KITTY'S WAGER.

"It's against my principles," said Par-ker Pelham, buttoning his pockets, and inclining his chair at an angle of fortyfive degrees against the piazza railing. "Taxes, taxes - nothing but taxes! Government supposes a man is made of money, and then, right on top of that, every woman of your acquaintance expects you to pay funds into her private war-treasury. It's all nonsense - and 1, for one, won't be victimized! Besides, I don't consider! it fair for us men to be bled at every pore, while the women keep their own purses interested in the hospitals, and all that kind of thing, why don't you lend a help-ng hand yourself?" Mr. Pelham screwed up his lips, tapped his fingers on the railing, and nodded his head, as one who should say, "I rather guess you'll find that argument unan- above the specified five dollars!"

Kitty Brace, standing among the roses that shut out that June sunshine, turned tonishment and dismay. round so suddenly that the tinted petals showered down softly around her like a that-" pink snow-storm. Parker instinctively moved his chair back as he caught the dangerous sparkle of her hazel eyes, and saw the crimson pennon of defiance fintter across her cheek.

"Please explain yourself, Mr. Pelham." said Kitty, clasping a spray of roses very tightly in her two little hands, lest they should descend wrathfully on Parker's ears, in spite of her determination to be very proper and dignified. "Have we ty," he said, handing over a neatly folded of the spent time and money both in this fifty dollar bill. "Take it—and—" cause? Have we not denied ourselves every unnecessary luxury? Nay, have we not parted with our jewels and trinkets, to send aid to those who suffer in

"Yes," said Kitty, taking no notice of the covert sneer, "but nobony wants strawberries here; there is no market for "There is in the city, I suppose. Ah! yes, that's right, Miss Kitty; curl your lips and toss your head? Come, now, here's an exemplification of my assertion, that you shrink from the slightest effort in this cause. You expect us to do everything, while you are willing to do nothing. Now, I'm not afraid to wager fifty dollars you would'nt sell five dollars worth of strawberries to keep your soldier heroes from want!" Kitty was silent a moment. Then she drew out her little morocco pocket-book with solemn emphasis.

"I'll call witnesses, sir, and the wager shall be registered." Parker Pelham eyed the little heauty as if he scarcely understood her.

"Mind you are to sell them yourself. Miss Kitty!, no manœuvring. "Set your heart at rest, Mr. Pelham All the conditions of your bargain shall be complied with." "But, Miss Kitty, have you reflected Such an unladylike thing."

I see nothing unladylike in endeavoring to serve my country's defenders," said Kitty, quietly, a lambent smile sparkling in her eyes as she noted Parker's perturbd brow. "Fifty dollars, it is a very neat little sum. And now I must go to see about some baskets for my strawberries, as there is no time to be lost."

"Fifty dollars!" feebly uttered Parker Pelham, as the light brown dress fluttered down the garden walk. "What a confounded fool I was! Why could'nt I have said five instead? But, of course, I'm perfectly safe, she'll never do such a thing, never!' "Strawberries! Who'll buy my straw-

Mrs. Leclere was reading in her cool quiet parlors as the silvery voice echoed through the street. Instinctively she rose and pushed aside the curtains. A slender figure in a brown calico dress, her face shaded by a blue-ribboned Shaker bonnet, was leaning over the area railings, on which she dexterously balanced a basket of ripe strawberries, glowing scarlet through their covering of fresh vineleaves.

Mrs. Leolere shaded her eyes with her and and looked sgain. "Why Kitty Brace !! can it be possible that that is you?"
"I, myself, and no other," laughed Kitty. "I'm selling strawberries, on a wager. Will you buy some ?" "Buy some? of course. Give me a dozen baskets; and then come in, you little witch, and tell me all about it." "Not just now-haven't time," answered Kitty, demurely. "But you shall

THE TWO APPRENTICES. Two boys were apprentices in a carpen ter shop. One determined to make himself a thorough workman; the other didn't "care." One read and studied, and got books that would help him to understand the principles of his trade. He spent his evenings at home reading. The other liked fun best. He often went with other boys to have a "good time." "Come," he often said to his shopmate, "leave your old books; go with us. What's the use of all this reading?" "If I waste these golden moments," was the boy's answer, I shall lose what I never can make up.' While the boys were still apprentices, an offer of two thousand dollars appeared in the newspapers for the best plan for a State House, to be built in one of the Eastern States. The studious boy saw the advertisement, and determined to try for it. After careful study he drew out his plans, and sent them to the committee. We suppose he did not really expect to gain the prize, but still he thought "there is nothing like trying"

