BAUGH'S

RAW-BONE SUPER PHOSPHATE OF LIME! BAUGH & SONS,

MANUFACTURERS AND PROPRIETORS, Store No. 20 South Delaware Avenue Store No. 20 South Delaware Avenue, PHILADELPHIA,

To the farmers of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland, Baugh's Raw Bone Super Phosphate is not a new name. Its great efficiency as a fertilizer for sill crops, has been for years past practically denoted by them in its continued use. We want no better assurance of the appreciation in which this, held by agriculturists than the fact of so constant an increase in the demand, from year to year as our article has enjoyed, and it has been our main object to render it, in every respect, worthy of such a favorable estimation.

In order to give greater facility in the application of the Raw Bone Phosphate, we have, since the last season, succeeded in making it so fine and uniform as uniportant advantage. The facilities for the manufacture of the Raw Bone Phosphate are now very complete, and we can fill large orders with promptness; but it is desirable that all orders be sent in as early in the season as possible. It is packed in bags and barrels, and may be had of any regular dealers in fertilizers, to whom we advise all farmers to apply, or of the sole manufacturers BAUGH & SON, HON. JOHN T. NIXON, In the 1st Presbyterian Church, on Wed nesday, the 19th of April, 1865.

I could not find it in my heart to altogether refrain from participating in these mournful ceremonies, although I should prefer that the part in them assigned to me, had been assign ed to other and abler hands. What can I say? How can weak, human words do justice to the sad event which has called us together?
On last Friday the hearts of the people of this land were pervaded with a joy and hope, more general than has been experienced since the surrender of the flag at fort Sumter, four years before. Decisive victories long deferred. has settled upon the national banners. The nation, emerging from a terrible baptism of blood, was just beginning to put on the white robes of rejoicing, in the prospect of dawning peace. Flags floated in the air. National salutes and honfires broke the atilities and the still response to the salutes and honfires broke the atilities.

peace. Flags noated in the air. Manious salutes and bonfires broke the stillness of the night. Patriot grasped the hand of patriot along our public thoroughfares, and all hearts were brimming over with gratitude to God for a disenthralled and saved republic. Suddenly in the midst of this universal jupilee, the electric wires flashed from the centre to the circumference of this broad land, the news of a most appalling calamity. Abraham Lincoln, the people's chosen leader, their gentle, trusted friend, and their heaven-ap-pointed deliverer from national perils, had perished, and perished by the hand of an as-

That same nation then so jubilant, now sits clothed in the garments of woe, beside the open grave of her murdered Fresident. Surely God's hand is in it. It is his doings and it is mar-

Abraham Lincoln was the 14th President, elected by the American people, and by provi-dential interposition, was the 16th that have held such official position. He was born in the State of Kentucky, on the 12th day of February, 1809, and hence, had just entered pon his 57th year. At the age of 8 he removed with his parents to the State of Indiana, where he continued to live until his 22d year. He he remained an honored and useful citizen until his inauguration as President of the United States, on the 4th day of March, 1861. origin, life and unpolished manners of Abraham Lincoln, not only exhibits a rebellious spirit against God's method of human development, but is quarrelling with the very agencies which have moulded and qualified him to ecome the nation's leader and deliverer. In proceeding briefly to delineate the charicter of our honored and lamented President. do not know whether I shall draw most from the impressions made upon my mind by personal intercourse and association with him, or from the impressions made by the study of his life and public career. But it matters not and his associates, were the authors of the war; from which source, for Abraham Lincoln was the same, whether in public or private, whether standing in the midst of great events, and personal aggrandizement. God help the preer standing in the midst of great events, and challenging the world's attention by his utter nces, or sitting within the sanctuary of the domestic circle; whether guiding the destinies of a continent or listening to the recital of private joys or sorrows; he was always the same simple, truthful, gentle, loving, guileless man, forgetful of self and intent upon the peo-1. Look, for a moment, at his singleness of heart and purpose. This trait is opposed to duplicity of thought or action; neither of which are chargeable upon him. There was no equiv ocation about him. When he spoke, his simple words were the exact reflections of his honest thoughts. When he acted, it was in the direct line of his desire and purpose. No man has ever been placed in more trying circumstances; and in the experience of none, has the temptation been stronger to equivocate and swerve from the straight path of duty.— But take his history; take it from his earliest life to his latest act—compare it, if you please, with the history of other representative rulers —in other times and ages—with Moses, Pericles, William, of Orange, Gustavus, Cromwell, Henry, of Navarre, Washington or Jackson, and you will find, that in this respect, his challenges the minutest comparison with theirs. his even, well-balanced intellect. Not great in the sense of profound analysis and induction;

