For the West Jersey Pioneer. HOME.

BY J. E ENGLISH. There's a home 'mid the green hills far away, For which my heart is sighing; Where the willow branches wave all day, Till the sunset hues are dying. 'Tis a lovely spot, with meadows gay And sweet vales round it lying.

There the robin and the blue bird sings By the open door at morn, And the thrush's song, in the still May On the gentle breeze is borne, And the sunlight plays 'mid the tufted g.uss,

Or sleeps in the waving corn. Sweet roses bloom 'neath the windows low And violets nestle where, In quiet nooks the daisies grow, In a dress that a bride might wear, And lillies, pure as the tintless snow,

Open their petals fair.

The wind sighs soft thro' the clustering vines That climb on the garden wall, And the pale moonlight thro' the lattice shin When evening shadows fall. Those scenes, tho' many Mem'ry shrines, I've a cousin named Ned, who is handsome and tall, Just six feet, I'm sure, I've his mark on the wall: He is of celled Adonis, and he cuts such a dash, That all other chaps slide when he shows his mus: acl Now, girls, you would think as he walks on the stre That he's kept in a box, and let out for a treat, Just once in a while when the weather is fine, So trim, and so neat is this cousin of mine.

But back of the scenes, girls. I've recently been, And mysterious sights have my prying eyes seen s Such a show of contusion, of cobwebs and gloom, And every such thing was the bachelor's room.

A dog, and a monkey, of song birds a pair, And a cross-sunting cat were all snugly lodged the The dog and the monkey asleep on the bed, And this was the den of my proud cousin Ned. The bed was unmade, girls, and covered with clothes And under it cast all his unmended hose, Old gloves, and suspenders, a crippled boot-jack, And a coat he'd worn hunting, split straight up the back.

There were scores of old shirts, and such funny old paute, (He had villed them, he said, to his old mai len aunts.) Of wap-shawls and surtouts a dozen or more, And a portion of these were hung up on the floor.

I walked up to the desk, and saw there such a love Of a fair lady's likeness, and dainty kid glove, A bouquet of roses and forget me note blue, And a note which I'm sure was a sweet billetdoux.

I'cailed for the maid, and she came with a broom; "Slure, ma'ma, now I mane to clane up masthe room, room, When he's in, ma'ma, he won't let me swape up And when he goes out, don't he lock up the door?" All wrong doing in society is suicidal, and contains the germs of its own overthrow. for all things in Nature rise up in opposition to it : thus the wicked are taken in their own devices, and we have heard of evils that cured themselves. It is the prerogative of the Almighty alone to educe good from evil, and make human passion and crime go to help human progress, and thus make the wrath of man to dage of its domestic life, it could not have taken a more effective way to do it than its in sane folly has invented. It has contrived to destroy the most of whatever of sympathy used to be felt for its complaints at the North. The Southern life has become too viciated in its ruing sentiments and policy to be saved from self destruction. It is too far diseased for suc. cessful medication, and will eat itself up like a moral worthlessness in the world, it must be set aside as a cumberer of the ground. The South was rapidly relapsing into savage barbarity, while it sucked the manhood from our hearts at the North. Sedition and rebellion of the most desperate character have driven the government with all its vast powers to those violent measures of war in its worst form, which, in the rapid progress of Christian Civilization had fallen into disuse, so that we regard it as retributive Justice if the war result liar, destructive institution, and in the humiliation of all those who have sought or helped to upon. How abruptly they solve the great questions which for generations agitated the nation !-How quickly "Southern Nullifiers" abrogate the Fugitive Slave Law without the assistance of courts confirming their declarations! How unceremoniously a cabal of Secessionists negative, their own policy adjusting itself to the extension and perpetuity of that system which sinks immortality into merchandize! How have the boasting chivalry come to wee by an equal number of their contemned Northern mechanics! How strangely the intended victims of their gigantic scheme are made the instruments of separating them from their selfish lords, and raising them above their masters! One marvelous instance in which cupidity, human passion and wickedness go to help human progress—though far from being their legitimate results is the admixture of the beauty and brightness, as if to remind me blood of slaves with the "superior race." The blood of the master has given a new and foreign element to the physical structure of the negro to make, by and by, a more perfect manhood, and gives a speedier elevation of the slave. Together with the transfusion of linenge in a part of the colored population, the actual contact of the whole with the white race is another fact which must be attentively regarded. This people, isolated by color from the rest of the human family, have been brought from the blackness of heathenism into the closest possible relationship with one of the foremost people of the world, and under the civilized influences of the white race, nurtured for two centuries in the light of advanced Christianity, they have become a Protestant in the councils of these then colonies, he so that were one of them to "wear ship"

If the South had wished to disgust the en

The magic power of Victory clears the mists away from the righteous cause, and dignifies it with success, so that the dullest eye can see it, and the most embittered acknowledge it, and then they will flock in to stun with their congratulations-whichsoever prove victor. As manner, who can doubt that under the gui dance of the God of battles, our great conflict will result in such a way as to crown gloriously all our other triumphs of Liberty, which our favored age has witnessed, and secure them as to kneel in childhood's day, as he presided ders or 8-inch guns—very bad things a priceless heritage, not for ourseives alone, but for all future generations.

THE FOREIGN IRON-CLADS.

