TEMPERANCE LECTURE,

Delivered in Musical Fund Hall, Philaarrival from Europe.

The lecturer commenced by pointing out the evils of intemperance—evils which he declared to be patent, and whose existence therefore it was unnecessary to prove. Every one exerted a greater or less influence for good or for evil. Of all the miserable wretches, whose condition deserved the sympathy of the philanthropist, and the active beneficence, the warmhearted charity, of the true and zealous Christain, the besotted slave of his own vile passions stands foremost. The victim of intemperance has been shunned, despised and down-trodden; and yet, after all, can it be said of him that he is a brute?

I knew a fellow once, said the speaker, who came for me six miles in a fly or onehorse cab. As I got into the vehicle with him, and as I did so, I noticed that he sat leaning forward. Then he took his handkerchief and put it around his neck you got the toothache?" " No, sir," he replied, but still he sat leaning forward, and then wrapped the handkerchief still tight. er around his neck. So I said, "Are you 'cold?" "No," he again replied. Well, my curiosity was excited. I wondered at the man, and I said to him, " Excuse me, if you please, but I have some little curiosity, and I should like to know why you sit with the handkerchief around your face?" At length, he replied, "Well, sir. you see the window of this carriage is brooff you!,"(Laughter.) "Why," said I, "you ain't doing it for me, are you?" and he said "Yes." So I said, "God bless your kind heart."-"No," said he' "may God bless your kind-heart." "Why?" asked I. "Why, I once went to hear you when I was a goodfor-nothing, worthless loafer, without a cent in the world. Your words changed my heart, and now I have a wife and three little children, and can earn an honest living with the blessing of God, and I'd stick my head in any hole for your sake."

(Laugter.) Brutes are they? and yet the world has called them so. And now I remember another incident which I'll relate to you. A poor fellow who was wounded and lay n an English hospital, was one day asked what he would do for Florence Nightingale, who had saved his leg from amputation. "Why," he replied, " she always used to pass by my cot in her daily rounds. There was a lamp in the passage just op-posite my cot, and whenever she passed her shadow used to fall upon the wall, and then I would turn to the opposite side of the wall and kiss it. That's all I could do for Florence Nightingale!" Brutes are they? (Applause). For whom was it written - I will arise and go to my father and

A man that signed the pledge at a meetger of agony traces burning characters on their brow; but they live on. One day he said to me, "the most curious thing that ever happened to me in my life was when I signed that pledge. I used to go into the house, not caring for my wife what she felt or what she said—sometimes I would I used to beat her, and sometimes I would fall over a chair or table and break it.—
But the moment I signed that pledge the first thing I thought of was, 'I wonder what my wife will say!' The Story in a Nutshell.

The Boston Post publishes the following extract from a letter written by an officer in the Army of the Potomac, who was in the seven days' battles, in command of a battery, and who distinguished himself :-

"Perhaps I never told you why we were not successful. I will do so now.
"When Gen. McClellan landed at Fortress Monroe, to commence the march to Richmond, he had 115,000, men. His plan was to engage the enemy before Yorktown, and the Secretary of War agreed to send Gen. McDowel, then at Fredericksburg, to West Point, to attack them in rear. Had the programe been no other than the capture of the entire force

"Early the next day, the Union army resumed its march, and in the afternoon encountered the enemy at Howard's Mills, a strong position six miles east of Yorktown -Here they made a stand for a short time, but gave way before night came on, and retreated to their fortifications at Yorktown. That night McClellan rested at Howard's Mills, within the rebel works, Everything now lookined the strength and position of the enemy; by his telegraphic line, which was completed each day, he could hold communication with Washington, at each encamping place. He telegraphed the satisfactory state of affairs, and in reply he was telegraphed by Secretary Stanton that the Government had concluded not to send McDowell as he had agreed; that ington. McClellan consternation was great. He called his Generals about him, and showed them Stantou's telegram. THE PIONEER HAS A LARGER CIRCULATION THAN ANY COUNTY PAPER IN THIS STATE.

Only $1.00 per Year in Advance:

JAMES B. FERGUSON, Editor.

All articles of a political characte which appear in the Pioneer this week, have been inserted as advertisements, by request of persons interested.

Letters from the Camp and the Field, and the absence of some familiar faces, often remind us that this county has sent representatives from her sons to join the medical corps of the army, as well as those to join the regular rank and file, but we were glad to observe that those who remain, still continue their semi-annual meetings for mutual benefit and social enjoyment.