In about a week afterward a gentleman arrived at the carpenter's shop and asked if an architect by the name of Washington Wilberforce lived there. "No," said the carpenter, "no architects, but I've got an apprentice by that name." "Let's see him," said the gentleman. The young man was summoned and informed that his plan had been accepted, and that the two thousand dollars were his! The gentleman then said that the boy must put up the building; and his employer was so proud of his success, that he willingly gave his time and let him go. This stuarchitects of our country. among others, we notice that the farmers come in for the largest share of the blame. They constitute the particular target at which almost every housekeeper aims the shaft of ma-lignity, from the fact that we are most dependant upon tillers of the soil for domestic com-forts. This is rank injustice; for the farmers, bies, dolls when boys and girls, drudges when young men and women; and so passes year after year, and not one quiet, happy, homely hour is known throughout the whole household.

Another young man becomes enamored of a "fortune." He waits upon it to parties, dances the polkas with it, exchanges billet doux with it, pops the question to it, gets "yes" from it, takes it to the parson's weds it, calls it "wife," carries it home, setablishment with it, introsuffer for the want of foed. And why should not farmers receive equal compensation with others? They labor harder, endure great exposure, and are more liable to loss by droughts, expected, in the disposal of their many articles

SOUTHERNERS IN NEW YORK A great influx of Southern people, very many tion, has been apparent in New York and Brooklyn during the last two months. They have either run the blockage or obtained passes through the rebel lines, and have taken up their abode in the North, with their families, for the reception; at the entire absence of bitterness towards the Southern people; at hearing iterated and reiterated, in all classes of society, AN EXTRAORDINARY INCIDENT. CUMBERNAND COUNTY AGRICULTU-RAL EXHIBITION.

On Wednesday last, the 11th Annua Exhibition of this Society came off in Bridgeton. The morning was quite favorable, and crowds of men, women and children at an early hour were wending their way to the exhibition grounds. The streets during the day were crowded with vehicles of all kinds. The excursion trains were literally packed with pessengers from all parts of the country. Delegates from various counties were present In some respects the exhibition excelled former ones, and in others was not equal to some that have preceded it. There was not so good a display of cattle as could have been made in this county. The horses and mules might have been more extensive, although there were some very handsome colts. The sheep were considered an improvement over former years' Grain and grass seeds were of a superior quality, better than previous years and a large display of it. The flowers were handsome, and the fruit surpassed all former years, especially grapes. Apples, pears and peaches were very superior .--The nurserymen are evidently bringing up the quality and quantity of fruit in this county. There were some of the largest pumpkin's ever on exhibition .--Cabbage, sweet and white potatoes, tomatoes, onions, beets, carrots, turnips, cellery, lima beans, &c., made a very creditable appearance, and showed that our farmers and gardners are turning their attention that way. The ladies' department occupied more space than last year, and the articles were of a superior order.

Manufactured articles did not come up to former years in quantity.

The home department and produce of dairy were particularly attractive. The bread, butter, cakes, honey, hams, &c., looked very tempting. Judging from the Jedediah Shaw, immense quantity of butter on exhibition, Ichabod Shinn. it might be supposed that the farmers | Wm. There were many things on exhibition John W. The display of grapes by Mrs. A. Robinson, and their magnifi. cent arrangement, were universally admired, but as the committee have doubtless awarded premiums for all the best articles on exhibition, which we will publish next week, we forbear making any further al- | Chas. The great attraction of the day was in the horse ring. The trotting for the fifty M. Magregary, dollar premium was witnessed by thousands of persons. The contest was between a bay horse from Allowaystown, driven by L. H. Dowdney, and a bay mare entered by Mr. Shannon, of Philadelphia, driven by Wm. J. Royal, of Tuckahoe. -The horses made good time on the first three rounds, Royal keeping the inside track and leaving Dowdney behind. The last round of the second heat Royal pass. ed Dowdney, and the trotting ceased amid the cheers and applause of the spectators. The friends of the Allowaystown horse gave up the contest and Royal took the premium.

About four o'clock it commenced raining and there was a general stampede for the carriages and tents. Thousands of persons were poked in a very small compass, and in a few minutes torrents of rain began pouring through the tent, umbrellas, parasols, &c., were brought into requiwater. MAURICETOWN, Sept. 24. This day the Ariel Lodge No. 56, of Mauricetown, moved into their new and splendid Lodge over Seth Bowen's store. It was finished in complete order, to the satisfaction of all concerned. A sumptuous oyster supper was provided for the occasion. Captains Haley and Shropshire were despatched by the committee to procure the oysters. Thirty quarts of ice cream was also provided by the committee. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, at 7 o'clock P. M., our sisters began to appear from every direction. In the meantime the committee were busy preparing other necessary arrangements for the entertainment of the brothers and sisters of the Lodge. At eight o'clock we were mustered in one hundred strong and partook of the refreshments provided The committee, I must say, were very efficient in procuring all the comforts possible for the brothers, sisters and friends.

