TRIALS OF THE TIMES. The consequences of the rebellion are yet to be felt by thousands who have escaped the trials and sacrifices incident to war. Their share in the struggle-their portion of the cost to be met, have only been postponed, not cancelled. The duties which devolve upon the body politic when a great misfortune falls upon it, are so varied that each member of society seems to have allotted him some task to perform, some burden to bear, which goes to make up the sum total of responsibility; and the question as to where and when it is to be assumed is of little moment. It is enough to know that, when our country demands of us such assistance as may be necessary to her welfare, whether it be of blood or treasure, no true loyal man can prove recreant to his trust as a good citizen. The great majority of the people have passed the ordeal of a four years war, comparatively unscathed. So far from oppressing and overtaxing, to thousands it has proved a " blessing in disgnise." Farmers have been enriched by the unprecedented rise in produce-manufacturers have shared the prosperity-mechanics and artizans have been steadily employed at good wages--and their employers were equally blessed with fabulous prices for their products. Thousands more who quarted the very dregs of poverty; and were known as the mere drones of society, have become elevated by profitable contracts, or luxuriate in synosure positions, created by the exigencies of the war. And, whence come all these advantages? To whom are these recipients indebted for them? Why, to the very Government which now exacts from them some token of gratitude-some reciprostatesmen paled before the complicated difficulties so suddenly sprung upon us-this Government never forgot its duty to the people.

of annoyance and alarm, was constructed for our benefit.

Well, "pay-day" has now come, and he who takes a philosophical view of our position, might imagine us a nation of children, as he listens to the croaking and groaning borne upon every breeze, because our taxes have been incı ased. And, mark it, reader-note the men who murmur loudest and declare the more earnestly against what they are pleased to term "unjust taxation" -- and, with few exceptions, you will find that they are among those who have fatted upon our country's calamities, or prospered upon its outlay in some shape-whether from contracts, or the consequent rise in the price of commodities or products which they raised, or in which they dealt-men, too. who never raised an arm, or uttered a word in defense of the struggling nation, except so far as their own individual interests were concerned. Like the wayward child, they want to retain the penny while enjoying the sugar-plum But as a Kind Providence takes especial care of all who need chastisement or pity, we are convinced that these grumblers will not be suffered to mar the growing harmony of our political system, maugre the trials of the times. But let us compare the sacrifices of the present the country were won, the task was accomplished with one-tenth of the population of to-day, and with scarcely one-twentieth of our resources. To have been a Whig in the days of the Revolution, required a degree of moral courage rarely to be met with in this selfish age. The difference between the work of achieving our liberties and that of defending them, after they were achieved, is a wide one. indeed; but, to have persevered to victory under the adverse circumstances which surrounded a population of three millions of people, was a work of almost incomprehensible magnitude, compared to that of guarding and loyal Northmen. The difference, too, between the privations, the loss and the suffering of that period and the present, is just as greatand so great, that the blush of shame ought to crimson the cheek of that man who grumbles at the comparative insignificant sacrifice he is now called upon to make, while surrounded by as many blessings to which our fathers were total strangers. Can a people hope to prosper when they so flagrantly challenge Divine mercy by such open expressions of dissatisfaction and ingratitude, because called upon to discharge the smallest duty that Liberty and National existence could exact?

The present generation came upon the stage of action with every privilege and comfort that reasonable men could ask for, "ready made to order," as originally designed by our fathers; and, to their labors, not our own, are we indebted for the priceless patrimony we enjoy. Not a dollar-not a drop of blood, did it cost us. They closed a seven years' war to face the keenest poverty-the most disheartening privations. The continental money was as worthless as confederate currency. The people and the nation were bankrupt. We were without credit abroad and without re sources at home. Even the scarred veteran of that fearful struggle were sent home penniless. Yet, amid all these depressing circumstances, they overcame every difficulty, and proved themselves the noble heroes of social as well as of military life. They cheerfully met and paid the cost of creating a nation .-The next generation met and conquered the British host in the war of 1812. Again the country was involved in debt, and again was it liquidated and the national honor maintained And, although our means, at that time, far execcded those possessed during the war for Independence, they were far less adequate to meet the demands of that period, than those now exacted of us-for, our indebtedness of three billions of dollars, in view of our immease resources which are unfolding with startling magnitude every day, is but a trifle compared to the burdens shouldered by the people at the close of the two previous wars A rich man can pay a thousand dollars with ease, but it is hard for a poor man to pay ten; twenty in 1815.

