THE ORPHAN SOLDIER BOY.

BY J. E. ENGLISH He died afar from his sunny home, Beneath a Southern sky; And they bore him over hill and vale, In his native land to lie.

And wrapt him in his soldier garb, And placed him 'neath the sod, Where oft, in childhood's halcyon days, His feet had lightly trod. And none were there to mourn his fate, Or o'er his corse to sigh;

As silently above his head They piled the grave-mound high. No banner o'er his simple grave Was by the breeze caressed, As strangers smoothed his youthful brow, And laid him to his rest.

No gorgeous sculptured monument Will tower o'er his head; No flowers, nursed by hands of love, Tell sweetly of the dead. And yet he died, fair Freedom's son In the holy cause of Truth;

> Alas! the noble youth! From the Salem Sunbeam. AMERICA. BY D. W. WOOD.

America! my boundless pride-Home of the valiant free! Land where my patriot fathers died For Truth and Liberty. Thy name in every Freeman's ear Creates his proud delight; Freedom for all-life without fear-A God-like love for right!

That smiled on Bunker Hill. America! thy charming name-Hope for earth's bondmen yet-Was brightly hued by Warren's fame And deeds of Lafayette. But now thy banner floating high, Should increased lustre shed, Because of those who went to die, And for thee swell thy dead.

Art thou not proud, oh, mother land When looking o'er the field On which so many sons did stand And force thy foes to yield? No parent's soul should e'er forget The cause of such a pride, Nor cease to tell, till life's sun set, " For me my children died."

America! thou still art free. And most thy offspring true; Admiring still that Freedom's tree That in thy bosom grew; But mad fanatics fill the land, To injure thy fair name; And patriots pray for God's command,

That they not harm thy fame. GEN. GRANT AND THE PONY.

A writer in a Chicago paper gives the following story of Gen. Grant. He says: In the village of Georgetown, Ohio, where Gen. Grant spent a part of his boyhood, the arrival of a show of any kind was a great event, and the one with which my story is connected was a circus. People came from every part of the adjoining country in all kinds of conveyances, to see the wonderful feats. To the boys, the pony and the monkey were the great obects of attraction. The boys and the monkey, as if enjoying peculiar favor were permitted to ride the pony.

This pony was well trained to perform his part. On the occasion of which I speak, after the pony and monkey had performed to the great delight of the spectators, the manager asked if there was not a boy who would like to ride the pony.— The word had no sooner been spoken, than out stepped a good sized boy from the country, and took his seat upon the pony. The pony understood well the part o be performed now, and as soon as he was turned into the ring, began running at the top of his speed, and to rear and kick as high as he could; then suddenly turning around, the boy went suddenly into the dust, to the great amusement of the lookers on. The pony seemed to enoy the trick as much as the audience.

The manager then said, "perhaps there is another boy who will like to take ride." Finally out stepped Ulysses S. Grant. He was much smaller in size han the boy who had just been thrown by the pony. The manager placed young Grant upon the back of the pony. Uly-sses took the reins in his hand, and tucked his heels close in behind the shoulder blades of the pony. He seemed to comprehend the situation. The manager, seeing his composure and self-reliance, thought he would give the pony a hint of what he must do. So he gave him a smart crack with the whip, and away he went at the top of his speed, now rearing so high as to be nearly erect on his hind him this way, ran around the ring at the top of his speed, and then suddenly wheelbout the neck of the pony, and stuck to nim, amidst the greatest cheering of the key. He fought it out "on that line," as much as in taking Richmond and Vicksburg. Whatever Ulysses S. Grant undertook to do, he did. They have got a "prettiest girl" in Jersey City. At a church fair a few days since, one thousand eight hundred votes

To it belonged John Q. or reversed by having a bad home -a home with a despotic or dissipated father Harrison, Lyman Beecher, Astor, Slater, or a severe-tempered mother, or by some other cause—all men cherish a love for the land and home of their birth. Yes! and so they do; but having taken root in other soil; having established themselves and obtained new and better homes, with growing families, they become wonted to the change -When they do return years afterward to the old hermitage, they are only disappointed in finding nothing as theyleft it. A new generation has sprung up; the progress of improvement has altered the aspect of the place, and the faces once familiar have passed away; all things are become new. The visitor is simply a stranger where once his youthful feet sported. He feels sad, disappointed, and hurries back to his Western abode more and more contented with his adopted home, where he now expects his earthly frame will find its ultimate rest.

