But I must turn thus hastily from these themes, which even after the lapse of almost a century stir our hearts, and quicken our patriotism, to the contemplation of the recent perils through which our nation has passed. The nature of your celebration to-day, with which my heart accords, calls upon me to speak of the undaunted courage, the unswerving patriotism, the costly sacrifices of the heroes of our own day, who rushed into the conflict in the hour of their country's danger, and successfully fought anew the battle of freedom, despite the desperate mentous issue of Civil War. You have listened to day, to the subime sentiments, contained in his second Inaugural, and as a further illustration of his lovely character, and of his earnest desire by kindness and forbearance to win back the erring. "In your hands my dissatisfied, fellow countrymen, and not in mine is the moernment will not assail you. The mystic chords of memory, stretching from every battle-field and patriot grave, to every loving heart wll yet swell the chorus of the Union, be by the better angels of our nature." This was the key-note struck at the very commencement of his administration, and is a fitting illustration of the generous character of him who now fills a Martyr's grave at Springfield—a grave that will forever be a pilgrim's shrine—to which the lovers of liberty, in all ages

Our army numbering less than fifteen thousand, was nothing more than a picket guard stationed at the out-post of our hang along our frontier-the only enemies we supposed we had on earth.

But in the hour of peril the loyal heart of the North was found equal to the emergency—the flag of the Union had been trailed in the dust at Sumpter, and the indignation of the people knew suits of our young men were laid aside, and as if by magic, "an army with banners started into life." Thank God, the bright and glowing flame of patriotism kindled by our fathers in '76, was found brightly burning on, hour after hour, bearing with them in the hearts of their sons, and in the hour of their country's peril they were found true, as the needle to the pole-

"With Arm to strike, and Soul to dare As quick, as far as they." and from that hour down to the inglorious close of the Rebellion, the people have stood manfully by their flag in sunshine and in storm, nobly responding to every call, and cheerfully submitting to every sacrifice.

The history of the four years of fearful war which ensued is familiar to you all. To follow the baave armies of the Union through their various campaigns -to speak of its bloody fields, its victories and reverses, its heroic bravery, its weary marches, its patient endurance through summer's heat and winter's cold. and its final victory, would require more time than I can command, and indeed would be a work of supererogation. You know it all. There is not a school-boy in the North who is not familia with the name of every battle-field made sacred by the blood of our brave defenders. and who does not know that their whole line of march from the opening campaign at Manassas in '61 to the final victory at Petersburg and Richmond in '65, is marked by the graves of the heroes, who have fallen in defence of their Country's

Nor will a grateful people ever forget to honor the matchless courage and heroic deeds of the private soldiers, whose brave hearts and strong arms so faithfully executed the plan which the genius of our good leaders devised. And I am proud to say that while New Jersey's political record during the war will ever be a source of sorrow to her patriotic citizens, her soldiers in the field have nobly vindicated her character, maintained her ancient renown, and won for themselves the respect and admiration of the brave. Always in the front, occupying the post of honor and of danger-forming a portion of Hooker's fighting brigade, is it any wonder that we are called upon mourn the loss of so many of New Jersey's honored sons. I mention with mingled feelings of pride and sorrow, that the records show that a greater proportion of the New Jersey troops to day, streaming with its stars undimblackened walls of Sumpter, and to-day its graceful folds, wave from every hilltop and valley beautiful by the baptism of blood through which it had passed. The principles of Constitutional freedom have been vindicated, and the glorious Declaration of Independence re-affirmed. The unity of the government has been preserved, and re-established on a foundation as firm and immovable as our everlasting hills Four millions of human beings have been delivered from bondage, and their clanking chains shall never more grate upon our ears. Rebellion, Secession and Slavery have perished, and have been entombed together, beyond the hope of resurrection. The vaunted chivalry of the South is humbled, and to-day, while we rejoice in our victory, the wicked leaders of the Rebellion are prostrate with their faces upon the ground, and their mouths in the dust, supplicating for mercy and pardon from the generous government which they vainly attempted to destroy. Peace, gen-tle Goddess of the skies, has assumed her wonted reign, and on this day, throughout all the land, millions of voices ascend in accents of praise and thanksfathers, who throughout all the gloom and darkness of this long night of war, has led us by a way we knew not. "into green pastures, and by the side of still waters." The vic orious armies of the Union have been called home, and are fast being dishanded; never again, we fondly hope, to be called into a similar service.

