For the West Jersey Pioneer. WHEN SHALL DEATH COME.

BY 8. M. C. C. When shall come the fell destroyer,
Enemy of all our race;
When shall speak that voice of power,
And the grave our forms embrace;
When shall come the hour of anguish,
And the cruel blow to sever,
When our souls in sorrow languish,
Friends will part on earth forever.

Shall it come in gentle springtime,
When the flowers perfume the breeze,
Beauteous landscapes, raidant sunchine,
Cooling sweets and budaing trees;
With the brook and rolling river,
Murmering o'er the meadowy heath;
Is it then a bounteous giver.
Takes and closes life in death.

Shall it come in pleasant Summer, Neath the myrtle shady bowers; When the zephyrs softly murmer, Fruit maturing, opening flowers; Earth in peace and plenty smiling, And in venal robes arrayed; Joy, the quiet hours beguiling, Shall life's current then be stayed.

Shall death come to us in Autumn,
Nature drooping brown and sear;
Falling leaves, deep sorrow's token,
Emblem of the dying year;
Golden harvests ripening, waving,
Rustling o'er the meadowy lea;
When life's current smoothe is flowing,
Like the waters of the sea.

Shall it come in winter dreary,

Shall it come in winter dreary,
Hoary frosts and dismal forests;
When the weight of life is weary,
Burden of its cares is sorest;
Nature robbed of radiant beauty,
Earth is bound in icy fetters;
Shall the golden bowl be broken,
Prospects wildly torn and shattered.

Shall death come in early childhood,
Youthful sports and days of pleasure;
Roving through the brake and wildwood
Worldly joys an ample measure;
When the page of life is brightest,
Penceful as the silent river;
Waters of its found are sweetest,
Flowing onward and forever.

When the lamp of manhood's dawning, Hearts are beating, souls are free; And we wait the breeze to enter, On our voyage o'er the sea;
When no clouds our spirts darken,
And no bond of friendship severed;
Shall death then our spirits soften,
Crush our fondest hopes forever.

Shall death come when age is hovering,
And the day of life is waning,
And its star snall linger low,
To its distant home returning;
When the eye is dimmed with sorrow,
When the form is bent with care;
Leafless, branchless trunk, and withered,
Death victorious all must share.

Death may come in early springlime, Budding trees or fruiful Summer, In the mellow days of Autumu, Or amid the storms of winter.

Man was made to pass away,
All must feel its conquering powers,
Sink to slumber and decay,
In the tomb, a trancient hour. Death may come in early childhood, Or in older riper years; When the tangled brake and wildwood, Cease the harder heart to cheer; Death, eur common heritage, is ever On our pash with darts pursuing; And the silver chord is severed, Spirits to their God are given.

What reasons can you give to the nations of the earth to justify it? They will be the calm and deliberate judges in this case! and to what cause or one overt act can you point, on which to rest the plea of justification?-What right has the North assailed?-What interest of the South has been invaded? of our country. "When we of the South demanded the slave trade or the importation of Africans for the cultivation of our lands, did they not yield the right for twenty years?-When we asked a three-fifths representation in Congress for our slaves, was it not oranted? · COMING BACK TO THE OLD FOLD .-The rebellion rode roughly over the churches as well as everything else in the South. "In 1861," says the Nashville Union, "the Presbytery of Nashville, following the pernicious example of the politicians, adopted resolutions severing its connection with the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States, and formed a connection with the General Assembly of the (so-called) Confederate States. On the 2d ultimo, the Presbytery held a meeting in Nashville. rescinded the above mentioned resolutions, and resumed its connection with the General Assembly of the Presbyterian rious Boards of the same as formerly .-This was manly; and we trust that our

TRY IT .- We have been placed in possession of a sure remeby for the annoyance of mosquitoes, and we give it to the readers of the "Pioneer," with the satisfaction of knowing that we confer on them, in this act alone, a benefit worth twice the price of the subscription. The remedy is simply to—sit up in bed all night and play the jewsharp! A friend who has tried it, assures us that it is "high."

SUNSTROKE .- The best way to protect at individual, marching or walking, from a sun-stroke, is to carry a wet handkerchief in the hat. Any wet cloth will do, or wet newspaper will answer the same purpose. The proper remedy when a person falls from exposure t the sun is, during the primary at to pour cold water over the head. This is the plan said to be adopted by the natives of India.

Vision of a Dying Child.

It is difficult to account for the thoughts and visions of the dying, and some have supposed them to be the creation of an excited fancy, having no substantial basis of truth. But incident like the following cannot be explained on such a theory; for a child would have no previous concep-The measures were popular, however, and tions of heaven, on which fancy could draw for pleasant visions. There must be some intimate connection between the future world and the soul about to be released from its earthly tabernacle.