Again, and as resulting from this, look at | and to treat you accordingly. ot great in the sense of walking in new paths. and startling the world with original endeavors—but great in the symmetry and completeness of ts proportions and actions; just as Washington was great; just as Grant is great; and just as a multitude of men around us fail to be great, because, lacking some single element, such harmony is unattainable.

He exhibited this trait of his character, in he practical view which he took of every public grasp the great questions of the day, and considering them in their relations to existing affairs, he always seemed most anxious to know how this view of it, or that view of it, would practically affect the interests of society, or

Read his first inaugural address, remember-ing the circumstances under which it was prepared. Not this country alone, but the world, was standing with "bated breath," to hear the first utterances of the untried man, who had been summoned by the people, to take the mace of authority from the hands of a drivening predecessor, and who saw around him only the chaotic remains of an already disruptured Goverument. Hear how calmly and directly, he provocations, yearned for harmony and peace; appeals, to the reason and judgment of the and how he strove to win back to submission

"Physically speaking, we cannot separate, we cannot remove our respective sections from each other, nor build an impassible wall between them. A husband and wife may be divorced, and go out of the presence and beyond the reach of the other, but the different parts of our country cannot do that. They cannot but remain face to face; and intercourse, either micable or hostile, must continue between them. Is it possible then to make that intercourse more advantageous or more satisfactory, after separation than before? Can aliens make treaties easier than friends can make laws? Can treaties be more faithfully enforces, between aliens, than laws among friends? Suppose you go to war, you connot fight always; and when, after much loss on both sides and no gain on either, you cease fighting, the identical questions as to terms of intercourse, are course more advantageous or more satisfactory tical questions as to terms of intercourse, are ultimate justice of the people? Is there any better or equal hope in the world? In our present differences, is either party without faith of being in the right? If the Almighty Ruler of the nations, with his eternal truth and justice, be on your side of the North, or on yours of the South, that truth and that justice will surely prevail by the Judgment of this great tribunal, the American people."

Or, still more strongly illustrating this, read his last public specen. Whilst the so-called statesmen of the country, are wasting their strength, and dividing the loyal sentiment, by discussing whether the seceded states, are out of the Union, or in it, hear how his practical mind grapples with and settles the question:

"I have been shown a letter, supposed to be curse of slavery. an able one, in which the writer expresses regret that my mind has not seemed to be definitely fixed on the question whether the secoded gret were he to learn that since I have found professed Union men endeavoring to answer that question. I have purposely forborne any public expression upon it. As it appears to me that question has not been, nor yet is, a practically material one, and that any discussion of it while it thus remains practically immaterial could have no effect other than the mischievous one of dividing our friends. As the Union, and that the sole object of the govvernment, civil and military, in regard to those states, is to again get them into that proper practical relation. I believe that it is not only possible, but in fact easier, to do this without states have ever been out of the Union, than with it. Finding themselves safely at home, it would be utterly immaterial whether they had been abroad. Let us all join in doing the acts necessary to restore the proper practical relations between these states and the Union, and each forever after innocently indulge his own opinion, whether in doing the acts he brought the states from without into the Union, then accompanied his parents to Illinois, where he remained an honored and unfairled by never having been out of it." 3. Look at his modesty and humility. Eleva-United States, on the 4th day of March, 1801.

Looking at his early life in its outward relations to his fellow men and to society, nothing in his presence; for they knew that his loving heart throbbed always in sympathy with theirs.

He was constantly impornoble nature, but more frequently discouraged | tuned to go forward, but he shrunk from the by the rude jostlings of an unsympathizing world. But such training was not lost upon him. In God's providence, it was fitting him ginning of the rebellion, and how they made to fill nobly and well, the exalted post to which he was to be subsequently summoned. The severest disciplines of our early life, when right ly improved, are God's messengers sent to develop the intellect and heart, and the man or woman who has ever sneered at the humble since learned, that it has been God's design from the beginning, to carry the people safely through this great crisis of the country's histo-

4. Let us consider him, as the friend of peace. and order. Large claims have been made of late, by a certain class in the community, that they were, par excellence, the friends of peace. A few men have honestly believed, and many men have dishonestly said, that Abraham Lincoln, udiced soul, that thinks so to day, standing by his open grave, and with the truth of history shining upon him! Abraham Lincoln's desire for peace has only been subordinated to his fidelity to the sacred trust committed to his hands by the American people. I take the public record of his words and acts, since he to ourselves and our posterity.