I had the pleasure of witnessing the imposing pageant of the great review at Washington, at the end of May-a scene never to be forgotten. The majestic columns of the conquering host moved the war-worn flags of many a hard fought battle, majestically keeping step to the music of the Union, which they bad saved. I shall never forget my emotions as I gazed upon that noble, glorious army of citizen soldiers-such an army as never before trod the earth-and listened to the shouts of welcome that rent the air from the surging throng that crowded their whole line of march. The beautiful words of own Bryant were realized-

"Then when our conquering hosts return, What shouts of jubiles shall break From placid vale and mountain stern, And shore of mighty lake. And midland plain and ocean strand Shall thunder glory to the brave, Peace to the torn and bleeding land, And Freedom to the slave."

Nor were the honored dead forgotten on that ever memorable occasion. Many an eye grew dim with tears as it gazed on the thin ranks of the veteran regiments, and thought of those who had shared the hardships and perils of the long conflict, but not the triumph of victory and return-

And our gallant armies went right ward, never once faltering or failing. Many have been the trials which she has been called to endure since our pilgrim fathers first set trenchment until they had reached its rocky foot upon the glorious shores of old Massachusetts bay. But before the glittering axes of upon the highest bowlder of the grand old the Puritans the forests fell, and villages, mountain, and the sweet morning breezes, as towns and cities sprang up as if by magic, and they were wafted from the valley below, the tide of population rolled along our shores wrestled the silken folds of the dear old thag until they numbered three millions. Then did until it streamed out into the now clear a ca Britain impose upon the colonies by stamp of the upper blue, waving in sunlight-now acts and heavy taxes upon the necessaries of now disappearing behind the misty curtains life, and last of all, sent her army into America, to be quartered upon the inhabitants, and closed the port of Boston harbor. This so enraged the colonists that they flew to arms, and the unequal struggle between our ancestors and Britain commenced, and lasted during eight long and bloody years. Many were the dark hours through which the young republic passed. On the streets of Concord they first threw back the bolt of chance, and on Bunker's grassy height they poured out their hearts' blood in defence of their beloved country. And Ethan Allen, with his glorious band of Green Mountain boys, scaled the frowning battlements of Ticonderoga and Grown Point, and the British lion came down and gave place to the ensign of freedom, and the thunders of the captured British artillery shook old Lake Champlain with its echoes, until the woods of New England reverberated with the shouts of the conquerors. But many were the heart-rending scenes which the patriots of the Revolution participated in. They left their footprints in blood upon the ground during those dark days at Valley Forge, for they were shoeless, clotheless, and in a starving condition, but still they pressed on, and with gallant Washington at their head they crossed the frozen Delaware at the midnight hour, and ere the sun had peeped forth from behind the Eastern hills Washington and his gallant band were receiving the surrender of the Hessians, on the sharp and decisive fields of Trenton .-Again we see the patriots of the Revolution on the plains of Saratoga, where Burgoyne and his army surrendered to the heroic Gates .-And upon the fields of Yorktown victory with Montezumas, and Taylor with his gallant erew forced the Mexicans to surrender and marched them underneath the folds of our glorious ensign as prisoners. Thus closed the Mexican war and peace reigned again throughout our borders. And America grew and became one of the greatest nations upon the earth, and her fame went abroad throughout the world, so that the nations of the isle of the sea when We have assembled together this evening to they beheld our ensign of freedom bowed and the sails of her ships whitened all theseas he beheld the inhabitants chanting their songs America, waving in glory upon the shores of Thus was America in her days of prosperity.

