For the West Jersey Pioneer. THE ANGELS AND THE FLOWERS.

BY MRS. SARAH S. SOCWELL. When our first parents Awelt in peace, In Eden's blooming bowers, No cruel thorns, with poisonous sting,

Were hidden 'mong the flowers. But when in sorrow, shame, and sin, The pair were driven forth. The Angel of the curse, sowed thorns O'er all the stricken earth.

But, following him, an Angel came, With geutle, pitying eyes, And crowned the thorns most gloriously, With flowers from Paradise.

THE GREAT VICTORY.

BY THE BARD OF TOWER HALL.

It is a melancholy thought That victory must be dearly bought-That many a patrot must be slain, A triumph o'er base foes to gain, And make vile rebels rue.

Alas that any traitor's deed Should cause an honest heart to bleed; Alas that felon hosts should claim The soldier's doom, the soldiers fame; To truth and honor duel

But let our slaughtered heroes be Embalmed in grateful memory; In brass and marble write their praise, To virtues so adored.

While for the unpitied, culprit dead; No anthem peals, no prayer is said, But on each perjured leader's head Con empt and exerrations dread, In torrents shall be poured.

At Tower Hall we raise the cry, The joylul note of "victory!" But oh the melancholy thought That victory was so dearly bought!

In the contemplation of our great successes in battle, and the anticipation of others, let it er Hall, with an unequalled stock of Spring -that we hav and sell for each -and are thus enabled to offer goods surpassed in style and workmanship by none, at prices which defy competition.

Raising Potatoes—How to Prevent the Rot.

A recent writer in one of the agricultural journals, asserts that pototoes plant ed early and dug in August are not liable to be affected with the rot. Successive plantings were made in the second, third, and fourth weeks in April. The crop was heavily manured and dug in the latter part of August. Among these no rotten or diseased potatoes were found. Another lot was pianted in May and of collecting the revenue by State agentreated nearly in the same way and dug cies, we give as an important reason for about the middle of September. Rotten potatoes were found in this lot, thus affording evidence that the wet weather in | in a position to be better acquainted with September is a cause of rot in potatoes. It is quite an unusual thing in ordinary else. By way of illustration, suppose seasons for early potatoes to be affected the person to be taxed to be an ale manuwith the rot. Hon. J. T. Nixon on the Collection of the Revenue.

We published last week a letter from ou. representative in Congress, purport ing to "make a statement and correction" of an editorial in the Pioncer urging economy in the collection of the revenue. So far as the assessment and collection of the direct tax is concerned, the correctness of our argument and position seems to be admitted. But a distinction is attempted to be made between the collection of a direct tax and a specific duty. "No State" it is contended "can assume to collect an indefinite sum." Can either the General Government or its agents legally collect an "indefinite sum?" A specific duty is a fixed amount absolutely depending on nothing. A dollar a barrel on ale, is certainly as definite a sum as five mills on a dollar's worth of real estate. In addition to the economy employing the township assessors, that in virtue of their office, they were really the details of men's affairs than any one they get their growth. But is the State ignorant of tember, has much more to do with the the amount to be raised at the time of potato rot than is generally admitted.— its collection? Let us see. For instance As a general rule farmers plant potatoes the assessors ascertain that one hundred much earlier now than they did a few thousand barrels of ale are manufactured years ago, and yet the average yield per in New Jersey annually at the fixed rate acre is perhaps less than it was a few of one dollar per barrel, can there be any years ago. Is this result in part attribudoubt or indefiniteness about the amount table to too late digging in the fall?— to be raised on that article? The Prospect for Fruit.

