. For the West Jersey Pioneer. THE NORTHERN ANGEL.

BY MELLIE R. E.

In a coral cave, in the ocean's depths, Two spirits of beauty lay; Where the diamond's flash, and the pearl's pure gleam,

Mocked the sparkling emerald's ray. witching vision they seemed, as more They played with the gems, that fell Like a starry shower o'er the crystal floor, And glittered from roof as well.

Yet strangely unlike these spirits were, The one with her raven hair, And her night black eyes, whose subtle light Spoke a will to do, and to dare. The other, a pure and stainless one. Who had fled from her eloudlet home, And the dark eyed syren had won her away

To her bower, neath ocean's foam. But weary, at last, of their jewelled toys, "We'll away to the far off Earth, To the Westward we'll fly, where a Nation's

Has heralded Liberty's birth." Thus spoke the charmer, and quickly up Through the shining waves they passed, Till their white feet paused, and their trailing robes Touched our own fair shores at last. Again spoke the syren, "We part now here. A mission we each must fulfill: Your presence is noly, mine heavy with sin, For I bow to a demon's will." Sadly she turned, and plumed her wing For the orange groves afar, While the other swept o'er a silent land, And her guide was the Northern Star.

The one sowed wide, in her Southward flight The seeds of anguished woe, let whispered the tale of Ambition blind. That has made our brother our foe; Then quickly out, on the startled air, Rang the war cry, wild and high, We'll drink the blood of our brothers' hearts That beat 'neath a Northern sky."

The asure eyed angel a moment paused, Then, swift as the glancing light, seed.

Whose fruits are Truth and Right. Then up like a wave rose our mighty bosts, And, clasping hand in hand, From lip to lip the watchword rang, God, and our Native Land!

The two hosts meet! the one is led By the demon's dark eyed sprite. And she grimly smiles as her myriads, fast, Are hurled fo the realms of Night. O'er the other, floats she of the glossy wing, And on, through the fiery shower, Our braves to Victory rush, upheld By the Northern Angel's power. SALEM COUNTY, Nov. 2, 1861.

Seated on a certain bill, I have seen the skies all brightened With a most surprising glare;

Seemed to me those skies had lightened, But no thunder-cloud was there. From the zenith there were streaming

Corruscations fiery red, And the spangles, wildry gleaming, Formed a canopy o'erhead; Formed a canopy, amazing, Sparkling as with many a gem,

Like the diamond clusters blazing On some Eastern diadem. Soon that glorious exhibition Will again delight our eyes;

Nature grants a free admission To behold her prodigies. But, before you view those splendors, At the chilling midnight hour, Fit ysurself with good apparel,

"THE OLDEN LEGION."

On Friday of last week we visited this ndependent Regiment, encamped near Beverly, about six miles this side of Bur. lington. It is known as Camp Stratton. in honor of J. L N. Stratton, our corthy representative of the 2d Congressional Dis- portunity to write you a few lines, and trict of this State. The officers and men, with but few exceptions, are Jerseymen; and those of them who are not, with whom we have met, are worthy her adoption .-It was towards evening when we cutered the encampment. The men just coming in from Dress Parade presented a fine appearance, and although many were off on furlough, the camp was far from being deserted. The Chaplain, with most of the Captains and their men, were on hand .-Many Cumberland County boys came and shook hands with us, and seemed glad to see a resident of their native county. All appeared contented, and enjoyad good herlth. Captain Evans, of Shiloh, and JOHN W. AYARS, Captain Perrine, whose companies are in "double-quick" time, with appetites made up principally from this neighborhood, were spoken of very highly by their men, who had won their affection by kind treatment. There are more men from Cumberland county in this regiment than in any other that has been sent from this State. Most of Captain Wright's company are from Millville and vicinity. Six full companies are now in camp, occupying about one hundred tents, which are made quite comfortable, being well ford and Horton. Mr. Fithian has a good supplied with clean straw. The men are stock of Groceries and Provisions, which all furnished with good, warm clothing and er one from this State, and the citizens of blankets. The inquiry was propounded in several instances by the men, whether they would receive the State pay. Judging from the law, which is plain, it would seem that they are entitled to the same as any other regiment gotten up in this State, composed of the militie of the State, but it appears there is a report that the Chief Justice of this State has given his opinion that they are not entitled to it. Our rations are plain, but substantial, and plenteous. Our officers have been in service before, and understand their duty well; hence the good regulation prevalent here. Capt. Clark, Licut. Axe, and myself, with some others. arrived here last evening, "just in time to be too late" for supper. Nevertheless our worthy cook went to work with a will, and soon had our supper neatly prepared for us, (consisting of bread, good fresh beef, and coffee,) to which we did ample justice sharpened by travel.

The young men composing this company are a jolly, good-natured set of fellows, and who seem to enjoy a soldier's life .-For my part I would advise all young men who can leave home, to volunteer. The clothing is of the best material, and the camp accommodations are better for the private soldier than they were for the officers in the war of the Revolution.

There are more Cumberland County men in this regiment than has gone in any othold Cumberland have generally shown a deep interest in our welfare; yet I am sorry to say there are some who are doing all that lies in their power to create a false impression concerning our getting the State pay, &c., and apparently would like nothing better than to see us defrauded of our just rights. But I will leave that matter for more learned people to discuss, and merely say that a day of reckoning will surely come, when those who are now trying to wilfully injure us, may want favors at our hands.

About 9 o'clock last evening I visited the tents of Company K, Capr. Perrine, where I met with a large number of Bridgeton men, who without exception, seemed as happy as if on a pio-nic. At 9.20 the drum was tapped as the signal for retiring. By invitation I spent the night with Sergeant Todd and Corporal Seeley, and except the occasional disturbances caused by passing trains, I slept the contents of their magazine, including well. My family and frames all concur in the opinion that the (Newell) Picture is more life like than any thing they error saw. My histoness has been repractedly taken by different Armsta in various wase, but I have never yethad one which presents so true to use thing, all the features and expressions of connecessors as this. The exquisite funds, brauty and controls of your portraite, convoined with their durability of color and faithfunces as likeuesses, cannot fail to commend them to the artention and patrousge of all who ap-

From Con. James Page. From Cet. Jame Past.

Having occasion for a portrait, I procured one frem Mr. Robert Newell, of the city of Philadelphia, a ministure in Oil Celors, under the new process discovered by him, and take great pleasure in expressing the satisfiaction given me, not only by the accuracy of the likeness, but its artistic finish in all respects, and recommend him to the patronage of these disposed to encourage the beautiful art.