sleeping in fancied security, when lo! the red

In their struggles for freedom, yet, thank God, ny were the dark days through which the nadeath and destruction into the ranks of rebelon, and scaled the craggy sides of Lookout Mountain, and carried entrenchment after ensummit and planted the old ensign of the free of heaven, and then mingling its stripes with the vapors of the skies until it seemed as though the stars of America's glory were intermingled with the starry hosts of heaven .-Yes, our armies have gone right on, and Sherman and his gallant boys have marched through the midst of rebellion, while Grant was thundering away at the gates of Richmond until it fell, and Lee, with his army, surrendered; and in the moment of victory, when all seemed joyful and the nation was looking for the return of peace, he who had guided the old ship of State safe through the storm of treason and rebellion, and was leading her on into the harbor of peace, was stricken down by the hand of a dastard villian, who was used as the instrument of Davis and his rebel crew, who, seeing their treasonable design frustrated, determined to destroy the life of that noble man, Abraham Lincoln—one of the purest and no-blest of patriots the world ever saw. The man ington's on history's page; and it shall run thus: Washington the founder, Lincoln the savior. Lincoln has gone, and left a nation to bewail his loss.

"Weep, Oh land, 'tis manly weeping, Every heart is bowed with great. Every heart is bowed with grief; Dead, Oh dead, forever sleeping, Noblest man, our martyred chief. Earth ne'er heard such lamentation,

Oh the rapturous, happy nation,

He had guided through the fight;

Dreams of Peace, oh great ovation,
Filled our souls through all the night.

What a fearful, bloody morning, Darker than night's shadows fled, When the tolling bells at dawning Woke the nation, he was dead. Rest thou, mighty spirit, rest thou, All thy work on earth was done; Soar where none will e'er molest thee, Wear thy crown, so nobly won.

But, although Lincoln has gone, another has taken his place, and the wheels of government taken his place, and the wheels of government are still working on; and to-day the rebellion is all closed up, and our brave soldier boys are marching home with glad and gallant tread, for they are coming from the wars. They are bringing home their scars—they are bringing back the old flag in glory. They have fought the good fight—they have saved the nation and brought victory to our standard; and to-day the old eagle emblem of the free wheels around the dome of the capitol at Washington, and seizes the old standard in his talons and soars away; with a scream of joy, far up into the blue canopy of the skies, while the shouts of American freemen ascend unto the God of our fathers, who has brought us safely into the land of peace, and saved our beloved country. In conclusion, we would depict a glorious future for our country, for already we can see

INDEPENDENT JOURNALISM. Independent journals, like those of any other class, have both their difficulties and their pleasures. One class of people take it for granted that they ought to practice the strictest neutrality, and another that they must pitch | civilians will again a much or former posiinto everybody. To please the one, the existence and conduct of the two great parties which have alternately dominated the Union, must be ignored; while to please the other, a furious war must continually be waged against both. If it happen to praise the Republicans the Democrats are offended; and if it praise the Democrats, the Republicans are offended. A condemnation of either party meets no better fate. No political toe must be trodden upon; no political corn must be bruised; and no political sore must be opened; nor must any political measure be encouraged, no matter how pressing the need. If either of these is done they think the independent character of the journal is forfeited. We do not accept such a position for our paper. We are not neutral, nor can we conceive how an independent journal can be. The one idea is exactly the reverse of the other. We simply stand aloof from eitner political party, claiming the right to praise or blame, or vote for or against them, as their principles or men may indicate a propriety. The party organs in this section are conducted with ability and ordinary fairness; and yet they cannot be independent in their expressions of opinion, for they must sustain the party, and the party is not always right. It would be too much to suppose that they could divest themselves of both their affiliations and their interests. We do not condemn entirely the mammoth monopolies of Republicanism or Democracy, though we privately think it would be better for the country if the parties arose as the issues were presented. But the restriction of the right to praise or condemn, either a measure or a man, when the good of the country seems to call for it, is one to which we cannot submit, and therefore we are an independent journal. We do not exactly like to be an Ishmael, with our hand raised against every man, but confess to a liking to occupy a position where we can so raise

