For the West Jersey Pioneer. MANASSAS. BY MES. SARAH S. SOCWELL.

THE ADVANCE. A mighty army's on the march O'er old Virginia's plaine; The earth vibrates to the measured tread Of its steady moving trains. Glittering along the endless lines, We catch the sabre's gleam, And flaunting proudly to the breeze Our starry banners stream. And ringing clear, from fervent hearts, Freedom's high songs are sung; Songs which, in many a battle fought For human rights, have sung.

Here Yankee Doodle's stirring strains Arouse the martial spirit Of those whose brave sires gained the boon Of freedom we inherit. In every note we catch the swell Of the fierce voice of battle, The bugle call-the cannon's boom. And musketry's sharp rattle.

"Am Rhein! Am Rhein!" from thousand deep-ton Peals the loved chorus of the Fatherland; With swelling hearts, 'neath Freedom's sacred bans Once more these exiles, in proud order, stand. Am Rheim! Am Rheim!" o'er many a fierce-fough firm as a rock they'll meet the battle's surges, While those high words fill every heart with flame Each blow will strike from Fatherland a fetter, For freedom, everywhere, is still the same.

Hath rung, in clarion tones, that rallying cry; There Freedom's fires are quenched—her proud hope porished-Here, that refrain leads on to victory.

There, swelling on the summer air, The Marsellaise rings loud and clear, The utterance of a nation's hope-The haughty tyrant's fear. For if, o'er France's sunny hills, Should echo that triumpnant strain, Her monarch's throne would sink in blood. And Freedom live again. THE RETURN.

Alas! Alas! see that proud host returning; Not in the pomp of Victory's bright array; Bur crowding on, discomfited and broken. The sword and buckler vilely cast away. Can the bright sun look calmly down upon them That terror-stricken, wildly flying host, With banners soiled and torn, and sadly drooping, Their bright stars pale—their olden glary lost. No music now—no pealing songs of deedom, Echo from rank to rank along the plain: But groans of anguish—cries of mortal terror— Hoarse abouts-unheeded orders-shricks of pain.

Gone is the splendid pageant of the morning— Gone the torn remnant of the host that fied— The summer night looks down, in selemn silence Upon the host of dying and the dead. Rouse in thy might, O nation of proud freemen!

The blood of thousands crieth unto heaven-Rise in thy strength-regain thy glorious famel God of the nations! bare thine arm.

Make known thy mighty p wer; Save thou our country from her foes In this her darkest hour.

Sabbath Schools must have their concert When the appointed time comes round, Surely 'tis a precious meeting, For the children there are found. 'Tis not safe to pass it over,

Thrust aside their precious claim, But took children to his bosom, As a shepherd doth his lambs. Some there were who tried to keep them Waiting till some other day,

But the Lord, their zeal rebuking, Told them of a better way. O, then let them have their concert,

Be the weather foul or fair, So that when the Savior calls them, They may answer "Here we are;" Tell them they can't come too early To their Friend who reigns above, For ere they can lisp his praises, They are old enough to love.

Capacity of the Country to Sustain War. Some persons, whether timorous or uninformed, have shrunk back, somewhat aghast, at the prospect of a $500,000,000 loan, with the possibility of its being doubled or trebled by a continuance of the war. Such persons may be reassured ly comparing our means and probable exertions with those of Great Britain in her tremendous struggle with France and the half of Europe for twenty three years, or from 1793 to 1816. We condense and set down in the nearest millions a few of the most prominent statistics of that continen-