"I was greatly pleased," said Dr. Thompson, "with a little incident a mother gave me the other day." A child lay dying. Feeling unusual sensations, she said.

PROPHETIC.—The following extract is from a private letter written by Gen. Jackson, on May 1st, 1833, to Rev. A. J Crawford. We give it without comment leaving the people to form their own conclusion:

"I have had a laborious task here but nullification is dead, and its actors and courtiers will only be remembered by the people to be execrated for their wicked designs to sever and destroy the only good Government on the globe, and that prosperity and happiness we enjoy over every try in civil war, and all the evils in its train, that they might reign and ride on its whirlwinds and direct the storm. The free people of the United States have gogues to their proper doom. Take care of vour nullifiers you have among you.-Let them meet the indignant frowns of every man who loves his country. The Tariff, it is well known, was a mere pretext. Its burthens were on your coarse woolens. By the Law of July, 1832, coarse woolen was reduced to 5 per cent. for the benefit of the South. Mr. Clav's from the place -his fury not much abated | bill takes it up, and closes it with woolens which followed his exit. If this is not protection, I cannot understand. Therefore the tariff was the only pretext, and disunion and a Southern Confederacy the real object. The next pretext will be the negro or the Slavery auestion."

LINES OF MILITARY DEFENCE.

Long before Cæsar crossed the Rubicon. the importance of rivers as lines of defence was thoroughly understood. Even when bridged with solid stone or iron they cannot be crossed in the face of a resolute foe well provided with artillery without tremendous loss to the assailing army. When temporary bridges have to be constructed by the latter under the fire of their opponents, of course the difficulties of the advancing host are terribly increased. It is not necessary to tell the readers of the Ledger that such impromptu roads across running water are usually composed of pontoons. These articles have figured so prominently in the present war, that the name must be familiar to every citizen. We all know how useful they have repeatedly been to the Union cause, and how on one occasion their absence, occasioned by unpardonable negligence in a high quarter, deprived the army of the Potomac of a golden opportunity, and led in the end to disastrous results. There are tens of thousands of civilians, however, who don't know what pontoons are. Let us therefore give a brief description of these somewhat shaky bridge materials, and of the manner in which they are put together so as to bear the weight of large bodies of infantry, cavalry and artillery. Pontoons, then, are hollow, air-tight cylinders, about eighteen feet long, and look something like enormous sausages. They are formed of tin, and are divided, like life-boats, into water-proof compartments, so that in case of being struck by a shot, only the perforated compartment will admit water, the remainder of the cylinder retaining its buoyancy. Rafts are formed by lashing them two and two together on the banks. whence they are pushed off or "boomed out," section by section, until the bridge reaches across the stream. To effect this operation under an snemy's fire is one of the most perijous feats known in war. platform for the purpose of attacking an army posted on its banks, may well test the nerves of the sturdiest veterans.

There is a kind of sympathy in souls as

This sympathy has been most feelingly established by Switzerland, the oldest and foremost Federal Republic of Europe, towards the first Federal Republic of America. A meeting was held at Geneva, on the 9th of July, at which the Swiss people identified themselves with the American people, in the struggle of the latter for Union and Liberty. They declare themselves "in favor of the American Union, and of the measures taken by the Government at Washington for the abolition of Slavery."

How great the contrast between this generous expression of sympathy on the part of a foreign nation, and multitudes of so-called Americans who actually desire the dis-olution of the Union. And it has been heard in Congress, when a member of the House of Representatives, from this State, avows "I am for recognizing the Southern Confederacy, and acquioscing in the doctrine of Secession.'

In their noble address the Swiss go on to say, "we offer up the most ardent prayers that, inspired solely by patriotic thoughts, the States still in revolt may range themselves forever under their star spangled banner of the Union. AMMUNITION BOATS BLOWN UP.

SiXty Persons Killed Three Hundred Wounded. WASHINGTON, August 11.—The Star says:— The mail steamer U. Vanderbilt has arrived from City Point, bringing particulars of a ter rific explosion at that place on Tuesday morning last. The mail steamer Dictator had just left the wharf, providentially, when the explosion took place, otherwise the disaster would have been greatly more deplorable. The explosion took place on board two barges loaded with ordnance stores. It was supposed to be occasioned by a workman dropping ammunition. Sixty were killed and about three hundred wounded. Heads, arms and legs of victims, filling twenty-seven sacks, were pitched upon the beach, and the water is said to have been literally filled with limbs and bodies. Most of the buildings at the wharf were demolished, and some four hundred feet of a new warehouse wharf destroyed. The explosion is said to have shaken the earth for miles around and for a time caused the greatest consterna tion. Many of the buildings on the wharf at City Point are a mass of ruins, and the amount of loss in property will be very heavy.