We have been led to these remarks by the approaching issues of our State gubernatorial campaign. The contest, even in its incipient stages, promises to be an exciting one, and a number of gentlemen from both parties are represented as willing to offer themselves for sacrifice upon the executive altar of New Jersey. The principles likely to form the platforms, are of far more than ordinary interest, as they will necessarily complicate with the national issues before the country von We hope that both parties will clothe their best tion and harmony. A republican form of govmen with their best principles, so that, whoever gets into office the State will be the gainer, and we shall have nothing to do but commend them all. Whether this be our privilege of not, we hope to speak our mind about candidates and principles with a justice and cour-teousness which will secure the respect of all, while at the same time the entire issues are fairly presented to the people.

The Home for Disabled Soldiers.

The Legislature of New Jersey at its last session passed an act to authorize the establishment of a Home for Disabled Soldiers, and appointed Marcus L. Ward, Daniel Haines, Charles S. Olden and other commissioners to purchase a site. The commissioners are empowered by the act to purchase a site at a price not exceeding $10,000, or to receive the same by gift, to pay for or expend the sum of $30,-000 for suitable buildings, and to purchase for the Home the furniture and fixtures at a price not to exceed $10,000. Messrs. Marcus L. Ward and Rynear Veght, two of the commissioners, have been visiting and examining various sites in different parts of the State, to which their attention has been called. Among those visited were New Brunswick, Bordentown, Glassboro, Beverly, Bridgeton, Penns Neck and Bennett's Station, on Cape Island. One of the sites visited by the commissioners at Bridgeton, and which is a most eligible location, comprising about fifty acres of land, pleasantly situated, was offered to the commissioners gratuitoffered by Mr. Nichole, but the final decision eligible places, and have given all parts of the rifices and heart-trials which gave us the State a fair chance to present their claims. The necessity of immediate and generous action in this matter is becoming more apparent every day, as the wounded and otherwise disabled soldiers of the Republic are being and late hours. Reader, ask yourself the quesdischarged, and thrown upon their own feeble resources and the charity of friends. The pension allowed to non-commmissioned officers or mould your sentiment, or control a vote and privates being only $8 per month in cases of complete disability, the great majority of your country may depend? If so, then away the men who have braved death in a thousand with our church, our system of education, our ways on the battle field, and who have lest legs and arms in defence of our country, are compelled to either beg or live in the most abject poverty. The enlightened, Christian sentiment of this country should not permit it, but every effort should be made to found Homes for these men, and a liberal allowance of the money now squandered in enriching the incumbents of anug offices be allotted to the wounded soldiers.

This is one of the most eligible and central locations in Bridgeton.

PARTISAN STRIFE.

The American people have a responsibility rom a protracted war, and absorbed in restoring social order, it is absolutely necessary that we should escape all excitements, and apply ourselves to the great effort of barmonising the masses. The public temperament is by no means fice from the fevered condition into which it was plunged by the stirring incidents of the last four years; and now that it is gradually abating, the wisest policy would be to avoid all irritating causes. In the domestic relations of life there will be many changes; in all departments of labor there will be considerable competition and contention; the mercantile, agricultural, manufacturing and mechanical interests of the country will be more or less disturbed, wrore soldiers and tions in society, and become set I in the every reasonable man must expect. It is period in our history when forbearance becomes a double virtue; and we hope the people, after so long a struggle, will be so imbued with a desire for peace and quiet, as to appreciate these threatening evils, and avert them by manifesting a spirit of conciliation and kindness toward each other. Happily, we can look at the other side of the picture and see much that is bright and promising; at least, sufficient to awaken feelings of thankfulness and gratitude, that our country and its instituions still live, after having passed an ordeal of trial and suffering such as the world never witnessed. Yes; we still bask in the sunshine of an undivided Union, which again opens up every avenue of prosperity, and secures to us every blessing and protection guaranteed by our constitution and laws. These considerations ought to soften our asperities and make us patient while enduring but temporary evils.