After showing by a concise argument that no State could get out of the Union by secession, and that the Union remained unbroken, he proceeds, "I shall take care, as the constitution expressly en joins upon me, that the laws be faithfully executed in all the States. But in doing this, There shall be none unless it be forced upon the national authority. The power confided to me will be used to hold, occupy and possess measure. He never stopped to discuss abstract principles; but, seizing with a strong ernment, and collect the duties and imports but beyond what may be necessary for these objects there will be no invasion, no using of force against or among the people anywhere."
Or, to his solemn appeal at the close of his address, "In your hands, my dissatisfied fellow countrymen; and not in mine, is the mo-

GROWTH OF SOUTH JERSEY. During the past ten or twelve years the resources of South Jersey have been de veloped to a remarkable degree. The hand of industry and improvement has not been idle, for its power is discoverable in the construction of railroads, the clear ing up of agricultural lands, the increased production of farms, the crection of buildings, and the laying out and growth of villages and towns. In every department of industry and enterprise, the people of this end of New Jersey have manifested a spirit of improvement scarcely equalled in any part of the country. The completion of the railroad to Bridgeton opened to our citizens and to these residing along its entire route, facilities of communication with Philadelphia and New York they never before enjoyed, and gave them a field of enterprise, wide, profitable and important. At the accomplishment of this grand object, the long idle and unimproved lands at various points on the West Jersey road, were disencumbered of timber, the soil converted into teeming fields, and now, where but a few years since wilderness reigned in all its melancholy solemnity, are heard the rumbling of ears, the locomotive whistle, the buzz of agricultural and mechanical industry. Manufacturing establishments have also sprung up in various places, thus giving a new impetus to business, while traders, dealers, storekeepers, &c., in our own beautiful city, have increased the amount of their sa'es and profits. These are facts which give gratifying encouragement to our people, who are looking forward to a not very distant day, when South Jersey will become the richest part of our flour-

The same principles of development hold good with the citizens on the railroad from Pittstown to Salem. At every available point on that road, improvemeats are being made by the company to accommodate the public, for the convenience of travel, and the expedition of communication. New side-tracks are laid. new stations located, and several new de- hamlet, town and rural district, have the Booth's body were brought to the Washington pots for passengers are nearly completed tokens of deep and heartfelt bereavement | Navy Yard la t night. are greatly enhanced, other industrial | that in the brutal assassination of Abrapursuits present safe investment, and improvements of an advantageous character are everywhere observable.

From Glassboro', in Gloucester county, to Cape Island, equal advantages are apparent. Since the track was laid from that village to Millville, vigorous and beneficial enterprises have sprung up. The new settlement of Vineland, about six miles from Millville, which was started but a few years since, has become a large and thriving community of industrious people Many acres of heretofore untilled land have been cleared, enriched and converted into productive lots, while the place itself has sprung up almost magically. All kinds of farming and garden ing produce are raised here in rich and contains within its own resources remarkable elements of expansion, and has already attracted a wide-spread reputation, which cannot fail to insure for it a future of rapid growth and prosperity.

