FROM HON. GEO W. WOODWARD, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania PHILADELPHIA, MARCH 16th, 1867. If find "Hooftand's German Bitters" is not a intoxicating beverage, but is a good tonic, useful in disorders of the digestive organs, and of great briefit in cases of debility and vant of necrous action in the system.

Yours truly,

GEO W. WOODWARD.

FROM HON, JAMES THOMPSON, Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania PHILADELPHIA, APRIL 28th, 1866. I consider "Hoofland's German Bitt consider "Hoonand's German Bit-ters" a valuable medicine in case of at-tacks of Indigestion or Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my experience of it. Yours, with respect, JAMES THOMPSON.

From REV. JOSEPH H. KENNARD, D.D., Pastor of the Tenth Eaptist Church, Philadelphia. Pastor of the Tenth Eaptist Church, Philadelphia.

Dr. Jackson—Bear Sit :— There been frequently requested to connect my none with recommendations of different kinds of medicines, or! regarding the practice as out of my appropriate sphere, I have in all cases declined; but with a clear proof in various instances, and particularly in my non-family, of the usefulness of Dr. Hoofland's German Billers, I depart for once from my usual course, to express my full convoiction that for general debility of the system, and especially for Liver Complaint, it is a safe and valuable preparation. In some cases it may fail; but usually, I doubt not, it will be very beingfield to those who suffer from the above causes.

worn out, and also the wheat was sown last October 124th and 25th.

Persons living here all their days say they never thought wheat would have grown so handsomely with such a small quantity of super phosphate as 200 lts. to the acre. A gentleman living here all the days of his life, land his father an old ctizen who is a larmer of 600 acres, having used Moro Philips', Coes', Baughs', Rhoads', Wahnus' and other fertilizers,) put the grain in for me, and he says he never used and saw super phosphate act better nor produce what your super phosphate has done. An old citizen who has known this farm for 40 years, informed me that without the phosphate I would not have had grain more than six to eight inches high, now it is three feet high, and all out in head. As for garden truck, I would not be without it at five times the price. I have used what little I had left over from last faith and the barrel has been opened all winter; and it is remarked every day by a gentleman here, that he never saw things grow so rapid; I never did in my life and all eviters to be better the same and the price. that he never saw things grow so rapid; I never did in my life, and all owing to the phosphate. AN UNGRACIOUS REPLY.

A young man had gained access to the house of one of the richest and most aristocratic families in Paris. He fell in love with the only daughter of the house, tried to ingratiate himself with her in every possible manner, and especially always brought her the latest pubthing. 2. Resolved, That we will give lications. One day the father of the young lady came home at an earlier hour than usual; the ladies were still on the promenade. On the table lay M de Camors, Octave Feuillet's latest novel. In order to while away his time, the old gentleman takes the book, about which the old gentleman takes the book, about which the ladies with passed, a leading negro took his seat at the table, with pen and ink, and put he has heard a great deal, and commences glancing over it. He is surprised to find a number of the words underlined with a leadnumber of the words underlined with a lead-pencil, not "beautiful passages," but insig-nificant words, such as "I" and "you" or "and." He turns over one leaf, two leaves, three leaves, and finds everywhere the same thing. Suddenly an idea occurs to him, for fathers having beautiful daughters are ex-oeedingly keen-sighted in certain matters.— He tried to concert the underlined words and

He tried to connect the underlined words, and his petrified eyes read as follows: "Dearest Mademoiselle—Will—it—insult you-if-I-tell-you-that-I-adore-and," in sbort a love letter of the most gushing description, and closing with the suggestive words: "Answer—in—the—next—chapter."
"Wait, you rascal," cries the father, "I will

So saying, he takes a lead-pencil, underlines some words in the next chapter, wraps the book in a piece of paper, and hands it to his footman, whom he instructs to take it back to the sentimental young gentleman.— The latter opens the volume, his heart throbbing like a sledge hummer, and—Oh, joy! finds that words are underlined in the next chapter. He reads as follows:

"If—you—impuden!—puppy—dare—again
—cross—the—threshold—of—my—house—I—shall—kick—you—out—of—the—window."

LOST TIME.

The boy who spends an hour each evening, lounging idly on a street corner, wastes, in the course of a single year, three hundred and sixty-five precious hours, which if applied to study, would familiarize him with the rudi-ments at least of almost any of the familiar sciences. If in addition to the wasting of an hour each evening, he spends five cents for a cigar, which is usually the case, the amount hus worse than wasted, would pay for four of the leading magazines of the country. Boys, think of these things Think how much precious time you are wasting, and for what? The gratification afforded by the lounge on the corner, or by the cigar, is not only temto the superiority of this phosphate might be given if necessary.

Bridgeville, Del. June 2d, 1868.

Mr. George L. Browning,
Dear Sir:—The phosphate I bought of you last fall for wheat, has exceeded my highest expectation.—The ground that it was put upon has had no manure upon it for fifteen years, beside it has had corn upon it almost every year, and it is what we term land worn out, and also the wheat was sown last October 24th and 25th.

You may in after life shake them off; but the probabilities are that habits thus formed in early life, will remain with you till formed in early life, will remain with you till your dying day. Be cautioned then in time, and resolve that as the hour spent in idleness one, and thereby fit yourselves for usefulness | presently."