But there is one source of irritation to be feared more than all others. We allude to partisan strife. The approaching election, which embraces a gubernatorial canvass, will, no doubt, be hotly contested, and conducted with all the heat and zeal of the past, unless moderate men, on both sides, set their faces against the usual violence and recrimination .-With hotspurs on the rostrum and vituperative pens for the press, we fear the consequences, unless a restraining power is exercised by the moral sentiment of the conservative portion of society. Were it possible to avoid the extremes into which parties fall, on this occasion especially, how much would we add to the amazement and wonder of European powers all of whom express their astonishment at the sudden tranquility and graceful adaptation of the masses to the arts of peace, after a prolonged war. It would forever banish the skepticism of those who doubted the capacity forcible language of Scripture, "Well done, of the people for self-government, and exalt hou good and faithful servant." s as a nation to the highest pinnacle of admiration. What a position-what a characterwe might win, by making the coming election

With thousands of families bereft of husbands, fathers, sons and brothers, many of whose bonce are bleaching upon the battle-plains of the South; the women of our land in widows' weeds, and helpless orphans brought to want; the wails of grief going up from every community, and the selecting to find half a dozen such charmingnation bathed in tears over the heartless assassination of our President-let us ask the con- take good care of these precious ones while siderate reader, is it a fitting time to indulge they adorn our sanctum, in company with that in the accustomed clamor, strife, immorality and corruption of a political canvass. It would be as much out of place as though we were to laugh over a grave while the bereaved ones were sobbing out their grief, or to leave the funeral train for the revelry of a brothel.— Let us show some respect for the dead-some regard for the laws of propriety-while the eyes of the world are upon us. It is a time fraught with events, which will provoke stern scrutiny and the keenest criticism. If, then, we have falsified the prophets who predicted the destruction of our government for the last four years, and established the perpetuity of ously, for the use and purpose of the Home, by our institutions, by a test greater than which Robert C. Mr Stevens. An able writer very justly and truthfully makes use of the following language: " New Jersey has been prolific in her great men, she has her Witherspoons and Pattersons, and a constellation of others whose names will never die, and whose great deeds are deeply engraved on the memories of her people; but none is more justly entitled to their love and admiration than EDWIN A. His whole life has been appropriated to the best interests of our gallon little State, and he has been mainly instrumen tal in carrying out those great and useful improvements which have contributed so materially to her wealth and importance, and which have so greatly facilitated the travel and intercourse between her and her adjoining sister States. ANOTHER HANDSOME PRESENT.

On the fourth day of July, we received from Mr. J. H. Simkins, photographer of Salem, N. J., a large and handsome gilt frame, with the photographs of six charming-looking young ladies. They were in a group, surrounding a table, arranged in the most graceful and appropriate manner, all on one card. Mr. Simelection, we confess to an anxiety rarely felt kins is not only a photographer of superior qualifications, but evidently an artist of considerable merit. This group of young ladies is colored in excellent style, and present a liandsome appearance. If this is a fair specimen of the Salem ladies, Bridgeton will have to knock under, for it would take considerable looking young ladies in this city. We shall other Miss from the same place, who has been so much admired by those who frequent our office. We return thanks to the artist for such a magnificent present, and advise our readers that are pictures.