The impetus given to the business and advancement of Millville, is likewise remarkable. New life has been infused into the people—the manufacturing establishments and mills indicate vigorous industry, and the proprietors are anticipating better times. Other improvements of | no where can the eye wander without a business character have sprung into existence, and are progressing favorably.-In fact, everywhere along the line of the railroads recently completed in this section of New Jersey, improvements of the most advantageous character have sprung up and are constantly developing, showing conclusively the important bearings which railroads have upon the people. A few years only will elapse before these railroad companies will see with pride the beneficial results which their enterprises will produce and exert upon the country and people of West Jersey. Even now these blessings are being realized in a profitable degree, and the citizens who are directly benefitted by them fully appreciate their advantages. The most powerful answers, therefore, that can be urged against the villainous assaults of the New York and other opposition papers on the Camden and Amboy Railroad Company, are the new and growing towns that have this year, and have engaged the services of sprung up, the rich fields and farms that spread out everywhere before the eye, and the gratification expressed by everybody for the facilities which are afforded them by the West Jersey, the Salem, the Millville and Cape Island Railroad Companies. If there were no other argu ments, these would be sufficient to establish in the minds of intelligent and honorable people, a full and complete conviction that the legislature of this State adopted the wisest and best policy that occasion. We sincerely hope the enterprising ever blessed any commonwealth. when it agreed to establish and protect the joint companies in their rights and privileges. A period of thirty-five years has fully tested the wisdom of this policy, and the benefits derived by the State from it are your aid show you appreciate their endeavors such as are calculated to cvoke future To all members of choirs and teachers of mulegislation for the protection of the inter- | sie we will say you will be more than compenests of these companies.

LAST THROES OF THE REBELLION.

Judging from the news and information which we receive from all quarters. it is pretty evident that the rebellion is tottering on the verge of "the last ditch." and that Jeff. Davis with his itinerant confederacy and wandering Ishmaelites. must soon yield to the "force of circumstances," and fice the country, or meet a traitor's doom by dangling from the end of a rope. It is evident that the lenieney extended to them by Abraham Lincolu, in the goodness of his heart, can not be expected from President Johnson, that when their paid assassin murdered Mr. Lincoln, that in his death; so far as merey is concerned, they have killed their est friend. This is made more apparent gotiations with the rebel Johnston respecting the surrender of his army, the essation of hostilities, and fixing a basis f peace, created an unfavorable impresion in the judgment of President Johnson, and he emphatically disapproves of his terms. Whether Gen. Sherman con templated any of the results charged in the despatches we are unable to say; but time will develope the truth. We know that his successful campaigns indicate his patriotism in the fullest and broadest sense, and the fact that he sent to Washington the terms asked by the rebel Johnston for approval, shows that Sherman realized his position in the matter, and waited for instructions. This was right, and the rebels, even if Jeff. Davis does escape with his booty, will find that the authorities will demand everything necessary to complete and absolute vindication of onstitutional right and power. The cagerness which General Johnston exhibits to secure a basis of settlement favorable to the south, is perfectly natural for one whose condition makes him desperate, but the peace-making power is not with Gen. Sherman. No subordinate officer will be allowed to settle a difficulty which Congress alone has the power to adjust.

quantity of SOAP. E. M. Hood has a large IN MOURNING. During the last two weeks the country has been in mourning, such a mourning as it has never before exhibited. Never have the hearts of the American people been so completely weighed down with sorrow, never have the weeds and symbols of bitter woe been so universally displayed by them. In every city, village, him. Harold was taken alive, and he and ham Lincoln the nation and the people have suffered an irreparable loss. A great man has truly fallen; but, in the inscrutable ways of an all-wise Providence, it may be for our own and athe country's good. We may have placed our affections too much upon him, and thus created a sort of hero-worship, which was ncompatable with the future of our beloved country, and therefore the death of our President was necessary to unite us more inseparably in the bonds of national greatness. Whatever results may accrue, the loss to us of Abraham Lincoln will impart a salutary and beneficial lesson. -It has already exhibited the fact that God calls out great men for great emergencies. that the people, how much soever they abundant profusion. The village itself may differ politically, will never tolerate such cowardly acts as assassinating the chief magistrate of our nation. It is this that has clothed our country in mourning, and as the last mortal remains of President Lincoln are slowly winding their way to their final resting place, one universal out-gushing of wailing goes out from the heart of a stricken people. Not only this, but every avocation of business. every department of trade and of com-