Home-sickness is like love sicknessreader, have you ever suffered the affliction?—and it will pass away the sam . — When we leave old homes we should take our affections with us to the new, and when we lose old friends we must form new ones to take their places. Your love for home is no stronger than that of others nor are your friends better than the friends of others. All friendly people find friends everywhere; and if we would have friends, we have only to be friendly. There is a sort of bigotry in many who cumstances prevent them from enjoying. This is the class who congratulate themfrom the "granite hills" of New England and the icy regions of Greenland; each thinks his own native land the best. While we who have traveled, quite agree with the Englishman who remarked that "Scotland is a capital country to emigrate from:" and we think the same is true of New England, which is perhaps the best nursery-ground in America. Started in sterile soil, the growth at first is slow, and reared where habits of industry, economy and mechanical ingenuity are early developed, together with a strong religious tendency, the nursling is in a good condition to be transplanted into a deeper, wider, and more generous soil, which is found far her South and West.

SOMETHING TO BLOW ABOUT. At last something has occurred at which the editor of the Trenton Monitor can fire up his little caloric engine, and snort away at a terrible rate. There has been an actual collision on the Camden and Amboy Railroad, and had it not been for the fact that there was not, about a hundred passengers might have been killed by it. But, we have no doubt that the Monitor will have a dozen killed, and a good many more than were in the train mutilated in a terrible manner. Sitting behind his desk he he can fancy that stronuous efforts were made to tear up the track, upset the locomotive, and massacre Hon. E. A. Stevens and Commodore Stockton. All this may pass before his veritable retina, and so overwhelm him with its magnitude and horrors as to make him cry out at the top of his voice, "Another monopoly murder!" The facts of the case have already nothing more than an accidental collision, near, or at, Hightstown, by which a few persons were slightly injured, nobody killed, and none severely hurt. Considerable damage, however, was sustained to the cars and freight, inflicting some heavy losses on the company. Of course, the e things are nothing in the estimation of the Monitor-its editor never taking into account the possibility of an accident occurring except through monopoly culpability. But, the public fully realize all the contingencies and liabilities to mishaps on railroads, and cannot be taught or untaught by any of the lucid lucubrations fulminated through the columns of the Monitor. They know how to properly estimate the value and advantages of railroads, and are unwilling to condemn without a just and good cause.

Improvements in Bridgeton.

Notwithstanding the lack of improvements in our city, in the way of new buildings, there are a few being erected, and several contracts given out for others to be built next Spring. Charles Mulford is putting up a very nice frame house on Pine Street, somewhat on the cottage order. The front 20 by 36, and the back 16 by 20 feet. The cost, when completed, will be over $3,000. Mr. Weaver's new house on Bank street is nearly completed, and adds much to the appearance of that neighborhood, which, by the way, is one of the most desirable in Bridgeton. Clayton Whitecar & Co. are putting the finof the cruelties inflicted upon the prisoners he says:

The prisoner was punished either in the stocks or the chain-gangs; the stocks consisted of a frame-work six feet high, with boards shut together with room for a man's neck; men thus fastened could stand on their feet, when others merely tonehed the ground with their toes; and the chain-gang was sometimes of houses has driven many away, and prevented many more from coming here during the past year. Rents will doubtless advance next to the sun and rain, which had the effect of weakening and reducing them; he had no doubt of the fact that ishing touches on a new frame dwelling on Spring. Capitalists could obtain a large pe cent. on money invested in new buildings in Bridgeton.

George White is erecting a new building or Cohansey street, for his pottery, which was destroyed by fire.

Mr. Richer has purchased the old arcade building and Lot of Ephraim Moore, opposite the old Baptist Church, and is erecting a wheelwright shop on the back of that lot.

M. G. W. Johnson has just laid a brick pavement in front of his handsome residence on Pearl street. It would add greatly to the improvement of our town if the sidewalks were more generally paved.

The trustees of the central M. E. Church have disposed of three building lots on the West side of Bank street, and one on the East. Dwellings will be erected on some of them

The New Jersey Conference Educational Society held a meeting at Red Bank, Monmouth County, last week, the object of which was to awaken a deeper interest in the education of the young men who expect to enter the Conference; and, also, to aid such of them as are unable to fully provide the means themselves. The meeting was addressed by Rev. A. A. Willitts, D. D., of Brooklyn, in a speech of eloquence and power, and a respectable ad-

"In politics we shall ever be true to the Union which we have labored to preserve throughout the perils of the last four years .-In matters of a mere partisan character we shall aim to be independent, and shall feel at liberty at all times to criticise public acts and public men as we think the general good may require. We hope our readers will not confound independence with neutrality, which is another name for cowardice."