they can have ample scope for reflection upon the enormity of the crimes they assisted to perpetrate. They can realize the villamous plottings by night and by day in which they engaged to destroy the life of innocent and good men, one of whom was, in consequence, assassinated, and two others narrowly escaped. To all evil-doors and evil disposed persons, the fate of these men is an impressive warning. There is, and can be, no palliation for the more justly entitled to that appellation than crimes they committed, and it is only because they were not so deeply involved in it as the four who have suffered the penalty of death were proved to be, that they escaped the same punishment. There is another, the chief assassin, who must yet be executed, because he has instigated more murders and destroyed more lives than ten thousand such wretches

HEART-RENDING CALAMITY. For the past twelve months the public have been shocked by the frequent and disastrous accidents that have occurred on our railroads and transportation boats engaged in conveying sick and wounded soldiers home. Many of these poor fellows had been for months starved and scarcely able to walk, were on their way from Gov. Curtin. home to meet again the loved ones there when they were hurled into eternity by the burning or sinking of the vessels they were on, or the colliding of railroad trains. These terrible accidents were the more heart-rending from the circumstances under which they occurred. But an equally terrible catastrophe has just occurred off the coast of Newfoundland, by the burning of an emigrant ship containing five hundred passengers, four hundred of whom, it is asserted, have met a watery and longings to reach this, the best of all countries; and just as they came within sight bosom of the yawning deep. Oh! "how soon came sorrow on the heels of joy." In an instant the high hopes they had entertained were dashed to atoms. Mothers, with infants at their breasts, were hurled into the waves, while others were crisped and burned to death by the sweeping flames, as the William Nelson became enveloped. A more lamentable occurrence has not been recorded for years, and surely the circumstance ought to impress every ship owner with a determination to make his vessel secure and safe before it starts for sea. Some accidents are unavoidable, but most can be, by prudence and care, prevented.

THE CONFESSION OF ATZEROTH. The Baltimore American publishes what purports to be the confession of Atzeroth, one of the assassination conspirators. Atzeroth represents that Surratt, Harold, O'Laughlin and

Arnold, were all engaged, with Booth, in the plot to abduct the President. The first at tempt was to have been made in March, but the plan failed, the President not visiting the point where they expected to seize him. The next plan was to visit the theatre on the night the President was expected to be there. was arranged that Surratt and Booth were to go to the box; Arnold, O'Laughlin and Payne were to act some important part in getting teresting occasions are quite numerous in the him out; Harold and Atzeroth were to have upper part of this State, several having oc- charge of the horse; and an actor was to be curred lately. This was in the evening about six o'clock. The confession continues: We there met Booth and Payne. Booth told Atzeroth, "You must kill Johnson." Atzeroth demurred, when Booth replied, "Harold has more courage; he will do it; go get your horses; what will become of you anyhow?" Atzeroth and Harold went down Ninth street together. Atzeroth said to Harold, "We must not disturb Mr. Johnson." Harold laughed, and wanted the key of the room. It was refused by Atzeroth, who expressed himself as fearful that harm would be done Mr. Johnson. Harold left to go to see Booth, and I went to the Oyster Bay. Harold went after him, and One of Booth's plans to obtain an entrance to the Secretary of State's house was an inven tion which, if successful, would have involved others in his foul acts. He had made the acquaintance of a woman of strong Southern feelings living not far from the Secretary's nouse, who was to make the acquaintance of a sevant who was to be introduced to Booth, and Foote, late robal Senator from Mississippi had stated to hearts—the ship on which they were became his son in law it will be son in law in law it will be son in law in law it will be son in law in l Senator for Nevada, that the committee of the them precipitately, without warning, into the rebel Congress to investigate these alleged cruelties, had "obtained positive facts and data, proving beyond a shadow of doubt that the system of human treatment and starvation of our prisoners was decided upon in a Cabinet meeting at Richmond, for the express purpose of breaking down the constitution of the men, and making them useless as soldiers when ex-Noticing this, Mr. Foote has sent n letter to the Herald, in which he controvertibly proves the fact! That Davis and his whole cabinet of fleuds favored and endorsed this policy, there is no earthly doubt