At the commencement of that war, entered upon by England against the principles and wishes of at least one-third of the nation, the population of England, Wales and Scotland was somewhat less than ten millions. Ireland may be "counted out" as being disorderly and rebellious, and requiring a guard over itself rather than furnishing men and money for the strife .-During those twenty-three years the whole outlay of the British Government was $8,500,000,000—or, stating it in more striking form, eighty five hundred million dollars, more than double the whole property valuation of Great Britain then, and nearly as much as that of the United States at present. Nearly one-half of this enorm ous sum, or $1,183,000,000 was expended on the war alone, viz., $1,924,000-000 for the army; $1,641,000,000 for the navy; $355,000,000 for munitions of war; and $263,000,000 for subsidies - in plainer phrase, for hiring foreigners to do their fighting. The yearly outlay, in all, averaged $370,000,000, and for the war, which was almost continuous, $182,000, 000. And this immense expenditure was not, as in our case, made at home, so that the money, merely passing from hand to hand, would still remain in the possession and active use of the nation. On the contrary, a large part of it, probably more than one-half, was laid out and permanently lost in Continental purchases. Yet, under the pressure of this tremendous load England struggled through the contest, not only with steps scarce staggering, except in two or three years of bad crops, and in the fixed suspension of specie payments by the National Bank, but with a large increase in the sum total of her wealth, and an advance in almost every branch of industrial exertion. ly drawn from its vaults, till, in 1797, when its coin was reduced to five and a half millions of dollars, the frightened Diriotor; were relieved by a temporary permission from the Privy Council to suspend specie payments. This suspension was afterwards legalized by Parliament, and continued by fresh enactments to the year 1823. During the first twenty years of this suspension, the entire gold mintage of England was but fifty-five millions of dollars, while in the seven years ensuing it was one hundred and fifteen millions of dollars. In one single year - the last - of that great war, the Government expenditure was six hundred and forty-nine millions of dollars, while the specie in the Bank of England was but little over ten millions of dollars. If it be asked how England not only stood up, but mainly prospered, against this prodigious drain on her resources for twenty-three years, the answer lies in the fact of her vast improvements in machinery, which enabled her to manufacture for all nations, while her domination of the sea gave her the outward and inward commorce of the world.

We are twice as able as Eugland was to carry on a war even of that great length and of those hage dimensions; for our population-saying nothing of the neutral States—is the exact double and our wealth more than the double of England in 1793. Specie from all quarters pours in upon us in a ceaseless flood; the money of our banks and capitalists lies idle and rusting; our imports are greatly reduced; our exports of breadstuffs and meats are much larger than ever; and our manufactures will be strengthened and enlarged by the new tariff policy. Under these circumstances it is clear that we can, if necessary, incur and comfortably carry a debt of one thousand or even two thousand million dollars, and pay it off, interest and principal, by A D. 1900. On, then, to the contest, of the nation.

A SALT WATER STORY. In the County Clare, Ireland, lives a respectable, well-to do family of the name of DeLackery. The family is not extensive, but comprises among its members a dark-haired, black-eyed, plump young lady, not yet sixteen, named Bridget Dockay. About four years ago, when Bridget was but little over twelve years of age, she made the acquaintance of a dashing young sailor, and speedily became enamored of his blue shirt and wide turn-over collar, to say nothing of his pleasant face and jovial spirit. The sailor-boy was also captivated with the juvenile Bridget, and their childish love was blissfully indulged until one untucky day the parents of the lovely maiden awoke to a realizing sense of the inevitable tendency of affairs, and took measures accordingly. Believing Bridget to be to young and inexperienced to have a lover, they took steps to get rid of him, telling him that he bad better wait a year or two before launching upon the broad sea of matrimony; they gave him an outfit, and induced him to go upon another voyage, hoping that time and absence would cure the young lady of her folly. For a few months letters from the absent lover reached Bridget regularly, but suddenly they ceased altogether, which Bridget attributed to an unfair interposition on the part of her papa .-Suspense was gradually devouring the little Miss, and having imbibed a luve of adventure from her bring lover, she resolved to seek him the wide world over. So Bridget assumed the garb of a sailor, and one night, when her parents were sound asleep, quietly stole away from her home without once stopping to say good bye. Proceeding on foot, with now and then a "lift" from some good-natured teamster, she journeyed to Liverpool arriving there, Bridget, disguised as a sailor, frequented the docks for several days, and eventually succeeded in shipping, under the assumed name of Elward Johnson, as cabin boy on board an Amer ican bound passenger ship. Faithfully she performed all the duties required of her on the passage, her true character the people. On Thursday evening Bridget was "cruising" about the city in company with several other sailors, and at last straved into a drinking saloon .-Here the disguised maiden invited her companions to "take a nip," which of course they cheerfully did at her expense. Other drinks were then called for, and after they had been disposed of, the man were ungenerous enough to insist that Bridget, who appeared to have plenty of money, should foot the whole bill. To this she objected, and was, in consequence handled rather roughly. During the lit-tic melee which ensued one of the sailors truck Bridget just "above the belt," and immediately exclaimed "My God! it's a

On the following morning she was taken before Justice Osborn at the Tombs, who transferred her to the care of Miss Foster, matron of that institution, who soon arrayed her in the more becoming, though less convenient garments of her sex. --Bridget has made up his mind to abandon the sea forever, now that she has been discovered, and will seek a situation in some benevolent family.

