TWO-HORSE LEVER POWER. I WU-RUNDE LEVEN PUWEN.

I WOULD call the attention of Farmers and others to my TWO-HORSE LEVER POWER, which has been thrroughly tested and proven to be, I think, a power that must supersede all Endless Chain power or the old Lever. It is of very Light Draught, and can be moved from place to place readily, it being fixed on wheels with tounge &c., complete, and can be placed in position for work in less time than any other kind of power. The exceeding cheapness of the machine is its greatest recommendation.

I would refer those in want of a rood power to the following persons:

LIVE FOR SOMETHING. Live for something; be not idle— Look about thee for employ: Sit not down to useless dreaming— Labor is the sweetest joy. Folded hands are ever weary,

Life for thee hath many duties—Active be, then, while you may. Scatter blessings in thy pathway! Gentle words and cheering smiles! Better are than gold and silver, With their grief dispelling wiles.

Ever on the grateful earth, So let sympathy and kindness Gladden well the darkened earth. Hearts there are oppressed and weary; Drop the tear of sympathy, Whisper words of hope and comfort,

As the pleasant sunshine falleth

Give and thy reward shall be Joy unto thy soul returning From this perfect fountain-head ; Freely, as thou freely givest, Shall the grateful light be shed:

GENTLEMANLY LADIES.

In a railroad car the seats were all full except one which was occupied by a pleasan looking Irishman, and at one of the stations a douple of evidently well-bred ladies came in to procure seats. Seeing none vacant, they were about to go in the back car, when Patrick arose hastily and offered them his seat with evident pleasure. "But you will have no seat for yourself" responded one of the young ladies with a smile. 'Never you mind that! said the gallant Hibernian, "ye'r welcome to it. HOW TO ECONOMISE.

"Its's all very easy to talk about economizing, but where is one to begin?-You are not at all extravagant, neither from which our little income can leak any money. I can't account for it al!

Thus spoke Charles Walters, a young lawyer, who resided in a cosy little house somewhere between Third and Thirtieth streets, in New-York. He had a nice little practice, a pretty little wife, and a bright eyed little baby. What do you say, old bachelors? qught not he to be supremely happy with all these possessions? And yet such was very far from being the case. The truth was, that Charlie Waters felt "hard times" as acutely as any of us-he began to look before she had laid aside two dollars and half for the purchase of new scarlet roses and ribbons for deceration; but now he looked thoughtfully at the old purple violets, remembered her agreement with Charlie, and concluded the bonnet would do very well as it was winter.-

Was not she a wise little housewife? In the morning's marketing she adhered firmly to her good resolutions, tle rarsties in which she had been wont were left in the show-case, and the three dollars were safely carried home. "Let me tee," said she, as she sat in the twilight, rocking her baby's cradle and waiting for her husband's return, Biddy's six dollars a month is about thirty cents a day; my flowers and ribbons, two dollars and a half; those late peaches and the fish that I resisted buying are another dollar, and that beautiful embroidery that would have made haby such a lovely dress (and here she drew a little regretful sigh) was three dollors. Well, I may safely consider that I have economized six dollars and eighty cents to-day, in small sums. I wonder what Charlie has to report!"

"A good economical little wife you are." said Charlie, a few minutes afterward, when he heard her simple recital. "And now for my account. When got down to the office, Tom, my factotum, announced his intention of going to California, and desired me to look out for a successor. I told Tom to go ahead which he did, but I didn't think proper to look out for any other boy, judging that I might just as well take down my

" I do not think we should, every day,' said Walter, but still it shows the manner in which our money gets away. I like the plan, Mary dear; I like the idea that we are laying by something for that gsy fellow in the cradle, by a little judicious self denial. From the American Agriculutrist. Smart Parents have Dull Children.