The Cumberland County medical society held its regular meeting on Tuesday last, at the Hotel of E. Davis & Son, and the members were agreeably entertained by interesting discussions of cases occuping in different parts of the County, and by doing ample justice to one of those tempting repasts which the worthy hosts know so well how to provide. No devastating epidemic has accourged our country during the past six months. Many of the members had remarked the general health of our population during the hot weather as well as during the cooler months. This society is one of the oldest county Medical Societies, having been originally established in 1818. Some of its members are appointed every year to take part in the proceedings of the New Jersey State Society, which is the oldest medical organization in this Western Hemisphere, and will be entitled, about 3 years hence, to celebrate its Contennial Anniversary. The Delegates elected this year are Dr. B. R Bateman of Fairfield, Dr. S. G. Cattell of Deerfield, Dr. W. Elmer of Cohansey, and Dr. E. Fithian of Greenwich, to attend the meeting to be held in Jersey City, in January 1863.

A very fine specimen of Cotton was left at our office a few days since, which was raised on the farm of Capt. Wesley Rogers near Bridgetor. The seed was not planted until the 13th of May. Mr Rogers thinks that a good crop can be raised in this section if planted in season and attended to properly .--We should like to hear the experience of others who have raised small quantities of it the past season, in this county.

Foreign Intervention.-A cock-and-bull story has been started to the effect, that England and France are about to interfere in the American war, and that in the event of a re-fusal upon the part of the Government to subfinal upon the part of the troveriment to seo-mit to mediation, then the bogus Confederacy is to be recognized. England has to much gumption to do any such thing, while France has too much regard for her old friends and allies to act scurrily. For the West Jersey Pioneer.

Mr. Editor:—I noticed in the Pioneer of last week, that its columns would be open a District we have the most cheering intelligence of the popular favor with which the nomination of this gentleman for Congress. cles, from either or both parties, as advertisements, providing they did not reflect upon the personal character of their political opponents." I know not whether others will avail themselves of your fair offer, which has the working men, and deeply conscious of the been publicly announced to all parties, but I interests of the laboring classes, Mr. Starr ail themseives of your fair offer, which has wish to call the attention of voters to our candidates.

Marcus L. Ward, the Republican Union nominee for Governor, is a man in every sense qualified for the duties and responsibilities which devolve upon the incumbent of that important office. The Governor of the loyal State of New Jersey should be a man whose of the people; while hundreds, and we may loyalty and patriotism is unquestionable .-Such a man is Marcus L. Ward. His bustness capacities eminently qualify him to be the successor of Charles S. Olden. Every voter who has a father brother or son in the srmy. should not fail to vote for that true friend of the soldier-Marcus L. Ward. He has given much of his time, since the war commenced in giving aid to the soldiers, their wives and children. Every needed help has been freely, and kindly bestowed, gratuitously, and without expectation of reward. He has advanced thousands of dollars to aid them. Hundreds of sick and wounded soldiers have been kindly cared for in a hospital near Newark in this State, established and supported by Marcus L. Ward. An excellent biographical memoir of Mr. Ward, taken from a popular magazine, published six or seven years ago, has lately heen re-published in some of the newsnapers of this state. It was written at a time when he was not a candidate for any office, and is enditled to the fullest credence. It is a valueable testimonial of the possession of those high and nobler qualities particularly fitting their possessor for the ready performance of the manifold duties of the Gubernatorial chair. Strict integrity, large business qualities, comprehensiveness of mind, with capacity for arranging details, however minute or complicate, are qualifications but rarely found combined in one individual. Add to these unswerving patriotism, heart open to the voice of distress; a hand ready to relieve its wants, a firm and unyielding friend to the soldier, much of whose time is already devoted to attending to his family, protecting them from imposition, and you have the portraiture of the man whom we trust New Jersey will be ready to honor with her first choice. John F. Starr, the Union nominee for Congress, is a self-made man, of superior business qualifications. He has never been an office seeker By strict attention to business and unusual ability, he has won a high position among his rivals, and posesses those sterling qualities of head and heart, which fit him for an honorable representative of the 1st district. The Union candidate for State Senate, Providence Ludlam, is a whole-souled man, well qualified for the position of State Senator .-For years past he has worked hard for his party. giving freely his time and means for the mencement of the rebellion he has done much of strangers against him. Those who are best acquainted with Mr. Ludlam know him to be an honorable, generous, and whole-souled man, ready to give his last penny for the furtherance of any cause which he believes would benefit mankind. The story of his collecting money for soldiers, and keeping it back, is as false as it is base, and will not be believed by any person who is acquainted with him .-Mr. Ludlam has been objected to by some, because he is friendly towards the Camden & Amboy R. R. Co. Before going into convention, the delegates who nominated him, were told plainly by Mr. Ludiam, (in answer to their inquiry) that he was in favor of conceding to that Co. its rights, which the State had pledged itself to grant, and that he was ments in the country, which gives employment not in favor of the State violoting its plighted at liberal wages to a large number of workfaith. No Jerseyman who knows the amount taxes of every taxpayer in the State, and large-a trough; female on right; men at work on terested, will undertake to say that the Camden and Amboy Co. is not a great benefit to the State. South Jersey is now reaping the benefit of a railroad for which she is largely indebted to the Camden & Amboy Co., and certainly no reasonable man will oppose Mr. Ludlam because he is favorable to the best interests of the State. Our candidate for County Clerk, Theophilus G. Compton, of Mauricetown, is well known as a good, reliable business man, one who will acceptably fill that important office. Mr. Compton is not only capable to discharge the