If we deduct from that number the present free population of Delaware, Mayland, Kentucky and Missouri, which is 762,403, to say nothing of free Western Virgicia and Eastern Tennessee, we can see at a glance the full guage of the contest which the extreme South, with her little more than five millions of free population, has waged against the North unless, they please with our indorsement; and I suppose, of course, to allow them their choice of all the emoluments of office, under pain of dissolution of the Union.

Thereupon Bridget bitched up that stood ajar, and there knelt a fair young woman, with a beautiful boy at her side, one arm clasned care-singly around the child and the other raised in earnest supplication. dishonor thee, and perish at last eternally." The voice ceased, choked with tears of agony, and there stood the pirate transfixed to the spot by the tumult of his own emotions. In imagination he was again a child; his own pious mother's prayers and instructions for long years forgotten, rose before him, and God's spirit sent such an arrow of conviction to his heart, that instead of carrying out his murderous designs, he sank upon his knees and cried out for mercy. THE WAR NEWS. ADVANCE ON THE POTOMAC.

The suspicions expressed last week that the enemy was advancing toward the Potomac, are confirmed by the latest despatches, which excite intense anxiety.-There appears to be no doubt now that Gen Beauregard, with an army on his hands that cannot be appeared without a speedy demonstration, has determined to take the hazard, and is now moving them forward at all points toward the Potomac, both above and below Washington, for the purpose of preventing a concentration of Gen McClellan's forces, and ultimately attacking the capital itself. The plan, so far as informing them of that fact, for their own as it can be conjectured, is to throw a large body of troops into Maryland from Matthias Point, below Washington, for the purpose of occupying Annapolis, and commanding that route from the North .-Another body is probably directed to cross the Potomac above Washington, and then, with the co-operation of secessionists in Baltimore, all the routes are to be obstructed, and the capital itself being thus isolated, and Gen McClellan bewildered, they hope for an easy victory.

Though this statement of their plans may not be entirely correct in all its parts, there is no longer any room to doubt that the enemy are advancing all along the line of the Potomac, and the Government at Washington is vigorously at work to prepare for the event. The Confederate officers are probably satisfied that they are as well or better prepared for a decisive test of their arms than they will be after delay shall have weakened them and strengthened the Union arms, and hence it is perfectly natural that the threatened attack should come at once-and it will pied, but was to have been in a day or doubtless expedite the solution of the diftwo. Fortunately but little damage was ficulties in which the country is involved. Gen. Beauregard will encounter in Gen. McClellan a commander who was educated in the same military school and class with himself; and one who has since improved upon the practice he there received, by more extended experience.

If he is sustained in the manner we have a right to expect, he will make short work of this dangerous rebellion; but whether he will be so sustained gives rise to painful, but still hopeful anxiety, which we presume the State Law will continue | will probably now soon be relieved by a decision of the contest. To place the safety of the Capital be yond question, the Secretary of war has issued an order to the Governors of the loyal States, requesting them to urge all commanders of regiments of volunteers accepted by the Department, in the States of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Vermont, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Maine and Mighigan, to hurry forward their commands as early as possible to the Capital, in accordance with an order directed to the Governors of their respective States.

On the arrival of the steamer at Jersey City, officers Isaacs and Bunn made a thorough search of the person and baggage of the passenger designated, and succeeded in finding £40,000 in Bank of England uotes, and a large number of letters and other important Japers, the contents of which leave no doubt that the information given to the Surveyor was cor-

Surveyor Andrews at once communicated with Secretary Chase, who was in the city, and the Secret ry commend d the the proceed dgs already taken, and advised the arrest of Serril. The matter was also communicated to the Federal government at Washington.

