The Professor Marrying a Cook

Some years since, when I was in college, we had amongst our "faculty" a curious personage, whom every one regarded with considera ble respect, and yet as a character sui generis. He had lived many years without a wife, and expected to live so always. Indeed as he was the professor of mathematics, the abstraction of getting married. To the female sex, therefore, he showed no other regard than common politeness required. His character was purely. negative. Of course he was not popular with the ladies, and they kept themselves at a distance from him. But circumstances that often bring about a match in other cases, placed him in a peculiar dilema. It seemed a whim that a necessity was laid upon him to get married. He was one of the faculty of the college-all the other professors were married and obliged institution. He had always boarded. Of ginia?" course it wasn't never expected of him that began to be regarded as rather mean in him to shirk off this matter from year to year, and "well off as he was pecuniarily," to throw upon the other members of the faculty the street?" cost and trouble of entertaining special friends and patrons of the college. The question, was, therefore, frequently asked: "Why dosen't the old miser entertain some of the distinguished visitors that visit us? Now, our professor wasn't a miser at all, and it often troubled him to think he was so situated that he couldn't bear his part of the burden. And yet, what could he do? Must he get married? And if so, to whom? He had no special regard for any one in the vicinity of the college, and no one had any special regard for him. In his younger days he had seen at school a young lady, in the city of New York, in whom he had felt a peculiar interest. But of her he hadn't heard for years. Doubtless before this time she was married or in her grave. Possibly, however, she was still living and waiting for him! Glorious thought! He was quite relieved at it, though, indeed. there might be no foundation for his relief .-Nevertheless he could make due inquiry .-Nor could be delay, for commencement day was at hand, only a few weeks off. It was his turn, or rather would be if he was married, to give the great dinner to the distinguished personages who would be present on the occasion. There would be the Governor of the State, and his lady-the trustees of the institution and their friends, and others of equal repute. But who should be master of ceremonies?-And who should grace the table? He could this, what could he do with? If he were only married what a helpmeet would his wife be at ooking, intelligent and accomplished lady; otherwise the blank would be a blot! Now there was a young lady in the neighbornood that the professor thought might awswer. He had seen her at his boarding house, and spoken to her once or twice. "But, she may say no," and if she did, where in creation," thought he, "could I hide my head? And then what would become of the dining?" The Governor must have a dinner and must have a wife. And hence he lay awake about it all night. At last as the morning broke he cried out to himself, "Contempt! She will say no, will she? What then? Other men have lived through it, and I shall. If not, I shall have a clear conscience about the dinner, and a clear conscience is the main thing, after all! I will write a note to Miss A. anyway. It may be she will regard it favorably." So the professor sat down and wrote a note to Miss A. "Stay a minute," said he to himself, "what will the Governor think of the lady? She is handsome and polite, but can she converse? Can she entertain company?" "Doubtful," said he to himself, very doubtful; and so he tore up the note! Alas! for a man on the verge of matrimony!

In an hour or two, however, the Professor called on the President and said: "I should like to be absent a few days?" "Ah!" said the President, "just at this

"Yes. sir. I have my classes in readiness for the examination, and I wish to go to New York." "Has any death occurred in the family?"

said the President. "No, sir," said the Professor, "but I have little matter of business that requires my im mediate attention, and I thought it best to go." "You have my best wishes," said the President, "and may you return safely and not

The Professor almost smiled, but blushed rather than smiled, and left the President, and hastened to New York. His first inquiry on his arrival there, was for President? And what sort of a table would up for a rases!

"Why," said the respondent, "the family has been reduced, and she is a cook. Perhaps you don't know it, sir?" "A cook!" said he, "that is just what

"Oh!" said the lady, "we thought you wanted something else, possibly." "No, I have been half starved to death since I left New York, and I want some one to cook

"Well, she can do that, for she scarcely has she is a cook, par excellence."