The truth of this, as an almost univeral rule can be substantiated in every community. We should naturally expect the contrary. Striking characteristics are, in part at least, transmitted from parents to children. Why then do so few sons and daughters of intelligent, active, and successful parents develop equal energy and achieve equal success? Probably the following suggestions explain the difficulty and indicate a remedy. With rare exceptions, a man's success depends less upon his natural abilities and opportunities, than upon his self reliance and consequent exertion of his powers. -These traits are mainly developed in youth. Take an illustration. We have a friend, an equal partner in a firm doing business walked to and from the office to-day, in one of the large marble blocks in this City. His natural intellect is not above average. Left an orphan at the age of four years, he fell into the hands of an uncle who was strict to austerity in his moral rule, but otherwise careless, and eighty-five cents. Add that to my six the boy was left mainly to shift for himof his clothing, he peddled apples, gingerbread, etc., at shows, general trainings, and similar gatherings, and also made and sold various simple mechanical articles. The strict discipline of his uncle kept him out of vice, but the necessity of dependidg upon his own exertions, and the early practice of laying out his own plans and enjoying their results, developed ingenuity, foresight, and self-reliance. At manhood he came to New-York and entered a store as porter. His strict moral habits, and his developed abilities, were soon noted, and he was made clerk in the packing department. What's in a Kiss.

'Mother, mother, kiss? pleaded a little cherub boy, with blue eyes, anxiously searching his mother's unusually serious pleading, up turned eyes, and the little bosom heaves with struggling emotion. 'My little son has been naughty to-day, replies the mother, sadly; 'how can I kiss those lips that have spoken such angry words? Too much, too much! Dutiful mother, relent! The little heart is swelling, breaking, with grief; tumultous sobs break from the agitated bosom; the snow-white pillow is drenohed with penitent tears, and the little dimpled hand is extended so imploringly. Relent!

'Tis enough! Once more the little head is pillowed upon the maternal bosom -once more the little cherub form is pressed, that mother's aching heart, and the good night kiss of forgiveness and love is given two fold tenderer. A few moments and the sobbings cease, the golden head droops, the weary eyelids close, and the little erring one is laid back upon his couch, penitent and humbled by one kiss

What's in a kiss-a simple kiss? Mnch, very much! More potent than the sceptre-dearer to affection than countless wealth. Who has not felt its magic influence? 'Tis the lover's tender pledge of undying constancy: 'tis the bond of friendship and fidelity; and not only is it MOLASSES IN SALEM COUNTY. -It is dear to the youthful and ardent, but also estimated on good authority that five to old age, to the withered heart and

> A MIRACLE OF HONESTY.—At a party one evening several contested the honor of having done the most extraordinary thing, and a reverend gentleman was appointed sole judge of their respective pretensions.

One party produced his tailor,s bill with a receipt attached to it. A buzz went through the room that this could not be outdone, when a second proved that he had just arrested his tailor for money he lent him.

'The palm is his,' was the general cry, when a third put in his claim. Gentlemen,' said he, 'I cannot boast of the feats of my predecessors, but I have returned to the owners two umbrellas that they left at my house.' I'll hear no more,' cried the astonished arbitrator, this is the very ne plus ultra of honesty, unheard of deeds; it is on act of virtue of which I never knew capable. The paize is -' · Hold,' cried out another, ' I've done still more than that.' 'Impossible!' cried the whole company; let us hear.'

I've been taking my paper for twen-ty years, and paid for it every year in advance! 'Twas no use-he took the prize.

SKATING PONDS .- The fire Department of Jersey City have four scating pondsvarying from ten thousand to eighty thous. and square feet in extent, under their control. The ice is flooded when cut up, which keeps a hard, glib surface when the weather is cold enough. These ponds are brilliantly illuminated, every evening when the scating is good. As every effort is made to make them attractive places of resort, they subserve the purpose of drawing the young from the lager beer and gambling saloons, and other dens of vice with which all cities abound. On Wednesday morning an interesting paper on "Object Teaching," was read by Mrs. P. C. Case, of the Farnum Prepara tory School, at Beverly. We could not but feel a regret that every teacher in the county was not present to listen to, and profit by listening to this able essay, explaining the importance and manner of teaching the young by this most effective of all methods of imparting instruction, and making the school room both profitable and attractive to young pupils. The discussion on that topic if it can be called discussion, was all on one side, as justly culogistic of the system. The discussion of the question, "Is it desirable to introduce military training in our Public Schools," was, we regret to say, rather a failure, and after the consumption of some three-quarters of an hour of the time of the convention by the chosen comhatants on each side was very properly postponed indefinitely. BY THE BARD OF TOWER HALL.