It may be rather premature to hazard a prediction respecting the forthcoming crop of fruit. Yet there are some indica- was established." tions that look plausible enough to anticipate a good crop of fruit, provided the theory of the cause of its failure be correct. Late frosts always injure to a greater or less extent all the buds that put out early. As yet, notwithstanding the mild winter, the trees are very backward in putting out. It is almost the middle of April and the buds are scarcely swelled. and even the hardy mellow has not yet put out his leaf. The easterly storms in May probably injure the fruit as much as the frosts. By putting out late the buds would stand a much better chance to escape the blight occasioned by these storms, as well as the affects of the frost. This is all unquestionably favorable for the crop of fruit. But as the winter has been mild will not the ground be more full of insects, that will destroy or injure it. If so, unless the storms kill the insects, (rather an unlikely thing,) the advantages of the of the North. Even after the battle of late Spring will be neutralized by the mild Winter. An ingenious mode of destroying insects has been successively adopted by a gentleman living near Greenwich. Upon the evenings of the first warm days, when the insects first appear, he makes fires near his fruit trees. The flame and heat attracts the insects which are drawn into the fire and destroyed. Simple as this may appear, we are assured that the number of insects destroyed this way is incredibly large. Since the adoption of this plan his fruit where the experiment has been tried, was much better and fairer that the other. Since the thoughtless and wanton destruction of birds, comparatively but little fruit of any kind most insects. If this simble and easy plan will nant and wicked. serve to destroy or lessen the number of insects, it will perform a grateful service to the lovers and producers of good fruit. Our readers may rest assured that the experiment is worth a trial.

Sir, it is a very significant fact, and one that most strongly suggests the causelessness of this rebellion, that the conspirators themselves do not agree as to the causes which produced it. While Northern sympathizers in secession and treason vex the air with anathemas upon the heads of abolitionists and republicans-charging upon them the responsibility of this civil strife -their whilom political leaders and Southern friends, in their several spheres, dis-gether to exercise e right and perform the duty of instituting a government which would better recure the liberties for the preservation of which that Union

The precise specification is that the General Government, although notoriously under the control of Southern politicians and their faithful Northern allies, had indulged in a long course of class legislation for the aggrandisement of the North and whice had culminated in a warfare on the domestic institutions of the South Yet previous to this time the rebel commissioners had attempted to convince the British authorities that these charges against the North, thus formally reiterated by their chief, were false, as every intelligent man in the country who gives them currency knows them to be, by writing to

Earl Russell, as fo'lows: "It was from no fear that" the slaves would be liberated that secession took place. The very party in power has proposed to guaranty slavery forever in the States, if the South would but remain in the Union. Mr. Lincoln's message proposes no freedom to the slave; but announces subjection of his owner to the will of the Union-in other words, to the will Bull Run both branches of the Congress at Washington passed resolutions that the war is only waged in order to enforce that (pro-slavery) Constitution, and to unhold the laws, (many of them pro slavery,) and out of one hundred and seventy-two votes in the lower House they received all but two, and in the Senate all but one vote. As the army commenced its march the commanding general issued an order that no slaves should be received into or allowed to follow the camp."

I will not weary the committee by quo ting in this connection the different ordinances of secession passed by the seceding States in order to show that hardly any two States agreed upon the reasons of their attempt to withdraw from the Union But this diversity of sentiment among the conspirators and the States shows most conclusively that the movement was as commonly raised that is not injured by causeless and inexcusable as it was malig-

The true causes of this rebellion, sir lie deeper than these idle pretexts. The disruption of the Democratic party, the perversion of the objects and aims of the Republican organization, the weakness of the late President, the treachery of his Cabinet, and the excitements of the slavery agitation, were doubtless used by the conspirators, but used to carry out a predetermined purpose. Underlying all these was the ambition of Southern leaders, their lust for power, and the arrogance of Southern slaveholders, who years ago commenced the work of national disintegration, and who instilled the poison of their treason into the Southern heart, that, when they should cease to control the legi-lation of the old Government, they would have the power to sever the bonds ments a new confederacy, "the cornertude." and over which they could exercise their accustomed sway. In this sense, end in this only, in my judgement, was slavery the cause of the rebellion. At the latest accounts our army was eight miles in advance of the battle field, and within two miles of the rebel position.-Another battle is therefore imminent at any moment, if it has not already taken place. On Saturday night an important enterprise was successfully accomplished. A force of four thousand men on five transports left the landing that night, accompanied by the gunboats Tyler and Lexington, and proceeded up the Tennessee River to a point near Eastport, Miss., where they landed and proceeded inland to Bear Creek Bridge, and destroyed the two bridges on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad. A cavalry force of one hundred and fifty men was found there, but they fled. This operation completey cuts off communication of the main rebel body at Corinth with Alabama and all the Southern frontier of the confede. racy, except New Orleans.