The situation bafore Petersburg appears to be unchanged. On Friday the enemy exploded the mine which they have been sometime entaged in constructing, in front of the works of the eightenth corps. Anticipating the operations of the enemy, Gen. Grant had adopted precautionary measures which were entirely precautionary measures which were entirely uccessful in preventing any unfortunate results A short had been sunk, which the men thought was intended for a well, from General Warren's lines, which met one of the subterranean pagages of the enemy, which, with the co-operation of the bad triangulation of the confederate engineers, who failed to estimate correctly the underground distance to the fort which they wished to explode, caused the ut-ter failure of their elaborate efforts. Contray to the method of Gen. Grant their exploion was preceded by a general cannonade, which commenced about six minutes before the mine was sprung. With the explosion, masses of earth, dust, debris, and smoke were thrown up but came down outside of our earthworks, eaving them unharmed. The fort had been abandoned, as a precaution, on the night pre-vious, and quaker guns mounted in place of the siege pieces which had been removed. After the explosion the rebels leaped from behind heir breastworks and charged toward our lines, but were met by flank fire, and only 50 of them reached the fort and did not return. The enemy's losses were heavy, but ours

The Attack on Mobile. Our intelligence in reference to the movement of Admiral Farragut against Mobile is of the most encouraging character. A despatch from Major General D. H. Maury, commanding the rebel forces at that point, to the rebel Secretary of War, announces that "seventeen of the enemy's (Federal) vessels passed Fort Morgan on the morning of the 5th." The rebel iron-clad Tennessee, Admiral Buchanan's flagship, carrying seven guns, and depended upon by the enemy to protect the city against our whole fleet, was captured, her commander losing a leg and falling into our hands; the Gaines, a cotton-clad, carrying four guns, was breachmanufacturer, broker, banker, attorney, or any ed, possibly to escape capture; and the Selma, man of business as it shows at a clauce the another cotton clad, and carrying four guns, was captured. The iron clad Morgan, accord to the rebel desputch, was safe, and would endeavor to run up to the city." The same despatch adds that "the enemy's fleet has approached the city." A subsequent despatch announces that our forces had taken possession of Dauphin's Island, on the south side of the harbor of Mobile, and in the rear of Fort Gaines, Nothing is said in the accounts of the fate of for 30 cents; $1 a dozen; $8 a hundred; $18.75 | the iron clad Masbville, and Baltic, the cottonclad Crescent, and the coast-guard steamers, which formed part of the rebel fleet; but they have probably been driven under the protection of fortifications, in which case they will be of no use to the enemy, since they intended to obstruct our progress to the fortifications and not to be defended by them. Admiral Farragut's oss in his advance, was one monitor, the Tocumsel, a single turreted vessel carrying two guns, which was sunk by Fort Morgan.

Raritan and Delaware Bay Railroad. In an article published some days ago, we gave a brief history of the rise and progress of this concern, up to the time that it passed into the hands of certain New York speculators. So long as it remained under the control of Jerseymen the company confined itself within the limits of its charter, and the road was, as the Legislature intended it should be. a local, and not a through road. But when it passed into the hands of its new owners. these, with the usual disregard of New Yorkers for New Jersey and her rights, undertook to change the character of the road, and in defiance of the laws of the State, make the Raritan and Delaware Bay, in connection with the Camden and Atlantic Railroad, a through route for the transportation of goods and passengers between New York and Philadelphia. If the New York owners of the road took the trouble to look at the charter, they know that a through business of this character was not warranted by that instrument. Without regard to this, they commenced running through trains, and endeavored to make contracts for the transportation of a large amount of through freight. It was the same species of inso lence that led New Yorkers to claim a right to erect a pest-house upon Sandy Hook, without consulting New Jersey The Legislature of our State prevented the latter and our Courts stopped the former The question of the rights of this Rail road Company was not brought before our court by its action - the Raritan and De aware Bay Company appeared as defendants They sought to disregard and override our Legislation and our Courts, and applied to Congress to supplement the charter under which the road was built, so as to allow them to defy the State by which the charter was granted. This scheme was presented at the last session of Congress in different shapes, each worse than the other. The final attempt was to procure the p ssage of a law to allow all ailroads "built or to be built" to transport freight and passengers from one State to another, &c The effect of this would have been not only to place the Raritan case, will, it is to be hoped, develope all the and Delaware Bay Railroad, but the Camden and Amboy, and the Central, above and beyond the State law Under such a law, these roads could carry freight and passengers across the State, by the author ity of the United States, and refuse to pay transit duties. The New York specula tors who framed the bill cared little for this, but it seemed strange to find papers. published in New Jersey, advocating such an enactment. It is satisfactory to know that no New Jersey papers, except those owned by these speculators, took such a