TAXATION AND PRICES. "Peep," a beautifully executed steel The Peace-at-any-price men are laboring very hard to make political capital out of the present state of high prices, demanded for the ecessaries of life. One of their great lights fairly bawled himself hourse, on Wednesday evening of last week, while declaring upon the side walk, to a heterogeneous audience of all sort and sizes, in trying "to make every body believe that they were going to ruin as fast as the wheels of time could carry them. Why, said he, "even whiskey which you used to sentiment as all will admit. Among the obtain for three cents a glass now costs fifteen." literary contributions we note "Scatter | Poor fellows! what a shame to deprive them of their favorite heverage. I commend to his special attention the following from "the Democrat" of St. Paul, Minnesota. It says:-

"One by one the old Democratic rights and habeas corpus, then our tea and coffee, and now we know, after reading the above notice of unceased taxation on whiskey, many of our readers will exclaim, like Jacob of old, 'Joseph is not, and Simeon is not, and ye will also take Reniamin away.

But a word in reference to the absurd story proclaimed from every stump and italicised in all their organs that a mere change in the Administration, will relieve the burdens of taxation and reduce the prices of the luxuries, conveniences, and necessaries of life, to former rates. The credit of the Government must be sustained, whoever may be at the helm. These fellows know this, if they know anything and yet they pretend to believe that the restoration of their party to power would prove a panacea for all our woes. Ask them how, and you've got them I have listened attentively, and listened make good their predictions.

In reply to their assertions in regard to the immediate prospect of universal bankruptoy and starvation in the present administration should be continued in power, I commend the following from a contemporary :--"In a state of war, the burden of providing the means to carry it on, undoubtedly bears heavily upon many of our citizens. But just at present the great bulk of our populationwe mean the farmers-are obtaining such large prices for their products, that they do not feel the pressure. True, their expenses are larger than usual, but their income is also much larger A farmer who owns and cultivates 180 acres, this time, perhaps, for groceries, clothing, hired labor, wagons, harness, agricultural implements, &c., $500 or even $800 per annum more than he did two years ago; yet he is not beginning to absorb any thing like the increased sum which his produce brings in. For instance, for 800 bushels of rye, he can now get $525 or $300 more than two years ago; for 250 bushels of oats, $200, or $112 more; for 500 bushels of shelled corn, $750, $450 more; for 00 live pigs averaging 100 lb. each, $270, or $120 more; for 30 firkins of butter, $1200, or $600 more. On the five articles, he obtains at present $1582 more than he could get two years ago, or about double the increased cost of his living—so say nothing of the advance he realizes upon his calves, sheep, hides, potatoes, poultry, eggs, and everything else that he has to sell. The farmer, then, is not losing pecuniarily by the war, and can well afford to pay his share of the taxes. We venture the assertion that there are few farmers in the county, who cultivate from 180 to 200 acres, that will not respectfully make this year, in spite of taxes and the increased cost of living, at leasone thousand dollars more than they did two

We were led to look into this subject from reading a short article in the Sussex Herald, which attributes the prevailing high prices to Abraham Lincoln, and calls upon those who wish to bring them down, to vote against him. It struck us that such electioneering slang was not exactly adapted to this latitude. The man that prefers to pay 80 cents instead of 7 for a pound of sugar, says the Herald, will vote for Abe Lincoln; he who wishes to buy coal at $16 a ton, instead of $6, will vote for Abe Lincoln—and so on. What trash this is! If Abraham Lincoln should be succeeded to-morrow by a Copperhead Peace Man it would not mend the matter. On the contrary it would make things worse, and double the rates of taxation, especially if the Copperhead project of stopping the war by agreeing to pay the rebel debt, in addition to our own, should be carried

If we had as little respect for the intelligence of our readers as the Herald manifests, we could turn the tables upon that journal, by amplifying the lesson it sets before us. We could say to the farmers, if you want 60 cents per bushel for your corn instead of $1.50, vote for a Peace Democrat: if you want 35 cents for oats instead of 80 cents; 75 cents for rye instead of $1.75; 25 for butter instead of 50 cents; 6 cents for pork instead of 12; vote for a Peace Demo-

We say we might do this, but if we did we should be guilty of a bit of low and dirty dema goguism, which we never could think of without despising our own meanness.