"And how does she look?" "Not quite that, I presume," said the Professor, "but is she intelligent?-I speak confidentially." "Intelligent! She is, indeed-she can conerse like an angel." "And as to manners. Is she accomplished?

"As graceful as an actress." "When can I see her?"

"At eight o'clock this evening." "Couldn't I see her before that hour?" "I think that would be the most convenien time for her to call, and to see you. She wil be engaged in her duties till then." "I will wait till then. Please to tell he that Professor Mack, of Virginia, wishes to see her-an old acquaintance of hers." "Shall I tell her you wish to engage a cook?

"You may tell her that I wish to see her," said the Professor. "What name did you say?" "Professor Mack, of Virginia, if you please

An everlasting long day was before him an of his science forbade his indulging in the idea he had nothing to do; not a problem to solve, except the one in hand, and that was a boubt-

Eight o'clock at last came, and the Profe sor called again to see the young lady. "A cook, indeed!" said the Professor himself; "she is a splendid woman fit to grace any parlor in the world?" But how in the creation should be make known his business? Poets, they say, begin in the middle of their story, but professors of mathematics, where do they begin? Finally, said the suitor, to entertain the distinguished visitors of the "Miss G., how would you like to go to Vir-

> "No, no," said he, "don't you remember when we both attended school in Franklin

> "Oh," said she, "it is George Mack-I remember you well; why, I didn't know that you were alive!"

"And I have never forgotten you." "Ah! indeed, you are very kind to remem ber me so long! I thought evey one had forgotten me in my calamities."

"People often think they are overlooked when trials overtake them; but it is for you to say that your present trials are at an end." "Professor Mack! what do you mean? Why I am a mere—"

"If you have had reverses I have had suc cess, and have the means of making you comfortable for life." "But you do not know my circumstances now, for I would not deceive you, George?"

"It does not concern me what you are now, but what you are willing to be." "But I have an aged mother, Professor." "And I wish to have one; she can go, too." Matters were soon arranged as to time, place and ceremony, and this being over, the party were off for Virginia-the Professor pleased that he had solved the mathematical problem so easily, and the lady that she was no longer at the world's bidding. In the country of Virginia great ado is made for a newly married couple. Of course much was expected in the case of the Professor .-But some "bird in the air" carried the story square the circle perhaps, but such a circle as in advance, that Professor Mack had married a cook! What lady then would call upon her? What society could the F. F. V.'s have with such a time. And yet, his wife must be a good | a cook! But the President advised his wife to call upon her out of decency, at least. If the Professor had married a cook, why, he didn't know any better. All that he knew was how to solve problems in mathematics .-Besides, he might not not have married a cook, or if he had he was well off in one respect-he could have a good tablek,

"Pshaw!" says the President's lady what does a person care about a table in comparison to caste in society?"

"Caste in society will do well enough," he replied, "but since we must eat to live, a well roasted turkey is better than a fried chicken. and a short biscuit better than an ash-cake! And what does an epicure care for ceremony? A good cup of coffee is better."

"You are no Virginian, husband, otherwise you would never say that, for anybody knows that nobility in a log cabin is better than a cook in a palace!"

"Well, call on the lady and see-theories are often good for nothing, whilst practice is the sum of perfection l" The Presidentess called and was amazed-

the cook was much her superior-and she felt

The other officers' ladies having heard that the President's wife had called on Mrs. Mack. were obliged, according to custom, to follow suit. They, too, were disappointed, for the New York lady hadn't lived in a city in vain. In mind, in manner, in accomplishment she outranked them all! Besides, in respect to family, she was not at all inferior-her father having had fortune once and lost it. Commencement day was now near at hand and the great dinner was to come off at the Professor's. Nor was Mrs. Mack at all disconcerted about it. She had seen a thing or two before, and was fully confident in her own ability to meet the exigency. When the time arrived, all eyes were fixed on Mrs. Mack. How would she appear in the presence of the Governor of Virginia? How Miss Adeline G., the young lady whom he had she set, and how would she grace it? Could she go through it with dignity?