has been received. We doubt whether a more judicious selection could have been made, or whether a more competent nomines could have been placed before the people.— Coming, as he does, directly from the ranks of fitly represents that portion of our New Jersey yeomanry whose greatest pride is that they toll for a livelihood and competency. In this city it is almost usaless to speak to our citizens respecting the industrial perseverance of Mr. Starr. For upward of twenty years he has been a resident here, and his courteous disposition and business qualifications have given him a strong hold upon the affections say thousands of mechanics and other labor ers have found employment in his establish ment, and can thus bear testimony to his humane and philanthrophic efforts to supply them with means of furnishing their families with the necessaries of life. Prudence and care have achieved for Mr. Starr a position in business and commercial relations equal to that occupied by any man in New Jersey, and his social qualities make him esteemed by all his numerous acquaintances. Frank and open hearted in the extreme, he has won the admiration of all business classes, while premptitude in executing his promises and obligations has gained for him that confidence which has extended his business into almost every state in the Union. With these characteristics Mr. Sterr comes before the voters of this district as a candidate of the Republican Union party for Congress; and, if merit, true worth and pecular fitness for the position are to be the ruling principle in the contest, there is not the least shadow of doubt but that his success will be complete. These facts alone ught to be sufficient of themselves to insure is election. But there are other and weight--considerations which are superior to any personal ambition or honor. The very life and tability of the nation are endangered by an unholy armed rebellion, and the traitors in his rebellion have an organized party in the North who furnish them "aid and comfort" in their efforts to destroy the Government. The defeat of this party, and the encouragement of the Administration to put down the traitors by all lawful meaus within the power of the Nation, are the paramount questions at issue. Mr. Starr is the candidate of those patriots who stand pledged to the support of the Government, and will devote his entire energies in assisting to crush the rebellion iu the speediest and most off-ctual manner. There is no use to disguise the fact—the rebels are terribly in earnest—their abettors at the North manifest an equal zeal in their success. Our Government must, therefore, be fully as terribly determined, and men should be sent to Congress with no other motive or object id view than those which aim to preserve our glorious Union unbroken. There can be no doubt of the lovalty of the voters of the First Dis- night. trict, who feel a deep and abiding interest in the future welfare of the country, and even the interests of their own section of New Jersey; and they will, therefore, cast their franchises for Mr Starr. Such an exhibition of devotion to the country will be another evidence of their unflinching determination to vote for correct principles

John F Starr, as the workingman's candidate for Congress, is another of those patriotic men whom the Union Party has caosen for its standard-bearer, and whose social and moral worth places him in the front ranks of our solid men of the State. Every effort of Mr. Starr's life has been to exercise that line of fair and honorable intercourse with his fellow men which secures for every one who observes it a name and standing worthy of emulation. With an energy and industry seldom put forth by men of business, he has won the good will and esteem of all, and thus occupies a position which cannot be reached or harmed by the envenomed arrows of detraction and slander which may be hurled at him by political dema-gogues and secession sympathisers. No man er went before a voting community with a fairer record, a better name, and worthier antecedents. With a self-sacrificing devotion for his country's welfare, an honest and patriotic heart, a full conviction of the necessity of vigorously supporting the Administration in putting down the rebellion, Mr. Starr accepted the nomination, and has entered the contest fully determined to win. And, if the people of this District exhibit half of the patriotism that he does, his success is a moral certainty .- Camden Journal.