ESTEY'S COTTAGE ORGANS .- These instruments, for which Prof. Bruce, of Philadelphia, is the agent for this section of country, are being extensively introduced here. Five of them have lately been purchased for Churches and Schools in this city. It is the opinion of the best judges, who are in no way interested in the sale of them, that they are decidedly the best instruments in America. The Episcopal Church of this city has just introduced a large sized one, the tone and volume of which is unsurpassed.

HIGH PREMIUM .- At the last meeting of the Bridgeton Saving Fund and Building Association, two thousand dollars was loaned at a premium of thirty-five dollars and fifty cents per share of two hundred dollars, or seventeen and three-fourths per cent. This Association is in a flourishing condition, over eight hundred shares having been taken since its organization, a few weeks ago. The shares are now valued at about six dollars each.

The Presiserted him, leaving him a miserable savage, worse than Haynau or the Indian Nina Sahib. A man like Wirz cannot be rightfully classed among civilized beings. With plenty of provisions at his command—with everything accessible necessary to keep the prisoners there confined in a cleanly condition, this monster in human shape, suffered them to starve and rot to death by thousands! And yet he has the hardhood, and acity and impudence to award. serted him, leaving him a miserable savage, to death by thousands! And yet he has the can see hundreds with broken heads, arms, hardihood, audacity and impudence to assert legs, noses; he can see demonstrations of his innocence and ignorance of the severity lynching and mobbing the officers of the road; and sufferings to which they were subjected. It seems that every witness who takes the stand against him reveals some new act of atrocity which makes the blood tingle to the fingers' ends and causes the heart to burn with intensest indignation. We can scarcely suppose that he will escape the punishment due to such a fiend, for humanity and the cause of justice demand that he should be hung. There been given to the public, which amount to is no palliation for crimes like his, for they were willful and premeditated murder, without cause or provocation, and unexampled in the history of war in any country.

history of war in any country.

Bergeant Roston Corbett arrived at Andersonville in July. He yet bears the marks of his exposure in the sun. His testimony is very characteristic. We give a portion of it.

The dead line was a slight wooden structure three or four feet high, running twelve or difteen feet from the stockade; the place where the stream entered the stockade was broken down; he had seen men shot and killed there; the prison was in a horrible condition of fifth; the swamp on each side of the stream was so offensive and the stonel so great that he wondered every man there did not die; he believed it was the cause of the death of many of our men; the maggets were a foot deep; the soldlers dug up roots; they were dried in the sun, and used for fuel; the sick lingered around the swamp as soldiers lie down to rest after a march; going to that locality he would find dead men; the fect of others were swollen; gangrenous sores were without bandages; the sores were grenous sores were without bandages; the sores were filled with maggots and flies; the men were unable to move, lying in their filth, they generally chose that position, and would prefer being near the sink; in one case one man, he was certain, died from lice, which were as thick as the man's garments; food was insufficient even when double rations were served; when the witness was sick within the stockade no medicine was given to him. ecdicine was given to him.

while the witness was sick within the stockhole no medicine was given to him.

Dr. A. W. Barrows, who had served as physician to the Twenty-seventh Massachusetts, and had been a prisoner at Andersonville, testified that when he went these there were six or seven hundred patients lying on the ground, partially naked; "some had broken limbs and gangrene, scurvy and chronic diarrhea." Captain Wirz threatened that when any prisoner escaped he would starve every d——d Yankee for it.—He had seen Wirz on horseback with the bloodhounds, and testified to several cases in which prisoners had died from their lacerating bites. The matter used for vaccination was poisonous, and amputations resulted. In regard to food Dr. Barrows says:

The ration when he went there was small—two ounces of bacon, a small potato, corn bread, (two and a halfinches square), no coffee, tea, sugar, or four; sometimes there was a little rice soup—a gallon of rice in thirty gallons of water; in July they got a few vegetables—not a speonful a day; the morals of the prisoners were corrupted by cruel treatment; men would steal from each other something to eat, and would work among the filth even for potato parings, or any thing else.

Of the cruelties inflicted upon the prisoners he says:

ould work among the mean rany thing else.

