TO THE NEW JERSEY VOLUNTEERS.

For the West Jersey Pioneer.

Language would seem inadequate to the task of describing my feelings when I view the dark wings of desolation that are about to spread themselves over our land; our beautiful home of liberty. But we must therefore consider, as an indisputable principle, and as the basis and foundation of the study of profane history, that the providence of the Almighty has, from all eternity, appointed the establishment, duration and destruction of Kingdoms and Empires, as well as in regard to the general laws of the universe; known only to God, who constituted the order and wonderful harmony of its several powerful Monarchs were, in God's hand, as attenshuns. so many instruments which he employed to punish the transgressions of his people.-When we look at the rapidity with which our government has prepared for it's defence, it ought to enable us to discern the invisible hand which conducts us. You are his instruments to punish and put down the rebellion of the South. It is with a degree of joy mingled with sadness that I see you leave us; happy to see you true to your country, but sad to think that your homes must be made desolate. You go, perhaps, to meet my kinsmen of the Southern clime; that Sunny South, the home of my ancestors .-O! can it be that your banners shall be stained with my own kindred blood? Must those loved ones (yet traitors to our country), must their hearts blood be spilled by the gun and musket, held in the hands of the gallant sons of my own dear, native State? If it sad condition of our country; the land of blood of our ancestors. Hark! do we not hear their blood crying, from the ground, "Defend your liberty, which our blood hath dearly hought?" Can it he more delusion? Indicate the interest of the southern Conthieveracy.

I was premptorally ordered to haul down the Stars & Stripes. A deppytashun of red faced men cum up to the door, of my tent Capting of that Corpse, I am, and J. Davis, dearly bought?" Can it be mere delusion?

Cain? "Thy brother's blood crieth unto me from the ground." But be it delusion, we will honor the seeming call, and defend our rights; and if there are not sons of the North sufficient to put down rebellion, I would gladly see a proclamation from our President soliciting the assistance of seventy-five thousand of its daughters. We cannot endure to erties, though we may be forced to seal our devotion with our lives. We will struggle hard to put down treason and despotism; we will defend our flag of liberty; the Stars and Stripes must ever wave from North to South, from East to West. It has, and must, till time shall be no more, wave independent of every nation, o'er land and sea; yes, from the sperklin eppygrams. Atlantic to the Pacific, and if we fall in the struggle, we will rest beneath the Stars and Stripes; and that liberty which our fathers left us we, too, will leave as a rich legacy to our children. If blood must be spilled, it will be done in defence of liberty and justice. The Scriptures declare that wars must be: therefore we must remember that it is the mystery of Providence in making the wicked chiefly instrumental in their own destruction. Then go, ye noble and much loved sons of New Jersey. It is your Great Captain, the conqueror of the universe, that calls you out. Then go and receive his orders; he, himself, will put the sword in your hands, and appoint your daily march. I feel assured that he will breath courage and ardor into our soldiers, and make their armies indefatigable in labor, and invincible in battle. With such a captain, you need not fear but that you will make a rapid conquest.-Mothers, sisters and wives will feel an intense degree of anxiety concerning their absent ones. How often will their minds revert with pleasure to the happy hours they have | less, for a variety of reasons, as I readily obenjoyed in your society. Your likeness, which holy and undying love has once portrayed on the deep shrine of your mother's heart, will never vanish; it will burn on, undefaced in its lustre, amid all the vicissi-

THE BLESSINGS OF SUNDAY.

"I never before knew what a blessing Sunday was." said a merchant, in our hearing, lately; "if it wasn't for the repose which Sunday gives, we should all break down in health such times as these."

