THE BANNER OF THE SEA. Of all the flags that float aloft. O'er Neptune's gallant tars,

That wave on high, in victory, Above the sons of Mars, Give us the flag-Columbia's flag-The emblem of the free, Whose flashing stars blazed through our war For Truth and Liberty,

Then dip it, lads, in ocean's brine, And give it three times three, And fling it out, mid song and shout The Banner of the Sea.

Beneath its folds we fear no foe, Our hearts shall never quail, With bosoms bare the storm we'll dare, And brave the battle gale; And though the cannon plow our decks, The planks with gore run red, Still through the fray our flag alway Shall gleam far over head. Then dip it, lads, &c.

On every wave, to every shore, Columbia's flag shall go, And through all time, its fame sublime With brighter hues shall glow; For Freedom's standard is our flag, Its guardians, Freedom's Sons; And we betide th' insulter's pride When we unloose our guns. Then dip it, lads, &c.

Its enemies our own shall be, Upon the land or main: Its starry light shall gild the flight, And guide our iron raid. Nor foreign power, nor treason's arts, Shall shake our patriot love, While with our life, in peace or strife, We'll keep that flag above. Then dip it, lads, &c.

The Front Teeth and the Grinders. Once on a time a mutiny arose among the teeth of a worthy man, in good health and blessed with a sound constitution, commonly known as Uncle Samuel. MR. EDITOR: - Having access to a copy of the West Jersey Pioneer, issued Aug. 13th 1859, we there saw, over the signature of "A Participant," a very interestgathering at the mansion of the venerable Mr. Michael Potter, of Willow Grove.

By your permission we have another, and, in some respects, still more interesting gathering of the same family, and at the same mansion, to note: This second family "home coming," as it was familiarof the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Potter, a sort of semi-centennial marriage; although, a repetition of the marriage ceremony was not regarded necessary. Old Hickory paid July last, which was the 50th anniversary | no attention to these murmers, but went on his iron way, with an eye to the safety of his country. But soon news came, vague and authentic, that peace had been declared, and then the murmurs of malcontents became frequent and loud. The French portion of the population were especially clamorous, and finally they began to get certificates of French citizenship from the French consul, hoping thereby that they would peacefully and harmoni- to be able to set Old Hickory at defiance. But they mistook their man. As soon as the old-hero learned what they were about he ordered them and their consul to leave New Orleans within three days, and not to come nearer than 120 miles to the city until peace should be officially announced. He at the same time took judicions notice of the rumors of peace, and hinting that they might have been oirculated by the enemy for the purpose of throwing him off his guard, he assured his army and the inhabitants that the fruits of their glorious victory should not be snatched from them by reason of any lack of vigilance on his part, and that, until he received official notification from his Government There is yet another interesting fact we that peace had been declared, he should maintain within his lines the most inflex-This proclamati n produced a prodigi-

Morill at once applied to Hall, for a writ of habeas corpus. The Judge granted the writ; but when the official went to serve it on the General, he seized it, kept possession of it "as evidence against the Judge," gave the officer a cert fied-copy, and at once issued an order for the "arrest of Dominick Hall, on the charge of aiding to excite mutiny in the camp." "Be careful to permit no escapes," wrote the General to the officer detailed to arrest the Judge, "as the emissaries of the enemy are more numerous than we expected." Rather a hard hit, that, for the United States Judge. Old Hickory's pen was sometimes sharper than his sword. -Judge Hall was speedily arrested, and imprisoned along with his friend Louailler, where they could talk over the matter at their leisure. But in a short time the General had the Judge escorted beyond his lines, and set at liberty, with a command not to come within the lines again until peace should be officially declared. Not long afterwards peace was officially declared; and then the General, in an eloquent and heart-stirring proclamation, disbanded his heroic army, permitted the civil power to resume its legitimate sway, and

He soon had the General served with an order to show cause why he should not be attached for contempt of court, etc., etc On the day of the return, the General, in citizen's dress, and accompanied by the renowned Edward Livingston as his counsel, went to the court-room, which was packed with an eager multitude, anxious to get a so that the expedition will be ready to set glimpse of the "old hero" Ass on as his tall and majestic form was seen, the audience burst into such a tempest of enthusiasm that the Judge not knowing what the all those teeth are beginning to ache er under Brigadier General Sherman, who excited throng might do, gave orders to worse than ever, and to decay very fast, is now in command of the important adjourn the Court. A friendly Interview with the Rebels. WASHINGTON, Sept. 25, 1861.