Of course, all this was enough "to try men's souls," but Mrs. Mack was perfectly at home. In etiquette-in conversation-in the arrangement of all the circumstantials and in all the formalities of the occasion she showed very much by her powers of conversation .-"What a charming lady," said he to his wife, "is Mrs. Mack! and what a table she set!

how well she graces it!" her equal in that line, in this city. Why, sir, know she is a New York cook-why, she has been a mere servant for many years." "I know nothing about that," said he, " but "She is the handsomest cook in the city, if she was, I wish ever other lady was a serhave something to eat then, my dear, besides fried chickens and ash-cake.'

"All men are not epicures like you, Gover-"No-but if they were they would imitate he mathematical Professor, and go to New York to get a wife. A man wouldn't be compelled then to go to a saloon to get a decent dinner! He could find one at home-now a great rarity." HINTS FOR THE TIMES.

Credit never permits a man to know the real value of money, nor to have full control over his affairs. It presents all his expenses in the aggregate and not in detail. Every one pocket, you see them as you make your purchases, visibly diminishing under your eye .would like to buy this, that and the other;

your purse will soon be empty. You do not see this when you take credit. You give your orders freely, without thought or calculation; that you have overrun the constable. On every hand we see people living on credit, putting off pay day to the last, making in the end some desperate effort, either by begging or borrowing, to scrape the money together, and d cave themselves all this misery. Th great secret of being solvent, and well to do and comfortable, is to get ahead of your ex persons so unfortunately situated that they can never accomplish this. No man can guard not help their misfortunes. But, as a rule, these unfortunates are far less trouble to sotheir misfortunes upon themselves by deliberate recklessness and extravagance. You may and Cook's patent evaporator, for boiling help a poor, honest, struggling man to some the juice. These cane crushers cost from character for truth and prompt dealing, purpose. But the utmost you can do for an unthrift is thrown away. You give him money you have earned by hard labor—he spends it in pleasure which you have never permitted yourself to enjoy. The best pleasures—those | Cook's evaporator costs from $100 to $300. ness behind-are cheap pleasures. What greater pleasure can man enjoy than the sense of being free and independent? The man with his fine house, his glittering carriage, and his fine house, his glittering carriage, and his banquets, for which he is in debt, is a slave time is so short for manufacturing that could do any hurt.

Year Round. A tourist tells the following story:-We recently met our friend Dr. Lord, formerly of Boston. He has been a resident of this section for about six years. During his first few years, he was extensively engaged in buying wool, and on one occasion, becoming a little bewildered with the multiplicity of crooked roads over the broad prairies, he rode up to a small cabin, inclosed in a clump of locust trees, and hailed a white-headed boy perched on the top of a hencoop, with:

"I reckon you're a stranger!" was the re-

BEST TO BE HONEST .- Muggins says that rogues ought to be well paid, it gives a fellow so much trouble. He once cheated a man in a horse trade, he says, and was in law about t afterwards for over fourteen years. He had been told, he said, there was a place where they gave them away to people who had no money; he said he had no money. and that he was very anxious to get one of the books, and asked me to go with him to the place where they were kept .-Anxious to encourage him in his piety, I left the brief on which I was engaged and went with him to the stand of a Presbyterian deacon who had the very much coveted books in charge. I introduced him to the deacon telling him the circumstance. He praised the boy very highly; was delighted to see a young man so early seeking after the truth, etc, etc., and presented him with the best bound Bible in his collection. Bubby put it in his pocket, and was starting off, when the deacon said, "Now my son, that you possess what you desired, I suppose you feel happy.' From the Sunday-School Times. THE MUSKRAT IN THE CANAL.

BY THE REV. JOHN TODD, D. D.