MUSICAL CONVENTION. We desire to call particular attention to the convention to be held in Grosscup's Hall, comnencing on Monday evening next, for the purose of improving the musical talents and corecting the musical taste, by bringing the dif erent singers of the county into direct intercourse with the very best composers and masers in the art of music, who can of course give dearer ideas of different styles and the varied emotions intended to be expressed by written nusic. We hope no one who is interested in the cultivation of that most beautiful element in the worship of Almighty God in the different churches in our county, will neglect to be pre sent and share the advantages to be gained by such an intercourse. Feeling that the state of the musical art in our county is far below its proper standard, the officers of this association have concluded to hold two conventions Prof. Marshall as conductor, a gentleman well known throughout the Northern and Eastern States, and whose reputation is perhaps second to none in this country at the present time. They have also secured at considerable expense, the services of Miss D. C. Hall of Boston, as copano, one of the very best in that city of music; also, John O. K. Robarts, who has kindly consented to be present and sing a solemn dirge to our deceased President, be sides a number of other distinguished singers from Philadelphia, and other counties in this State, will be present and add interest to the officers of this association who have done so much to improve the church music in this county, will be encouraged in this extra effort of holding two conventions, by a full house each day, and especially on both evenings of the concert, and thus by your presence and by sated for all the time and slight expense of

GENERAL WILLIAM COOK.

In another column will be found a notice of the death of this prominent and worthy man, written by one who knew the General well, and has truthfully depicted some of his many good qualities. His loss will be felt not only by the company of which he was one of the leading managers, but by all who knew him. Gen. Cook, although not a professor of religion, had more goodness of heart than many who make loud professions. If he had an enemy it was without just cause. As a farsighted, shrewd financier he had but few equals; with but little care for self, or his own pecuniary welfare, he devoted himself to the interests of the company to which he had the relels' last hope of mercy went out | given his prime of life and more mature years. WASHINGTON, April 27 .- Yesterday morning a squadron of the 16th New York Cavalry traced Booth and Harold to a barn between Bowling Green and Port Royal, near Fredericksburg, Va. The barn was surrounded, and demand made for surrender, which Harold was in favor of doing, but upon Booth calling him a coward, he refused to surrender. The barn was then set on fire, and, upon getting too hot. Harold again presented himself, and put his hands through the door to be handcuffed. SHERMAN. The Armistice with Johnston's Rebel Army!

Washington, April 29 .- The publication of the terms of surrender agreed upon between Generals Sherman and Johnston has given rise to general comment here to-day. The terms met with general reprobation; and a universal expression of surprise that General Sherman should for a moment have entertained such propositions, much less refer them here for approval. It is well known that Mr. Lincol could have made peace at Fortress Monroe if he would have entertained such terms as those proposed by General Sherman.

The President and his Cabinet, as well as General Grant, were mortified and astonished at the receipt of such proposals, and General Grant started without an hour's delay to remedy, if possible, the damage to the Union cause which was likely to occur from General Sherman's ill-advised and inconsiderate action. The general impression is that the object of that the Government would never give its assent to the propositions, was to obtain time to enable Jeff. Davis and the leaders to escape before finally surrendering his army.

SPECIAL PIELD ORDER, NO. 58.

Headquarters, Military Division of the Mississippi. In the field, Rallier, N. C., April 19, 1865—The General commanding announces to the army a suspension of hostilities, and an agreement with General Johnston and high officials, which, when formally ratified, will make peace from the Potomac to the Rio Grande. Until the absolute peace is arranged, a line passing through Tyrrell's Mount, Chapel Hill University, Durham's station, and West Point, on the Neuse river, will separate the two armies. Each army commander will group his camp entirely with a view to comfort, health, and good police. All the details of military discipline must still be maintained; and the General hopes and believes that in a very few days it will be his very good fortune to conduct you all to your homes. days it will be his very good fortune to conduct you all to your homes.

DIED.

In Shiloh, April 20th, '65, BEULAH DAVIS, wife (Ocean Wave please copy.)