Grover & Baker's

CELEBRATED SEWING MACHINE.

HAVING taken the agency for the sale of Grover a Baker's celebrated Sewing Machine, I request all who are in want of one of these dearable machines to call at my store and see their wonderful performance. It is now a fixed fact that Sewing Machines mut take the place of the old needle. It is no longer an experiment. After ten years' experience of the difficulties rendering them almost impossible to be used in the country, success has become complete. It can now be said with great confidence that the difficulty is now removed. These machines are so simple in all their parts that any ordinary child can learn to work them and keep them in order. The work idene by them is Stronger and More Handsome Stronger and More Handsome than that done by hand. Upwards of fifty thousand of them are in daily use and Grover & Baker are constantly in the receipt of letters bearing unsolicited testimony as to their usefulness and merit. Wherever they are seen they are joyfully recognized by woman seantly in the receipt of letters bearing unsolicities testimony as to their usefulness and merit. Wherever they are seen they are joydly recognized by woman as her emancipator from the toil and never ceasing drudgery of the needle, from which it has hitherto been supposed there was no escape.

The undersigned, having used the Steel Pens made by the above firm, have much pleasure in bearing testimony to their superior quality, and the comfort they have derived from their use.

They cheerfully commend them to the favorable notice of Bankers, Merchants, Professional men, Railroad and Public Companies, Controllers and Conductors of Schools, and the American public generally, both on the ground of their superior quality, and on the desirableness of encouraging so useful a branch of manufacture in this country—fitherto almost entirely dependent on those of foreign manufacture. SUPER-PHOSPHATE OF LIME. Little need be said to recommend this article—its peculiar merits as a vigorous and lasting manure having tirmly established it in the popular favor.—We would state however, that not only having a continued care to maintain its standard efficacy, we have sought to render it more immediate in its action, by the addition of a small quantity of best Peruvian Grano. We do not claim that by this improvement, (which was made during the past year, and without publicly noting the fact,) our Super Phosphate is rendered any the more lasting in its effect, or in any way benefitted, except in ensuring a quickeraction on application. SCHOOL BOOKS WARREN'S

GEOGRAPHICAL SERIES!

WARREN'S COMMON SCHOOL GEOGRAPHY. WARREN'S

PHYSICAL GEOGRAPHY. These three books form a complete geographical course, adapted to all grades of schools. They have recently been thoroughly revised, and now contain all new political and territorial changes, with statistice from the census of 1890. The Maps and Engravings are of the very highest order of excellence; and in all the books the maps are in the same volume with the descriptive text. The series is now used in most of the principal cities and towns of the United States, and has given great satisfaction wherever it has been adopted.

Greene's Series of English Grammars GRENNE'S INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY OF ENG. GRAMMAR.
GRENNE'S ENGLISH GRAMMAR (Just Issued)
GREENE'S ANALYSIS OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE,
This valuable series of School Books was prepared by Prof. Samuel S. Greene; of Brown University.—
Their best recommendation is the fact that they are in general use as text books in the better class of schools in all parts of the United States.

Rerard's School History of the United States. A 12mo. volume of 224 pages, beautifully illustrated. This little manual is very differently arranged from the soneol histories in common use, and the attractive and pleasant style in which it is written, cannot fail greatly to interest and instruct the learner. Leach's Complete Spelling-Book.

All the difficulties in orthography are so arranged and classified in this manual, that they may be easily overcome by the pupil.

Teachers can obtain them, for introduction, on the mast favorable terms,