The muskrat has his home in the great canal. He might travel a hundred miles either way, and find the same still waters. He lived in a wild place far from any house or city, and nothing disturbed him except the boats that came along, day and night, turing it into syrup. Many persons have continually. But as he came out of his asked me if it would pay to raise it when hole only in the night, and as the path for the horses that drew the boats was on the other side of the canal, and as every boat had a light at her bow which he could see afar off, the boats did not trouble him much. He swam in the canal, or he crept down its bank, and went to the field for food, and was as well off as any muskrat ought to desire. But like other folks of May, prepare the ground, that used the who have a fullness, he began to grow "Now," said he, as he perched upon the bank of the canal one pleasant night, "now, this canal was evidently built for spring I had ten acres which I planted in us muskrats. But what a shame to make corn and sorghum. I plowed it first, then the banks so high and so steep! How I rolled and harrowed it. I then had it have to tug my grass and clover up this marked out, four feet apart the shortest high bank, and how it puts me out of breath and makes me pant! . Those stupid things called men do, to be sure, use the canal to move their boats on, but it's soaked in warm water, till they sprouted. | perfectly plain that it was made for us, noble and wise muskrats! Now, I have wise thought! Instead of creeping up and down this high bank, I will dig a hole I cau run in and out just when I please. Won't that be worth awhile! Who but a muskrat would ever have thought of that !" Plunge! and down he goes, and begins

3. If he subscribers neglect or refuse to take their new spapers from the office to which they are directed, they are responsible for them until they have settled heir bills and ordered them discontinued. 4. The Courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers from the office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of inten-onal fraud.

5. Any person who receives a newspaper and make se of it, whether he has ordered it or not, is held y law to be a subscriber.

The United States Courts have also repeatedly decided that a Postmaster who neglects to give seasonable notice, as required by the Post Office Department, of the neglector refusal of a person to take from the office newspapers addressed to him, renders the Postmaster liable to the publisher for the subscription price.

Notice to Subscribers.

We are greatly obliged to many who have so promptly paid their subscriptions to the Pioneer, during the last few weeks. Those who have received bills from us and treat them lisher to pursue in these times, and that is to require advance payments and discontinue sending papers to those who never intend to pay for them. Our list of good prying subscribers is not excelled by any county paper in the State, and we are compelled to collect what is due us from those who have neglected to pay up. The black list will surely appear in a week or two, and those who do not wish to see their names on it are advised to pay up at once. When we send the paper to a friend gratuitously, we do it cheerfully, and they will understand that when we refer to delinquents we dot include them. Let all who know themselves to be indebted attend to it and save us further trouble.

New State of Nevada

Hon. Wm. M. Stewart and James W. Nye (Republican) have been elected U.S. Senators by the legislature of the new State of Ne-

The election of these gentlemen to the distinguished position of U.S. Senators, is another evidence of the superiority of American institutions. The path to honor and distinction is open to all. A large majority of the great men of our country have sprung from the lower walks of life. Mr. Stewert emigrated to California in 1849, from one of the Western States, and obtained employment as driver of an ox team; he afterwards worked as a miner, and won for himself the reputation of an honest, hard-working, industrious and sober man. He afterwards studied law, and married the daughter of Henry S. Foote, the (present rebellious member of the Rebel Con- to have for making change, but to be gress.) He is said to be a man of medium abilities, but possesses great perseverance, unusual industry and extraordinary self reliance.

Mr. Nye, his colleague, is an abler man. He is a native of the State of New York, and began life as a stage driver, and afterwards studied and practiced law, and won a good moral reputation. In 1856 he removed to the city of New York, and on the organization of the Metropolitan Police he was appointed by the Governor one of the Police Commissioners and subsequently President of that body-a year was made Governor of Nevada Territory, which place he held until he was superseded by the State Governor chosen by the people. He is about sixty years of age, of fine personal and intellectual presence, and a first-rate orator. Of his fealty to the Union there can be ng The Hon. Mr. Scovel not satisfied with charging nearly all the journals of this State with being subsidized by the Camden and Amboy Co., came out in last week's South Jersey Republican with a communication, in which he think, in their hold upon the bar, the pulpit, and the political parties of both sides, in New Jersey, begin again to make a sign that they want more."