Of the cruelities inflicted upon the prisoners he says:

When a raid was expected from Kilpatrick, the witness heard Captain Wirz give an order to fire upon the prisoners if they huddled together; there were from thirty-three to thirty-six thousand prisoners from the prisoners in the month of August, as appeared from the official report, nearly three thousand died; on the removing of the prisoners from Andersonville one of them fell back, when the witness saw Captain Wirz knock the man down and stamp upon him; this was in September, 1864.

Wizz struck a Michigan bov over the head with his revolver, the result of which was that the boy died of fits; the witness said he saw the man called "Chickamauga" killed; the men had nick named him "mutton-head;" ho belonged to Illinois, and was silly and had lost a leg; the boys having plagued him, he applied to Captain Wirz to go on parole; Wirz cursed him and threatened to blow his brains out; the man was at the time within the decad line; Wirz ordered the guard to blow his brains out; the guard fired, the shot striking the man in the left side; the victim was carried out and died; the witness saw Wirz lay out the dead line in April 1864, and heard him give orders at that time if any man crossed the line to shoot him; the first night he went into the stockade, on the 16th of March 1864, he saw Wirz kicking a poor skeleton around there, and heard Wirz curse him; he named four officers who also withessed the same occurrence.

For two weeks or more past the public have been furnished through the newspapers with the evidence in the progress of the trial of with the re-establishment of civil government Wirz, keeper of the Andersonville prison, in which so many of our poor but brave soldiers President Johnson, on Monday last, in a body, Oats, were brutally starved to death. Yes, the issue was made by the South against the government, and the government has triumphed; and the South, true to her ancient instincts of frankness and manly honor, comes forth and expresses her willingness to abide the result of the decision in good faith. While I think that the rebollion has been arrested and subdued, and am happy in the consciousness of a duty well performed, I want itot only you, but the people of the world to know, that while I dreaded and feared disintegration of the States, I am equally opposed to consolidation or concentration of power here, under whatever guise or name; and if the issue is forced upon us, I shall still endeavor to pursue the same efforts to dissuade from this doctrine of running to extremes; but I say let the same rules be applied. Let the Constitution beour guide. Let the preservation of that and the union of the States be our principal aim. Let it be our hope that the government may be perpetual, and that the principles of the government founded as they are on right and justice, may be handed down without spot or blemish to our posterity."

Referring to the statement which has been sometimes made thathe had vindictive feelings to gratify, and that he would not fail to avail imself of the opportunities that would present hemselves to satisfy his desire for revenge, the President said that such a course would be despicable, and that if he knew himself, it was his wish to do all in his power to restore the Southern people to that state of happiness and prospority which they enjoyed before the madness of misguided men in whom they had reposed their confidence led them astray to heir own undoing. He added:

their own undoing. He added:

"All I ask or desire of the South or the North, the East or the West, is to be sustained in carrying out the principles of the constitution. It is not to be denied that we have been great sufferers on both sides. Good men have fallen on both sides, and much misery is being endured as the necessary result of so gigantic a contest. Why, then, cannot we come together, and around the common altar of our country heal the wounds that have been made. The North cannot get along without the South, nor the South from the North, the East from the West, nor the West from the Fast; and I say it is our duty to do all that in our power lies to perpetuate and make stronger the bonds of our Union, seeing that it is for the common good of all that we should be united. I feel that this Union though but the creation of a century, is to be perpetuated for all time, and that it cannot be destroyed except by the all-wise Good who created it."

Liberty is one of the dearest blessings which our forefathers have handed down to us. It was purchased by the blood of many a valiant revolutionary hero; has been guraded by a Washington, a Jefferson, a Clay and a Webster. But dearer still to the hearts of the people is that world-renowned remedy, known as Coe's Cough Bafsam. It cures like magic the most violent attacks of croup, and is indispensable in every family of children. Colds, sudden coughs, sore throat, hoarseness, and inflamed lungs, are instantly and surely cured by its timely use. No cough mixing has ever been known that equals it, which accounts for its great popularity with all classes. The young or its great popularity with all classes. ON THE SCARCITY OF HOUSES,

BY THE BARD OF TOWER HALL. I'm told by men of knowing mind That in this city, Houses unfilled are hard to find,

Houses untilled are hard to find,
And it's a pity
For those who through the weary hours
Up and down street roam,
And thus wear out their vital powers
Searching for a home. We wonder not that they desire
So to find a place
Within a city all admire
For neatness and grace;