Meanwhile the money, amounting to £40,000, and the letters were taken to the Surveyor's office. The letters have been read and are discovered to be strongly s cessi in in tone, and some of them suggest plans for breaking the blockade and supplying the Liverpool market with cotton. These dispatches leave no doubt as to the character of the bearer, and render it probable that the £40.000 was a loan to the "Confederate States," as he represented.

Several passengers by the Persia have oluntarily come forward and have made affidavits respecting the secession talk of Serrill on board the ship

This morning the United States District Attorney put a warrant for Serrill's arrest in the hands of an officer. ### DEPARTURE OF TROOPS.

Thousands of citizens were congregated at the Locomotive Works depot this afternoon, to witness the departure of the Fourth New Jersey Regiment for the seat of war. Two special trains, of thirteen cars each were provided for their accommodation. The first train was partially filled with Hexamer's Battery, of Jersey City, Laving with them their six rifled 12 pounders. &c.

The ten comp nies of Col. Simpson's regiment filled the balance of the cars. -Every man was armed, uniformed and otherwise thoroughly equipped. A large proportion of the mon are returned volunteers, but the others have had no opportunity to drill, in f.ct many of them not arriving in Trentou until last evening. and having to be equipped this moraing .-

abxiety exists than has been during the past few days respe ting a rebel attick on Washington. Everything in the city appears quiet. The navigation of the Potomac is unimpeded. Steamers constantly arrive here. The continued alarms about the designs of the insurgent s against the capital are now believed by gentlemen in high quarters to be the fabrications of secession emissares. Opinions, however, are divided on this subject. Whatever may be the truth re perting it, the Administration wants to reinforce and be ready for act ve operations. The volun'e re, while left in the northern cit es can be organized here and ready for seron the 19th inst.

CROPS IN THE WEST. The Chicago Tribune says: -the wea-

It was, however, favorable Recruiting is going on rapidly, and the for harvesting, and we learn that a very city can probably send 15,000 men to large amount of the spring wheat has been secured. Oats and barley are also being cut all over the Northwest, and the ye.d'is reported to be fair. The spring wheat crop, concerning which there was considerab'e anxiety two or three weeks ago, is reported to be a fair average yield, and if we are to judge of the samples already sent in, the quality is excellent -The winter wheat is also threshing out much better than was anticipated, and it is said to be the best crop secured for five ! vears past. The corn crop, under the heat of last week, is thriving well, and so far as the Central and Southern portions of this State and Iowa are concerned, an immense yield is expected, while in the Northern part of Illinois and Iowa the crop will be good, unless early frosts damage it. Thus far we have every prospect of a large abundance of everything in the shape of breadstuffs-thus securing to us plenty to eat, even though money is

> THE ENEMY AND THE CAMPAIGN IN MISSOURI. - Nearly two months ago the best of evidence was laid before the War department that the plan of Jeff Davis was to await the return of the seventy-five thousand three months' men from the Federal army, meantime concentrating his own forces; and then, before new recruits could take their places, to strike when and where we were weakest. This was the plan of McCullough in Missouri; and he managed it so well that he accumulated three times our force at or near Springfield. For several days yet to come he will outnumber the Federal army in Southern Missouri; but the tide is rapidly turning, and, after the first of next October, the rebels will be outnumbered at every point where a collision shall occur. This, at least is the opinion of our best military authorities. - N. Y. Post.

DR. LA CROIX'S PRIVATE MEDICAL TREATISE

Physiological View of Marriage.

Physiological View of Marriage.

250 PAGES AND 130 ENGRAVINGS.—Price only 25 cents. Sent free of postage to all parts of the Union. On the infirmtios of youth and maturity, disclosing the secret follies of both sexes of all ages, causing debility, nervousness, depression of spirits, patp tation of the heart, suicidal imaginings, involuntary emissions, blushings, defective memory, indigestion and lassitude, with confessions of thrilling interest of a Boarding School Miss, a College Student and a young Married Lady, &c. It is a truthful adviser to the married and those contemplating marriage, who entertain secret doubts of their physical condition, and who are conscious of having Lazarded the health, happiness, and priviledges to which every human being is entitled.

YOUNG MEN who are troubled with weakness, generally caused by a bad habit in youth, the effects of which are dizziness, pains, forgetfulness, sometimes a ringing in the ears, weak eyes, weakness of the back and lower extreinties, confusion of ideas, loss of memory, with melancholy, may be cured by the author's new Paris and London treatment.