He says nothing about the stock-jobbers of Wall street wanting anything. He is a very Centerville, for the accommodation of the MODEST young man, (as all who are acquainted farmers of that locality. with him well know.) It is a pity that the gamblers of New York have not a few just such villifiers as Scovel, in their employ. The press, the pulpit and the political parties of New Jersey, are very readily subsidized (in American House, in Trenton, on Thursday, his opionion,) but the immaculate Scovel—he February 9th, at 11 o'clock A. ### A NEW EMPIRE

The accounts published in the papers, that the new emperor of Mexico, Maximilian, has eded to Louis Napoleon a large portion of his territory, is of an alarming and threatening nature. That the wily emperor of France would embrace any and every opportunity to seperate and divide our Union, no one, who is the least acquainted with European politics, can doubt. It is a deep-laid scheme of a farsceing man.

The portion of territory ceded by Mexico, onsists of Lower California, Sonora, Sinoloa, Chihuahua and Durango.

The entire northern boundary of these States is on our Southern border, and the government of that region will possess the mouth of the Colorado-a most important river to our own California. In no other respect would it interfere with us particularly, and it would no doubt pave the way for the Americanizing of so much of Mexico.

The county itself, that is, these five States, contain about 300,000 square miles, or would make about eight States as large as Pennsylvania. In these there is a population of about 600,000, about half of whom are Indians and many half breeds. Lower California is hardly fit for agricultural purposes, being high, bare, rocky, and seldom having water where there is good soil. It is chiefly valuable on account of of one hundred a ! ixty-eight feet, with its mineral riches. Pearls also are found in the gulf. Lower California acts as a huge breakwater, giving the territories a sort of inland sea of their own.

Sonora and Sinaloa are far more valuable for agricultural purposes in parts, there being a considerable portion of that, tertile land. But it is overrun with Indians, many of whom with silent contempt, will be dealt with as they have not even nominally been subdued to the deserve. There is but one plan for every pub- Catholic religion, and are hostile to the white race. These will have to be brought into subjection. The silver mines are valuable, and there are eres of various kinds only waiting an energetic race and a secure, firm govern ment to develope them.

It is said that Louis Napoleon has appointed Dr. Gwinn, formerly U. S. Senator from California, Vice Roy of the new empire. Dr. G. was born in Tennessee, and removed to Vicks burg, Miss., where he became a Medical Doctor; then to New Orleans, where he was an office holder; then back to Mississippi, when he became bankrupt both in purse and character: then to California as a political adventurer.

General Grant. For some time past a number of gentlemen Philadelphia have had in contemplation the purchase of a permanent residence for General Grant and family. The committee in whose hands the affair was entrusted have finally succeeded in securing a desirable dwelling, which is now being furnished and fitted up preparatory to being occupied by the family of the worthy beneficiare, who, in a grateful letter, has accepted the magnificent present. The structure is located on the north ide of Chestnut street, west of Twentieth, No. 2009. It is a most delightful neighborhood, being in the vicinity of such buildings as the late Madame Rush's mansion and the marble dwelling of Dr. Jayne. It was built by Mr. William D. Sherrard, of Philadelphia, for his own family, and consequently is provided with all the conveniences and comforts which should be tound at "home." The building was commenced in April, 1863, and has just been finished, together with those along the same row, all of which were commenced about the same time by private individuals.

The building occupies a front of twenty two feet, extending back to the distance a thirty foot street in the rear. It is a four-story, don't a front, with three story double back har'd ngs. The front is constructed of the pressed brick, with brownstone fiinishings, and, with the exception of the first floor, contains three windows front. It contains in all sixteen rooms, four of which are located on the first floor, fiive on the second, five on the third_and two on the fourth.