The speaker was a man who had reached his fiftieth year, whom prosperity had at and that he must lay aside all hope of it for tended from childhood, and who now first realized the blessedness of Sunday, because, sez I, larfin one of my silvery larfs. I thawt for the first time in life, he had seen, literal-

Among some of these very men, too, it has been a custom to declaim against Sunday | nubial life, the "ungathered roses" still cling as a relic of superstitious times. It was an to the "ancestral tree," and wither where old Hebrew institution, such persons would they hang. However much men may feel frequently say, of which this enlightened the cost of woman's extravagance, and howage should be ashamed. Alas! they forgot ever little they can afford it, woman feels it that to the poor there was no rest, except on still more and can afford it still less. that day. The millionaire, nay, even the man in moderate circumstances, could take an afternoon's holiday whenever he wished; sound social policy. The prudent reduction but the prudent laborer had to toil, and toil, of the cost of living indirectly increases the and toil, from Monday morning till Saturday prosperity of business. Men complain that night. Without Sunday, thousands of the they cannot make money, and yet they earn honest poor would never enjoy a walk in the money enough. Five hundred dollars saved his surest wealth—her economy, his safest country, a rest from work, or the luxury of from an annual expenditure of $2,000 is a steward—her lips, his faithful counsellor a whole day with his children.

It is not the place here to enter the controversy how Sunday should be kept. It is who would not be just as well, nay, better Heaven's blessings on his head. enough to say that, whether kept as the Puritans kept it, or kept with the greater license of earlier times, it is better than to have no day of rest at all.

For neither human muscles, nor the human brain, con endure incessant tension.-Body, as well as mind, requires change.-The old Scotch Covenanters, who observed sonable. t all to pieces. Meanwhile dirty faced boys Sunday, perhaps, with more strictness than any other sect, used to say, with much cogency, that the cessation from the temporal thoughts, which their manner of keeping Sunday brought about, tended to spiritualize the people more than any other method.

Unquestionably, the moral nature of man, as well as the physical, needs a Sunday.-Without families, for example, without the loose change therein contained. They then affectionate solicitude of a wife, or the sweet caresses of children, we should degenerate almost into brutes. Without Sunday, and the rest. The tiger has a excentric way of the peace and repose it brings even to those tearin dogs to pieces, and I allers supposed who rarely go to church, we should be infrom his gineral conduck that he'd hav no finitely more degraded; for, on Sunday, the hesitashun in servin human beins in the great majority of men, however they may differ as to its observance, have calmer and better thoughts than on other days. Who can estimate, even as an institution of mere morals, the blessedness of Sunday?

enforce economy in all our homes, and many comfort. The wonderful prosperity of our turn. country has led to extravaSant habits of living, fatal alike to republican and Christian simplicity, and it may be hoped that adversity will teach wise lessons. The Springfield Republican has some plain remarks on female extravagance: This is a hard subject for us to touch upon

FEMALE EXTRAVAGANCE.

The general monetary embarrassment will especially with words of fault-finding. A woman does look so prettily when well dressed, that, until some startling developments have rendered it imperative, we have refrained from saying a word against the extravadress. We think that we do not "stretch the truth,, in stating that the dress of wo man costs two dollars now where it did one ten years ago. It is now silk everywhere, or an expensive fabric of wool; and cotton is universally at a discount. The shop-girl stands in silk behind the counter, and as the shop-girl wears the dress that the fashionable woman did ten years ago, the latter is obliged to adopt a fabric of more costly character. so that where the dolla wilk was once good enough, the heavy three dollar moire antique will alone suffice. Ten to twenty dollars are now paid for a hat, where five and ten dollars were once considered extravagant. It is thus in every department of female dress. This tendency to over dress was once considered an American vulgarity; but there is no lack of extravagance abroad now, and societies have already been formed in European continental cities for its suppression. The singular fact has been pretty widely published that in Boston, during the past year, the number of marriages has been rednced twenty per cent. from the previous year. Now we have not the slightest doubt that this fact grows out of the conscious inability of young men, starting in life and business, to support wives in a manner consonant with the present requisitions of social life. Girls must keep house and keep it in style, or they must board in a costly boarding-house, and dress in a manner corresponding to that entertained by the daughters of the Millionaire. There is no more of the occupation of the humble home at first, no more of the self-denial by which the wife becomes the sharer of the young hasband's poverty and struggles; no more of adaptation grows up with the husband into fortune: but marriage must now bring at once all the advantages and all the show of fortune, or it may not be indulged. In other words marriage has become a costly and rare luxury, to be had only for money, and not that natu ral and unrestricted connection of accordant loves and lives which is necessary to the hap piness of both man and woman, and essentia to the purity and progress of society. This puts a serious face upon the matter a very serious face. In the history of every nation, that which has operated as a bar to the marriage of the sexes has been the nurse of vice. A man who has really made up his mind that he cannot afford to be married years, at least, is in a dangerous position .-He has lost some of the most powerful restraints from vice that have ever influenced him; and while he adopts a course that unfits him for the pure pleasures of home and con-