Reinforcements for Grant. I am not, of course, at liberty to state to pose there is no harm in saying that it must already have reached a point to gladden the heart of every loyal man.

SHERIDAN AGAIN VIOTORIOUS. Gen. Sheridan has achieved another ignal victory over the army of Gen. Early On Thursday the enemy were found posted in a strong and almost impregnable position at Eigher's Hill, about three miles beyond Strasburg, their right restail on the perth fork of the Shenandoch and de Afen, Micalah tending across the Stranburg Valley went. Allen, Ira the north lors of one one indicated Alen, tra-tending across the Strasburg Valley west. Ayars, Renden J. ward to North Mountain. With his flank thus perfectly protected, occupying the great stronghold and key to the upper part of the Shenandoah Valley, Early no doubt thought himself safe, and perhaps awaited with confidence Sheridan's assault. This, however, was not delivered without careful regard to all the peculiariprivileges of the people are going. First the ties of the situation. At four o'clock in the afternoon, Gen. Crook's command was transferred to the extreme right of the line on North Mountain, and he furiously attacked the left of the enemy's line, carrying everything before him. While Crook was driving the enemy in the greatest confusion and sweeping down behind their breastworks, the 6th and 19th army corps attacked the rebel works in the front, and very soon the day was ours, the whole army appearing to be broken up and flying in the utmost confusion. Sixteen pieces of artillery were captured; also a great many caissons, artillery horses, &c. At last accounts Gen. Sheridan was pushing up the valley so rapidly after the demoralized and panic-stricken foe, that he was unable to tell his own or the rebel losses, or to state the number of prisoners he had captured. He says "that only in vain, to hear any plan, proposed by any of darkness saved the whole of Early's army their vociferous beligerent orators, by which to from total destruction." The First and Third Cavalry divisions were sent on the same day through the Luray Valley; but the result of their movement, which was expected to be equally as successful as the main attack, had not been learned when the despatch was written. Mr. Stanton, in his official despatch, mentions the fact that Farly's command embraced the famous 'Stonewall Brigade' and the troops constituting Stonewall Jackson's old corps, and was the elite of the rebel army. The whole Brigade, which had dwindled down from 5,000 to less than 1,000, has been either killed or captured in this week's and has a family of eight persons, expends at battles. Special despatches from Washington last night state that it has been ascertained that what is left of Early's army has abandoned the road to Staunton. and is retreating in disorder, as rapidly as possible, by way of Culpepper and Gordonsville, directly for Richmond. The route to Lynchburg is thus unobstructed, and that most important point must now soon fall into our hands, closing Lee's only remaining line of communication with the South, and rendering inevitable a decisive conflict at Richmond at no distant day .-Already the journals of that city see that their situation is desperate, and are warning the citizens to make their escape in time The Examiner says: "The army has the Government to look out for it-but are the people of Richmond prepared for a siege, with all the railroads destroyed? The immense population that now crowds the streets of Richmond had better betake themselves elsewhere Davis, Charles O. Ott, Jacob Davis, Joshua C. etter betake themselves elsewhere. There will be suffering in Richmond this fall and winter, which has not been wirnessed during the war. The city may be shelled, for its immense lines require a vast army to defend it, its very streets may be the scenes of bloody battle, for it will be defended as no other place has been. Upon holding Richmond depends for us everything. Success and speedy peace, failure and interminable war, are involved in the coming struggle for Rich mond. All may be satisfied that the contest will be desperate, and that all had better make provision for their comfort elsewhere.' Sheridan Still Pursuing Early.

General Sheridan is still pursuing Early's demoralized forces. On Sunday Sheridan's head quarters were at Harrisonburg, and Tuesday night were probably at Staunton, about one hundred miles distant from Harper's Ferry, and fifty-seven from Lynchburg. Our cavalry are far beyond Hrrrisonburg, annoying the rebel flank and rear. On Saturday Torbert's command struck the main body of the rebel cavalry near Luray Court House, while on their way to operate in our rear. A sharp fight en-sued, in which the rebels were worsted and compelled at retreat up the Valley, with a loss of several hundred killed and wounded, and seventy-four prisoners. On Sunday morning Gen. Torbert joined Sheridan beyond New Market, and immediately started with his whole command in the direction of Staunton. Prisoners say that after the fight at Winchester the rebels!oaded all their empty trains with wounded. About seventeen hundred were thus carried off, among them a large number of officers Our losses in the attack on the rebels posi-tion at Fisher's Hill on last Thursday, will not number more than two hundred and fifty or three hundred. The casualties were confined principaly to Crook's Corps, which did most of the fighting. The losses in the Nineteenth Corps, in the fight on the 19th, will number Fithian, Joel nearly two thousand. Fifteen pieces of captured artillery and four caissons were brought to Harper's Ferry on Tuesday. Seven more yet remain at Winches ter. The rebels in the two battles lost threefourths of their artillery, though they claim to have a large park at Staunton in reserve. The losses of the rebels in the recent fights in the Shenandoah Valley, are thus stated on the authority of a government official sent for the purpose of ascertaining: Arrived at Harper's Ferry (including 206 of-cers.) 3,100. Wounded at Winchester, 2,200 Captured between Fisher's Hill and Woodstock, 2,200. Wounded carried off by rebels (estimated,) 1,700. Wounded at roadside houses, (estimated) 1,000 Killed and wounded by cavalry in Luray Valley, 350. Total 10,550.