Our Candidate for Congress. "It is not always, nor by any means often, that the mechanic, the man who calls inte re-quisition in his daily toil the strength and energies of his physicial frame, as well as his mental faculties, has an immediate representa-tive in Legislative counsils. They have such a man in John F. STARR, the nominee for Congress. He was brought up to hard labor, and from small beginnings, by hard knocks, energy and perseverance, has reared one of the mest successful manufacturing establishmen. Now is the time for the working and laboring men to sustain and prove the dignity disdain upon them, and seek to rear a political edifice whose corner stone degrades and disboners labor. The "dirty, greasy mechanic" is callet by them "a mudsitt." The workingmen should now show them that a representative from among themselves is their peer, and worthy of the most exalted position. Mr. Starr is a good representative man from among the workingmen, and will do them credit.— His business habits, general intelligene, and honorable characteristics commend him to the support of every class; his patriotic zeal and political associations invite and demand tire united and earnest support of every friend of the country."- Woodbury Constut

Our Candidate For Congress.

Men of the First Congressional District of New Jersey, the friends and supports of the Government, ask your suffrages for a man of the people. A man who has grown from the people, who comes from the working classes; vigorous, active, self reliant, industrious and attentive to business our candidate has carved out his own fortnnes. He has steadily but surly worked his way upward, and now with no stain upon his fair fame, and a character in the community which challenges admiration, canvass. John F. Starr is a fair type of a northern "mudsill," a "dirty mechanic," whom our Southern Democratic brethren so intensely despise. He is self-made, self-dependent honest sensible and determined. Unswerving in the line of his duty, he can neither be cajoled or intimidated: the temptations of office will not seduce him; the threats of political opponents cannot move him He is one of those bard fisted, iron nerved men, those "greasy fellows" whom Northern air and free institutions foster and cherish .- West Jersey

I have great faith and confidence in the patriotism and Corn, courage of the men of the 24th New Jersey Regiment; the confidence in our leaders is unbounded, and in the name of all who compose it, I pledge to those we have left behind us, to our brethren in General Schofield pursued General the field, and to the spirits of those who have already fallen in this bloody and unnatural conflict, that when the time to strike arrives, we will deal out heavy blows, and add new laurels to those already won by the immortal Jersey Blues

We are now numbered among the hordes of "Northern Vandals" that have dared to place their feet upon Virginia's "sacred soil." Our present encampment is just at the right of Chain Bridge as one passes into Virgina, upon a high bluff that overlooks the Potomac. The scenery around us is perfectly enchanting. When I stand upon the brow of our encamping ground, gazing at the crystal stream two hundred feet below. or looking out upon the many hills that rise in beauty all around us, I involunterly wish that He, who

O that one could write as eloquently as he feels when contemplating the glorious prospect spread out before him! To convey to the mind of those who never witnessed the like, an adequate idea of the beauty-the absorbing beauty-of the country around us, it would require the genius of a poet and the skill of an artist. The deep ravines and cragy heights, the crystal streams and rugged rocks present to the lover of nature, objects truly worthy of his admiration, and leads him to "look through nature up to nature's God." Delightful as are our prospects during the day, our surroundings night are not less interesting. Here. The Houston Telegraph confirms the and there, over yonder and everywhere, evacuation of Galveston, Texas, and says the light of camp fires may be seen; and the silvery notes of music heard. Such A force of one thousand rebel cavalry, was particularly the case on Thursday believed to be the advance guard of the night. All during the day reports of a startling nature had been circulated thro' the camp; rumor represented that Mc-Clellan had nearly surrounded the rebels, 800 rebels at Waverly, Tennessee, and that he was driving them down the Potomac in the direction of our encampment, that one hundred thousand men had been ordered out of Washington to intercept their flight, and that any moment we might expect to hear the distant roar of artillery, and be marched against the foe. True, or untrue, all these rumors had a tendency to make our circumstances interesting, and many a brave heart swelled with emotion at the prospect of so soon having an opportuni-Bolivar. What they meant not one of us could tell; but under the circumstances, undue importance was attached to them. By-and-by the sound of music from a neighboring encampment fell upon our ears, cheer after cheer rent the air, lights of unusual brilliancy were displayed-all of which continued long after the tattoo had sounded-forming altogether a scene grand, beautiful and sublime. The next morning, instead of learning the particulars of a bloody battle, and brilliant victory, we heard that the music, and cheers, and we heard that the music, and cheers, and illumination was the result of the promotion of the Colonel commanding at at that fort to a Brigadier-General. Since writing the above, our encampment has been removed about three-

BHODES' SUPER PHOSPHATE THE STANDARD MANURE.