We have, recently devoted much of our time in visiting the European Hospitais, availing ourselves of the knowledge and resear-thes of the most skilled Physicians and Sturgeons in Europe and the Continent. Those who place themselves under our care will now have the full benefit of the many new and efficacious remedies which we are enabled to increduce into our practice, and the public may rest assured of the same zeal, assiduity, secrecy and attentson being mid to their cases, which has so successfully distinguished us heretofore as a Physician in our peculiar department of professional practice for the past twenty-five years.

FERSH FEMALE PLUS.—Ladies who wish for Mediciaes, the efficacy of which has been tested in thousands of cases, and never failed to affect speedy cures without any bad results, will use none but Dr. DeLaney's Female Periodical Pills. The only precaution necessary to be observed is, ladies s

COMMENDATIONS:

From Hon. Lewis D. CAMPBELL, M. C., of Ohio.

My family and friends all concur in the opinion that the (Newell) Picture is more life like than any thing they ever saw. My likeness has been repeatedly taken by different Artists in various ways, but I have never yet had one which presents so true to nature, all the features and expressions of countenance as this.

From E. Joy Monris, late Minister to Italy.

The exquisite finish, beauty and softness of your portraits, conjoined with their durability ol color and faithfuness as likenesses, cannot fail to commend them to the attention and patronage of all who apthom to the attention and patronage of all who appreciate true art.

Having occasion for a portrait, I procured one from Mr. Robert Newell, of the city of Philadelphia, a ministure in Oil Colors, under the new process discovered by him, and take great pleasure in expressing the satisfaction given me, not only by the accuracy of the likeness, but its artistic finish in all respects, and recommend him to the patronage of those disposed to encourage the beautiful art.

James Page.

THE subscribers would direct the attention of farmers and others to their increased facilities for manufacturing superior WOOLEN GOODS, such as Batinetts, Cloths. Blankets, Horse Blankets, Flannels, Stocking and Carpet Yarn. We manufacture a durable article, of the best quality, and at low prices. We guarantee our goods not only to be equal to the imported in texture, but to stand hard wear much better. Mechanics and laboring men generally would find it to their advantage to purchase of us, instead of wearing foreign goeds which will do them no adequate service.

We will pay the highest market prices for WOOL, which can be sent to our Factory at Bridgeton, or Allowaystown, and there manufactured to order, or cash naid. Also, all wool left with Daniel Sheppard, agent at Greenwich, will be promptly attended te.

WITH FLEXIBLE FOLDING BAR.

THE unprecedented success of this Machine is a convicing proof of its excellence. It has never failed, wherever introduced, to take precedence ever all other whovers and the important principles embraced in its Mowers and the important principles embraced in its Mowers and the important principles embraced in its concession is in the strengest manner attested by the fact that so many Mowing Machine manufacturers, abundancy in the strengest manner attested by the Except in all points where they think it possible to evade its patents; the popularity of their machines is found to be in exact proportion to the extent of their instances of 1801, will, in selecting the Buckery, lightness of draft, freedom from side draft, portable to the learn and cappeing of olding good work on any despendence.

The Buckeye as a Reaper

I we are now receiving lumner of various kinds and qualities, which we are determined to sell on as favorable terms as the m rke twill allow us to do, amongst which is 500,000 Plas sring Laths, 100,000 ft. Carolina, Georgia and Virginia fic ring. 500,000 ft. assorted Hemlock scantling. 500,000 ft. White pine boards, of all the various grades, some of which is is perfectly dry, and fit for immediate use.

The lumber will be sold for cash, or any time that may be agreed upon, at the time of nurchase.

Oct. 3, 18'8.

H. J. MULFORD & BRO. The important advantages of the Buckeye as a Mower are retained in the Reaper. The two driving wheels and flexible bar make it the only Reaper perfectly adapted to uneven ground.

The Platform is very readily adjusted to any required height of cut.

The Reel is attached with a Flexible Joint, which allows it to follow all the movements of the platform on uneven ground, and can be raised or lowered according to the height of the grain.

By removing the Reel, which can be done in a few moments, the platform can be folded against the side of the Machine, to allow it to pass through bars or narrow passages. SECRETARY'S REPORT, May 13, 1861.