The fact is, we have assumed the mantles of our fathers with "silver spoons in our mouths," and have never appreciated the blessings which surround us. Hence, we over-estimate the triadversity and less of prosperity, we bould have been better prepared to make the trifling sacrifices required of us. We have become lable blessings purchased by the blood and A MAGNIFICENT ESTABLISHMENT treasure of our patriot-ancestors. Let us hope that the American people are still actuated by will come between us and the cheerful discharge of an imperative duty. With our known facilities and means of meeting our obligations, it would be unmanly, ungrateful, and almost impious to embarrass the collection of the taxes necessary to maintain our time-honored iutegmuch of honor-we have been conceeded . too much of magnanimity, to develope a mean trait of personal character; in this respect, at the present time. And, whatever characteristics distinguish individuals cannot fail to be impressed upon the government which they have the power to make. If the government, therepeople themselves must be high-minded and

THE USES OF ADVERSITY.

That man who possesses sufficient self-con trol to take a calm, philosophical view of the rebellion, will have crowded upon him many prolific themes of thought worthy the exercise of his best reflective powers, and the widest expansion of the most lively imagination .-Now that we have passed the ordeal of bloodshed and devastation, brought upon the country by Southern folly, it is natural, as we count the cost, that we should look about us for some consolation, some offset, to the immense sacrifices we have been called upon to make. To the close observer, this is not a bootless task. The Southern people, up the outburst of treason, were distinguished for indolence and luxurious ease-exhibiting but little self-reliance, and manifestly dependent upon others. This grew out of the practical workings of their domestic institutions, and was the evident result of a system which permits one parties and mankind to appropriate the labor of another. The master becomes pampered, haughty, and dictatorial, (three prominent ingredients of · Southern Chivalry,") in proportion as the slave grows submissive; and it is not surprising that we should find Southern men more irritable, more exacting, more impatient of control, and less obedient to laws, which were not framed in exact accordance with their notions of right and wrong. Their positionthe circumstances with which they were surcal feeling that will show these favors not to rounded-seems to have made them imperious, have been unworthily bestowed. Yes-at a imbued them with false notions of superitime when we were struggling for national exority, and caused them to presume too much istence-when the political economist was perupon the inferiority of the North. The result plexed, and when the cheeks of the wisest of a four years' war however, has served to indeceive them. They have discovered that forbearance is not cowardice-that patience is not imbecility-and though willing to concede merits and enjoys. amid the multiplicity of its cares; and none all but honor for peace, yet when driven to can deny that the ponderous debt, so prolific war, we are powerful to punish.

The lesson to them has been a fearful one: but amid all its disasters, they have derived a knowledge, taught them by bitter experience, which will enable them to reconstruct their fortunes upon a more enduring basis. Instead of living an effeminate, improductive, pleasureseeking life, they will, of necessity, become self-sustaining, self-reliant, industrious, and gradually engage in those useful pursuits which dignity labor and ennoble manhood .-Their false conceptions of chivalry will give place to the practical purposes of man's true mission, and eventually assimilate their thoughts, actions and habits, to those of the North. Their very misfortunes will awaken a spirit of enterprise, and arouse a feeling of emulation, which will make a profitable application of the dormant energy, the slumbering genius, and the acknowledged talent of the Southern people. In no part of the world can we find a wider field-a more promising harvest for such a reformation; for, while nature has stinted other sections of her favors, there she has ever been the hand-maid of thrift .-The soil, at the slightest touch of the husbandman, rewards him with abundance. It has no equal-certainly, no superior-for the quality, with those of the past. When the liberties of quantity, variety and value of its products. Cotton, sugar, rice and tobacco, will be reliable and profitable staple articles, while the earth is peopled; and the demand will increase with the population. Add to this, too, a foreign as well as a domestic consumption of these commodities, and the Southern people, if they but make a proper use of their own resources. have it in their power not only to recover from merited prostration, but to rival the North in wealth in less than half a century. The history of the war proves to them that