The apartments on the first floor consist of a large saloon parlor, dining room, and kitchen and brick wash house. The purior is most magnificantly funcional, being lighted by a chandelier with twelve burners, and also by four brackets. The kitchen is provided with hot and cold water, and all the modern improvements. The wash-house contains stationary washtubs, range and other conveniences very seldom seen in any similar structure.

The second floor of the main building containing two bed chambers, bath-room, and water closet. The back building on the same floor contains a drawing-room and library.

The intelligence of the death of the State Treasurer, Mr. Rescarrick M. Smith, has been received with profound regret by men of all parties. He had so ably and economically conducted the monetary affairs of the State through a long series of years, that he was uni versally esteemed and confided in, and his death at this time, when financial skill is more than ever needed in the Treasury Department of the State, cannot but be regarded as a public misfortune. The office is closed, and as no business of a financial character can be transacted until a new Treasurer is elected, a special

Presentation of a House to Lieutenant- THE DELAWARP BAY RAILROAD

A Washington correspondent of the Newark Daily Advertiser gives us some facts in relation to this project of the stock-jobbers in New York. It is surprising what money can do. It will induce grave Senators to violate the vested right of States and nullify the acts of their legislatures The correspondent says: The bill intended to legalize the Delaware and Raritan Bay Railroad is now being pressed upon the Senate by the Chairman of the Committee on Commerce, who has charge of the same, but will hardly be brought to a vote for some time yet, as severel other Senators desire to be heard upon the question. The able argumeet of Reverdy Johnson in opposition to the provisions of the bill as unconstitutional, and in defense of the right of New Jorsey to grant the exclusive privileges of the Joint Companies, was closely listened to by Senators, and was, apparently, not without effect, coming, as it did, from one of the most distinguished lawyers of the country. Mr. Sumner will speak in favor of the measures, touching, it is intimated, upon the political status of the New Jersey as one reason for the passage of the bill; and Mr. Ton Eyek will probably feel called upon to say nomething in reference to the proposition, as the object of the bill morely to reach the road above men tioned, though it is general in its character; but he has not yet indicated what osition we will assume. As we have serefore remarked, the propabilities are that the bill will pass the Senate if it is brought to a vote. Should this result follow, an offert will be immediately made to push through Congress the bill chartering a new road between this city and New York, and with prospect of success. Mr. Johnson expressed the opinion, as a lawyer, that the bill now under consideration. courts.

The Constitutional Amendment Passed. The passage of the Constitutional amendment proposing to abolish slavery, by the House of Representatives, yesterday, marks an epoch which will be conspicuous in our annuls for all future time. The event excited the most intense possible enthusiasm in Washington, which was abundantly apparent in the jubilent demonstrations that burst forth with spontaneous accord on the announcement of the vote in the House; this spirit spread with contagious sympathy to the outside, where the sonorous thunder of artillery reverberated the intelligence, speed to every city in the land, proclaiming that this long vexed question had at last been disposed of, so far as Congress has the power to decide it. It is the only legal method—prescribed by the Constitution itself-by which the abolition of slavery can be effected throughout the Union, and the question now goes to the State Legislature for their final action. Many of these are now in session, and we shall doubtess soon hear of such action on their part as will indicate whether the amendment shall take its place henceforth among the established articles of the Constitution. The history of the measure is briefly as follows: The fifth article own motion, propose such amendment, or, "on the application of the Legislatures of two-thirds stairways are wide and are provided with of the several States, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which, in either case, shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as cation may be proposed by Congress." In the eight to six, as follows: Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, two-thirds of both Houses concurring, that the following article be proposed to the Legislatures of the several States as an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which, when ratified by three-fourths of said Legislature,s shall be va lid to all intents and puoposes as a part of the said Constitution, namely: ARTICLE THIRTEEN.

