HOW MIKE SOLD OUR FIRST. At one time we were "camped" in little place in Virginia, which, like all serted by all the inhabitants, who could by horse, foot or crutch-power leave. Now this was a great disappointment to us, for we were in hopes of finding some damsels here, as we had not seen a wo man's face for a long time Our first Lieut, was disconsolate, as h had foully hoped to find some beautiful secesh nymph, with whom he might car ry on a flirtation. He was a great admirer of the fair sex, and the sight of a petticoat in these forlorn and lonely regions, was to him a great piece of good fortune Well, one day he was lolling in front of his tent, dreaming of the girl, or rather girls, he left behind him, he accidentally cast his eyes over a neighboring meadow, where, as luck would have it appeared an unmistakable crinoline of full circumference—with the dress raised enough to show a clean peitticoat and white stockings. Seizing a field glass, he gazed long at the vision. "Mike," he said "turning to a son of Erin, "go and follow that girl, and see how she looks, and where she goes." Mike, glad to get an excuse to leave the camp lines, of course made no objection, and the Lieut. passing him through the guard, he set out on his mission. He made the best of his excuse, and was absent for some three hours, while all the

Notwithstanding this fearful odds, the Jersey brigade marched as if on dress parade. The first and second formed the advance line, the third being a few paces in the rear as a support. We were thus under a most galling fire for three-quarters of an hour; the General began to see that he was being flanked on both sides gave the order deed to retreat, which was done for some time with the same coolness as when going in, but it soon became evident we should have to increase our pace faster than walk. NEW JERSEY.

The following justly mentioned notice of our gallant little state appeared in a late number of the N. Y. Commercial. "A loyal State which has probably been the "best abused" in the Union has set an example that not a few others would do well to imitate. According to the slang which was formerly in vogue, New Jersey was not in the Union; she was a monopoly ridden State; she was "in the breeches pocket" of one of her politicians; she was the State of Camden tury behind every other. To have Jersey mud attached to one's boots was to subject him to the jeer from every cockney he might meet. New Jersey was not censidered a good State to migrate from, much less into. But she has made up her quota of the six hundred thousand troops called for, and really seems to be in the humor of sendidg off more. Only one or two others, and those of the far West, have as yet done so. Pennsylvania came up to the notch only wnen Gen. Lee threatened her southern border; in New England they are drafting; in most of the other States a draft will be requisite to meet the demand of the general Government. Our sturday neighbor will go off with more than one feather in her cap. Her troops as a whole have rendered the most efficient service. They have had stance of a Jersey regiment "skedaddling," whether under Burnside, Hooker or the lamented Kearney? Talk of admission into the Union; the question is whether the Jersey Dutchmen will admit the other three and thirty States in-

OUR OWN FAULTS.

Let us not be over curious about the faults, for then shall we be well pleasing to God. For he who looks at the faults mer he falls into listlessness. For when he percieves that such a one has sinned, very easily he will sin himself; when he perceives he has in aught excelled, very easily he becomes arrogant. He who connot the sins of others, is profitable in many ways, And how? I will tell you. When he does that such a one hath done excellently, he is raised to emulate the same; when he sees that he himself hath sinued, he is rendered humble and modest If we act thus, if we thus regulate ourselves, we shall be able to obtain the good things which we are promised Jesus Christ .- St. Chrysostom.

Death of Charles H. Bacon.

The sad intelligence arrived a few days since, that Mr. Bacon had fallen while in defence of his country. Those who knew him best can testify to his many virtues. He was a whole-souled man, a kind father and a devoted christian. He leaves a sorrowing widow and five small helpless children to mourn his loss. The following letter from the battle field tells the sad these gallant soldiers who have conferred houor upon New Jersey by their steady bravery on the field of battle, and it is to those companies, organized and armed as they are under the authority of the State, that resort must now be had. I therefore recommend the commissioned officers of the companies of the active militia of the State to proceed immediately and with the utmost energy to recruit their respective companies to the maximum number of ninety. eight men each. These companies will proceed in all cases where it is necessary, elect the proper commissioned and non commissioned officers, and will meet for dill at least twice in each week, and oftener if prac ticable. B th officers and men are enjoine to hold themselves in rendinoss to be calle into active service whenever the exigencies of the State may require. The captians of the several companies will forward to the Adju-tant-General on the first day of October next muster rolls of their respective companies containing the names of their officers and