"where there is a will there is a way." Four years ago they were entirely dependent upon the North for almost everything that did not perpetuating them by twenty millions of grow spontaneously upon their own soil, from a lucifer match to a locomotive engine. Since that time they have learned to cast cannon. manufacture rifles, make gunpowder, build engines, construct railroads and bridges, work up cotton and wool into cloth, tan leather and have become proficients in nearly every mechanical and manufacturing science; aye, more-they have been taught lessons of economy in the severest school of adversity; and this is no trifling blessing to a people who have been the authors of their own ruin, and are compelled, for the first time in their lives. to sweat for bread. Retributive justice has already changed their views, and they can no longer consider labor degrading. They will, therefore, enter upon their new condition o life, weighed down by no misfortunes inflicted by others; for theirs is not the position of the broken merchant, stricken down by the dis honesty of others; nor of the manufacturer prostrated by a commercial panic. No flood no hurricane, no pestilence, no famine, has destroyed life and property, and left then helpless and destitute. No; it was war-wal of their own seeking, and they have none to blame but themselves.

Under such circumstances, their new phase of life is divested of all the discouragements which usually depress men making a second effort to overcome misfortune, while smarting under wrongs inflicted by others. They can begin anew with better heart and keener ambition, as they reflect that every day's laborevery drop of sweat—every privation endured -is but a drop in the full measure of atonement for sins which they are mercifully permitted to wipe out by a life of frugality and industry. If the South, therefore, should embark in the work before them, guided and sustained by this spirit, in less than half a century her people will exclaim, in the fullness of gratitude and thanksgiving-" Sweet are the uses of adversity."

NEW MARBLE YARD.

By reference to advertisement in another column it will be seen that Messrs. Gibson & Appelgate have opened a marble yard on Laurel Street, above the first Presbyterian church, in this City, where they have on hand and, our country can better afford to pay a a stock of excellent marble, suitable for monuthousand now than it could ten in 1782, or ments, tombs, head-stones, posts for burial lots. &c. These gentlemen are so well known in this section that it is scarcely necessary to add a word of commendation. Mr. Gibson has served a regular apprenticeship in the business and is acknowledged to be the most skilful als of the times. Had we experienced more of carver and letterer in this part of the country. With the amount of talent and energy combined in this new firm they cannot fail to succoed. We advise all who wish work done in

It has been our pleasure to pass through several of the largest and most splendid jewelry National pride, and that no miserly instincts establishments in this country, and none of them in the different departments, excel in magnificence that of Jas. E. Caldwell & Co., No. 822 Chestnut street Philadelphia. A description of this establishment in all its vastness and grandeur, would fail to convey a correct idea of its real superiority. It needs to rity and Government. We have none too be visited to be appreciated. Among its desirable features is the privilege given to all of viewing the articles for sale without being made to feel compelled to buy. While the salesmen at this house are most polite and obliging, they do not, as in some first class houses, press a sale to the annoyance of those who would become good customers if not fore, is to be preserved pure and untainted, its driven away by such compulsory measures. The article is exhibited and the price given in such a manner as to win custom without the system above alluded to.

Messrs. Caldwell & Co. are among the most extensive importers, jewelers and silver-smiths in this country. Their firm is constantly represented in Europe, where purchases are being made exclusively for their establishment. They import the best articles in their line that come to this country. As jewelers and silversmiths they greatly excel, having the best fereign and American workmen in their employ, some of them receiving almost incredible sal-

The display of American, English, and Swiss gold and silver watches, diamonds and rich jewelry, silver ware, clocks, bronze groupes and figures, American and English plated goods and cutlery, vases, ornaments, fancy goods, &c. &c., is unsurpassed. Two of the largest rooms in the city are literally filled with the above named articles. There are two sets of silver ware at Cald-wen & Co.'s, one of which was gotten up for James Milliken Esq., at a cost of five thousand dollars. The other just finished by this firm, cost eight thousand dollars and is to be presented in a short time to W. G. Morehead Esq., both citizens of Philadelphia. Gen. Grant's silver service was furnished by this establishment, and the General has deposited his valuable swords and many other articles at this place for safe keeping. Six men remain in the building every night, with comfortable apartments furnished them.