Section 1. Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States or any place subject to their jurisdiction. Sec. 2. Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

On the 15th of June, the joint resolution having thus passed the Senate, was reported to the House of Representatives, and after considerable debate, was rejected by a vote of 95 to 66, two-thirds of the whole number of votes being necessary. On the 18th of December last, the Senate resolutions came up in the present House, and debate thereon was con-tinued until the 13th instant, when their consideration was postponed for two weeks. Ou Tuesday morning last, hy previous order, and the final vote was reached, resulting as follow: for the amendment 119, against it 56. The Democrats voting in its favor were Messrs. Bailey, Baldwin, Coffroth, English, Ganson, Gaiswold, Herrick, Hutchins, Kings, McAllister, Nelson, Odell, Radford, Rollins, Steele, Wheeler and Yeaman. There were nineteen votes in favor of the amendment from representatives of slave States, and of the New England delegation only one—Mr. Sweat, of Maine—voted against it. Every Republican member was in his seat, and voted in favor.-Messrs. Perry and Steele of this State voted against it, M. Starr for it, and Messrs. Middleon and Rogers were not present.

The Fresh Peace Rumors. Peace rumors again prevail, and there seem low to be some reason to believe that a response of some sort is about to be made to Mr. Blair's recent mission. The facts appear to be that Messrs. A. H. Stevens, of Georgia R. M. T. Hunter, of Virginia, and A. J. Campbell, of Alabama, appeared on our lines in front of Petersburg, at the point known as Fort Hell," on Sunday afternoon, and applied for admission under flag of truce. The request was communicated to Gen. Grant, who is believed to have communicated with the government premptly on the subject, but the result is not yet fully known. They had not yet received permission to enter our lines up to Sunday evening. Other despatches report that the gentlemen named are "not spoken of as commissioners representing the rebel government, but as citizens, representing he people, on their way to Washington to confer with President Lincoln on the subject of peace, precisely in the same capacity that Mr. Blair visited Kichmond." It will be seen by this afternoon's despatches that Richmond papers confirm the report of the departure of commissioners from that city.

OUR DUTY.

We deem it our duty to keep constartly before our readers that most valuable of all medicines, known as those Cough Balsam. It has stood the tests of time and experiment, and all who use it speak in the most praise-worthy terms of its medicinal value. It is the real duty of every parent to keep a constant suppled it in the house, ready for immediate use. Not onlist a splendid remedy, for coughs, colds, influenz croup, and all throat complaints, but it is the constanting from the property of the sumptive's great relief. When they are so far goin that no incidence will cure them, Coe's Cough Balsan will be found an invaluable friend to alloy the cough ing, help the expectoration, and case the sufferer-why will be that are suffering from coughs, coldscroup, sore throat, howrseness—and that are liable to pulmonary attacks, not take our advice, and provide yourself with a supply of Coe's Cough Balsam—the best and cheapest Cough Balsam in the world? It costs but forty cents, and can be found upon the gounters of druggists.

A CARD.

EDITION OF PROMERS—In reply to many letters and magnifies from people in this saction of the country, the undersigned take great pleasure in saying through the columns of your paper, that our renowned preparation known as COE'S DYSPEPSIA CURE, is a certain cure for byspepsia, in its worst stages. Many cures of long standing, within our own acquaintance, have been completely, and we believe permanently cured, it will stop distress after eating almost in stantaneously, and enables the dyspeptic who has for years lived upon Graham bread, and the plainest diet, to cat as heartily as he pleases, and any thing he chooses, without danger of distress, or souring, or rising on the stomach. It is an infallible corrector of chooses, without danger of distress, or souring, or rising on the stomach. It is an infallible corrector of indigestion and constipation, creates a healthy appetite, stops headache, heart-burn, sickness at the stomach offins, cramp, or colie it, either stomach of bowels, and sweetens offensive breath, as soon as you take it, and by enabling the patient to take plenty of hearty food, "which is the parent of health," produces vigor, strength, and energy. In every trial whate known it has speedily eradicated Dyspepsia with all its attendant sufferings, weakness, debility, and loss of power, giving instead, a proper activity and tone to the stomach and organs of digestion, and as we confidently beheve, and as the published certificates in our circulars, almanaes, and in many of the leading journals, from convalescent patients will confirm, completely, permanently, and almost miraculously curre the worst cases of Dyspepsia in existence." We warrant it in every instance. It can be obtained at all the Drug Stores in the United States and Canadas, at $1.00 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.00.

