The Conscription Bill.

Messrs. Kelsey & Gillman: I regret to see in your last paper an editorial denouncing the late act of Congress authorizing a draft of more men for the army as unconstitutional, and if so, then void, and to be safely set at defiance. Deeming this view to be entirely erroneous, and the subject, and the consequinces of wrong opinions concerning it, being of immense importance to the whole community, I venture, although still confined to the house, and very week from late severe sickness, to endeavor to show secure the publication of my views in your next issue.

From the reasons you give of the allered unconstitutionality of the law, it is vident that you consider it as resting for support upon those clauses of the Constition which authorize the Government in certain cases to call to its aid the militia of the several States. If this were so, there might be some ground for your objections, but it does not rest for support grants of power entirely distinct, and had you taken the trouble to read all the Constitution ays on this subject, you would not have fallen into the error. excepting only one restriction, that no appropriation of money for the army shall be for a longer term than two years, and the clause last quoted gives to Congress the sole and exclusive power of judging and determining what means are "necessary and proper" to be used in raising the army, whether by volunteers, or a draft and if a draft, then as to the mode of enforcing it; who shall be exempt, and who not, and all the incidental details. The intelligence from the Southwest is highly important and full of ef encouragement. The law was enforced, even in Boston, in the very hot-bed of New England Abolitionism, and so if necessary will this law be, because the Government is more able agin. to enforce this than it then was to enforce that, and because our people are law-loving and law abiding, and look to the appropriate judicial tribunals, and not to politicians, to decide what is, or is not constitutional Should this law ever be brought before the courts for their construction, it will be pronounced constitutional; no court, and no intellligent. wellbred lawyer, unless a more partisan, blinded by political prejudice, will ever give an opinion to the contrary

Feeling this assured conviction, I great ly regret to see such articles as your last onper contained, one editorial, and two copied from other papers, because the effect will be to mislead ignorant people, and even intelligent persons who have no other sources of information, and perhaps bring them into collision with the Government, and its forces, subjecting them to all the penalties of this law, constitutionally beyond question to trial and se vere punishment before the U.S. Court at Trenton. WE say do not be humbugged by long and windy advertisements, but remember that C. C. Grosscip still keeps the largest, best selected, and cheapest stock of goods for men and boys' wear, in emborland county. Hence his nume ous customers keep him and all his employers too busy to write long advertisements, and the constant increase of business, has made it necessary to investall his spare hinds in sewing machines, and considering the low price at which he sells, it is no wonder that he has had no fands to invest in the less important article of Poetical Machinery.

INHABITANTS OF CUMBERLAND. It has long been established beyond doubt that a man is apt to be judged by the clothes he wears as the company he keeps. Many a well meaning man loses the opportunity of doing good by example, merely because he does not happen to be dressed respectable. Such being the case it certainty becomes a duty we owe ourselves and others, to clothe ourselves respectable. It is the question naturally arises where can we get such clothing at comparatively little cost, and the question we propose to answer.

Bradbury's New Scale Piano Forte. In the arrangement of our new scale drawn and prepared with the atmediate expressly for our new instruments, we have added every improvement which can in any way tend to the perfection of the Piano-Forte, and we can confidently assert, that for delicacy of touch, volume, purity, brilliacy and sweetness of tone, combined with that strength and solidity of trane necessary to durability, these instruments are unequalled.

"Strength and Beauty" is our motto, and we invite the closet criticism of the best unbiased judges in the land. 427 Every instrument warranted for five years WM. B. BRADBURY, 427 Broome St., cor. of Crosby, New York, March 7 1863, 3m. m. 4a