I have just learned the particulars of two interviews which took place on Sunday last between some members of Col. Hayes' 8th Pennsylvania Regiment and the Virginia 43d (Rebel.) stationed on opposite banks of the Potomac at Great Falls. The river is here not more than a hundred yards wide, and the pickets on both sides have occasionally hailed each other. On Sunday the rebels invited some of our men across, stating that if they would leave their arms behind them they would receive hospitable treatment, and be allowed to return. One of the Pennsylvania boys stripped, plunged in, and swam over. He was helped up the rocks by a Virginia captain, who gave him his over coat to wear, and proposed that he should take a drink of whisky. "If I drink," said the soldier, "it must be to Our Country" "Very good," said the rebel officer, "I will join vou: Here's to our country!" And the men on both sides of the river joined in a hearty cheer. The man remained an hour or two, and then swam back, a little nebulous from the the many healths he had been obliged to drink. In the afternoon several of the Rebels returned the visit. They were courteously entertained, and exchanged buttons with our men, as souvenirs of the interview. "We don't care anything about Carolinians against us instead of you."he, "it's been a long time since I've seen such a piece of money." They were all

You see this lady turning a cold eye to the assurances of shopmen and the recommendation of milliners. She cares not how original a pattern may be, if it be ugly, or how recent a shape, if it be awkward. Whatever laws fashion dictates. she follows a law of her own, and is never behind it. She wears very beautiful things which people generally suppose to be fetched from Paris, or, at least, made by a french milliner, but which as often are bought at the nearest town and made up by her own maid. Not that her costume is either rich or new; on the contrary she wears many a cheap dress, but it is always pretty, and many an old one, but it is always good. She deals in no gaudy confusion of colors, nor does she effeet a studied sobriety; but she either rebands, or gilt buttons, or twisted cording. She is quite aware, however, that the garnish is an important as the dress; all her inner borders and beadings are delicate and fresh; and should anything peep out which is no intended to be seen, it is quite as much so as that which is. After all, there is no great art either in her fashions or her materials. The secret simply consists in her knowledge the three grand unities of dress -her own station, her own age and her own points. And no woman can dress well who does not. After this we need not say that whoever is attracted by the costume will not be disappointed in the wearer. She may not be handsome nor accomplished, but we will answer for

Some incidents of a trip through Fairfield Township which we intended for this week's Pioneer, are unavoidably laid over until next week.

Mr. Wm. Garrison of Stoe Creek. left at our office a few days since, the larcest Pie melon we have seen this season. It weighed twenty-seven and a half pounds and we were informed that he had one still larger, which he intended saving for seed. This mammouth melon with a lot of splended potatoes and beets and three of the largest heads of cabbage we ever saw, presented us by Sherrard Socwell of Fairfield township, will keep us from starving for some time to come. We return thanks for these favors.

The attention of our readers who purchase carpets in Philadelphia, is directed to the advertisement of H. H. Eldridge, which appears in another column. Mr. Eldridge is a Jerseyman, and sells good carpet on the most desirable terms.

Our young friend, Mr. Toy, of favored us with the following excellent pieces of Music: Lovers of music will find and best in the country. "Douglas' Funeral March," "Song to our Flag," "Hail that Great and Glorious Banner;" "On to the Battle," "Rise for your Country," McClellan's Grand March."

By reference to another column it will be seen that Marmaduke Watson & Son have taken the Fountain Hotel, now the Madison House, in Philadelphia. Mr. Watson has kept the Barley Sheaf Hotel, up 2d street, about 27 years, and is well qualified for the position of Landlord. His son has also had considerable experience in hotel management. Their house is handy to Jerseymen, and we recommend our friends when visiting the city, to give

In the last issue of the Salem Standard, ve observed an article highly complimentary to Hiram W. It is always a source of gratification to us to be able to notice any invention which tends to increase the comforts of life, or to place them more readily withn reach of all. Adopting the views of the writer in the Standard, we believe it is calculated to have a world wide influence, changing perhaps the empire of Cotton from the Southern States, to some other equally favored region, and placing the inventor of the gin in the front rank of invention .-The difficulty, we believe, has not been to raise cotton, but with their rude and imperfect muchinery to prepare it for market. From the article before referred to, we learn that our ingenious fellow-citizen has tried his gin with foreign samples of cotton with such a degree of success, in create a demand for them in Africa, Central America and South America, and the West Indies. Though fully sensible that in thus enlarging as it were the cotton area of the world, a strong competition will be brought to bear certainly and perhaps successfully against an important and valuable article of American exportation. and deeply deploring that mad infatuation of Southern statesmen, which has unquestionably lost them much of their market county, will be held at Pole Tavern on for tdat staple, we nevertheless rejoice that the successful inventor is likely to realize a rich compensation for his valuable immanufacturing industry to the business of this highly interesting county. industry. The history of this invention, as we have traced it up, affords another instance of what patience and perseverance can finally accomplish. Without capital, harassed by a tedious law suit, and beset with a thousand difficulties, known to and appreciated only by the initiated, he has successfully worked his way through them all, with a future before him which, by its dawning, promises a bright and glorious day. We shall chronicle his ultimate success with as much gratification as we now hail his successful advent upon the field of enterprise. With the whole cotton producing world before him for a market for his gins, the South secured by patent, and the rest of the world by well established and reliable agencies, and their continuance secured by a capacity for the cheap manufacture of them, it would seem that unless some unforseen contingency should arise, that his machine and himthe firm of Lee & Walker, Chesput st., has self must become as world renowned as

THE FEDERAL ARMY in VIRGINIA.