The general idea of living is altogether above the mark of Christian prudence or snug little snm to lay up every year, and her bosom, the softest pillow of his caresthere are few families expending this sum and her prayers, the ablest advocates of off, with the reduction. We would by no means exempt men from the charge of extravagance, but we do not think their expenses have been increased in the degree of those of their wives and daughters. It is hard denying woman anything, but if they of Mr. Bell, who hastily collected what assets are true women they will ask nothing unrea-

GREAT TROUBLES SOON OVER In winter it is difficult even to think of the earth as clad in the green and flowers of summer. So, in times of trial and distress, a large number of persons give way to utter despair, as though prosperity could never re-

It is, nevertheless, true, that the causes of prosperity are constant in their operation. and that causes of misfortune arc evanescent. The rivers flow always; the forces of nature never tire or cease; the soil and the sea produce their annual average of wealth. The passions of man, which disturb the flow and gathering of nature's beneficence, are violent; and because they are violent they are soon exhausted. Gentle love and friendship are lasting; fierce hate and anger are necessarily short. All the permanent influences of nature and civilization lead to peace and plenty. Short is the career of a tornado: short the volcanic eruption, and the crashing thunder-storm is short Everything in nature and in life, that is not gentle and beneficial, is exceptional and of brief duration. If the river rushes furiously down the rocky steep, it is that it may the sooner reach the tranquil lake. If the lightning and the thunder are peculiarly terrific, it is because nature is wildly impatient to restore the lost equilibrium of the elements which is peace and safety to all her creatures. How wise was that philosopher who, on being asked for a maxim which would serve both for a warning in prosperity and a consolation in adversity, gave the following: "THIS, TOO, WILL PASS AWAY!"

BUTLER'S SHREWDNESS .-- A probable truthful story of one of Ben Butler's professional freaks is told by a young factory girl, formerly employed in one of the Lowell mills. She had been discharged, and the don't know widders. I don't put the bottle to my neighbor's lips. I ain't got no neighbors and retained Mr. Butler for her counsel. He listened to her case with much interest, and afterwards consulted the representative of the corporation, who still refus ed to pay the girl her wages. Butler then issued a writ, and attached the main water wheel of the establishment, and by bringing the whole manufactory to a stop the corporation, rather than allow their mill to remain idle and await the laws delay, paid the

A Lecture will be delivered in Grosscup's Hall, on Thursday evening. June 20th. by Rev. J Langdon Smith, who was driven from Texas for his devotion to the Star Spangled Banner and who, in his journey through the South, was arrested as a spy, and sentenced to be hung.

At the close of the Lecture a collection will be taken for the benefit of Mr. S., who was robbed of everything, even to the clothing of himself and wife, by the "chivalry." Doors open at 71 o' clock. Admission Free.

Mr. S. was a resident of Texas four years, and of Galveston, in that State, about 6 months pre vious to his being driven away, in consequence of his Union sentiments. At Lynchburg, Va., on the 21st of Mny, he was arrested as a spy. court morning at 9 o'clock, and would have been, had it not been for the interposition of friends, who managed to get him and his wife away from the sentinels, who were guarding the door of the room in which they were placed.

CAMP OLDEN, June, 1861. The Arsenal walls surrounded our company, and a warm meal awaited us, such as would give new life and vigor to all, Adam's ale, fresh biscuit, molasses, mustard, vinegar, boiled pork, stewed beef the deserts I'll not mention. During meal time the boys were jovial and behaved like men; occasionally while scated at our long tables, beneath the shady covering of the restaurants, remarks from our neighbors were thrown out. indicating that we were a little more dignified than would average among those already mustered within the walls of the arsenal.