> The very large army sent to Texas has caused much speculation as to the precise object of it, on the supposition that the condition of affairs in that State cannot need so considerable a military force, the authority of the United States being at no point resisted. The army now there is set down at 80,000 to which 20,000 more are to be added, making 100,000 in all. It is thought that our relations with Mexico have something to do with it, inasmuch as for some time our Government has been apprised of the fact that MAXIMILIAN had transferred to France the rich State of Sonora, not two or three other States, as a pledge for the payment of the war debt incurred by NA-POLEON. This possibly accounts for the milk in this big cocoanut.

Editor of Pioneer:—In reply to many letters and nquiries from people in this section of the country, the undersigned take great pleasure in saying through the columns of your paper, that our renowned preparation known as COE'S DYSPEPSIA CURE, is a certain cure for Dyspensia. In the record n cure for Dyspepsia, in its worst stages. I ses of long standing, within our own acquaint e been completely, and we believe perman ed. It will stop distress after eating almost stantaneously, and enables the dyspeptic who has for years lived upon Graham bread, and the plaines diet, to eat as heartily as he pleases, and any thir g he chooses, without danger of distress, or souring, or rising on the stomach. It is an infallible corrector of indiversity and enables of the souring of the stomach. rising on the stomach. It is an infallible corrector of indigestion and constipation, creates a healthy appetite, stops headache, heart-hurn, sickness at the stomach or bowels, and sweetens offensive breath, as soon as you take it, and by enabling the patient to take plenty of hearty food, "which is the parent of health," produces vigor, strength, and energy. In every trial we have known it has speedily eradicated Dyspensia with all its attendant sufferings, weakness, debility, and loss of power, giving instead, a proper activity and tone to the stomach and organs of direction, and as we confidently believe, and as the published certificates in our circulars, almanaes, and in many of the leading journals, from convalescent patients will confirm, completely, permanently, and almost miraculously "cure the worst cases of Pyspepsia in existence." We warrant it in every instance. It can be obtained at all the Drug Stores in the United States and Canadas, at $1.00 per bottle, or six bottles for $5.00.

OUTRAGEOUSLY HOT WEATHER

Hot! Hot! Hot!

What? What? What?

Smoke! Oh! Smoke!

It isn't a joke.

The hottest day that ever we felt;
So terribly hot that we almost melt.
We roast and boil, and bake and stew.
And don't see how we're going to get through.
Boil and simmer, and stew and fry,
This fearful day in the month of July.
Bake and broil, and roast together.
This horrible, horrible sultry weather.
Fry and stew, and boil and roast,
Till we certainly get as hot as toast;
Every man in the whole of the nation
Is rapidly running to perspiration.
We rush to the soda water fountains,
And sing about "Greenland's ley Mountains."
No matter how hot
The weather has got,
It isn's a sin
To dress up thin.
So we'll get some clothes
As thi 1 as those
Which they make so well,
And so cheaply sell,
And so cheaply sell,
For the people all,
Who come and buy.

Who come and buy, In the month of July. Best dressed people who ride in the passenger cars, and are seen about our streets, purchase their Clothing at Oak Hall, where, for a moderate outlay of money, they get good materials and handsome styles at the same time. In grove to meet
And walk with some fair maid. But oft it seems, from swelt ring heat, A task to walk,
To gaze or talk,
No scenes with loy you gree',
If you are drest too warm;
So, in such clothes
As Bennett shows
Be careful to caretie your form.