Mr. James Caldwell, the leading proprietor of this extensive establishment, was a poor boy, and worked at his trade by the month .-His indomitable energy and perseverance, combined with honesty, reliability and superior business qualifications, have placed him in the high and honorable position he now so richly

THE FOURTH OF JULY.

The coming anniversary of our National Independence, which occurs on Tuesday next, will be fraught with more than its usual interest. At all times the Fourth of July, from the year 1776 down to the present time, has been regarded with all the reverence due to the importance of the day and the events under which it became the birth-day of a great and powerful nation. The people, too, appreciate it, for it enters into their characteristics as a great, free and republican class, who have sworn eternal fidelity to the principles of republican government, against usurpation and monarchial authority. Then it was that a greater principle was involved than had ever before been promulgated to the world—then the powers of despotism were broken, and the light that tyrants-for their own especial purposes-had kept under a bushel, shed its refulgence over the earth in floods that gladdened the hearts of thousands who had hecome emancipated from the sevitude and terror of kings and monarchs. From a population of 3,000,000 to a nation containing 34,000,000, this country has grown in the space of threequarters of a century and from thirteen sparsely settled colonies to an area of thirty-six States. Oh, what developments have since been made. We have successfully conquered all our national enemies abroad, and just emerged from the most extensive rebellion ever known in history, or experienced by any nation, greater in strength, greater in resources, greater in military resources than even the people themselves had cause to believe we possessed. The present Fourth of July, therefore, cannot fail to be more important than on any former occasion, for it finds our noble armies and heroic soldiers marching home—the country far advanced towards reunion-and the work of reconstruction going rapidly on. Let an ovation, then, of welcome home, be given to the soldiers who have borne so much of the brunt of war, throughout the whole country. Our own citizens of Bridgeton will not be behind, for they have always led in acts and exhibitions of patriotism.

Commendable Improvement.

We notice that a brick pavement is being aid in Bank Street, above Washington, in front of the residences of Mrs. Flanagan, Revs. J. F. Brown and J. M. Challis, James Glaspy and William Dare. This is a very desirable improvement, in one of the most handsome strects n our city. If this good example was followed by others, especially in the central part of the city, it would be well. Especial attention is directed to the card of Thomas M. Seeds, whose place of business is No. 41 North Second street, Philadelphia. Mr. Seeds has had many years experience in the Hat and Cap business, and knows what the trade needs, and he is well qualified to accommodate all who may favor him with their patronage. Friends' hats are kent on hand or made to order. While Mr. Seeds is a friend to his customers in general, he takes special pains in accommodating the Friends. who, by the way, are a first class of customers.

Wolcott's Instant Pain Annihilator. A bottle of this wonderful medicine has been presented to us, by Mr. Wilcox, who has the agency for this and surrounding counties .-We have not vet had occasion to try it, but if what is said of it be correct, it should be in every family. Those who desire to know more about it will see it advertised, and can try it announced that Gen. Grant desired to contribfor themselves. THE CROPS .- From all parts of this and adjoining counties we learn that the crops are good. The grass crop is more than an average yield. Wheat has turned out well. Corn and oats are very promising. Early potatoes are quite plenty in market, and bring a large price. The harvesting of wheat is nearly all done, the season being at least two weeks earlier than sacrifices required of us. Good News .- The exciting war news havng subsided, and peace and prosperity once more smiling on our land, we can afford to W. read the extensive advertisement of Mr. F. M. R. Wheat Lewis, which appears in another column. It will be seen that he has on hand a large stock of almost everything in his line, which is offered at very low prices. Mr. Lewis has had many years experience in the watch and jewelry business, and is not easily excelled as a workman. For more than seven years past he has been employed in the establishment, lately purchased of Mr. W. H. Thompson, and for three years past has had entire control of the business there. Mr. Lewis is one of the most steady and industrious men in Bridgeton. His close attention to business-skill as a workman-politeness and determination to give satisfaction-in addition to the cheapness of his goods, should win for him a large and increasing patronage.