Immediately after dinner we enjoyed good long noening, some enjoying the sweets of the smoke-pipe, many in conversation, conversation, whose chief topic was the character and nature of their new associates; others threw themselves in the arms of the sleeping goddess, and somnus pervaded their weary limbs, while reclining in various places, upon the upper and soft side of the pine plank, hair mattrasses, feather beds, and alarm clocks are all out of date. We prefer and adopt for a s'eeping couch, the plank, or a bed of horse feathers, with the head little inclined or elevated. Sleep is sweet and one dreams pleasant; but I must finish my yarn. On the afternoon of the same day the Cumberland Grevs were marched up to the State House, the iron gates thrown open, martialed, and sentenced io be hung the next the seats of the Assembly room tendered us; our names were then called, the officers first. an I each was examined as they marched up to the desk. For the West Jersey Pioneer. CAMP OLDEN, June 9, 1861. MR. EDITOR: - Sitting under an apple tree by the side of the stream that passes our Camp, in a retired position. I thus attempt to write, though I scarcely know what to write; yet I am here with the desire, having gotten well over my dinner, which consisted of bread and water. I think I am sufficiently strong in body, although I may not be in mind. Our Camp is not in a favorable locality for health, but as it seems probable we will move from here about the twentyfifth of this month, we will not change; although the report is current that the second regiment will move quarters to-morrow. We have been on drill this morning The Col. is decided in his commands, and we would not be least to obey him, and in consequence of his orders our Captain has received much blame, perhaps undeserved. The Greys, as a general thing, are talking about his indisposition to be sociable, and the change that has come over him since we left Bridgeton; and various other complaints are passing thro' the Company, which I have no chance to agree with, being so far destitute of cause of complaint; and further, I am confident if we do our duty we shall in the end come off victorious, although Capt. Stickney may not have that pleasant and pleasing ton erament that others possess. I love his conmanner; his desire to have a thing well done; his promptness and (I know) his desire that we should succeed. Thus I have attempted to speak my sentiments relating to our Captain, whom we so unanimously elected at B; and, Mr Editor, there is duties connected with the office of Captain that we, as privates, no nothing about: hence the impropriety of condemning one without a just cause. The disturbance has been increasing from day to day like a contagious disease. until many have caught it. I, as one, have thus far had no cause of complaint. It has awakened their attention to the duty of a collection for the Bible cause, and has enabled, even feeble congregations, making small contributions, o procure a full supply of Bibles and Testaments for the use of their Sunday

It affords the managers great pleasure to state that when the Cumberland Grays -a military company formed in our midst from the ranks of our relatives and friends, and who have enlisted for three years in the cause of their imperiled country—were about leaving their homes. the Society with the aid of a few young ledies, were enabled to present to each

All these are so clearly revealed, so sharply defined in the pages of the written word, that even the simplest amongst us need not err, if they submit their judgment to its heaven;y teachings.

The appeal to us, as patriots, to give larger circulation to the Bible, comes with a new force just now. Peculiar dangers threaten our beloved land; peri's impend rebellion against lawful authority stalks plausible garb of "Sceession" and "State Rights;" so plausible that even good men sometimes fail to recognize beneath the mask the wickedness of the treason. All around us institutions and forms of gov ernment seem to be crumbling, which we had fondly hoped and dreamed would be perpetual.

When the son of Garabaldi was about leaving his home to enter upon a course of study in a Protestant Seminary in England, his father, in giving to him the parting benediction, said: "My son, the Bible is the cannon which will liberate Italy." As if he has said, "Although | am the chosen instrument in God's hands dom until they find it in the pages of his unshackled word." Buckeye Premium Mower, WITH FLEXIBLE FOLDING BAR.

WITH FLEXIBLE FOLDING BAR.

THE unprecedented success of this Machine is a convicing proof of its excellence. It has never failed, wherever introduced, to take precedence over all other Mowers, and the important principles embraced in its construction, and covered by its patents, are now universally conceded to be indispensable to a Perfect Mower. This concession is in the strengest manner attested by the fact that so many Mowing Machine mannfacturers, abandoning their own patterns, are now modelling after the Buckere in all points where they think it possible to evade its patents; the popularity of their machines is found to be in exact proportion to the extent of their initiations and infringements.