At his residence in Hoboken, on the 21st inst, Gen. WILLIAM COOK, in the 64th year of his age. Among the distinguished men whom Death has re ently claimed, there are few whose loss will be more leeply felt than Gen. William Cook, Chief Engineer of the Camden and Amboy Railroad, and other important public works in the State of New Jersey. He was born at Hightstown, N. J., May 29, 1891, and died t his residence in Hoboken, N.J., April 21, 1865, from severe attack of disease of a typhoid form. He was son of Gen. James Cook, a prominent citizen o Middlesex county, N. I., and who was a Major of Cavdry in the war of 1812. The subject of this memoir was educated at West Point, from whence he graduated in 1823, entering the army as a Lieutenant in the Engineer Corps. He was employed in military service in the south and south west for several years, and while residing there, married a sister of Hon. Robert J. Walker. In April, 1839, permission was granted to him by the War Department to connect imself with the Camden and Amboy Railroad, then n its infancy, and which was deemed by the public it large to be a visionary project, which would result n the financial ruin of all connected with it. But the agacious mind of Gen. Cook looking into the dim vista of futurity, had faith in the final success of the grand scheme of internal improvements projected by the Messrs. Stevens and Stockton, which now intersect and develope every part of the State, and which has been the pioneer and guide of the immense system of railroads and canals throughout the United States. In 1831 the Legislature passed an act acknowledging his services, stating that, "Whereas the State of New Jersey has become interested in the road to the amount of one thousand shares of its stock. and it being very important to retain the services of Lieutenant Cook as their Engineer, that the Hon. Secretary of War be requested to continue him in the service of the company." This was granted, and soon after he resigned his commission in the U.S. Army and permanently identified himself with the ublic works of his native State. Possessing a natu rally vigorous and practical mind, improved by sci rduous and responsible task of constructing a great artificial highway, which at this day commands the dmiration of the most skillful and successful engieers. Gen. Cook was in politics a Democrat. and vas chosen an Elector by that party in the election of 1860. His party having the political ascendency in the State for nearly half a century, any office in its gift was at his command; he was by turns solicited to become its candidate for Governor and other high ositions, but to such importunities he turned a deat ar, preferring to leave as his monument the endurng public works of the State, rather than the uncerain and easily forgotten history of a politician.-When the rebellion broke out he east the ties of party aside and threw his sympathies into the scale with the government. Recollecting what he owed to the nation that had trained and educated him, while other graduates of West Point were traitorously ab-solving themselves from their allegiance to the government, he renewed his devotion, and tendered him self for military service. His official connection with the great routes joining the loyal States with the Na-tical Capitol was however considered by the military authorities of as much importance as service in the field, for which younger and more ambitious men were actively pressing; and it was among the most delightful of his triumphs that the great railroad artery which he so much loved had proved capable of erforming every duty which the immense demands of the government made upon it, without interfering n the least with the regular public travel. Gen. Cook was one of the most popular men not only in this State, but wherever he was known; inleed, it may be said of him that he was without an nemy. In business his power was felt and recognized, in controversy his influence was felt and acknowledged, in pleasure his presence was coveted, and in grief his consolations were loved. Through all the intricacies of life he exercised an influence that rose far above the tongue of slander, and beyond the finger of envy or malice. Possessed of a genial nature, his generous heart was a-glow with all the tender sympathies and affections which win the warmes ove and cement the strongest friendships. Among all classes he was the welcome guest, and the ancouncement of his death is a sad and cruel blow to the orphan and widow, and to the humble laborer by the wayside as well as to the strong intellects and sturthe smith business at Whitecar & Weaver's, Bridgeton, Apr. 29.

Letters Remaining in the Post Office

Ours is a favored lot-

EDITOR OF PIONER:—In reply to many letters and inquiries from people in this section of the country, the undersigned take great pleasure in saying through the columns of your paper, that our renowned preparation known as COES DYSPEPSIA CURE, is a certain cure for Dyspepsia, in its worst stages. Many cures of long standing, within our own acquaintance, have been completely, and we believe permanently cured. It will stop distress after eating almost instantaneously, and enables the dyspeptic who has for years lived upon Graham bread, and the plainest diet, to cat as heartly as he pleases, and any thire, he chooses, without danger of distress, or southing, or rising on the stomach. It is an infallible corrector of indigestion and constipation, creates a healthy appetite, stop- headache, heart-tourn, sickness at the stomach, pairs, cramp, or colic it, either stomach or howels, and sweetens offensive breath, as soon as you take it, and by enabling the patient to take plenty of hearty food, which is the parent of health, produces vigor, strength, and energy. In every trial we have known it has specific radicated Dyspepsia with all its attendant sufferings, weakness, debility, and loss of power, giving instead, a proper activity and tone to the stomach and organs of digestion, and as we considerably believe, and as the published certificates in our circulars, alumnaces, and in many of the leading journals, from convidencent patients will confirm, completely, permanently, and almost mirraculously cure the worst cases of Dyspepsia in existence." We warrant it in every instance. It can be obtained at all the Drug Stores in the United States and Canadas, at $1.00 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.00.

COFFEE! (Another Gem from the Poet.)