" Electric Soan." We have received from Michael Swing, of Fairton, several pounds of Dobbins' Electric Soap. After giving it a fair trial, we pronounce it the best article we have ever used. It accomp ishes all that is claimed for it, and is the most economical soap that can be used in a family. Mr. Swing is the agent for this part of the State, and Storckeepers would do well to try a box or two of it. Those in want of a good article should enquire for the " Electric Soup." There is nothing better now in the market.

We lately received from the popular music establishment of H. Waters, No. 481 Broadway N. Y., several pieces of excellent sheet music, entitled "The Peace Jubilee." Glory to God in the highest,"-" Funeral March, to the memory of Abraham Lincoln.' The card of Mr. Waters, chumorating musi for sale, will be found in another column.

This is decidedly the handsomest and best gallery in this part of the State, and combines all the advantages of the largest and best in Philadelphia or New York. The reception room, which is very comfortable, will be fitted up in excellent style. They have secured the services of an artist from the city, who will color pictures equal to the best. Mr Edwards, as an artist in the Photographic de partment, has but few superiors. If Edwards & Ogden's pictures were unrivalled with their former facilities, what may we expect, now that they have fitted up such a superior gal lery, and adopted " Excelsior" as their motto

STAR GROVE.

It is not generally known that there is such pleasant summer resort so near Bridgeton as Star Grove, or there would be more visitors there. It is located about one mile from the centre of the city, on the road to Fairton .-There is generally a cool breeze, off the creek. The bathing is good, swings are erected, and refreshments kept for sale by Mulford & Gibson. There will be an extra supply of refreshments of all kinds there on the fourth of

A Remarkable Soap. Mr. J. B. Dobbins has furnished us with a box of his "Electric Soap," which we have tried on various kinds of soiled materials with the most satisfactory results. A great objection to ordinary soap is the amount of labor and time required before the articles can be horoughly cleaned, without taking into con sideration the damage done by so much rub bing to the clothing itself. By using this extraordinary soap all these faults vanish. In deed, if the great merits which this soap po ssesses were more generally known it would be preferred to all the commoner varieties low so generally used. For removing paint and grease spots from clothing, it is an excellent recipe, and when used on mouseline de laines, cashmeres, woolens and flannels, they are rendered smooth and pliable, while all fast olors are made bright and clear. For chap ped hands and diseases of the skin it is an e cellent remedy. Several tons of this extraordinary soap are already sold nearly every day, and at times the demand is greater than the supply. Families, country others wishing to try this great chemical compound, should at once send an order to the proprietor, Mr. J. B. Dobbins, 107 South Fifth street, Philada.

RAILBOAD ACCIDENT.-On Friday morning last, the locomotive of the up morning train on the West Jersey railroad was thrown off the track by running over a steer, which had gone on the track and persistently refused all invitations to leave it. Fortunately no one was injured, and but little damage done beyond killing the contumacious steer, literally cutting him in two, delaying the train and scaring the passengers badly. It took about three hours to replace the locomotive on the track. THE LADY AND THE ACTOR. BY THE BARD OF TOWER HALL.

While Garrick, wonder of the stage, Astonished the preceeding age,
A lady, fair as May,
Young, wealthy, and of noble line,
For whom did many suitors pine,
Once went to see him play. He acted a gay gallant youth
With such vivacity and truth,
The lady's heart was won.
Her friends perceived how she was charmed,
And creatly was their pride alurmed,
But what was to be done? They took her, now, to see him act The part of "Scrub," and 'tis a fact,

That soon her dream was o'er. He seemed so clownish, dull and plain, The lady thence shunned Drury Lane, And thought of G. no more.

The lady thence shunned Drury Lane,
And thought of G. no more.