Let those restless individuals, over whom the terrors of foreign intervention still hang threatingly, possess their souls in peace; the best possible proof of paci-fic intintion is the abscence of any power to harm. The lumbering old iron-clads of England, and the unwieldly carcasses, denominated frigates, of France, are good examples of old-fogyism as applied in the construction of national defenses. If we are to wait until these monstrous inventions arrive upon our coast, we may put off the evil day of foreign war for a very long time.

Paragraphs shadowing forth the progress or rather degree of incompleteness to which the vessels have arrived, have been placed before our readers, and it would be but a tedious recapitulation to enumerate them here. Now the test is brought home to us, and foreigners are saying, "Physician, heal thyself." It is the best portion of the Irish population which is leaving us-the young, the hale, the hopeful, the energetic. The strongest influences are weak and ineffectual before the all-engrossing thought of America. The priest, listened to so readily on most other subjects, is powerless on this. He tries to detain the members of his flock, for his fellow priests across the Atlantic have informed him of the perils which faith encounters in the country of their choice. But in the end, his counsel being unheeded, he finds himself assisting in the arrangements for their departure, and marching them up, with little bun-bishop's parting blessing. The most various causes are assigned for this universal and irresistible movement. It is said that the Irish go to America because the Federal Government "will have them," though to give meaning to the assertion we should be told what all nowerful means it has of making its will effectual. Sometimes it is more than hinted that Mr. Lincoln's myrmidons are in the land; indeed Earl Russel was not long since induced to write to Mr. Adams respecting rumors of Federal recruiting in Ireland. But it is evident that operations of that kind could not be carried on for a week without supplying abundant data plain duty of the Queen's Government to institute. If no such data are not forthcoming, we may be sure that the rumor is untrue. Within the few days, a country gentleman has published a letter calling on the Government to stop the departure of the Irish for the United States.

But, the extravagance of the proposal apart, this prohibition would be of no use unless emigration to Canada were prohibited. The Canadian Government sees its own people flocking over the frontier into the States, and if all the emigrate steamwould be to divert the course of an emigration the good of which would remain unchanged. ## INCORPORATION OF BRIDGETON.

We understand that efforts are to be made at the next session of the legislature to procure an act for incorporating Bridgeton as a City. The subject has been agitated before but from some cause has not been acted upon. The citizens of the town will of course feel an interest in the subject, and we advert to it now more with a view to bring it into public notice, than to advocate any particular course.

At this time the town contains near six thousincorporated and are enjoying whatever immunities and privileges such incorporation conferstown over one not incorporated is a more | be found advertised. prompt and efficient government.

With but little exception it must be admit ted that we have heretofore enjoyed as good a character for order and quiet as any other town of like size in the country, and furnish to the court and prison as few or perhaps fewer subjects in proportion to numbers, as any part of the county.

All this is attributed to a high moral tone in the community, continually fostered and kept alive by the incessant efforts and influence of the different religious denominations. But while conceding this for the past, we should not be insensible to some signs portending for the restraints of law and morality.

These signs are at present exhibiting themselves in the establishment and the encouragement of low groggeries, with their usual attraction to midnight drunkenness and debau ch -in the support given to places where chastity and female virtue are unknown and disregarded, and in the evening manifestations at the street corners, of rowdyism and blasphemy by beardless adepts in these arts. We will not new assume that any stronger exercise of power is at present needed, or that any power at all allowable in a republican government will altegether suppress vice. A more effectual means for that purpose might be found in the influence of the domestic fire-side, were it not unfortunately so frequently deficient in the performance of the duties required by moral and social obligation. Without claiming any necessity for changing the form of our government, it would be but an ordinary exercise of prudence, if upon reflection, society was verging to a condition requiring a change, to make that change in advance of the necessity.

We have alluded to the existence of low grog shops, where citizens, are good citizens, the heads of interesting families, are enticed, with young men of fine promise and abilities, to degrade themselves below the condition of brutes, Dr. Banning's Lectures in the Hall of the to pander to the illegal gains of soulless Shylocks. Such places are alike a disgrace to the town and community that tolerates them. If an act of incorporation can give us any authority which we do not already possess, to clear the town of these plauge spots, in the name of all we hold dear let us have such an act. An act of incorporation secures usually to the citizens of a town more power to correct and reform abuses, than is afforded by general towns. laws and also a better opportunity to improve and beautify the town itself.

Before coming into our picket lines they stopped at the house of one Griffith, and representing themselves as Union cavalry, he told them where our men were posted, and in a few minutes afterward they were in full retreat, evidently having waked up the wrong cavalry. hey have introduced their selections of TEAS, an re selling them at not over Two Cents (.02 cents) per lb above cost, Never deviating from the ONE PRICE asked.

Another peculiarity of the Company is that their Tex Tasker not only devotes his time to the selection of their TEAS as to qualify, value, and particular styles for particular localities of country, but he helps the Tex buyer to choose out of their enormous stock such Tex as are best adapted to his particular wants, and not only this, but points out to him the best bargains. It is easy to see the incalcuable advantage a Tex Buyer has in this establishment over all others. If he is no judge of Tex, or the Market, if his time is valuable, he has all the benefits of a well organized system of doing busine-s, of an immense capital, of the judgment of a professional Tex Tasker, and the knowledge of superior salesmen.

This enbles all Tex buyers—no matter if they are thousands of miles from this market—to purchase on as good terms here as the New York merchants.

Parties can order Texa and will be served by us as well as though they came themselves, being sure to get original packages, true wights and tares; and the Taxs are warranted as represented.

We issue a Price List of the Company's Teas, which will be sent to all who order it; comprising Never deviating from the ONE PRICE asked.
