport of, or in the service of either of the contending parties, or by engag-ing to or going to any place beyond the seas with the intent to enlist or engage in any such service. or by procuring or attempting to procure within her Majesty's dominions, at home or abroad, others to do so, or by fitting out, arming or equip-ing any ship or vessel to be employed as a ship of war, or privateer, or transport by either of the said contending parties, or by carrying officers, soldiers, dispatches, arms, military stores or materials, or any article considered and deem-ed to be contrabend of war according to law or the modern usage of nations, for the use of either of the said contending parties, all parties so offending will incur and be liable to the several penalties and penal consequences by the said statute or by the law of nations in that behalf imposed.

And we do hereby declare that all our subjects and persons entitled to our protection, was may misconduct themselved in the premises will do so at their peril and of their own wrong, and they will in nowice obtain any protection from us against any liabilities or penal consequences, but will, on the contrary, incur our displaceure by such intecenduct.

THE WAR MOVEMENTS.

The rebels at Harper's Ferry are completely surrounded. This week an attack was to have been made upon them at Grafton by Major General McClella western Virginia with his Ohio troops, issued followed upon the subject of Penmanship. a proclamation, assuring loyal citizens of peace and protection and non-interference with their slaves, and inciting them to sustain the government and repudiate the traitors.

One hundred fugitive slaves have arrived at Fortress Monroe, and have been set to work.

The Navy Department are about to issue proposals for building 80 or 40 gun boats of 500 tons burthen for the Navy. The Secretary will also probably recommed the immediate commencement of the building of from two to five large iron war steamers, which are much needed in the Navy, or the purchase of them from some foreign country, ing; pointing out many defects, and suggest- in his report to congress at its special session. An important movement in Virginia is evidently in progress on the part of the Government troops, but the object is very properly concealed from the outside public as yet and will so be kept, as all the others have been till it is revealed by the realt. General McDowell has been assigned to the command of the department of Virginia, and other movements are in progress on the western side of the hostile line, which point to a severe conflict within a few days, unless all the important points are quietly surrendered by the secessionists. The dispatches last ight state that two thousand government troops have crossed the Potomac river wite directions to rendezvous at Grafton, a town at the iunction of the Baltimore & Ohio and North-Western Railroads. The movement was to be made under the direction of General McClellan, who will be sustained by a powerful army, with which he will be prepared to advance upon Richmond It is also rumored that movement will be made simultaneously by Gen. Patterson from Philadelphia, via Harrburg and Chambersburg, upon Harpers Ferry. The Confederate troops re reported to have gathered in strong force at all these points, with General Beauregard not further off than Richmond, and we may therefore look for news of a conflict at any moment. At Harpers Ferry the rebels have detained twenty-engines and the coal trains, in order to form them into barricades, or probably to use some of them for the transport of troops and munitions of war from the interior of Virginia. Near the Point of Rocks they have also succeeded in barricading the the road by blowing down upon the track the immense rock which they failed to move on the first attempt.

Advices srom Fortress Monroe indicate that Gen. Butler is rapidly putting himself in a position to prosecute offensive operations on a large scale.

North Second Street, Philadelphia. Physi- Buckeye Premium Mower, WITH FLEXIBLE FOLDING BAR.

THE unprecedented success of this Machine is a con-vicing proof of its excellence. It has never failed, THE imprecedented success of this Machine is a convicing proof of its excellence. It has nover failed, whorever introduced, to take precedence over all other Mowers, and the important principles embraced in its construction, and covered by its patents, are now universally conceeded to be indispensable to a Perfect Mower. This concession is in the strongest manner attested by the fact that so many Mowing Machine manufacturers, abandoning their own patterns, are now modelling after the Buckers in all points where they think it possible to evade its patents: the popularity of their machines is found to be in exact proportion to the extent of their initations and infringements.

The farmer, who contemplates purchasing a Mower for the harvest of 1861, will, in selecting the Buckers, secure the only Machine which combines all the requisites of a perfect Mower, including strength, simplicity, durability, convenience, perfect adaptation to uneven surface, ease in backing, turning, safety to the driver, ease to the learn and capacity of doing good work on any description of land, and in any variety or condition of grass. Earmers wishing to avoid disappointment, must give their orders early in the season.

The Buckeye as a Reaper. The important advantages of the Buckeye as a Mower are retained in the Reaper. The two driving wheels and flexible bar make it the oxiv Reaper perfectly adapted to uneven ground.

The Platform is very readily adjusted to any required height of cut.

The Real's attached with a Flexible joint, which allows it to follow all the movements of the platform on uneven ground, and can be raised or lowered according to the height of the grain.

By removing the Riel, which can be done in a few moments, the platform can be folded against the side of the Machine, to allow it to pass through bars or narrow passages.

the Machine, to allow it to pass through bars or narrow passages.

The grain is delivered at the book of the Machine, entirely out of the way of the team on the next round.

The outside wheel, which sustains the platform, is in a direct line with the driving wheels. This is a great advantage in turning corners, as the wheels all work together, obviating all straining and crampting.

Prof. Chas. De Grath's ELECTRIC OIL." I propose to care almost instantaneously, individuals afflicted with Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, and all Bronchial affections

I propose to check and effectually dissipate more ache and pain, and to accomplish nearer and more perfect equilibrium of all the circulating fluids in the human system than can be effected by any other or all other methods of medical aid in the same space of time, the masses themselves being judges.

I do not propose to cure every disease, but all such as are enrable by any combination of medical appliances.—My Electric Oil operates on chemical and electric principles, and is, therefore, applicable to the cure or natural restoration of any organic derangement, arising from any improper circulation of Nervo-vital fluid.

Cures Rheumatism cicen in a day.

COMMENDATIONS:

From Hon. Lawis D. Campell, M. C., of Ohio.

My family and friends all concur in the opinion that the (Newell) Picture is more life like than any thing they ever saw. My likeness has been repeatedly taken by different Artists in various ways, but I have never yet had one which presents he true to natune, all the features and expressions of countenance as this.

From E. Jor Morris, late Minister to Italy.

The exquisite finish, beauty and softness of your portraits, conjoined with their durability of color and faithfuness as likenesses, cannot full to commend them to the attention and patronage of all who appreciate true art.

Art.

Having occasion for a portrait, I procured one from Mr. Robert Newell, of the city of Philadelphia, a miniature in Oil Colors, under the new process discovered by him, and take great pleasure in expressing the satisfaction given me, not only by the accuracy of the likeness, but its artistic finish in all respects, and recommend him to the patronage of those disposed to encourage the beautiful art.