The Raritan and Delaware Bay Raiload is bankrupt, and hopelessly so, unless Congressional action makes it a through route. Even in that event it is exceedngly doubtful if its earnings could be As there was no unusual demonstration during made to pay its expenses and the interest on the debt. At present it less the debt take care of itself, and makes the ex penses of running trains very light by running very few; but it can find money to establish and maintain newspapers, and import editors from Connecticut to teach

The object of the New York Copper heads who own this railroad, in establish ing newspapers in the State, is not to influence our legislation, but to show Congress at its next session that there are newspapers in New Jersey that advocate their schemes; at the commencement of the last cossion there were no such journals to be found - the Monitor and its followers have been established since. This they hope wil lenable them to procure the needed legislation, and to sell their stock at advance. That is all the interest hese men have in our affairs.

Why should New Jersey change its policy at the direction of these men who hate and traduce her? Whatever may be said of the Monopoly, or whatever may be the faults of the system, we have but a few years to await for its expiration. In 1869. the exclusive privileges of the Camden and Amboy Company will expire. No one believes that they will be extended for a single day beyond the limit. On the other hand the New Jersey organs of the New York stock-jobbers disclaim any purpose to interfere with them before this expiration. Is it worth while to change the system herotofore pursued, and thus forfeit a large annual revenue, when the monopoly complained of will expire by limitation in five years? Shall New Jersey in order to put money in the pockets of a gang of New York stock jobbers, sacrifice her interests and repudiate her contracts? The people will answer this with a most emphatic negative. - State Gazette. BRIDGETON PRICES CURRENT. Corrected weekly for the Pioneer.

MANNY'S PATENT COMBINED REAPER & MOWER

This machine is presented to the farming community as the best combined Reaper and Mower made. The large number sold in this State are still in successful operation, and have proven the principles of its construction to be the ones to secure durability, ease of operation, adjustibility to uneven surfaces, closeness of swath, lightness of draft and freedom from side draft.

closeness or swath, fightness of draft and freedom from side draft.

Important improvements have been made, (none o which are represented in the cuts.) to wit: In place of wooden cutter bar is now used one of the best quality of steel, with new and improved guards, and knives which will cut close and clean, and make the machine run much easier. The frame of the machine has been attered at the end of the cutter bar, to enable the machine to pass over a larger swath of cut grass. It is now constructed to mow (frame of machine being detached) with naked cutter bar, and on two wheels instead of one, as before used. A steef pitmau, or connecting roo, is used in place of iron.—Machine goes out of gear, knives standing still, when backed. Grain platform has been so altered that throwing off by hand is much easier than formerly.

A COMPLIETE SELF-RAKING ATTACHMENT.

Has been affixed, which two seasons' use, in all kinds A COMPLETE SELF-RAKING ATTACHMENT.

Has been affixed, which two seasons' use, in all kinds of grain, has proven to be reliable. By means of a rake carried around the platform, the grain is at regular intervals swept off at the side, out of the way, in a handsome, compact sheaf. The driver can alter the working of the rake at will, to suit thin spots.

Farmers, if you want a reliable combined Machine, you will find it in this machine, which I am prepared to warrant to the fullest extent I tis built of the best materials, by good experienced mechanics, and will give the farmer a full equivalent for his money.

Price at Harrisburg, without self-raker, $105.

Persons wanting a single Mover, will find the test to be "The Farmer, *ine's Patent." which I am offering for rale; and will have a limited number only to furnish to those wanting. It is all iron and steel, with two driving wheels, steel cutter bar, flexible. It draws from the ground, will cut on very uneven surfaces, and is the lightest draft Mower in the market.

TESTIMONIALS.

The following opinion of Dr. White, as to the high esteem in which he holds the Dental Cream, must be sufficient evidence of its value; to quote other testimonials in detail is needless, conetating ourselves by simply giving the names and addresses of persons who speak of its excellency for the teeth.

Philadelphia, April 15th, 1863.

Having carefully examined A. Hawley's "Solidified Dental Cream," I hereby cheerfully recommend it to the public generally. It is an excellent preparation for cleaning and preserving the teeth; and can be used by all persons with the utmost confidence, as its properties are perfectly harmless. Besides preserving the teeth, it promotes a healthy action to the guins and imparts a pleasantness to the breath.