> It is often very amusing to see what mistakes a clergyman will make in giving out notices, or in extemperaneous speaking. Thus, a distinguished bishop, within the border of New England, on the occasion of a great marriage, when his church was crowded and noisy, the mass being impatient and the greater portion standing upon the seats and backs of the pews, in his desperation exclaimed: "Will the people, remembering that this is God's house, be pleased to sit down on the

and happiness.

LET US BE FRIENDS.

In an issue a week or two since, we publish ed an article on the celebrated words of Gen. Grant, words which struck deeply into the heart of the American people, "Let us have peace." Since then the Seymour club, of New Haven, have given to the country another formula of words, which we would be glad to see reaching as wide a popularity as the ones we quoted above. At a Republican demonstration of rejoicing in that city, in which the benzine remaining on hand was to play its last part in the campaign, in the way of torchlights, the defeated Seymourites turned out their club also with the motto, "Let us be friends." It struck us as deeply significant when we read of the occurence, and we could not repress the hope that a sentiment like this, coming at a time when the party proposing it would be likely to feel sorely, was worthy of the appreciation of their victorious opponents. There is no reason for the bitterness which has attended so many of the American politcal contests, for the questions are not personal; and the decisions are not to be reached by the sword, and, indeed, except for the efforts of the office seeking leaders, but little bittershould we not be? What reason is there for enmity I The worst that can be said, is that one man thinks one way is the best for accomplishing a certain object, and another man thinks another way is best for the accomplishment of the same object, and after a full discussion, there are more men think one way than there are who think the other, and, of both parties will be friends, while neither need the matter will not terminate without some political subject, yet the processes of prosper- the oystermen, and we sincerely hope the ity will go on in the land with a rapidity be theiring rascals may receive their just deserts, fore unequalled. The cessation of vexatious which, at the hands of Sheriff Peacock, they oppositions would allow plans which will be carried out, to be fulfilled in a much more rapid and less costly manner, and, of course, so much more to the real interests of the country. The plans may not, in the estimation of the defeated party, be the best ones, but still no others are available, and factious opposition only hurts the country, and emharresses legislation. We hope to see this principle at work in the coming session of the State legislature, where the Democrats have all the power, and the Republicans have loeated temporarily, they hope, upon the salubrious banks of Salt river, and also hope to goes; it is the cause of nine tenths of all the see it carried out at Washington, where the miseries of the land. THE EX-CONFEDERATE HEROES.

It is a study how much importance circumstances lend to names, and how the same vested them, sink into insignificance and contime were among the most conspicuous of the war. The Fort Pillow butcher, slave broker, page the dumning curse of intemperance. Forrest, sends a challenge to Gen. Kilpatrick for deadly combat, and is contemptuously refused, on the ground that the negro butcher is not a fit associate for gentlemen. We wish Gen. Kilpatrick had put his refusal on nobler grounds, but nevertheless it is a lowering fact that a former General in the Confederate army is not a fit associate for gentlemen. The worst of it all for Forrest, is that it is impossible to deubt Kilpatrick's bravery, and so it is not worth while to post him for a coward, for everybody knows he is not a coward, and the refusal stands simply on the ground that the challenger is not a gentlemen. Gen. Magruder held McClellan in check for two weeks eral, and only a few weeks ago he was locked up in a police station house, in New York, for indecently insulting ladies in a store. Yorktown and its memories are an indelible part of American history, and Magruder's name was associated with the past of Washington and Cornwallis, and yet it sinks below contempt in a common resort of thieves, and prostituted in a New York station house. Belle Boyd, whose name shone like romance in all the dark passages of the war, turns out to be a woman of the most equivocal personal character. Pauline Cushman, or more properly, Harriet L. Ward, was arrested in that same city of New York, the natural resort of desperate characters, for stealing forty dollars. and so on with a great many others of their notable heroes and heroines. Sweet is the work in which we have been engaged, yet there has been toil and anxious care, but having felt that Christ was with us, to direct and help and smile upon us in our labors. we have gone forth with willing hearts, in the full assurance of faith.

Leaving the Convention at Camden last year, meeting, it was resolved that it be an institute to be held at Cedarville, (in a beautiful and thriving part of the county.) and to continue as conductor. Rev. Geo. A. Peltz, of Philadelphia, was engaged, and as afterwards proved, was a wise selection by the committee. By his pleasing manner, extensive knowledge and fitness for the work, he won the esteem of us all. While he added very much to the interest and profit of the Institute, home talent was brought out to a considerable degree, by which we received many valuable suggestions. The children's meeting, on the afternoon of the second day, was one of the largest which has been held in the county. Last year we numbered eighty-five schools, Two hundred and ninety-eight conversions this year. The good work has been going on -the good seed has still been sown, and, I

Why the Horse Bit the Clergyman.

PHILADELPHIA.

A venerable bit of poetry explains it, someow in this fashion :-

The horse bit his Master; How came it to pass? He heard the good Pastor

Say "all flesh is grass!"

That was it! when the animal bit his respectable master, the eloquent pastor-the pastor observed that he never deserved treatment like that, from a horse so well conditioned and fat. But the horse tried the plan of catching the man without his leave, by the upper edge of the left-hand sleeve; and he tried to bite, but missed it quite, and had to say oneigh! this isn't grass; it is tougher than hay!" And he tugged so long at the cloth so strong, and it seemed so tough, that it took so long to bite it through; and the hungry beast didn't know what to do.

The congregation had exercised the discrimination to present their beloved pastor the horse's master, with a good, strong suit, and an overcoat, to boot, and they got them; all, at the place where the public delight to call for the best of clothing, to wear in the