Good uncle Joe his brows did bend, And thus began to think What gifts he should his nephew send, Of college youths the pink.

"Young Joe my namesake is," said he. But even were he not, He is too bright a youth to be At Christmas time forgot.

"But what to send him I'm in doubt : Money he would but waste, And thus, by scattering it about, Acquire a spendthrift taste.

" Of books, already he has more Than I should like to read, And if he studies them all o'er, He'll come home wise indeed. "To jewelry he don't incline. Since cunning men can make Some brazen gimeracks, very fine,

Which folks for gold mistake. "What shall I send my darling boy, To please him most of all? One gift 1 know he must enjoy-A suit from Tower HALL.

OAK HALL BALLAD. Come, gentlemen, as were together,

Housed up by the rain that must fall. While wearing our elegant clothing, Lets sing to the famous OAK HALL, We've tried all the places around us, To some we confess good inteut; But then at Oak Hall we have ever Saved fifteen to twenty per cent.

Why, gentlemen, don't you remember That half of this learning to sweor Is caused by the horrible making Of garments—on purpose to tear. But these, we are wearing this morning, There is no occasion to doubt, Will answer for three generations, Or, surely-until they're worn out.

Your clothing may cost you but little, The stuff may endure a long while : But then they are failing to please you, If lacking a masterly style. Our own are the teachings of science, Would such might be the fate with all; So fill up your glasses with water. And drink to the famous OAK HALL.

Go io Grosscup's, and you will find the largest stock of Goods ever offered in Bridgeton—houghi early in the season, and are being sold at so near the Old Paices that all are satisfied, and buy at once, as they see their is no use of looking farther. Hence the secret of Grosscup's Store being always crowded, and his large force on hand always hurried War. Work.

He would farther announce, in this connection, that he has sedured the services of a few more first class journeymen from Pluhadelphia, and also an assistant in the Cutting Department, and will, therefore be able to fill all orders with more premptness here after than has been possible herefore on account of the constant increase of business.

LOOK AT THIS! The Menagerie has just been to Bridgeton and exhibited both atternoon and evening, and a dense crowd of people went to see the animals. One of the elephants refused to cross one of the bridges at Elimer's pond, and consequently had to wade around, but notwitistanding this, he came out all right.

Thompson is bound to come out right. The idea has gone out that Thompson sells goods a little higher than others. That idea must and shall be changed, it selling goods still cheaper will do it. I am bound to SELL AS CHEAP OR CHEAPER than others, for cash, and as I have just got in New and Beautiful Stock of Goods, just call and examine for yourselves, and if you don't say they are cheap I will not ask you to purchase.— My stock consists, in part, of CLOTHS, CASSIMERES, VESTINGS, Suspenders, Neck-Ties, Shirt Collars, turndowns and hokers, from 1 to 15 cents. Also Hats and Caps of the very Latest Styles. My prices have always been uniform just a fair living profit, taking from one man what I do from another, (which I have always thought was the golden rule), and not taking two profits from one, and a-half profit from another.

Manhood-How Lost! How Restored! Just Published, in a Sealed Envelope. Price 6 Cents
A lecture on the Nature, Treatment & Radical Cure of Spermatorrhea or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Emissions, Sexual Debility, and Impediments to marringe generally, Nervousness, Consumption, Epilepsy and fits; Mental and Physical Incapacity, resulting from Self-Abuse, &c.—By ROBT. J. CULVER.
WELL. M. D. Author of the Green Book, &c.

The world-renowned author, in this admirable Lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of Self-Abuse may be effectually, removed without medicine, and without dangerous surgical operations, bougies, instruments, rings or cordials, pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically. This lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands.