This shows what great importance lies
In certain styles of outward guise,
Though still the man's the same;
And if you'd act a winning part,
Seek clothing from the shrine of art,
Which Tower Hall we name.

We have now on hand our usual full and complete assortment of seasonable clothing. All our materials have been purchased for cash, at the present reduced rates, which enables ue to fully meet the popular demand for goods at reduced prices. Our stock includes the finest class of goods made in the best manner possible. Those who usually have their goods made to order can be suited at once in gar ments equal in every respect—style, fit, make and material, at fully 25 per cent lower prices.

We have all sizes, styles and prices in large assort ment. An examination is invited.

STREET CAR REGULATIONS.

Push, and crowd and jam!
Crush, and shove, and cram!
Hurry and shove! the passengers in,
Like the cobs of corn in it farmer's bin;
Squeeze, and jam, and stow; and pack
This passenger on that passenger's back;
This big fat man on that little man's toes;
These persons here on the laps of those.
This fifty or sixty folks, or more,
Sit on the seats, and stand on the floor,
Or on the platform, outside the door.
Then rattle along y ur oid horse-bones,
Over the rails, and over the stones,
Till every unhappy passenger groans
That you shake him so,
Tast he don't want to go
And ride very far
On such a horribly crowded car.
But take good care
To collect the fare,
And then declare
That you won't refuse
To let them all out, as soon as they choose.
Though our clothes may be torn in the crowd,
and split,
The car conductor don't mind it a bit.
For the railroad folks
Must have their jokes,
E'en if a passenger growls and croaks,
And the railroad folks and the passengers know
That all they have to do, is to go
To the mammoth store of the Great Oak Hall,
For a suit of new Clothes for each and all.

Best dressed people who ride in the passenger cars, and are seen about our streets, purchase their Clothing at Oak Hall, where, for a moderate outlay of money, they get good materials and handsone styles

BRUNA AND BREWSTER. The great wonder now is how Bruna and Brewster ever got together. It is no uncommon thing for Brewster to be called Bruna; this is not very much to be taken to hearl, for any one having the reputation that Mr. Bruns has, need not care if that good repute is handed down to one yet in his infancy, but hoping soon to gain a name, at least for the sale of capital ice cream and good mineral water. Mr. Bruna finits at this senson of the year a good dish of his cream is far superior to a dose of Brewseer's Pills, but this is a sure fact that if you get sick on ice cream Brewster's citrate of magnesia is the most pleasant medicine you can take, very much resembling sodi water. FOR SICK HEADACHE.

Its Symptoms, Cause and Cure! This has received its name from a constant nause r sickness at the stomach, which attends the pain in the head. This headache is apt to begir in the morning on awakening from a deep sleep, and when some irregularity of diet has been committed on the lay before, or sometimes for several days previous. At first there is a distressingly oppressive feeling in the head, which gradually merges into a severe heavy pain in the temples, frequently attended by a fullness and tenderness in one eye, and extending cross the forehead. There is a clammy, unpleasan aste in the mouth, an offensive breath, and the tongue overed with a yellowish white fur. The sufferer desires to be alone in a dark room. As soon as the pa tiont feels the fullness in the head and pain in the emples, take a large dose of Shenck's Mandrake Pills, and in an hour or two they will feel as well as ver. This has been tried by thousands, and is al ways sure to cure, and instead of the sick headache coming on every week or ten days, they will not be roubled with it once in three months. Schenck's Mandrake Pills are composed of a numper of roots besides Podophinip, or concentrated Mandrake, all of which tend to relax the secretions of the liver, and act more prompt than blue pills or mercury and without leaving any dangerous effects. In a bilious person they will show themselves by the stools They will expel worms, mucus, bile and all morbid matter from the system. In sick headache, if they are taken as directed above, (a full dose as soon as they feel the first symptoms of it Dr. Shenck will and has directed his agents to return the money if they do not give perfect satisfaction. If a person has been compelled to stay out late at night, and drink too much wine, by taking a dose of pills on going to bed, next morning he will feel as though he had not drank a drop, unless he forgets to go to bed at all. They only cost 25 cents a box. Whoever takes them will never use any other .-