For neatness and grace; Where there are more attractions Than tongue can utter; Where primest sausages abound, And splendid butter,—

Where prices are not often high
For man's daily fare,
And where such clothing you can buy
As monarchs might wear;

ABOUT THE WATERFALL. What is that clumsy bunch of hair On the back of the head of the lady fair? A bundle as large as a loaf of bread Hung from the back of that elegant head? That clumsy bundle is what they call By the singular name of a "Waterfall!" Some hair in a net, with some heads upon it, Stuck out through a hole in the back of the bo And every lady, slim or stout, Must carry these clumsy things about. How do they manage to grow so much hair On the back of the head of the lady fair? Where the whole of the "Waterfall" grows Is a matter that nobody certainly knows. But it's said that the principal part of the crop Was bought for each at a barber's shop. Somehow, we think, we don't like it at all, The bunchy, clumsy "Waterfall." So, instead of huying a "Waterfall,"

As we think it's getting to feel like Fall,
We'll go to Market and Sixth, and call
At the Mammoth Emporium, Great Oak Hall,
Where they sell fine clo hes for the short and the tal
And we'll buy some coats, and trowers, and all
That we need for the coming season of Fall. "A WORD TO THE WISE," ETC.

Our stock is extra large and complete, and worthy of immediate attention, as the market prices of materials are advancing every day, and all goods in our line becoming scarce—scarcer than has been known for many years. Schenck's Mandrake Pills! FOR SICK HEADACHE.

Its Symptoms, Cause and Cure! This has received its name from a constant nausea or sickness at the stomach, which attends the pain in the head. This headache is apt to begir in the norning on awakening from a deep sleep, and when sometirregularity of diet has been committed on the day before, or sometimes for several days previous. At first there is a distressingly oppressive feeling in the head, which gradually merges into a severe heavy pain in the temples, frequently attended by a fullness and tenderness in one eye, and extending cross the forehead. There is a clammy, unpleasan aste in the mouth, an offensive breath, and the tongue overed with a yellowish white fur. The sufferer desires to be alone in a dark room. As soon as the pa tient feels the fullness in the head and pain in the temples, take a large dose of Shenck's Mandrake Pills, and in an hour or two they will feel as well as ever. This has been tried by thousands, and is al ways sure to cure, and instead of the sick headache coming on every week or ten days, they will not be roubled with it once in three months. Schenck's Mandrake Pills are composed of a number of roots besides Podophinin, or concentrated Mandrake, all of which tend to relax the secretions of the liver, and act more prompt than blue pills or mercury and without leaving any dangerous effects. In a bilious person they will show them selves by the stools They will expel worms, mucus, bile and all morbid matter from the system. In sick headache, if they are taken as directed above, (a full dose as soon as they feel the first symptoms of it Dr. Shenck will and has directed his agents to return the money if they do not give perfect satisfaction. If a person has been compelled to stay out late at night, and drink too much wine, by taking a dose of pills on going to bed, next morning he will feel as though he had not drank a drop, unless he forgets to go to bed at all. They only cost 25 cents a hox.

LOOK OUT FOR THE DRAFT

Not the military draft but the draft of the stoves you buy. Our new stove, the Excelsior, has the largest flues, and consequently must have the strongest draft, and will not fail to perform to the entire satisfaction of all. The ovens are very large and high under the ash pit, giving you baking surface over the entire bottom. The design is neat, and no deed carvings, which are so troublesome to black. The castings are heavy, and the stoves are put together in a manner superior to any, thus making it the most desirable stove in the market. We desire to call the attention of purchasers to our other stoves, consisting of the WELLINGTON AND

We would call the attention of the public to our establishment, and our various manufactures. We are building a SORGHUM CRUSHER AND CANE MILL. Which for simplicity, effective power, strength of material and workmanship, cannot be surpassed, and we are offering them at prices that we know to be less than a machine of the same strength and capacity can be bought for elsewhere. We are building three sizes. For a more extended description send for circular. Evaporators furnished to order. We are also manufacturing Circular Saw Mills, for sawing either large or small logs, to which we would invite the attention of mill owners and lumbermen.—They are built under the supervision of one who has had many years' experience in building and running mills, and lumbering generally, and he flatters himself that he knows what millers want. We also furnish to order

Irons for the Gate Saw Mill! Mill irons, gearing, shafting, pulleys, hangers, &c.— We continue to make iron ience, verandahs, balco-nies, which for taste, durability and ecodomy cannot be surpassed.