"RHODES"," the long-established and well known Manure, is manufactured under the immediate supervision of the regularly educated chemists, Robert B Potts and Frederick Klett, Camden, N. J., WHO NOW MANUFACTURE SOLELY FOR B. M., RHODES & OO, BALTIMURE.

(See correspondence annexed.)
The established standard character of Risodes' Manue, the use of which has extended through a series of years upon every description of crop, does not require an array of certificates.
Guaranteed pure and free from all adulteration.
Agriculturists and Dealers can produre supplies from YARNALL & TRIMBLE, General Agents for Penna. New Jersey and Delayaro ana, New Jersey and Delaware 418 South Delaware avenue, Philadelphia.

Office Rhodes' Super-Phosphate, the Standerd Manure, Baltimore, Md., March 26, 1802. Mears, Potts & Kle t, Camden, N. J.

Dear Sir—We some time since informed you of our purpose to so organise our system of agencies in all agricultural counties that you could devote your works to the exclusive manufacture of Rhodes' Super Phosphate.

Phosphate.

This we have successfully accomplished, and are now prepared to engage your full capacity for Rhodes standard. Manure, in accordance with our arrangements.

As we find great mistrust prevails in the minds of the farming community of the Eastern States—indeed, an utter want of confidence—in special manures, permit us in this connection to suggest to you to extend, in your capacity as manufacturing chemists, such guarantees of purity, etc. as in your good indgment will enable us to satisfy the minds of intelligent agriculturists.

ists, such guarantees of purity, etc. as in your good judgment will enable us to satisfy the minds of intelligent agriculturists.

In the large planting sections, where Rhodes' Manure has been used for many years, there is no occasion for such assurance; but from all we gather during extended visits among Eastern farmers, find they have ample ground for fears—owing, doubtless, to ignorance and want of manufacturing skill on the part of those who have been furnishing these sections.

Yours, truly,

B. M. Rhodes & Co.

Camden, N. J. April 1, 1862.

Messrs. B. M. Rhodes & Co.

Gentlemen—Yours of 20th ult. duly received. We hereby accept your proposition to confine our works to the exclusive manufacture of Rhodes' Super-Phosphate—the Standard Manure. In reply to your request for a guarantee of purity, to satisfy the incredulous, we would state that if the uniform quality maintained during the last ten years while watched by opponents and tested by chemists/without our knowledge) all over the United States, England and Cuba, together with our guarantee of $1000, legally drawn up and signed, also certified to by the Maypr of our city—if these are not sufficient security, we know of none other that can satisty:

Very respectfully, Ports & Kleft.

LOOK AT THIS! The Menagerie has just been to Bridgeton and exhibited both afternoon and evening, and a dense crowd of people went to see the animals. One of the elephants refused to cross one of the bridges at Elmer's pond, and consequently had to wade around, but notwithstanding this, he came out all right.

Thompson is bound to come out right. The idea has gone out that Thompson sells goods a little higher than others. That idea must and shall be changed, if selling goods still cheaper will do it. I am bound to

THE DAY SCHOOL BELL.

35,000 COPIES ISSUED.

A new Singing Book for Day Schools, called the Day School Bell, is now ready. It contains about 200 hoolee songs, rounds, catches, duetts, trios, quartetts and choruses, many of them written expressly for this work, besides 32 piges of the Elements of Music. The Elements are so casy and progressive, that ordinary teachers will find themselves entirely successful in instructing even young scholars to sing correctly and scientifically; while the tunes and words embrace such a variety of lively, attractive, and soultsurring music and sentiments, that no trouble will be experienced in inducing all beginners to go on with zeal in acquiring skill in one of the most health-giving, beauty-improving, happiness-yielding, and order producting exercises of school life. In simplify of its elements in variety and adaptation of music, and in excellence and number of its songs, original, selected, and adapted, it claims by much to excel all competitors. It will be found the best ever issued for sommaries, academies, and public schools. A few sample pages of the elements, tunes and songs, are given in a circular: send and get one. It is compiled by Horace Waters, author of "Sabbath School Bell," Nos 1 and 2, which have had the enormous sale of 735,000 copies. Prices—paper cover. 20 cents, $15 per 100; bound, 30 cts, $22 per 100; cloth bound, embossed gills, 40 cents, $30 per 100. 25 copies furnished at the 100 price. Mailed at the retail price.