It is said on good authority that our army on the Potomac is now in excellent Gen. McClellan will soon make some offensive movements. Each cluster of regiments is brigaded, and wherever it is possible the brigades are made up from troops of a single State. The men were never before so well cared for. We are assured that it not accompany lager beer, whenever the soldier is lucky enough to obtain it.

Good beef and good bread will keep an army from suffering, but ours is supplied with many luxuries. It is found in frugal camps impossible to consume more than half the rations issued, and with a good quartermaster a large sum of money can be saved to invest in luxuries. No regiment which has good officers lacks an abundance of coffee, tea, sugar, molasses, and even butter. A large number of the Yankee troops indulge in the familiar New England dish, apple-pie. A prominent New England politician recently made a visit to a camp of one of the New England regiments, and was treated to a dinner of steak and potatoes, with a desert presence of agents of these countries, as to of sugar apple-pie. He was not expented and the dinner was impromptu, and a more wholesome one he never ate.

The health of the troops is astonishingly good. One Massachusetts regiment, which entered the District four months ago, has lost but one man by sickness.-One of our prominent physicians, upon looking over the statistics of sickness and mortality of the army, and comparing them with the same of our principal cities, says that there has been less sickness and erage, of course excepting the casualties of the battle-field. This is a sad contrast across the lines.—Brother Jonathan.

It has aimed to be right rather than popular, and to espouse and commend to day e truth that others may not be willing to accept till to-morrow. In pursuing this course mistakes have doubtless been made and faults committed: but, having in all things incited our renders to think and judge for themselves rather than anopt blindly our own or others' conclusions, we believe we may fairly claim for this journal the credit of having qualified its readers to detect and expose even its own errors. To develop the minds of the young by the most general, thorough and practical Education, and to encourage and stimulate Pro-ductive Industry, through free grants of Pubic Lands to actual settlers and cultivators, as also through the protection of immature or peuliarly exposed branches from too powerful foreign competition, are among the aims to which this journal has adhered through good and evil report, and which it steadfastly com-mends to American patriotism and philan-

As to the Civil War now devastating our pellion more wanton, wicked, inexcusable, than was ever before known-a Rebellion in the interest of the few against the many-a Rebelion designed to raise higher the walls of caste and tighten the chains of oppression. Having done all we could without a surrender of vital principle to avoid this War, and witnessed the forbearance, meekness, and long-suffering with which the Federal Government sought to avert its horrors, we hold it our clear duty, with that of every other citizen, to stand by the nation and its fairly chosen rulers, and to second with all our energies their efforts to uphold the Union, the Constitution, and the supremacy of the Laws. And, though the Rebellion has become, through usurpation, deception, terrorism, and spoilation, fearfully strong, we beieve the American Republic far stronger, and J. C. ing unity of purpose and of action indispensable in so grave an emergency.

In a crisis like the present, our columns must be largely engrossed with the current history of the War for the Union, and with elu-cidations of its more striking incidents. We shall not, however, remit that attention to Literature, to Foreign Affairs, to Agricultural Progress, to Crops, Markets, &c., &c., which has already, we trust, won for THE TRIBUNE an honorable position among its cotempora-ries. Our main object is and shall be to produce a comprehensive newspaper, from which a careful reader may glean a vivid and faithful history of the times, not merely in the do-main of Action but ie that of Opinion also.— As our facilities for acquiring information in-crease with years, we trust that an improvement in the contents on our journal is percep intelligence afforded, we may still hope to "make each day a critic on the last." COMMENDATIONS:

From Hon. Lewis D. Campbell, M. C., of Ohio.

My family and friends all concur in the opinion that the (Newell) Picture is more life like than any thing they ever saw. My likeness has been repeated, y taken by different Artusts in various ways, but I have never yet had one which presents so true to nature, all the features and expressions of countenance as this.

The exquisite finish, beauty and softness of your portraits, conjoined with their durability of color and faithfuness as likenesses, cannot fail to commend them to the attention and patronage of all who ap-

From Col. James Page. From Col. James Page.

Having occasion for a portrait, I procured one from Mr. Robert Newell, of the city of Philadelphia, a miniature in Oil Colors, under the new process discovered by him, and take great pleasure in expressing the satisfaction given me, not only by the accuracy of the likeness, but its artistic finish in all respects, and recommend him to the patronage of those disposed to encourage the beautiful art.

The Attention of Parents and Guardian TO THIS ARTICLE.

The late and lamented Dr. George M'Clellan, one of the most eminent practitioners that the United States could ever boast of, always made it a standing rule when he was called upon to prescribe for a child, HAIR CUT, from the fact that the majority of ailments to which children are heir are eceasioned by having too much weight on the head in the shape of hair. In conclusion, mothers, only reflect for a moment. Is it reasonable to suppose that any child can enjoy good health, or eren be comfortable, with a long and thick head of hair, with the thermometer at 90 or 94 as is often the To have it done in first rate style, please call of