The fermer, who contemplates purchasing a Mower for the harvest of 1891, will, in selecting the Buckers, secure the only Machine which combines all the requisites.

of a perfect Mower, including strength, simplicity, durability, lightness of draft, freedom from side draft, portucibility, convenience, perfect adaptation to uneven surbility, convenience, perfect adaptation to uneven sur-face, ease in backing, turning, safety to the driver, ease to the team, and capacity of doing good work on any de-scription of land, and in any variety on condition of grass. Farmers wishing to avoid disappointment, must give their orders early in the season.

Wooden Ware, Queensware, Bronchitis and Inflammation of the Lungs cured by Wishart's Pine Tree Tar Cordial. MR. WISHART .- Sir; I had bronchitis. inflammation of the lungs, shortness of breath, and palpitation of the heart in their worst form; I had been treated by several of the most eminent Physicians in Philadelphia, but they could not stop the rapid course of my disease, and I had despaired of ever being restored to health. I was truly on the very verge of the grave. Your Pine Tree Tar Cordial was highly recommended to me by a friend; I tried it, and am thankful to say that, after using four large, and one small bottle, I was restored to perfect health. Consumption and Spitting of Blood cured by Wishart's Pine Tree Tar Cordial. Mr. Wishart .- Dear Sir: - I had what people call Consumption, and it was pronounced incurable by all that knew me. I was so bad that I could not work and had a very bad cough, and raised large quantities of matter or phlegm, and for five days before

I commenced to use your Tar Cordial, I am certain that I spit, at the least calculation, half a pint of blood every day, and thought DRESS TRIMMINGS, in every variety.

The above witnesses are but a few of the hundreds and thousands that have been ruised from the very verge of the grave, when physicians and friends, and all medicines have failed. The PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL circulating through the lungs, dissolves all the phlegm or mucus that glues up the pores of the lungs, which, if allowed to remain, will canker and corrode until the lungs become full of little sores, and the patient is far gone in consumption.
We say that the Pine Tree Tar Cordial will cleanse the lungs of all the above impurities, and heal up the sores, and restore the lungs to their usual soundness. We say to the sick try it for yourselves, and prove its wonderful powers to cure.

WEST JERSEY WOOLEN FACTORIES. THE subscribers would direct the attention of farmers and others to their in-tion of farmers and others to their increased facilities for manufacturing superior WOOLEN GOODS, such as Saunetts, Cloths, Blankets, Horse Blankets, Flannels, Stocking and Carpet Yarn. We manufacture a durable article, of the best quality, and at low prices. We guarantee our goods not only to be equal to the imported in texture, but to stand hard wear much better. Mechanics and laboring men generally would find it to their advantage to purchase of us, instead of wearing foreign goods which will do them no adequate service.

We will pay the highest market prices for WOOL, which can be sent to our Factory at Bridgeton, or Allowaystown, and there manufactured to order, or cash paid. Also, all wool left with Daniel Sheppard, agent at Greenwich, will be promptly attended to.

We do not buy up this staple on speculation, and therefore, whilst paying ore, whilst paying Cash for Wool, at the highest rates, we insist that a preference should be freely extended to home manufacturers, and claim that, since no loss is incurred, we should have a prority among wool growers, or those who have wool to sell.

R. NEWELL, Gallery of Art, 724 Arch Street, Philadelphia.

From E. Jor Monns, late Minister to Italy.

The exquisite finish, beauty and softness of your portraits, conjoined with their durability of color and faith-unces as likenesses, cannot fall to commend them to the attention and patronage of all who appreciate true

Having occasion for a portrait. I procured one, from Mr. Robert Newell, of the city of Philadelphia, a ministure in Oil Colors, under the new process discovered by him, and take great pleasure in expressing the satisfaction given me, not only by the accuracy of the likeness, but its artistic finish in all respects, and recommend him to the patronage of those disposed to encourage the beautiful art.

COMMENDATIONS:
From Hon. Lewis D. Camperly, M. C., of Ohio.
My faminy and friends all concur in the opinion that the (Newl) Picture is more life like than any thing they ever saw. My likeness has been repeatedly taken by different Artists in various ways, but I have never yet had one which presents so true to nature, all the features and expressions of countenance as this.