The Fall in Prices.

Prices are tending downward Woolen cloths have fallen three dollars per yard on the last imported beaver evercoating. Other imported cloths have been reduced in the same ratio. Our Bridgeton merchants bave reduced their prices also, on many articles. Sugar has Garrison, William S. Woodruff, A. Smith declined here two cents per pound.

The New York World gives a comparison of prices on the first of September and Tuesday Garrison, Daniel last, from which it appears that cotton has deolined 60 cents a pound; flour (extra state) wards his right. It is understood his $1.25 a barrel; wheat 64 cents a bushel; Rio coffee ten cents a pound by the barrel; iron, $9 a ton; sugar (fair refining) three cents a days ago they were but one quarter of a New Orleans molasses 10 cents a gallon. The Philadelphia Inquirer of Tuesday says in reference to the fall in prices: At the auction sale of one of our leading dry goods houses Tuesday, shawls, pieces of silks, Hires, Lewis M. and other imported goods, sold at the same price as when gold was at par, which is a decline of over one-half. Of course the great decline in gold was the subject of general and anxious Hepner, Jacob conversation. One prominent merchant stated | Harris, Joseph that owing to the large stock on hand his loss would be over fifty thousand dollars. Another declared that he had marked his stock down to the present market rates. He saw that although Hires, John D. a large loss, some thirty thousand dollars, was Hunt, Thos E. nevitable, he would, nevertheless, save many Hall, Ebenezer thousands by suticipating and avoiding a fur-ther decline by rapid sales.

HAWLEY'S SOLIDIFIED

DENTAL CREAM, for Cleansing, Whitening and Preserving the Teeth

For Cleansing, Whitening and Preserving the Teeth
This article is prepared with the greatest care upon scientific principles, and warranted not to contain anything in the slightest degree deleterious to the teeth or gums. Some of our most eminent dental surgons have given their sanction to, and cheerfully recommend it as a preparation of superior qualities for Cleansing, Whitening and Preserving the teeth; it cleans them readily, rendering them beautifully white and pearly, without the slightest injury to the enamel. It is healing to the gums where they are ulceraced and sore. It is also an excellent disinfector for old decayed teeth, which are often very offensive. It gives a rich and creamy taste to the mouth, cleansing it thoroughly, and imparting a delightful fragrance to the breath.

TESTIMONIALS.

The following opinion of Dr. White, as to the high esteem in which he holds the Dental Cream, must be sufficient evidence of its value; to quote other testimonials in detail is needless, conetning ourselves by simply giving the names and addresses of persons who speak of its excellency for the teeth.

Philadelphia, April 15th, 1863.

Having carefully examined A. Hawley's "Solidified Dental Cream," I hereby cheerfully recommend it to the public generally. It is an excellent preparation for cleansing and preserving the teeth, and can be used by all persons with the utmost confidence, as its properties are perfectly harmless. Besides preserving the teeth, it promotes a healthy action to the gums and imparts a pleasantness to the breath.

I then procured a bottle of your excellent Balsam, and before she had taken the whole of the contents of the bottle there was a great improvement in her health. I have, in my individual case, made frequent use of your valuable medicine, and have also been benefited by it.

The above is a correct likeness of Dr. Schenck taken many years ago, after he had recovered from Consumption, by a course of his "Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup." The likeness, although it is does not represent him anything like as bad as he was at the worst, yet it is in strong contrast with the hale and vigorous looks of the portrait below, which is the true likeness of him at the present time. The contrast between these two portraits is so great that many would not believe them to be the same person. Yet there are hundreds of persons in and around Philadelphia, who will recognize both portraits to be true representations. When the first was taken he weighed 167 pounds; at the present time his weight is 220 pounds.