Rome harp upon their coffee being at the Sanitary
Fair, and gratis was it served;
But Browning's it was all the go and at Sanitary prices too was very much preferred.

"Composed by the writer." "How well the subject suits his noble mind!
A fellow feeling makes us wondrous kind!
Some faucied slight has roused his lurking hate,
Some folly crastd, some jest, or some delate."
Some desler, who his Excelsion could not sell.
Or the Sanitary Fair, which pleaced him boat as well,
His coftee did not "take" there it was not ready made,
Or it may be that the Continental is taking much his Or it may be that the Continental is taking inden his trade,
The cause, 'tis this, and few you'll find to don't it,
His labels read "don't fail to use cream" Scull's coffee is good without it,
Oh! Poet, Poet! "cease thy varied song!—
A bard may chant too often and too long!
As thou art strong in verse in mercy spare.
Again, alas! were more than we could bear,
But if, in spite of all the world causay,
Thou still wilt verseward plod thy weary way;'
Why, be it so! I seek no other fame
The cry is up, and scribblers are my game.'
FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE.

FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE. It is the universal opinion of every one that SCULL'S CONTINENTAL COFFEE Is the most popular Coffee in the market, owing to its heathful and nutritions qualities and its strength, its flavor approaching so near the genuine that the best judges can scarcely distinguish the difference.—This coffee was served ready-made, and gratis, at the GREAT SANITARY FAIR, held in Philadeiphia, June 1864, and was the only coffee thus placed before the people, the other coffee were merely exhibited, more of Scull's coffee was sold at the Fair, and more money realized from its ale and handel over to the managers than of all the rest of the coffees combined. It was purchased by residents of nearly every loyal State. SCULLES EXTRA COFFEE

Is sold at about the same price as other 2d class articles in the market, try it, it will give you satisfaction, use one third less than of other coffee, boil about 10 of 15 mitutes.

The genuine article is about 65 cents per pound, the Continental, just as good, is less than half the price, and being much stronger will go further and save the housekeeper more than 50 cents on every pound used, which is quite an item in these times of high prices. Prepared by

LOOK OUT FOR THE DRAFT

Not the military draft but the draft of the stoves you buy. Our new stove, the Excelsior, has the largest flues, and consequently must have the strongest draft, and will not fail to perform to the entire satisfaction of all. The ovens are very large and high under the ash pit, giving you baking surface over the entire bottom. The design is neat, and no deet carvings, which are so troublesome to black. The castings are heavy, and the stoves are put together in a manner superior to any thus making it the most desirable, stove in the market. We desire to call the attention of purchasers to our other stoves, consisting of the

NO. 604 MARKET STR., PHILADELPHIA. Jones' policy which has proved of such great satisfaction both to his friends and the public, has demonstrated the fact, that ONE PRICE is the proper basis on which to do business. Many persons who are not able to judge of the value of any article, are glad to avail themselves of the opportunity of purchasing where they can secure what they want at the same price as their neighbors. Others, not liking to ask the dealers to take less, are often obliged to pay too much for an article. To meet this want Jones' one price Store has been established, and having worked well for fifteen years, has gained many triends. triends.

Award of the "Greeley Prize."

The Hon. Horace Greeley having very generously offered a prize of one hundred dollars for a grape adapted to general cultivation in the Middle and Eastern States, the committee, after due consideration, have awarsed it to the "fone." raised by Dropant. The additional requirements were, in general terms, that the grape should be larger than the Delaware, early, tender to the center, high flavored, sweet, spirited, and good for market and the table.— These requirements are faily met by the Iona. So far as trad is concerned, the Iona is not a new grape, and the committee failed to see that any anything would be gained by postponing the award, some of them being already quite familiar with the new grapes now before the public. More grapes as good, or even better, are wanted, and a prize equally valuable is in store for such. The Iona, during the past four or rive years, has been grown in several parts of New York, in Massachusetts, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Delaware, New Jersey, &c., and in all has proved to be early, a good and healthy grower, and of the itest quality. Some of your committee have seen it in a number of these places, and can confirm the favorable reports that have been made. Your chair man has had it some rix years, and examined it under a variety of circumstances, and he fully concurs in the high opinion of his associates. In conclusion, the committee are of opinion that the lona is the only grape now before the public that meets the requirements of the "Greely Prize," and they accordingly award it.