We have now on band our usual full and complete assortment of seasonable clothing. All our materials have been purchased for cash, at the present reduced rates, which enables us to fully meet the popular demand for goods at reduced proces. The great wonder now is how Bruna and Brewster ever got together. It is no uncommon thing for Brewster to be called Bruna; this is not very much to be taken to heart, for any one having the reputation that Mr. Bruna has, need not care if that good repute is handed down to one yet in his infancy, but hoping soon to gain a name, at least for the sale of capital ice cream and good mineral water. Mr. Bruna thinks at this season of the year a good dish of his cream is far superior to a dose of Brewsser's Pills, but this is a sure fact that if you get sick on ice cream Brewster's citrate of magnesia is the most picasant medicine you can take, very much resembling soda water. After you get regaled with cooling beverages nothing is nicer than a good Havana cigar. Remember the mortar out front. er the mortar out front.

NO. 604 MARKET STR., PHILADELPHIA. NO. 604 MARKET STR., PHILADELPHIA.

Jenes' policy which has proved of such great satisfaction both to his friends and the public, has demonstrated the fact, that ONE PRICE is the proper basis on which to do busuess. Many persons who are not able to judge of the value of any article, are glad to avail themselves of the opportunity of purchasing where they can secure what they want at the same price as their neighbors. Others, not liking to ask the dealers to take less, are often obliged to pay too much, for an article. To meet this want Jones' one price Store has been established, and having worked well for tifteen years, has gained many friends. friends.

Strangers visiting Philadelphia would do well to call, as they will find one of the best stocks of readymade Clothing in the city; while those wishing their garments made to order can secure them at the shortest notice.

Capital, $6,100,000. JAMES J. REEVES, Agent. JAMES J. REEVES, Agent.

This company was organized in 1845 on the purely matural principle, without any subscribed capital.—
The members, in reality, insure one another, and the recumulated fund is entirely the result of the premiams paid by the insured, and is held by the company in trust to meet its obligations to them.

Among the many advantages which this company offers to its members, are the following, namely:
An ascumulation of over $5,000,000 securely invested.

Annual returns on life policies of the surplus after leducting habilities. Each premium paid participates in such returns. The business of the company is exclusively the insurance of lives. It is economical in the management of its business. It is prompt in the payment of its losses. Premums are payable in cash, but when desired the company will loan on life policies had the amount of each annual premium (if $50 or over) six per cent, interest being paid for such toan

Echenck's Mandrake Pills! FOR SICK HEADACHE.

Its Symptoms, Cause and Cure! This has received its name from a constant nause r sickness at the stomach, which attends the pain n the head. This headache is upt to begir in the norning on awakening from a deep sleep, and when omefirregularity of diet has been committed on the lay before, or sometimes for several days previous. At first there is a distressingly oppressive feeling in the head, which gradually merges into a severe heavy pain in the temples, frequently attended by a ullness and tenderness in one eye, and extending across the torchead. There is a clammy, unpleasan aste in the mouth, an offensive breath, and the tongue overed with a yellowish white fur. The sufferer deires to be alone in a dark room. As soon as the pa ient feels the fullness in the head and pain in the emples, take a large dose of Shenck's Mandrake Pills, and in an hour or two they will feel as well as ever. This has been tried by thousands, and is al ways sure to cure, and instead of the sick headache oming on every week or ten days, they will not be roubled with it once in three months. Schenck's Mandrake Pills are composed of a numer of roots besides Podophinin, or concentrated Mantrake, all of which tend to relax the secretions of the liver, and act more prompt than blue pills or mercuy and without leaving any dangerous effects. In a oilious person they will show themselves by the stools They will expel worms, mucus, bile and all morbid natter from the system. In sick headache, if they are taken as directed above, (a full dose as soon as they feel the first symptoms of it Dr. Shenck will and has directed his agents to return the money if they do not give perfect satisfaction. If a person has been compelled to stay out late at night, and drink too much wine, by taking a dose of pills on going to bed, next morning he will feel as hough he had not drank a drop, unless he forgets to

They only cost 25 cents a box. Whoever takes them will never use any other,-They are worth a dellar to a sick man for every cent Don't torget the name-Schenck's Mandrake Pills.