Thirty years ago I was in the last stages of Pulmonary Consumption, and given up to die. I resided in Polladelphia, and Ir. Josedh Parrish, then of this car, ordered me to Moorestown, N. J., a distance of nine miles, which took me two days to get there.—On my arrival I was put to bed, and I there laid for many weeks. This was my native place, where all my family lived and had died of consumption. Dr. Thornton, who attended my father in his last illness, was called, and gave me one week to fix up my affairs. He had seen all my family go that way, and thought I was to go, too. Then I heard of the remedies I now offer to the public, which cured me. It seemed to me that I could feel them penetrating my whole system.

They soon ripeped the matter on my lungs, and I would spit off more than a pint of offensive yellow matter every morning. As soon as that began to subside, my cough, fever, pain, night sweats—all began to leave me, and my appetite became so great that it was with difficulty I could keep from eating too much. I soon gained my strength, and I have been growing in flesh ever since. For many years I have enjoyed uninterrupted good health, keeping the liver and stomach healthy with the Seawed Tonic and Mandrake Pills, as I am of a bilious temperament. My weight is two hundred and twenty pounds. On my recovery people would send for me far and near, to see if their cases were like mine. For this purpose I pay professional visits in the largo cities. The consumptives wish to see the one that makes these medicines, and who was cured of consumption by them. HAWLEY'S DENTAL CREAM, For Cleansing, Whiteging and Preserving the Teeth This article is prepared with the greatest care upon scientific principles, and warranted not to contain anything in the slightest degree deleterious to the teeth or gums. Some of our most eminent dental surgons have given their sanction to, and cheerfully recommend it as a preparation of superior qualities for Cleansing, Whiteking and Preserving the teeth; it cleans them readily, rendering them beautifully white and pearly, without the slightest injury to the enamel. It is healing to the gams where they are ulcerated and sore. It is also an excellent disinfector for old decayed teeth, which are often very offensive. It gives a rich and creamy taste to the mouth, cleansing it thoroughly, and imparting a delightful fragrance to the breath.

PREPARED ONLY BY

A. HAWLEY & CO.,

TESTIMONIALS.

The following opinion of Dr. White, as to the high esteem in which he holds the Dental Cream, must be sufficient evidence of its value: to quote other testimonials in detail is needless, concenting ourselves by simply giving the names and addresses of persons who speak of its excellency for the teeth.

Philadelphia, April 15th, 1863.

Having carefully examined A. Hawley's "Solidified Dental Cream," I hereby cheerfully recommend icto the public generally. It is an excellent preparation for cleansing and preserving the teeth, and can be used by all persons with the utmost confidence, as tts properties are perfectly harmless. Besides preserving the teeth, it promotes a healthy action to the gums and imparts a pleasantness to the breath.

Jones' Old Established Onc-Price Clothing Establishment NO. 604 MARKET STR., PHILADELPHIA.

Jones' policy which has proved of such great satisfaction both to his friends and the public, has demonstrated the fact, that ONE PRICE is the proper basis on which to do business. Many persons who are not able to judge of the value of any article, are glad to avail themselves of the opportunity of purchasing where they can secure what they want at the same price as their neighbors. Others, not liking to ask the dealers to take less, are often obliged to pay too much for an article. To meet this want Jones' one prive other has been of the limbert, and naving worked well for fifteen years, has gained many friends.

Strangers visiting Philadelphia would do well to call, as they will find one of the best stocks of readymade Clothing in the city; while those wishing then made Clothing in the city; while those wishing then garments made to order can secure them at the horiest notice.
